[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Peter Dunne, the humorist, is the proud father of twins, a boy and a girl. Asked tonight to confirm the report, Dunne, at his house, said:

"Sure, twins. But, say, that happened last Wednesday morning. They are four days old now, counting Wednesday. Yes, a boy and girl, both well. I should say all three are well—mother and twins."

Mr. Dunne married Miss Margaret Abbott in New York December 9, 1902. Mrs. Dunne is a daughter of the late Charles Abbott.

FAVORS POLICING CANAL.

Declaring that the country has not reached a point where war is impossible, he cited the Panama Canal question. He said:

"Take thus the question of the Panama Canal. We have a property which when completed will be worth $400,000,000—at least it will have cost us that. It has been built not alone to further the cause of the world's Woman Serenely Smiles at All Efforts to Entrap Her Into Confession.

Looting of Alaska Steamer Bids Fair to Become Unsolved Crime.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Margaret Henry, the woman who was arrested as Mrs. E. L. Smith, for complicity in the robbery of thirty-five bars of Tanana district gold bullion, valued at $50,000, from the steamer Humboldt, is still in jail with her reputed husband and J. T. and G. U. Woodson. They are all charged with grand larceny, with bail fixed at $50,000 in bonds or $25,000 cash for each. Smith has declared that a few days will see him at liberty, but no one has yet come forward to put up this large sum for the head of the Tanana looting gang.

The police have considerable "dope" about Smith, whom they have practically identified as a man who has had a very shady past in the Far North. They also have the records of the two Woodsons, who have been petty crooks for several years since they departed from Oklahoma to escape the clutches of the law. But they have no data about Margaret Henry and in all their encounters with this woman, she has come out the victor. They have tried to bulldoze and to wheedle her and in each they have failed. The ablest detectives on the local force have given her up and say she is an enigma. The only real feeling she shows is for Smith, but even her affection for him has never induced her to make any confession or to betray her hand in the slightest degree.

BAFFLES BEST SLEUTHS.

This woman who has baffled the shrewdest men on the force, has nothing remarkable in her face except a pair of very steady, brown eyes. She has fair features and a pleasant expression, but no one would notice her on the street, because she is so poorly dressed. Although she had $1500 in bills in a satchel in her room when arrested, she had on the clothing of an ordinary poor salesgirl. She exhibited no jewelry and all her articles of apparel were inexpensive. This led the police to believe that she dressed in this way in order to divert suspicion, especially as Smith was inclined to boast of his sudden wealth and to sport diamonds and wear expensive clothes.

The landlady of the cheap lodging house where the couple lived says Mrs. Smith rarely left her rooms except to go out to meals and that she did her own washing. Smith, on the other hand, posed as a sport with plenty of money. On one occasion he piled up $3700 on the desk of the landlady and asked her to change it for him into bills. When she asked him where he got so much ready money he said he was a mining man who had struck it rich in Alaska, and besides his wife had just inherited $60,000 from an uncle, a railroad conductor recently killed in a collision.

SMITH A BRAGGART.

Smith wore an expensive diamond, costing $750, on his necktie, and loved to talk of his bets on the racetrack and what a game sport he was. The landlady soon found that Smith smoked opium at a neighboring opium joint, with the two Woodsons, but the woman never went with them.

Shortly after their arrest, Smith and the Woodsons became hysterical for lack of opium and the police were obliged to supply them with their accustomed drug.

Mrs. Smith has admitted that she comes from Columbus, Ohio, but whether her real name is Margaret Henry the police do not know. They know she was never married to Smith, and they have been trying to work on this fact to induce her to tell what she knows about the bullion that Smith regularly filed down into gold dust and sold to San Francisco dealers in gold. But she has resisted all their efforts. The only weakness she has shown is in the writing of this short note to Smith:

"Ed—If you are liable to fall for ten or fifteen years, you better tell what you know. You'll be an old man when you get out."

Smith laughed when he read this note and affected to consider it a good joke on the officers that they should regard the woman as in earnest. He said that he and she had been pals for a long time and if there was anything to tell she was the one to tell it.

Although the Federal officials and the police have had a week in which to work on the case, they have made very little headway. Unless they can prove that the bullion in the possession of Smith was part of the stolen Tanana gold, they can make out no case against the prisoners. Take it all in all, the cool, jaunty woman and the three opium-sodden men constitute as queer a gang of crooks as has been caught in the meshes of the law in a long time.

The purser of the Humboldt has failed to identify either Smith or the woman, but this is not regarded as very material, since if he were guilty of carelessness he would be very slow to admit it. The bail is so high there is small chance of any of the prisoners being freed.

GOOD SHIP GLORY HAS WILD TRIP.

SEAMAN DESCRIBES PLIGHT OF HALF-STARVED CREW.

Second Mate Twice Takes Command of Vessel and Saves Craft from Destruction When Heavy Storms Are Encountered in Far North Seas.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TACOMA, Dec. 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The story of a thrilling voyage of the ship Glory of the Seas to Dutch Harbor with coal and back to Royal Roads near Victoria is told here today by A. Rose, an able-bodied seaman, despite his wooden leg.

At one time, Rose says, the Glory of the Seas was in danger of foundering and for the entire passage south her crew was on short rations. The last sack of flour was used while passing Cape Flattery inward bound. Rose declares that Second Mate Jack Hunter well known along the coast, is the hero of the voyage and that but for his bravery the vessel would now be on the rocks west of Unimak Pass.

The Glory of the Seas was purchased last spring by Captain McDonald for the purpose of voyaging this winter to the South Sea Islands to trade among them, later returning with a cargo of hardwood.

To fill in the summer he loaded a cargo of British Columbia coal for Dutch Harbor, sailing north on August 22.

At Unimak Pass the ship encountered an eighty-five miles gale. Capt. McDonald and Second Mate Hunter took command, navigating the vessel through the fierce seven-hour storm. Her coal was discharged in sixteen days and for some reason the captain did not start home for months, finally towing out of the harbor with a gasoline tug.

A fierce storm drove the Glory westward of Unimak Pass and so close to Four Mountain Pass that it was impossible to tack.

Here Hunter again took command, declaring the crew might as well die trying to save themselves.

To the astonishment of all he put the Glory of the Seas through the passage between the islands not over two hundred feet wide.

For five days the Glory scudded before a strong wind at sixteen miles an hour. On the sixth day another hurricane struck her. For two days the ship took water at the rate of twelve inches an hour. Her ballast became water-soaked, and the mizzen top gallant yard was lost. On entering Straits of Fuca, the Glory was struck by a storm that nearly wrecked the barkentine J. M. Griffiths.

LINER HAS GOOD START ON THRILLING RACE FOR RECORD.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Thirty-eight hours after she put in at her dock, the Mauretania departed at 6 o'clock tonight, and it was hoped to complete the round-trip from Liverpool in twelve days and thus establish a new world's record.

On board was W. P. Holt, British journalist, who came over to "do" America for the London Daily Mail in the thirty-eight hours between trips.

The Mauretania was ready to sail shortly after noon, although Capt. Turney said he expected to have his hands full in getting ready for the scheduled departure at 6 o'clock.

The cargo was principally of apples. The bunkers received their 6200 tons of coal from a fleet of 36 barges. The ship's laundry, 40,000 pieces of linen, rushed ashore the minute the Mauretania docked yesterday, was back again and the refrigerators were restocked with provisions.

Three-quarters of an hour before sailing time the last of the thousands of Christmas mail sacks left the post-office, and were hurried to the pier. The 450 cabin passengers climbed aboard, and the Mauhetania backed into the river.

Capt. Turney hoped to touch at Queenstown Thursday at midnight. If he does, he will establish a world's record for the round-trip.

Mr. Holt completed his continental

EL PASO, Dec. 17.—Santiago Hambleton, a merchant of Parral, Mex., brought news here today that the government was rapidly massing 5000 additional troops in the Cerrero Prieto country for the purpose of crushing the rebellion.

Troops stationed at Durango, Sinaloa and at different points in Sonora have been ordered to the unsettled section by forced marches. Three battalions are reported to have left Mexico City to reinforce the troops already in the field.

The same authority estimates the armed insurrectionists around Chihuahua at 3000. No further disturbances have occurred at Parral, but business is at a standstill and many Americans are leaving.

FIGHTING AT OJINAGA DECLARED TO BE DRAW.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

EAGLE PASS (Tex.) Dec. 17.—An engagement at Ojinaga, between Mexican troops and insurrectos, reported last night, is described by wire today as a draw.

Nineteen government horses with saddles and sabers, and four pack mules that came to this side of the river during the fight, are reported in possession of American customs officials.

POLITICAL PRISONERS BROUGHT TO CAPITAL.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

EL PASO, Dec. 17.—Although official denials are made of any trouble in that country other than in Chihuahua, Mexican papers received here today from the national capital give a long list of names of revolutionist prisoners brought there from Silao, Guanajuato and near Zacatecas.

It is stated that in one of the papers that the rebels took a small town, Juichipala near Zacatecas, but the town was retaken and most of the rebels made prisoners. A special correspondent of the El Paso Herald wires from Mapili, Durango, that the rebels in the mountains near there are starving and flocking back to the plantations. That there has been further fighting since the battle of Cerrero Prieto in the State of Chihuahua, is certain.

The following circular, bearing the official seal of their office, was sent out yesterday by all municipal jefes (mayors) throughout the State of Chihuahua:

"Before the end of twenty-four hours you are required to present all your arms and ammunition for registration and state for what purpose you have them. Any one failing to comply with the order will be subject to the extreme penalty of the law."

Agents for the Mexican Northwestern Railroad are in the city today trying to engage engineers and other trainmen to operate the trains. Owing to the threatening attitude of the insurrectors old employees have refused to work, and the road is tied up.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The city of Guerrero, Mexico, is still in the hands of the revolutionists and has not been captured by the Federal troops, as reported in the official advices to the State Department several days ago.

"The report of the taking of the city of Guerrero," wires Ambassador Wilson, "was premature. The city has not been captured, but it is likely it may be taken at any time."

President Ripley Declares People Extravagant.

Santa Fe Head Adheres to River Front Station.

Won't Agree to Any Other Location for It.

BY JOHN M. STEELE.

"The nation at large is too extravagant and the goverment the most of all. People spend too much and haven't saved enough for a rainy day. The remedy is a dose of hard times which I sincerely hope will not have to be administered. The people have raised the standard of living and have not the means to meet the advanced standard.

"Col. Roosevelt is not saying anything about himself. Now when he stops talking about himself why should anybody else talk about him?"—[E. P. Ripley, president of the Santa Fe Railroad.

In conversation with the writer in Los Angeles last May Mr. Ripley declared that the railroad proposed advancing freight rates between 15 and 25 per cent. The public is familiar with the attempt made to this end and the subsequent hearings and rehearings before the Interstate Commerce Commission. The decision as to the right to advance the rates has not been announced.

"Are you going to tell me all about Southern California?" said Mr. Ripley on his special train between Summit and San Bernardino yesterday afternoon. The president of the Santa Fe was making his twelfth annual trip to his winter home in Santa Barbara where he expects to remain until next May.

Naturally Mr. Ripley's inquiry as to California was an innocent subterfuge. He reiterated his previous attitude on the rate question, sustained himself on the proposition of a new union passenger station for Los Angeles by repeating his declaration to the effect that the Santa Fe will not consent to a station located other than on the river front, and left his special train at Riverside for a days' visit with Frank L. Miller, proprietor of the Glenwood Inn.

"We cannot consent to any other location for a union station in Los Angeles than on the river front," said Ripley. "I understand that the other lines will not agree to the river front location. That settles it and no union station will be built there. We cannot build a new passenger station there for the Santa Fe for two reasons. It is not needed; and there are other places where such improvements are needed more than at Los Angeles.

"There will be no new improvements undertaken until the freight rates cases are disposed of. We don't propose to spend any money on betterments beyond the programme to which we are already committed until we are assured of our right to rates that will justify additional expenditures. The increase in rates asked for by the western railroads doesn't amount to as much as two orders made by the Interstate Commerce Commission, one in the Phoenix rate case and the other the Missouri rate case.

"The country at large is in an unsettled condition and will so remain until the cases now before the Supreme Court, involving the Standard Oil and other corporations, and the rate cases are disposed of. If it is wrong for corporations to join together in measures for mutual benefit than nine-tenths of the people are guilty of violating the law. There is not a village or hamlet where two or more are engaged in the same business that there is not some agreement as to one phase or another of their business. It may be in relation to hours for closing or some other detail but in every instance they are violators of the law. But it is only the railroad and similar corporations that are singled out for attack.

"No matter how much competition there is the government fixes the charges, but it is not legal for the railroads to agree on the rates fixed by the commission. There are many lines of business through the country that need and should be given regulation more than the railroads, or rather the railroads should not be set aside for all of the investigation along this line to be made by the government. The purpose of the government in promoting competition is to prevent extortion. Competition creates discrimination. The remedy is sanctioned cooperation.

"As to the members of the Commerce Court recently appointed," said Mr. Ripley, in response to a question, "I would have preferred appointees who had had practical experience in railroad work, but the appointments are good as far as political appointments go. There is more railroad business up now than any seven men can do. No seven men could do it. The government is attempting to manage every department of railroading except the payment of the bills.

"The general business of the Santa Fe is good," said he, in conclusion. "The tourist business is the largest in the history of the road. We expect to have the Coleman cut-off completed in June, which will open a direct short line between San Francisco and Los Angeles and New Orleans and Galveston. We have 7000 cars assembled in California to move the largest crop of winter oranges in the history of the State. We have spent three million dollars in ten years advertising the country along our lines and half of it has been expended in boosting California."

Mr. Ripley is accompanied by his wife and his daughter, Mrs. Nelson Willard, and her son. A. G. Wells, manager of the Pacific Coast lines, met Mr. Ripley and party at Albuquerque and accompanied them to Riverside.

sightseeing in New York. He took in Grant's tomb, Fifth avenue, the department stores and most of the other tourists' delights, with a brief interview with Governor-elect Dix for extra measure.

"Nice chap," he said. "Fine chap. You fellows over here have your political people better trained than we do. They are really quite docile."

This fresh-faced, blue-eyed man, with crisp gray hair, met with one disappointment. He could not find a department store that checked babies for its customers while they shopped.

"I want to see them check the kiddies," he insisted. It was explained to him that the practice had been discontinued because of complications which once followed an exchange of checks.

Just before he left, Mr. Holt revealed the meaning of his mission, or at least one of its meanings.

"You Americans set up championships with conditions which you frame," he said. "You admire your aptness for doing things in a great hurry, even when there is no reason for it.

"Perhaps the proprietor of my paper saw in this trip a chance to set it down on record that, hustlers as the Americans are, they have no monopoly of the quality."

commerce, but also to bring our eastern and western seaboards closer together and to secure us the military benefit enabling our naval fleet to pass quickly from one ocean to the other. Now the works of the canal are of such a character that a warship might easily put the canal out of commission.

"We are authorized to police the canal and protect it and we have the treaty right to erect fortifications there.

"Fortifications are the best and most secure method of protecting the canal against the attack of some irresponsible nation, or armed force.

"It is said we could neutralize the canal and by inducing all nations to agree not to attack the canal, secure its immunity from injury. But the trouble is that nations are quite as likely as men to violate their obligations under great stress, like that of war.

"It seems to me that we ought to put ourselves in a position with reference to this very valuable and delicate piece of property, so that should any nation forget its obligation, we will be in a position to prevent unlawful injury to this instrument of commerce so valuable to the world and so indispensable to us."

"The fact that we fortify the canal will not prevent us from discharging all international obligations that we may have in respect to it, but it will enable us to defend ourselves in its possession against the act of every irresponsible force or nation. It was not to prevent our maintaining its neutrality if that is wise and right."

REVIEWS ARMY STATUS.

The President said the United States had excellent coast defenses for every important harbor that an enemy would enter. He summarized the preparedness of the country for war by saying:

"We probably ought to see to it that we have ammunition and guns enough for ready use in cases of emergency. We have a small, but very efficient, army of 80,000 men. We have a militia of about 125,000 men. The army is so constituted that we could enlarge it from a skeleton organization into a much larger body. We ought to have more trained officers, so as to furnish the teachers to a larger body of men that war might require us to enlist.

"There has been a good deal of talk in the papers and some reference in Congress to the supposed helpless condition of this country in the event of a foreign invasion. I venture to think that much more has been made of this than the facts, calmly considered, would justify.

VERY GOOD NAVY.

"We have a very good navy and with the opening of the Panama Canal it will be a much more effective one. It will be useful to prevent the coming of an invading army across the seas.

"The people of this country will never consent to the maintenance of a standing army which military experts will pronounce sufficiently large to cope in battle with the standing army of European countries, should they get by our navy, avoid our harbor defenses and descend upon our coast. If this leaves us in a position of helplessness, then so be it. For those who understand the popular will in this country know that it cannot be otherwise."

In deprecating the idea of a war scare, the President said that a "little more forethought, a little more attention to the matter on the part of Congress, and we shall have all of the army and all of the munitions and material of war that we ought to have in a republic, situated as we are, 3000 miles on the one hand, and 5000 miles on the other, from the source of hostile invasion.

ARMY EXPENSIVE.

"Our army is much more expensive per man, than that of any other nation, and it is not an unmixed evil that it is so, because it necessarily restricts us to the maintenance of a force which is indispensable to the ordinary policing of this country and our dependencies and furnishes an additional reason for our using every endeavor to maintain peace.

"I congratulate this association on the recent foundation of Mr. Carnegie, by which, under the wise guidance of Mr. Elihu Root, Mr. Knox and their associates, an income of half a million dollars annually is to be expended in the practical promotion of movements to secure permanent peace. The wide discretion given to the trustees, and their known ability, foresight and common sense, insure the usefulness of the gift."

Speaking of the achievements in the past of courts of arbitration, the President said:

"Now if we can negotiate and put through a positive agreement with some great nation to abide the adjudication of an international arbitral court in every issue which cannot be settled by negotiation, no matter what is involved, whether honor, territory or money, we shall have made a long step to establish as between them, the same system of due process of law that exists between individuals under a government."

This Prescription Knocks Rheumatism

The only logical treatment for rheumatism is through the blood. A prescription, which has recently proved wonderfully effective in hospital work is the following. Any druggist has the ingredients or will quickly get them for you. Any one can mix them. "One ounce compound syrup of Sarsaparilla; one ounces Toris compound; half pint first-class whiskey (or sherry wine if it is preferred)." These to be mixed and used in tablespoon doses before each meal and at bedtime. This cured thousands here last winter. It relieves immediately.

Abandoned Baby Is Seeking Some Childless Home to Make It Happier for Christmas Time.

The stork-forsaken people who have been longing so much for a little child will find the sweetest Christmas gift imaginable at the Home Finding Society, No. 901 East Twenty-fifth street, in the shape of a wee bit of a baby girl.

The child, not more than three weeks old, was found last night on the doorstep of J. G. Shannon, No. 216½ South San Pedro, contentedly sucking away at a nursing bottle. Harry Metfour, carried the little outcast to tha Receiving Hospital where, after much petting and fondling by the nurses and surgeons, it was pronounced in good shape, physically, and sent to the Home Finding Society.

COST OF AN ARGUMENT.

The cost of a roof was in discussion last night. This morning Pasqual Donatelli is in the Receiving Hospital with a bullet hole in his head and another in his left arm, and Peter Catalano, his former friend, is dodging the police. The fight took place at No. 651 Clover street about 10:30 o'clock last night when the men undertook to discuss the repairs being made to a house next door which neither of them owned.

FEAGLE IS RELEASED.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 17.—John Feagle, charged by the officials of Johnson county, Kansas, with the murder of Mrs. Emeline Bernhardt, one of the victims of a quadruple murder here, was released from custody this afternoon. C. B. Little, the Johnson county prosecutor, gave the order following the receipt of a letter from Chief Zimmer of Kansas City, Kan., announcing the chief's belief in Feagle's innocence.

MEXICAN SHOT; WOMAN HELD.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) Dec. 17.—Francisco Aguilar, a Mexican law student, said to be the son of an official of the Mexican government, was shot and seriously wounded in a Walnut street hotel here today. The motive is believed to have been robbery. Rose Cline, proprietress of the hotel, was arrested for investigation. Aguilar and his brother came here to study English.

LYNCHER IS FOUND GUILTY.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEWARK (O.) Dec. 17.—The jury in the case of Montello Watha, the Haytien negro charged with first degree murder in connection with the lynching of Carl Etherington, an Anti-Saloon League detective, returned a verdict of manslaughter today. The lynching of Etherington took place last July and was due to a bitter liquor fight, the saloons remaining open for a year in Newark after the county had voted "dry." This is the first conviction of the rioters in the case, others having been convicted for minor offenses. Twenty more of the alleged rioters are to be tried.

Tooth Tale Told in Type

A Sermonette on Dentistry. Success Summarized.

Timely Talks on Tooth Topics

My organization could not be maintained for two weeks if my claims were unfulfilled. Very great capital could not successfully promote and permanently support my business if it were based on mere unsupported assumption. My system of painless dentistry is not painless because I say it is so—but because it is so.

It is true that thousands of dentists are conducting their practices along the same lines that were in vogue a generation ago, but that is because there is demand for dentistry of any kind, rather than none at all.

But times have changed. People are beginning to know and they demand to be shown. And at the expense of professional disapprobation I have persistently maintained that there is a better way than the old way. That I have awakened prejudices I do not deny. But prejudice is the penalty which genius pays to progress. If you would avoid arousing prejudice and opposition, you must do nothing, say nothing, be nothing. I will not sit down in the old way and wait for you to find out about my good thing. I realize that if you knew about it as I know about it and as my patrons know about it, that you, too, would understand that my system is worthy your attention and consideration. So, then, each week I reiterate my statements, and if you are amenable to the force of logic you can not ignore my claims nor deny their benefits without cheating yourself.

I fill, crown, treat and extract teeth without pain. I perform all classes of dental work successfully, because in my office a division of labor is made so that each branch is under the care of a specialist. This makes for perfection and expedites the work, because what a man does regularly he does both well and rapidly.

If you seek superior services at moderate cost and without pain, you cannot long disregard my injunction to Obey that Insistent Impulse! See Painless Parker first.

Yours without pain,

PAINLESS PARKER, Dentist.

Don't Be Bald

One of Our Readers Tells How She Obtained a Marvelous Growth of New Hair by the Use of a Simple Home Remedy After Hair Specialists and Tonics Had All Failed.

I had what most people would call a beautiful head of golden hair. I prized it most highly, as I considered it my chief attraction. Suddenly it began to come out very rapidly, and at times I had intense itching of the scalp. Physicians and hair specialists said my case was one of dandruff germs, hair microbes, etc., but nothing that they gave me did the slightest good. On the contrary, my hair seemed to come out even faster, and I was now fearful lest I should become entirely bald. In my despair a friend told me of an Ecuador herb which he said would positively grow hair on any head where the hair roots were not entirely gone, and he said the natives of the country where it grew were famous for their beautiful long hair. Upon medical advice, I combined this herb, with Bay Rum and Menthol Crystals and immediately began its use. In three applications it entirely stopped the intense itching of my scalp and in a very short time it not only stopped my falling hair, but I noticed an abundance of new hair coming in. In less than one month my hair was longer, thicker and more beautiful than ever. All due to this marvelous hair-growing herb. A lady to whom I gave the formula used it on her daughter, and she said it made her hair grow five inches in less than a month. Doctors to whom I have shown it say it is the only thing which will actually grow new hair, therefore, I think the public ought to have it. At first I thought I would keep it a secret and sell the secret, but when I think how I suffered and how badly I needed it and how hundreds of others must need it, the same as I did, I feel I ought to give it to the world. Therefore I authorize this paper to publish the formula, which is as follows: Bay Rum six ounces; Lavona de Composee, two ounces; Menthol Crystals, ½ drachm. If you like it perfumed, add a few drops of To-Kalon perfume, which mixes perfectly with the other ingredients. This, however, is not necessary.

Be sure to ask the druggist for all the enclosures in the Lavona de Composee package. One of them entitles you to a handsome free sprinkler top for your Hair Tonic bottle, and you are also entitled to receive the free advice of an expert on the hair by simply writing to the address you will find enclosed in the carton.

Ask your druggist for an 8-oz. bottle containing six oz. of Bay Rum; then put in the Menthol Crystals and the Perfume. Next add one-half of the bottle of Lavona de Composee; let it stand six to eight hours and add the remainder of the Lavona de Composee. Always buy the Lavona de Composee in a two-oz. sealed bottle, as this preparation contains the juice of the Ecuador herb mentioned above, and it loses its strength if unsealed. Apply the preparation night and morning and rub well into the scalp. If properly used it will produce most astonishing results. Be careful not to get it on the face or any part of the body where you do not want to produce hair.

Dean Drug Company, the well known and popular druggists of this city, have filled this formula for many of their patrons, and state that the satisfaction from its use is so great that they have found it necessary to make provision to fill the prescription promptly and carefully.

A becoming hat and costume are the more effective when the wearer has attractive hair.

and of his relations with Mrs. Carrie Kersh, the woman now on trial for the same crime

Webb took the stand as a witness for the defense, seeking to save the life of the woman, with whom he lived in Spokane and elsewhere as husband and wife.

He denied that Mrs. Kersh had planned with him to kill Johnson or to rob him, and said he never told her he had killed Johnson in a fight in the new Grand Central Hotel.

"Standing as you do under the shadow of the gallows, and under the sanctity of your oath taken at this trial, and remembering all the fraternal oaths that you have taken, can you say that Mrs. Kersh had nothing to do with the killing of Johnson, either as a conspirator before the crime or as a participant in the actual killing?" asked the attorney for Mrs. Kersh.

"I can say without the least equivocation or mental reservation that Mrs. Kersh knew absolutely nothing concerning the killing of Johnson," answered Webb promptly.

It was testified by previous witnesses that Mrs. Kersh, after the murder, had purchased the trunk in which Johnson's body had been secreted.

Webb was for many years a member of the International Typographical Union, and well known among printers in the various cities of the Pacific Slope and Alaska.

GAS MAIN WRECKS ROOM.

San Franciscan Lights Match to Find Leak and Explosion Hurls Him Across Abode.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Michael Zilbinoff of No. 1214 Geary street struck a match to find a gas leak in his room yesterday morning. Instead of finding the leak, Zilbinoff found himself hurled across the room. He struck the opposite wall with great force, sustaining bruises of the arms and body.

In the explosion, Zilbinoff was severely burned about the face. He is being treated at the Central Emergency Hospital.

The gas explosion shattered windows and aroused the entire neighborhood. A fire alarm was turned in, but before the engine company arrived, the fire which had started in Zilbinoff's room was under control. The room was in a sad condition. Pictures had been hurled from the walls and a large bucket and other articles of furniture had been overthrown.

Zilbinoff works in the pumping station of the Spring Valley Water Company.

ANGELENO GIVES UP OFFICE.

Thomas P. Brown, Newspaper Man, Resigns as Deputy Superintendent of Public Instruction.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO (Cal.) Dec. 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Thomas P. Brown of Los Angeles, who for more than a year past has been a deputy in the office of State Superintendent of Public Instruction Edward Hyatt, has tendered his resignation to take effect on the first of the year, in order that he can devote his time exclusively to newspaper work.

During Brown's connection with the office he has guided the publicity work for which Superintendent Hyatt is noted. In the primary campaign particularly was the reporter-educator a prominent news source in this department of the State government.

With newspaper men crowding into offices at the Capitol at the first of the year, Brown's resignation is somewhat of a departure from the ordinary history of events. His job at the Capitol pays $1600 year.

WILL WATCH SHIPS.

BAR TO SMUGGLING.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 17.—Recent discoveries of extensive smuggling of opium and Chinese into this port have brought from the authorities an order that vessels from the Orient are henceforth to be placed under watch as soon as they enter the harbor. Two customs inspectors are to be sent to meet each arriving steamer at the Golden Gate. Hitherto it has been the practice to allow the boats to come to anchor in the stream before sending inspectors aboard, and in case of a vessel arriving at night, to leave her unguarded till daylight. It is believed that much of the successful smuggling has been carried on by lowering contraband over the vessel's side before the arrival of the watchers.

cottage, then disappeared in the other way around the garden.

"Miss Smith's tent was not more than twenty or thirty yards away. I did not see him after he disappeared, but he was going in the direction of Miss Smith's tent and that was about the only way he could go unless he went the way he was going when I first saw him.

"Fifteen minutes later, I went back to the business office of the sanatorium to get some medicine for my wife. It was then a quarter or twenty minutes past eight. I got what I wanted and left the sanatorium and went home. I was there at the time of the explosion. Mrs. Dessau, Miss Clark and I wanted to report the explosion to the authorities. The next morning, I believe, just before breakfast, Dr. Dessau asked Burke if he did not think it wise policy to notify the Sheriff and the District-Attorney.

"At first Dr. Burke said, 'Well, if you really think it ought to be done, all well and good. I don't think there is any necessity of it at all.

"'The woman will die, shortly, and if they come out here, they will simply arrest her and take her away, and that's not necessary. It will cause a big scandal. I have had these cases before—these explosion cases. We always handle them all right.'"

Dillard then goes on to tell of his conversation with Alfred Burke, who was a deputy Sheriff, and of Alfred's declaration that the affair looked as thought the explosive had been put in from the outside. Dillard then notified the Sheriff and the District-Attorney.

When Dr. Burke heard the Sheriff had been notified, he was white with rage and accused Dillard of being suspicious. Then he wrote a letter to the Sheriff saying that he thought he could handle the case easily and that there was no necessity for the Sheriff to Field Messengers: Van M. Griffith, W. S. Eaton.

Manager-in-Chief of Field: Martin C. Neuner.

Chief of Marshals: Fred L. Baker.

Chief of Police: W. Wray Freeman.

KALEIDOSCOPIC.

The Grounds Committee rearranged the position of hangars and administration buildings, yesterday, and the whole aspect of the Dominguez aviation field is changed.

Instead of being placed behind the grand stand as originally stipulated, the hangars are to be put on the field in front of the stands, beginning at a point about 400 feet to the left of the farther end and extending diagonally across the field at an angle of about 45 degrees.

This throws the entire field of activity in front of the grand stand and parking space for autos, but the people standing on the near end of the field will have plenty of chance to see all that is going on.

Fred L. Baker, Martin C. Neuner, and Isaac Milbank spent more than an hour on the grounds yesterday afternoon and went over the whole situation. The first thing they did was to locate the administration building across the course from the grand stand so that there would be no chance of the committeemen being interfered with in the performance of their duties and so they would be in a position close to the hangars and starting line.

The administration building will be connected by telephone with all parts of the field, but no one except the field messengers and the officers on duty will have a chance to approach the members of the committee personally.

The committee decided that from the experiences of last year it would be better to isolate themselves as two-thirds of the persons who desired to see them wanted passes or special favors.

ARE AFTER BIDS.

Concession buildings began going up yesterday under contracts made by Chairman Neuner of the Concession Committee. This year there are no exclusive concessions, with a very few exceptions, as there were last year, but a limited number are to be accommodated. Neuner says there are still a number of concessions untaken, largely because of the idea that they would be exclusive. Plainclothes men are to work for the protection of the concessionaires, arresting such as have no contracts.

W. Wray Freeman of the Freeman Detective Agency has been made Chief of Police. He says that about 100 officers will be on duty, in addition to the plainclothes men and those engaged for ordinary purposes. Freeman will work under the direction of Fred L. Baker, who is to be chief of the marshals and have charge of the grounds generally.

The course in front of the grand stand is being rolled and packed as hard as possible to give a firm starting surface.

Secretary Buel H. Green of the Aero Club of California has received notification that the international course has been laid at five kilometers, or about 3.1 miles, and the outer course will be set to measure this distance.

The medium course will be 2.8 kilometers, or 1 3-4 miles. An inner course of a mile is also to be laid out. Pylons will mark each course.

To qualify as an aviator a man must fly around the longer course once, attain a height of 50 meters (about 180 feet,) and cut a "figure eight" around two posts 500 meters (about 1650 feet) apart.

The Programme Committee is to meet at 7:30 o'clock this morning and finally pass upon the list of events and the prizes. Considerable delay has been caused by unlooked-for circumstances, but it is believed that the committee will finally pass on the whole today.

A high wind blew over the field yesterday afternoon; that is, high for Los Angeles, but the visiting aviators and mechanics did not seem to mind it in the least, as they had run across worse winds all over the country. Dust flew in clouds from the places where the ground was torn up.

The stands are rapidly nearing completion, as far as the framework is concerned and the flooring and seats are to be placed Monday and Tuesday. The entire rear is to be boarded, and the committee has planned to have an exhibition of Southern California products displayed by lithographs and signs.

BILLIKEN CLUBS SMOKER.

Open New Quarters on Hill Street With Entertaining Programme, Including Initiation of New Members.

The formal opening of the new quarters of the Billiken Club on Hill near Fourth street was held last night. About 300 of the 400 members attended. The affair was in the form of a smoker, with the programme of entertainment embraced in the initiation of about seventy-five new members. The dining hall was vacated for the evening and a curtain hid it from the nervous view of the novices who were about to be introduced to Mr. Billiken himself

The quarters of the club, which have been for years occupied by the University Club, are very comfortable. The club, which is about one year old, and is rapidly growing, expects to occupy its new quarters for about one year and will then erect its own building.

A letter of thanks was given Elmer R. McDowell, a member of the Executive Committee for his efforts in securing the new quarters and also in arranging for the night's entertainment.

Chico Girl Selects Old Coat as Hiding Place for Christmas Funds and Mother Gives Garment to Tramp.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICO, Dec. 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] That an old garment is no safe place to keep her savings is a fact just learned by Miss Crystabel Hegan, a pretty girl of 17, living with her parents and brothers here.

For some time Miss Hegan has been putting away spare dimes and quarters to buy Christmas presents for her relatives and friends. She had saved about $20 and piece by piece had deposited it in the pockets of a discarded coat belonging to one of her brothers, which was allowed to hang in a closet in their home.

Yesterday afternoon she concluded to do some of her Christmas shopping, but to her dismay coat and money were gone.

On questioning her mother she ascertained that the coat on the day before had been given to a ragged tramp who appeared to need such a garment.

JUROR GOES TO JAIL.

SEATTLE, Dec. 17.—C. P. King, a juror, and Adam Zickler, the complaining witness in a forgery case, were sentenced to thirty and ten days, respectively, in the County Jail by Judge W. R. Gay yesterday for violating the court's instructions and discussing the case outside the court room. Zickler was prosecuting his son-in-law, and during the lunch hour met King in the hall and told him the details of his domestic troubles. After he had been sentenced King said he had been promises immunity from exposure by another juror if he would agree to vote for acquittal. Judge Gay is investigating this.

Tooth Talks
BY
Dr. C. M. Horn

About three years ago I made my first announcement regarding my new discovery of a painless plan of extracting, filling and crowning teeth, using the now familiar slogan,

"I NEVER HURT A BIT."

During that time people have come to me for dentistry—nervous people who looked like they might be going to the "electric chair' instead of to one of my comfortable ones—

And one and all have gone away eager to spread the gospel of painlessness as applied to my dental work.

In the hope these lines may catch the eye of some sufferer who is afraid of the dentist, I will just say it again,

I NEVER HURT A BIT.

I mean what you mean by painlessness.

Specialization
Is the Order of the Day

Our piano actions are made by experts, giving that part of the piano their entire brain power, incorporating our patent "Cushion Flange" to meet the demand of THIS GENERATION.

Our player piano actions are made under the same conditions for THIS GENERATION.

Our composite metal plates are made under the same conditions, heavily enameled, under our specifications, to prevent condensation of moisture, as well as to prevent ringing vibrations, for THIS GENERATION.

Our cases and back frames are made, in our judgment, by the best case manufacturing concern in America, and the quality is acknowledged by them to be the best ever turned out in regular stock form, for the improved taste of THIS GENERATION.

There is not one piece of inferior material in the entire construction of the Melody-grand, and the workmanship at once speaks for itself, and is of THIS GENERATION.

The "tone-reflecting sound-board," "cushion flange," and "silent rebound" are inventions of our Mr. Long, patented both in America, and throughout the important European countries, for THIS GENERATION.

We give a LIFE-TIME GUARANTEE on both workmanship and material, for THIS and FUTURE GENERATIONS.

We boast not of our ancestors, or the "tin pans" (called pianos by courtesy,) other ancestors used to make for PAST GENERATIONS.

We are prepared to meet the requirements of the advanced education and refined taste of THIS GENERATION.

We are ready to meet competition on any grounds, and will make comparison at any time at our expense. We "neither grant or ask quarter."

We establish our own quality and price, and claim that our piano costs more to build in comparative stock styles, than any other piano now on the market, which is quite fitting for THIS GENERATION.

NAME THE PARK WITH LIBATION.

Old "Agricultural" Passes; "Exposition" Now.

Corner-Stones Laid With Masonic Ceremonies.

Good Start on Construction of Notable Buildings.

With a clear libation dipped from the stream which in future is to bring life-giving water to its broad acres of beautiful sward, Agricultural Park was rechristened yesterday afternoon with the new name, "Exposition Park." A full silver goblet of water from the Owens River was spilled in the ceremony by Miss Mary Spencer Bowen, daughter of W. M. Bowen, who is known as the father of the park project.

It was the most beautiful feature of the impressive ceremonies which marked the renaming of the great breathing place of the southwest and the laying of the corner-stones of the magnificent buildings which are being erected by the State and county on the park grounds. The latter ceremony was in full charge of the California Grand Lodge of Masons.

The exercises, which began at 2:30 o'clock with a procession of those participating from the Vermont-avenue entrance of the park to the scene of the ceremonies, were witnessed by probably 3000 people. The gathering included a notable assemblage of State, county and city officials, the Knights Templar Commandery, and staffs of the Seventh Regiment and the First Brigade, N. G. C., of California, the lodge men and the military men being in full dress uniform. Hundreds of invited guests were present and the space in front of the State Exposition Building, where the christening was celebrated, was banked with spectators.

STATE REPRESENTED.

Lieut.-Gov.-elect Wallace presided over the exercises, the members of the Board of Directors of the Sixth Agricultural District Association acting in the capacity of hosts. The latter were under the chairmanship of W. M. Bowen. The Lieutenant Governor was accompanied by the members-elect of the State Legislature from this and neighboring counties, by Nathan Ellery, State Engineer, and by William F. Coates, Jr., who drew the plans for the Exposition Building. Gen. Wankowski and staff of the First Brigade N. G. C. and Col. W. G. Schreiber and staff of the Seventh Regiment, N. G. C. added to the group of men in official life who participated.

The Knights Templar, 200 in number and impressive in their black uniforms and plumed hats, escorted the Masonic Grand Lodge members to the Exposition Building where they were received and assigned to places of honor by the directors of the Sixth District Association. A band and a chorus of school children provided music.

TARGET FOR CAMERAS.

Following the introduction of Chairman Wallace by Mr. Bowen invocation was pronounced by Rev. J. S. Thompson, Grand Chaplain of California masons. This was succeeded by music after which Miss Mary Spencer Bowen was introduced to the assemblage by her father, W. M. Bowen. Miss Bowen, a pretty girl of 15, was compelled to pose for fully two minutes after she had pronounced the new name of "Exposition Park," the modest target of a battery of cameras. The goblet used in the christening was the gift of the H. J. Whitley Company, and was beautifully inscribed with the words, "Dedicated to the Development of the Resources and Industries of the State of California," and "For the Preservation of the Historic, Scientific and Artistic Treasures of the Golden State."

The laying of the corner-stones of both State and County Buildings was conducted with all the pomp of the Masonic rites for such occasions, this world-lodge having a special ceremony for the laying of corner-stones of buildings. The ceremonies were in charge of Dana R. Weller, Grand Master, who used a silver trowel presented by Brock & Feagans. Following the placing of the white marble stones over the casket receptacles of interesting documents of the day and age, the grand master invoked the assistance of his three "worthy" assistants, W. H. Stephens, Mayor Alexander and E. B. Spencer, who impressively tested the laying of the stone with square and level and plumb, each in turn pronouncing the "work of the craftsman good."

Lee C. Gates delivered the oration of the day, dwelling eloquently upon a eulogy of the men whose untiring efforts have made Exposition Park possible. He reviewed the history of the project and outlined the plans of the State, county and city for the further development of the "great playground of coming generations." Mr. Gates promised the people gathered before him that he would use voice and influence during his coming term in the Legislature to induce the State to increase its appropriation for the Armory Building which is soon to be added to the park group.

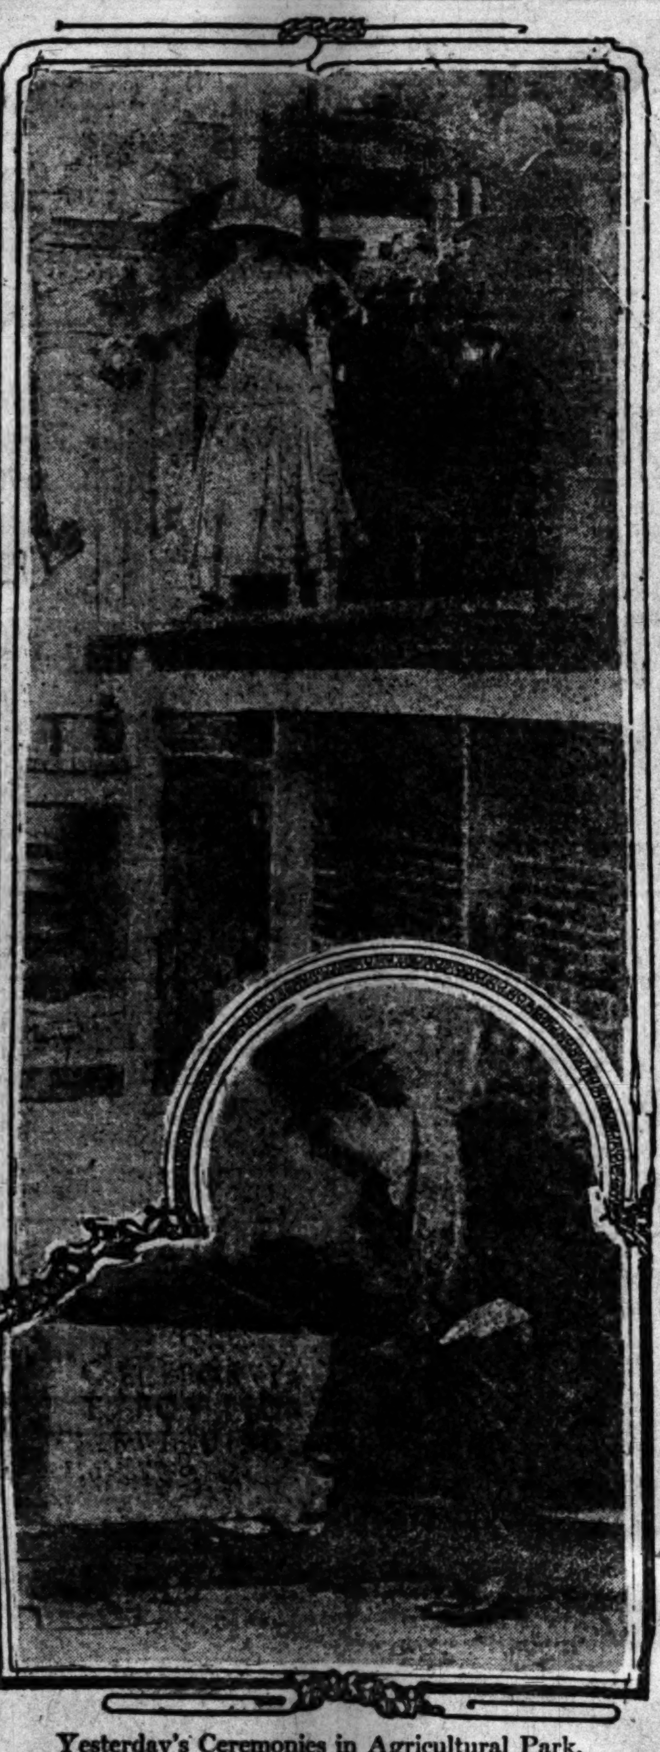
PROGRESS PLEASES.

The progress in the erection of the structures now under way in the park has been highly satisfactory to both State and county. The County Museum of History, Science and Art is the farthest advanced, the exterior brick work of the main story being practically finished and the steel frame of the great dome being in place. The style of architecture of this building, which was planned by Hudson & Munsell, is Spanish Renaissance, the edifice being in the form of a cross. It is entirely fireproof.

The south wing is to be occupied by the Southern California Academy of Sciences for a Museum of Natural History and the north wing by the library and ethnological exhibit of the Historical Society. The rotunda and west wing will be devoted to art under the direction of the Fine Arts League of Los Angeles. The structure will represent a cost of $225,000.

The State Exhibition Building will, it is said, be the only public structure of its kind in the country for the permanent exhibition of a State's products. The building will be of a type of architecture somewhat similar to the county building, there being, however, no dome. It will cost $250,000. The sum of $100,000 will be expended by the city in improving the grounds in the next few years.

Bible House, the home of the American Bible Society, the Christian Herald and several Methodist publications, was the scene of an ugly fire Friday night, which did damage of nearly $10,000. Although the fire was confined to the sixth floor, water damaged other parts of the structure, principally the plant of the Christian Herald directly below.



Yesterday's Ceremonies in Agricultural Park.

Above is Miss Mary Spencer Bowen, with a goblet of Owens River water, rechristening the great playground Exposition Park. W. M. Bowen, "father of the park," stands in the foreground. The lower picture shows Dana R. Weller, Grand Master of the Masons of California, wielding the silver trowel at the laying of the corner-stone of the first permanent State Exposition Building.

Heartless Walkout.

UNFAIR STRIKE OF UNIONITES AGAINST ENGRAVING COMPANY.

Men at Thorpe Plant Ordered Out and Throw Down Their Work—Management Was Paying Above the Union Scale—Laborites Seek to Prevent Thorpes from Filling Contracts. But Shop Is "Open."

THE Thorpe Engraving Company of Los Angeles is making a brave and winning fight against labor union unfairness, and deserves a helping hand from every friend of industrial freedom.

This company employed seven engravers and sometimes ten or more, and has always done a large and successful business. Mr. Thorpe has been a liberal employer and has always paid above the union scale. For workmen scheduled by the union scale at $21 a week, his company has paid $30 a week. His men were attached to him and were all satisfied.

But Mr. Thorpe contracted to help The Times out of difficulties occasioned by the disaster of October 1, and set his men at work on a number of plates for The Times Midwinter Number. The men made no objection and the labor union made none. But after the work was fairly under way, the labor unions thought they saw a chance to get in some more of their dirty work against The Times and called Mr. Thorpe's men out. They all obeyed the union's orders and struck, a week ago.

The unionists were doubly unjust to Mr. Thorpe, inasmuch as they ignored his high wages and kind treatment for years and furthermore deliberately tried to put him in a hole by waiting until he had made contracts and had begun work on them, before striking. It was one of the unfairest strikes ever ordered in Los Angeles.

Besides the work for The Times, the Thorpe company was engaged filling other important contracts. The unions paid no heed to this fact, and threw down these jobs, too, seeking to cause Mr. Thorpe all the trouble they could. It was, with them, as usual, "rule or ruin." They cared not a whit what loss they caused Mr. Thorpe. They did not give him any leeway whatever. On Saturday night he was "notified" and on Monday morning his men failed to come to work.

But Mr. Thorpe is made of the right stuff. He cannot be bulldozed and will will not submit to labor union tyranny. He kept right on with his work for The Times. He and his two sons are all practical engravers. Four men are working in the Thorpe establishment night and day. Mr. Thorpe declares that his patrons are standing solidly, and sympathetically with him, in view of the principle at stake and the wrongs that have been done him. He has notified the unions that hereafter he will run his establishment as an open shop—adding one more to the industries of Los Angeles, which the unions cannot dominate. The business men of Los Angeles will stand with the Thorpes to the finish.

RUSH URGENCY BILL THROUGH.

Congress Appropriates Public Funds at Rate of $10,000 a Minute for Deficiencies.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Congress passed the urgency deficiency appropriation bill today in an hour and forty minutes. As the measure carried $1,069,615, this was appropriating public funds at $10,000 a minute.

As reported in the House the bill carried $850,000, but when it reached the Senate it had grown to $995,672, and the Senate added the remainder.

Chief among the items are $550,000 for continuance of the work on the dry docks in the New York navy yard, and $39,750 to pay the expenses of the new Commerce Court. The sum of $89,000 is included to pay Richard Parr, Federal customs inspector, the remainder of the reward of $100,000 which he was awarded for bringing to light the existence of the sugar weighing frauds in the New York customs house.

The bill now goes to the President for his signature.

RENO MAN WITH BUG.

HAS BAD CHECK HABIT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RENO, Dec. 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Charles Peter Lynch, who has been giving the police and others in Reno considerable trouble by attempts to have checks cashed for sums as high as $100,000, is being held in the Golden Hotel here, and will be taken in charge by his father, said to be a very wealthy business man of New York, who is coming from the East after him. He is to take his son home, believing that he is mentally unbalanced. The young man thinks he is the representative of eastern millionaires, and it does not trouble him in the least to draw a check from $10 to $200,000, when, as a matter of fact, the checks are worthless. The divorces of Reno seem to prey on his mind, and he has declared that he has found a place where he can get divorces in just twenty minutes, but that he will charge each person securing one of these divorces, at least $25,000.

John B. McDermott, an ex-soldier from the Philippines, traveling from Chicago to Providence, R. I., fell from a Michigan Central train Friday night, and his dead body was found by section men several hours later.

Prof. Frederick Caesar de Sumicho, professor of French at Harvard University, has tendered his resignation to take effect September 1, 1911. No reason is stated.

WILL PROTEST BOARD'S ACTION.

Flint Excepts to San Pedro Harbor Ruling.....

Long Beach Decision to Be Thrashed Out.

Senator Notified to Present Views to Officials.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch. Senator Flint has been notified that he will be given a hearing before the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors at 10 o'clock January 3, when he will present arguments against the action of the board in refusing to recommend the deepening of San Pedro harbor to thirty feet and improving Long Beach harbor.

Regarding the latter project the board said that it did not consider it advisable to make a preliminary survey with a view to improving Long Beach harbor because it was an artificial waterway, as yet, but partially completed, being constructed at private or corporation expense, as a part of a commercial enterprise and land development scheme.

No water-borne commerce has been created, the board said, and none is possible under existing conditions. Moreover, the board declared Los Angeles harbor is but four miles distant and the area available for extension in Los Angeles harbor is practically unlimited.

Senator Flint asked for data and a brief on the subject from Long Beach and he expects this data to assist him in presenting the case when he appears before the board January 3.

CONFER AT WHITE HOUSE.

PRESIDENT'S CABINET MEETS.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—A special meeting of the Cabinet was held at the White House this afternoon. It was attended by all nine members and lasted from 3 o'clock in the afternoon until 6:30 o'clock this evening. The length of the meeting gave rise to rumors that it had been called in connection with the "war scare" which has been disturbing Washington for the last week. This was denied, and it was said the Cabinet had devoted itself entirely to unfinished routine and departmental matters left over from yesterday's session.

Schoolgirl Drowned Near Spokane (Wash.) While Skating on Shallow Pond on Way Home from School.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SPOKANE (Wash.) Dec. 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Abby Sargent, the 14-year-old daughter of Mrs. Elias Sargent of Jerry Precinct, was drowned last night while on her way home from school, in a pond which had been formed by grading a road at the mouth of a gulch on the Cloverland road near Asotin, Wash.

Ice had formed over this pond and the youngsters were skating and ventured too near the center when the ice broke and they fell into the water. Mrs. Edward Allbright rushed to the place and found her boy and the Sargent girl struggling in the water. She placed a board on the ice, and venturing out succeeded in getting hold of the boy, but the ice broke and she fell in. Mort Stone of Cloverland rescued the woman and the boy, but the girl was not found for about two hours.

The pond was made to secure water for stock and is about seven feet deep.

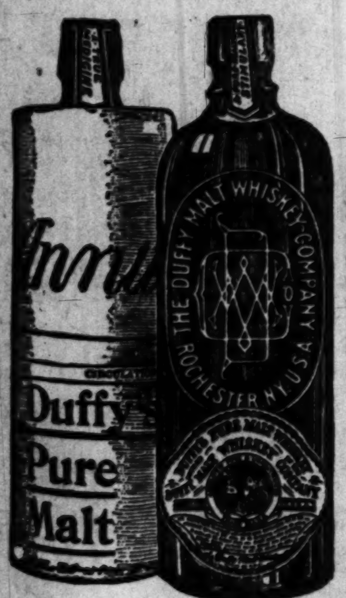
One True Medicinal Whiskey

Beware of imitations and substitutes unscrupulous dealers tell you are "just as good as" Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.

These cheap concoctions are foisted on the people with the intent to deceive by dealers mindful of their profits only and caring nothing for the health of their patrons. Some try to make you believe it is Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. Others go as far as to refill our bottles with these concoctions and endeavor to fool the people into buying their spurious goods as the genuine. Keep a close watch and do not buy one of these refilled bottles.

Substitutes Are Dangerous

When a remedy has been before the public for more than half a century, has been prescribed and used by the best doctors and in prominent hospitals, and has carried the blessings of health into as many thousands of homes as Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey has, imitations are bound to arise. But they can imitate the bottle and label only—no one can imitate the contents.



Facsimile of package & bottle greatly reduced.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is Beneficial

It is an absolutely pure distillation of malted grain. Its palatability and its freedom from injurious substances render it so that it can be retained by the most sensitive stomach. It has been used with remarkable results in the treatment of consumption, pneumonia, grip, coughs, colds, asthma, malaria, low fevers, stomach troubles and all wasted and diseased conditions.

The genuine Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is sold in sealed bottles only. The "Old Chemist's Head" is on the label and over the cork is an engraved seal. Be certain this seal is unbroken. Sold by druggists, grocers and dealers everywhere or direct, $1.00 a large bottle.

MILLET'S ANGELUS CRITICISED.

Foreign Art Critics Unite in Describing Famous Painting as Only Mediocre Exhibit at Big Louvre Display.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PARIS, Dec. 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Art critics here declare unanimously that Millet's "Angelus," the celebrated painting which was brought back from America at a cost of $150,000, is really inferior in every way. The picture, which is part of the Chauchard collection on exhibition in the Louvre and which recently was bequeathed to the State, represents two peasants, a man and a woman, standing with bowed heads in a field, praying and lisit is probably Millet's most popular painting and prints of it are to be found in nearly half the homes of the United States.

The comment of Pierre Calo is typical of the criticisms called out by the exhibition of the picture.

"It is," he says, "the only mediocre work in a splendid collection of Corots, lers. The 'Angelus' is famous in two worlds and the most expensive in the collection, yet it truly is mediocre. It is badly balanced, shabbily composed, laborious and flat. The characters are faded and are mere silhouettes. The picture owes its universal renown only to its sentimental subject."

The canvas is badly cracked from

HOGAN BESTS JOHN FRAYNE.

"One Round" Easily Master of Experienced Pug.

Defeats Him in Almost Every Round of Twenty.

Beaten Fighter Saved from Knockout by Bell.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 17.—"One Round" Jack Hogan, the terror of local short distance fighters, graduated from that class today when he earned a clear-cut twenty-round decision over Johnny Frayne, a lightweight of prestige, at Blot's open-air arena. The gong alone saved Frayne on at least half a dozen occasions. On his showing today, old time fight followers unhesitatingly maintain that Hogan, who is barely 21 years old, with little additional experience, will prove a serious contender among the many challengers for the lightweight crown now worn by Champion Wolgast.

Today's battle was a case of a hard-hitting, sterling young fighter, against cleverness and gameness in which the former emerged with flying colors. Hogan took the bit in his teeth at the very outset and before the battle was three rounds old, it looked as if another scalp would be added to his belt. He waded into his adversary unrelentingly and landed right and left punches to Frayne's jaw and face with such dazzling frequency that the latter was forced to keep constantly on the defensive and seldom sought to retaliate. In the fourth round, Hogan beat his opponent into almost complete helplessness and Frayne wobbled to his corner apparently beaten then and there, being covered from head to foot with the blood which streamed from his battered face.

Again in the fifth round Hogan administered fearful punishment, but Frayne weathered the gale and by remarkable ability to absorb punishment and clever footwork, managed to protect his vulnerable spots. Hogan struggled desperately to land a knockout punch, but round after round when it appeared certain that Frayne was doomed to defeat by a quieting punch, he could come up refreshed after the usual minute's respite between rounds and electrify the spectators with an exhibition of gameness, augmented by clever defensive work seldom seen in a prize ring.

In the eighteenth and nineteenth rounds it seemed a certainty that Hogan would score a knockout, but again the clang of the bell saved Frayne after he had been mercilessly punished about the face and body and the crowd time and again yelled at Referee Hanlon to stop the unequal contest.

The last round found the one-round wonder over-anxious to make his victory complete by scoring with a finishing blow, but Frayne, with his senses dulled and his eyes closed, made a last stand and succeeded in lasting the limit. The referee promptly declared Hogan the victor.

GRIEFERS TRIMMED.

M'CORMICKS TOO STRONG.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The McCormicks won from San Diego today, 8 to 2. The local team played badly, errors being mingled with Carson's wildness and ineffective pitching. Lafferty, for the visitors, allowed three hits, one a two-bagger by Cravath, who made his first appearance in the local line-up.

The McCormicks made eight hits off the combined work of Carson and Davis. La Longe caught for the McCormicks, and Leads for San Diego. La Longe had two passed balls, and was responsible for one of the runs made by the locals.

Blacks Wake Up.

GIANTS TRIM DOYLE BUNCH.

ERRORS BY LOCALS WOULD BEAT ANY PITCHER.

Mooney of the Winners Heaves Fairly Good Ball and Is Given Excellent Support—Tonneson Might Have Won If His Team Mates Had Been More Careful of the Ball.

Giants, 4; Doyles, 2.

The Colored Giants finally came to life yesterday and walloped the Doyles principally because the latter made enough errors to lose three games and yet they out-hit the Giants 10 to 7. Just how many runs the colored men would not have made had the Doyles played good ball can only be guessed at.

The Giants tried out their new pitcher, Mooney, from Cuba, and although he was a trifle wild, hitting two men and walking three, he kept the hits fairly well scattered and with the exception of a wild throw to first base in the attempt to make a double play, Mooney got perfect support. Tonneson was hit seven times but there were enough wild heaves to have beaten Christy Mathewson.

The Giants, however, were out to win and would not be denied. They had the crowd with them and every play they made was wildly cheered and with this assistance they went about their business. Mooney pitched a swell game until the last inning when he walked one man and three hit him for singles, but as he had the game won before the ninth, he was not worried by those dainty swats which were very scratchy. Tonneson was good but the bungles behind him were too much.

The Giants scored in the fifth on a fielder's choice, a steal and Hasty's wild throw to second in the effort to prevent this steal. Two more runs came in the sixth on McClelland's juggle of a grounder and three singles. The final Giant run was due to a pass, two singles and a wild throw by Burrell.

The Doyles got their first run from a fielder's choice, a wild throw to first, a single and Burrell's long fly to left. A pass and three singles made the second run. Ellis' running catch of a long fly to center and the general all around work of the Giants were the fielding features. Score:

GRAMMAR SCHOOL SPORTS.

Five Hundred Children Take Part in Programme, Feature of Which Is Shot Putting Event.

Five hundred school children of the Cahuenga District attended the outdoor sports held by the three schools of the section at Prospect Park yesterday afternoon.

The sport consisted of track and field stunts, arranged so that both the girls and boys could participate The Los Feliz School had the largest number of contestants, fifty-four of the students taking part in the events. Colegrove was second with thirty-four and there were twenty-five from the Ramona School.

Little Louis Calencia was the surprise of the afternoon, putting the twelve-pound shot thirty-eight feet and nine inches. He had the form of a veteran and was in a class by himself.

One of the events in which there was much interest taken was the girls' basketball throw. The contestants stood with their backs in the direction that they threw the ball and passed the sphere over their heads. Miss Sadie Thompson of Colegrove proved to be the most expert in the event.

The winners:

The 100-yard dash, Oppen (L. F.,) won; time, 11s.

The 100-yard dash, girls, Sarrah Senor (Colegrove,) won.

High jump: Griffith (Ramona,) first, height, 4ft. 8in.

Basketball pass, girls: Sadie Thompson (Colegrove,) won.

Potato race, senior boys: Sidney Thompson (L. F.,) won.

Potato race, junior boys: Frank Clark (Colegrove,) won.

Shot-put: Louis Valencia, won; distance, 38ft., 9 in.

PASTOR IN HARD LUCK.

Loses Church Job Because He Took Drink, Then Loses Secular Job Because of Action Taken by Church.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WORDEN (Ill.) Dec. 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A few days ago the Rev. J. F. Beal had two jobs. Now he has none. He was pastor of the First Christian Church and he was also station agent for the Litchfield & Madison Railroad.

The first job to go was the pastorate. Members of the church were shocked that their pastor had been seen to take a drink of liquor. It was also reported that he had, as a railroad man, used some profane language. An investigation began behind closed doors. Beal pleaded not guilty, but before it was ended he qualified his plea and resigned.

The railroad officials have a hard and a fast rule prohibiting its employees from drinking and when news of the hearing reached the managers, Beal was let out as station agent.

GIVES UP FEDERAL POST.

Alfred T. Black Resigns as First Assistant Attorney for Northern District of California.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 17.—Alfred T. Black, for five years the first assistant United States Attorney for the northern district of California, resigned his position today.

His resignation has been accepted by the Attorney-General, and Benjamin L. McKinlay, second Assistant Attorney, has been promoted to the position. To fill the vacancy created by the elevation of Mr. McKinlay, Earl H. Pier, an attorney of this city, has been appointed.

Mr. Black during his incumbancy has conducted the principal criminal cases prosecuted by the government in this district. He had charge of the prosecution of the land fraud cases, which led to the conviction of John A. Benson and Dr. E. B. Perrin. He desired to resume private practice some time ago, but was prevented by Attorney Robert T. Devlin, who persuaded him to retain office until the question of Devlin's confirmation for his second term had been settled in the Senate. This confirmation was bitterly fought by Dr. E. B. Perrin and his friends, who claimed that Perrin had been prosecuted by Devlin and Black without cause.

Black will engage in private practice in this city.

Murphy Is Wise.

OVERALL TO BE TRADED TO PITTSBURGH FOR CAMNITZ.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Overall, the Cub pitcher, will be traded for Camnitz of Pittsburgh and perchance Pfeister for Mattern. Both deals are reported on the swapping plan and doing nicely, according to President C. W. Murphy of the Cubs, who returned today from the annual confab of the National League at Gotham.

"I discussed a number of trades while at the meeting," said Murphy, "and President Dreyfuss of Pittsburgh looked with favor upon the prospects of [illegible] Camnitz. I won't deny that this deal was given a thorough airing.

National League players will be asked to pay for their own uniforms next season, according to Murphy. In the past, although there has been a rule to this effect, the magnates have furnished the players with their fighting togs, to-wit: One road and one home uniform, the outfit costing $30. Hereafter, however, the athletes will be assessed $30 each, the coin to come from their first pay checks. Club owners failing to make good on this rule will be assessed $750 by the National League.

EW TRIUMPH FOR WIRELESS.

erial Current Operates New Railroad Brake.

vention of Toronto Genius Successfully Tried.

BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TTAWA (Ont.) Dec. 17.—[Exclu- Dispatch.] Drawing a train of lve cars and rushing over the rails a speed of forty-five miles an hour a stretch of track near the city of onto, a powerful engine of the nadian Pacific Railroad service was ught to a quick standstill, with the ottle wide open and the engineer nding in his cab a mere spectator, those present with him to view wonder.

he brakes had been applied on the locomotive and train of cars by a eless wave of electricity. The engi- r's hand had nothing whatever to with the stoppage of the train at high speed, and to those in the cab the engine there was something ab- utely uncanny in the demonstration. seemed to them that some giant d had seized the equipment while mid-career and held it with ease.

xperiments with a wireless train trol system have been conducted the Canadian Pacific Railroad Com- y since May last, and this recent nonstration was the culmination of ong series of successful tests. This omatic train-control system is the ention of a Toronto man, Frank W. ntice. Thirteen years ago, on Au- t 13, there was a head-on collision ween a stock train and a passenger in on the line in which a friend of ntice was involved. The latter rried about it a good deal, and that ht he had a dream of placing a eless generator on the van to pre- t such accidents. Awakening with idea still in his mind, he com- nced work on it and has been at it r since.

he Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Com- y paid $40,000 for his experiments, they failed because Prentice was g the wrong system.

few years later in Cincinnati, le passing a soda water fountain, noticed a little rubber ball kept nding in the air by the force of the er. This little incident supplied with the missing idea, and the late nonstration was the final result.

he number thirteen seems to have yed an important part in the mat- for it was on the thirteenth day month that he saw the rubber ball motion.

DAY REPORT.
Dec. 17.—The Louise, which was of Behring Strait

on a trading expedition. Captain Harry Owens, commander and owner of the boat, had been running small vessels in the Far North for a number of years, and was familiar with ice navigation.

John W. Kelly, one of the passengers, had been trading with the Siberian natives for twenty-five years, and Mount Kelly, a noted landmark near Anadyr, was named for him.

It is likely that all the men are drowned. In the winter Behring Strait is not frozen over, but ice drifts south from the Arctic, filling the passage and always moving. Eskimos make their way from Siberia to the Diomed Islands, and it is possible, but not probable, that the Louise's men may have reached the islands over the ice.

Kelly, during his long residence among the Eskimos of Behring Strait, had made a study of the strange people, and had compiled a dictionary of their language. Each of the fifty tribes or clans speak a different dialect. Kelly had also written out the legends of the tribes, which all go back to the time of the recession of the glaciers and a great flood. The legends tell of the time when the mastodon and other extinct animals roamed the earth. Kelly had just got his material in shape for publication. He is said to have been the best authority on the Behring Strait Eskimos.

MAY BLOCK "DRY TRACT."

CITIZENS OF NORTHWEST PART OF TOWN MEET.

Discuss Transportation Matters, Including Proposed Line-Up Lincoln Avenue—Question of Parks Receives Attention Also from the Gathering.

(Office of The Times, 28 S. Raymond avenue.)

PASADENA, Dec. 18.—According to a statement made by the North Pasadena Land and Water Company through A. J. Toolin, vice-president, at a mass meeting of the citizens of the northwestern part of Pasadena held at the corner of Montana street and Lincoln avenue last night, the proposition made by the Lake Vineyard Land and Water Company to install a water system throughout that district and including the famous "dry tract," will be blocked.

"We will not permit the Lake Vineyard people to take water from under our territory and lay service pipes to the people who should be watered by the North Pasadena company," said Toolin. "If those people want water we will sell them stock and supply them with water, but we will not make a move until the Lake Vineyard people get through with their negotiations. After that if these people want water from us let them come to us and make a proposition."

Toolin then made a motion, which was seconded by William Easterbrook and unanimously voted by the thirteen delegates present, to the effect that a committee be appointed to be present at the next meeting of the City Council and say to the Mayor and members of the Council "that all this water controversy should be immediately settled; that all the talk about a shortage of water is detrimental to the city; that the practice of the city in furnishing the people of the dry tract with water from the city sprinkling carts, which is done at an expense of $7 a day to the taxpayers, should be stopped at once." On motion all those present were appointed on the committee to wait on the Council.

The next matter to be discussed was the Citizens' League, which is said to be composed of residents of the "dry tract." One man stated that only fourteen residents of the "dry tract" belong to the league, and most of these are not taxpayers. Another man came out boldly and said: "One of the members of the Citizens' League told me that Mayor Earley has contributed money toward the expenses of the league in order to get the good will of the people."

This statement was received with applause. In the general discussion which followed the members of the City Council were severely scored, as well as those members of the Board of Trade Water Committee who make the declaration that Pasadena has a shortage of water and should go elsewhere to get an additional supply.

DISCUSS TRANSPORTATION.

Having apparently settled the water question until a consultation is had with the City Council, the general mass meeting of the thirteen enthusiastic citizens launched boldly into transportation matters. The visit of the president, secretary and one director of the Board of Trade to the vice-president and general manager of the Pacific Electric Company yesterday morning in the interest of various extensions of street-car lines in Pasadena was taken up. It was stated that the Board of Trade delegates made a demand on General Manager Shoup that the line out Lincoln avenue be built at once and that that gentleman agreed to make a visit to Pasadena next week to look over the proposed extension. A committee was appointed to keep watch of the "doings" of the Board of Trade to the end that that organization does not overlook the Lincoln-avenue extension.

WANT TWO PARKS.

The third matter to receive attention was the petition presented to the City Council last week by the Board of Trade, asking for an election to vote bonds to buy Carmelita, Monk Hill, build a casino and buy a strip of ground on Kensington avenue. A resolution was unanimously adopted requesting the City Council not to put up the Monk Hill site at $85,000, but on the contrary to submit two sixteen-acre sites, one on Lincoln avenue and Wyoming street and the other at Lake avenue and Washington street, both of which can be bought for less than $6000.

"We are opposed to the city buying Monk Hill site which contains only eight acres, for $85,000," said the mover of the resolution. "It is too much and if the city had that little tract it would have nothing. If we are to have parks in North Pasadena, let us have something which can be made into a park and not a hill of rocks. We are all in favor of buying the Carmelita Gardens for a public playground, but not Monk Hill."

Having completed their labors the attendants at the mass meeting adjourned.

TALK EXTENSIONS.

Harry Geohegan, A. J. Bertonneau C. D. Daggett, representing the Board of Trade, made a trip to Los Angeles yesterday morning and held a conference with General Manager Shoup and Assistant General Manager McMillan of the Pacific Electric Railway Company. Seven propositions for extensions of lines in Pasadena and change of service were laid before the railroad officials. The extensions proposed are: The continuing of the Washington street car line east on that street from Lake avenue, to a point near Eaton's Canyon, thence north to the mouth of that canyon; a new line out Lincoln avenue to Devil's Gate; extension of the Los Robles line to the north city limits; extension of the California-street line down Grand avenue to Busch's gardens. Changes of service were, better service to Sierra Madre by running every other Lamanda Park car through to Sierra Madre; changing of the switch-back from Colorado and Fair Oaks avenue to the Carmelita gardens; installing of a loop service around through Oak Knoll to Oneonta and up Fair Oaks avenue. The two latter requests were promised and the others were taken under advisement.

CONCERT TODAY.

The first regular band concert for the winter and spring season will be given this afternoon in Central Park by Gregory's Italian Band formerly of Santa Monica but now of Pasadena. An excellent programme has been arranged.

The Pasadena Aviation Committee has decided on the 27th inst. as "Pasadena Day" at the Dominguez field. Special street car facilities will be made to care for the crowds on that day. Archie Hoxey, the Pasadena "birdman," will probably make special flights on that day.

GOOD SHOWER.

This city and surrounding foothill towns were visited with a good shower yesterday afternoon which did much good in the way of washing the dust off the grass and trees and clearing the atmosphere. There was a good fall of snow in the mountains. The rain storm was followed with a sudden fall in the temperature and last night the Crown City had its first taste of real winter weather.

KANGAROOING CONTINUED.

The membership committee of the Komical Knights of the Karnival continued its novel method of securing new members last night by arresting on sight every likely candidate that could be found on the streets, hauling him in an improvised patrol wagon before the Kangaroo Kourt which was presided over by "A. Mutt, Komikal Kuss," where the prisoner was promptly fined $1 and made a member of the club. The membership roll was increased by 138 names, making a total membership in the Komical Knights of the Karnival, to date, 759. A meeting of the club will be held in the Board of Trade rooms Monday night when the Entertainment Committee promises the new members a "run for their money."

DEATH OF MRS. PERKINS.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hood Perkins, said to be the last of the real daughters of the American Revolution, with one exception, died yesterday morning at her home, No. 785 South Orange Grove avenue, aged 79. She was a daughter of William Hood of Virginia, who was a soldier in the Revolutionary War. For many years she lived at Fredonia, N. Y. Accompanied by her husband, F. P. Perkins, to whom she had been married sixty years, she came to Pasadena a few years ago, where she had since made her home.

SPECIAL SERVICES TODAY.

The Rev. L. Potter Hitchcock, pastor of the West Side Congregational Church, will hold a special service this morning and will speak on "Four Things That Make for Universal Peace." He will make reference to the recent gift of Andrew Carnegie of $10,000,000 for international peace.

A. C. Dodds, probation officer in the District Attorney's office, will address the men's meeting of the Y.M.C.A. this afternoon at the First Baptist Church on the subject, "Adult Probation Work."

Rev. J. Herndon Garnett will fill the pulpit of the First Baptist Church at both services today in the absence of Dr. Albert Hatcher Smith.

Dr. Robert J. Burdette will occupy the pulpit at the Pasadena Presbyterian Church this morning and will preach on "Christmas Eve—The Promise."

Dr. Matt S. Hughes, pastor of the First Methodist Church, will deliver a special address this evening on "The Passion Play of Oberammergau." Dr. and Mrs. Hughes visited the Passion Play last summer while on their European trip, and he will give his personal impressions of it.

Dr. D. F. Fox, pastor of the First Congregational Church, will deliver an address in his church this evening on "A Christmas Gift that Went A-begging."

Dr. John Curran of Los Angeles gave a delightful dinner dance last night at the Annandale Country Club to a large number of friends. Dinner was served on the small tables and the clubhouse was beautifully decorated with Christmas colors.

A delightful vaudeville entertainment was given at the Valley Hunt Club last night by the Egan Dramatic School of Los Angeles.

The members of the Shakespeare Club held a "Christmas Observance" yesterday afternoon. The clubhouse was beautifully decorated in Christmas colors which were arranged by Mrs. Revel English. Miss Ada Trotter delivered a Christmas story written by herself, and Mrs. William Harrison Ballard read a paper on "Borrowed Christmas Customs." Miss Lucy Ross gave several whistling solos and Miss Rosalind Merritt rendered several piano selections.

A delightful affair of yesterday was the tea given by Mrs. Margaret Whitney at her home on North Raymond avenue in honor of Mrs. Gail Dunston, a recent arrival in the city.

A pretty linen shower was given last night by the Misses Martha and Lucy Pohneit and Miss Apple at the home of the latter, No. 1810 Bushnell avenue, in honor of Miss Ella Eseman, whose marriage to George Krietenstein of Chicago will take place soon after Christmas. The decorations were red blossoms and Christmas greenery.

Do Your Meals Fit?

Do You Feel Snug and Comfortable Around Your Waist Line After a Hearty Meal?

Trial Package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Free.

Did your last meal taste deliciously good to you, and did you eat all you wanted? Could you have patted your rotundity in glee and felt proud of your appetite and of your good strong stomach? Do you feel rosy now because your last meal gave you no inconvenience whatever? If not, you have dyspepsia in some form, and probably never realized it.

If you have the least trouble in your stomach after eating, no matter how little or how much you eat, there is trouble brewing and you must correct it at once.

Most all stomach troubles come from poor, weak, scanty gastric juice, that precious liquid which ought to turn your food into rich, red blood.

If you have nausea, your gastric juice is weak. If you have sour risings or belchings, your food is fermenting; your gastric juice is weak. If you have loss of appetite, your gastric juice is weak. If you have a bloaty feeling or aversion to food, your gastric juice is weak.

You need something in your stomach to supply the gastric juice which is scanty, and to give power to the weak gastric juice. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets do this very thing.

Now think—one grain of one of the ingredients of these wonderful little tablets digests 3000 grains of food. They are several times more powerful than the gastric juice in a good, strong, powerful stomach. They actually digest your food for you. Besides, they increase the flow of gastric juice, just what you need to get all the good possible out of everything you eat. You will never have that "lump of lead" in your stomach nor any other stomach trouble after taking Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Then everything you eat will be digested, it will give you strength, vim, energy and a rosy disposition. You'll feel good all around your waist line after every meal and it will make you feel good all over.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will make you feel happy after eating a good, hearty meal. Take one or two after eating. You'll feel fine—then your meals will fit, no matter what or when you eat.

We want to send you a sample package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets free of charge, so you can test them yourself and be convinced. After you have tried the sample, you will be so satisfied that you will go to the nearest drug store and get a 50c box.

Send us your name and address today and we will at once send you by mail a sample package, free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

Pure Water Drinking A Matter of Common Sense.

A Few Minutes Thought Will Convince You That Pure Water Is As Essential as Pure Food.

You Can Rely Upon the Absolute Purity of Puritas Distilled Water.

This question of pure foods and pure water need not trouble anybody particularly. Just use your common sense, and the answer comes quickly and much to the point. You KNOW that to retain your health you must have plenty of pure, wholesome food. So must you have plenty of pure drinking water.

Water has a further function than the mere quenching of the thirst. The copious drinking of pure water tends to keep the body sweet and clean. Water acts as an internal bath. It aids the system in performing its functions. Any skilled physician will confirm this.

If you take impure water into the body you'll find that the impurities are not easy to dispose of. Some of them are bacterial and cause disease if the system is low in tone. Others, especially those in Southern California waters, are mineral in character.

These minerals cannot be assimilated by the body, nor are they readily passed off. They become deposited in the arteries, a fertile cause of rheumatic and kidney troubles.

You're absolutely safe, if you drink Puritas Distilled Water. We distill it twice. We aerate it with pure ozone. We bottle it in clean glass demijohns so carefully that all its wholesome purity is retained. Even the corks are wrapped in foil in order that impure air, filtering through a porous cork, may not contaminate the water in the demijohn.

We have been distilling Puritas for years. Our system is perfect—the water is uniformly pure—you can rely upon it at all times. Hundreds of Los Angeles's physicians recognize this, using Puritas for themselves and prescribing it in their practice.

Puritas is inexpensive. Five gallons cost but 40c, delivered within the old city boundary lines. At outside points the cost is a trifle more, owing to the long haul.

Regular Puritas customers purchase Coupon Books, thus securing the pure water at a discount. When you telephone, ask us about these. Home 10053; Sunset, Main 8191.

Puritas Distilled Water can be obtained through dealers in most towns in Southern California. If you are unable to find it readily, do not accept a substitute, but communicate with us. We will see that you are supplied.

CRUISERS WILL ENTER TODAY.

TWO CF THEM WILL STEAM INTO HARBOR.

Body of a Lawson Valley Ranchman Is Found in the Brush Near His Home by His Brother—Officers Investigate the Case—South Pasadena Man Is Drugged and Robbed.

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 17.—A wireless message received by the Chamber of Commerce from Admiral Barry, on board the cruiser West Virginia, at the target grounds, says he anticipated that target practice would be concluded today. Admiral Barry also stated that but two of the cruisers will come into the harbor and that these will come in separately on Sunday. Admiral Barry's message contradicts reports that all the six cruisers of the fleet would come into the harbor at once.

RANCHMAN MURDERED.

Sheriff Jennings was called to Lawson Valley at 1 o'clock this morning to investigate the mysterious murder of M. G. Mau, a rancher, whose body was found in the brush near their cabin by Fred Mau, a brother. Fred and M. G. Mau lived alone. Fred Mau spent yesterday at Jamul. He did not return home until late last night. He found the house turned topsy turvey, indicating that robbers had ransacked the place. His brother was missing. After searching about the premises he found the body in a clump of weeds some distance from the house. The man had been shot several hours before the finding of his body. A posse is now following the clews. Mau was about 45 years old.

The Sheriff returned to this city this evening. He declined to state what clue, if any, he had obtained, but he expressed the belief that at least one of the slayers of Mau will be in custody within a few hours. It is stated that the trail from the scene of the murder did not lead in the direction of the Mexican border, but turned toward this city, and that arrests may be made here.

What is known as the "Smugglers trail," through the back country, runs close to the home of Mau, and one theory is that the leaders of the gang, knowing that Mau knew of their operations, thought the best course for them to pursue would be to get him out of the way.

On the other hand, the thorough looting of the ranch house supplies an ample motive. The place was robbed of everything of value which included about $340 in cash, a shotgun and a silver watch.

Unless there are developments in this city during the night, Sheriff Jennings and a strong posse will go to Jamul in the morning and try to pick up the trail where it was lost about two miles from the scene of the murder.

PASADENAN DRUGGED.

Walker Jones of South Pasadena was drugged and robbed of $150 and a watch by bunco men soon after his arrival in this city. Victor Neal and Bob Gould, who confessed to placing a drug in Jones's liquor, are in jail. Jones told the police he came here to go to Warner's Hot Springs. Before leaving the station he met Neale and Gould, who proposed refreshments. After visiting several saloons Jones became so dazed he knew nothing until he awakened in a strange rooming house. He was then penniless. He called on the police. From Jones's description of his companions detectives soon arrested Neale and Gould, who when given the third degree confessed. A part of Jones's money was recovered. Chief Wilson states that Neal is wanted at Lordsburg, N. M., for horse stealing.

ANGELENO GETS CONTRACT.

The San Diego Electric Railway has awarded to C. W. Corbaley, of Los Angeles, a contract to install a salt water circulating system in connection with the new power plant being erected. The price is $50,000. The system calls for two five-foot conduits to extend from the bay into the power house, there to connect with monster pumps. It is the purpose to use condensed salt water for the generation of steam for the new engines being installed.

REFUSES PETITION.

Judge Lewis of the Superior Court refused to accept Mrs. Ethelind Dunn's resignation as guardian of William and Harriet Quinn, children of Mrs. Julia P. Quinn, who are pupils of the Raja Yoga school. A letter signed by the children and addressed to the court, asked that Mrs. Quinn be retained as their guardian. Judge Lewis granted the request, taking the ground that if Mrs. Quinn is deprived of the guardianship the children will have no one to look after their welfare. The mother is at her home in Newcastle, Pa.

ONTARIO.

ONTARIO, Dec. 17.—The police of Southern California are looking for Lewis Grant Austin of this city who has escaped from the Whittier State School, whither he was sent after being convicted of the charge of stealing several motorcycles and wrecking an automobile belonging to E. A. Parkford of this city. Believing that the young fellow is in this section because of recent garage burglaries hereabouts, the officers of Pomona, Riverside and Redlands are working together to capture him.

The public schools here are closed for a vacation of nearly three weeks.

Coronado season to be best ever.

TENTACLES OF WHITE SLAVE TRAFFIC WRITHING A MENACE TO SOUTHLAND.

Notorious Cuevas Abduction Case Thought But One Flagrant Instance of the Conditions Existing, and Which the Future Will Only Aggravate.

PAINFULLY toiling, a step at a time, up the three long flights of stairs that lead to the top floor of the City Hall, as pathetic and as tragic a figure as any that the big city can show is almost daily to be seen. Though the climb is hard, and the harder because of the drag of little hands at her tattered skirts, the woman makes it eagerly.

There is none to notice her in the hurrying hive of the city government, even to indicate that the elevator would be easier. The office of the Housing Commission is the goal of her uncertain steps, as its expert, Mrs. Johanna von Wagner, is the invariable recipient of the brief appeal that she has walked two miles to make.

"No tienes nuevas de mi Aurelia?"

It is a grim and [illegible] tragedy that lies behind the six half-whispered and half-sobbed words. Christina Cuevas is only an ignorant and poverty-stricken chola, but her sorrow for the child she has lost is as bitter and her tears as scalding as though she had been luckier of birth. Here is the tragedy of long and hopeless waiting, the grief of mother-love despoiled. Few that have seen her now and as she was before the kidnaping of her daughter, four months ago, care to maintain that that grief is mere pretense.

The abduction of 14-year-old Aurelia Cuevas is thought by those whose business it is to know thoroughly the ins and outs of the city's foreign quarter to be of considerably graver significance than that which has been accorded it. It is not the fact of the abduction itself, occurring though it did at barely nightfall and almost under the noses of her family and of the metropolitan police force. Nor that she has disappeared so utterly that hardly the smallest whisper of hope for her return is left the mother. Nor even that a similar abduction could be made just as readily in a social stratum far above that of the humble Mexicans.

Aurelia Cuevas, kidnapped last August and never found.
E. Norme Law. a national purity worker.
Cuevas home No 1281. where girl was stolen.
Mrs. Christina Cuevas and two of her remaining children.

Sufferers From and Fighters of White Slave Traffic.

Mrs. von Wagner, principal investigator of the Cuevas case, declares the terrible traffic in humanity is rooted here and future danger great. Mrs. Law, representing the National Purity Conference, will go before the Legislature for drastic preventive and punitive measures. Mrs. Cuevas's love for her stolen child has nearly crazed her, and the family, at No. 1218 Mateo street, is in a pitiful condition, diphtheria quarantine having just been declared on the home.

By those whom extended investigation of the facts of the case have made most familiar with it, it is frankly asserted that, after her abduction, the girl passed immediately into the hands of a procuress, for whose purposes she was stolen, and that she was paid for in hard cash. The case is cited in all seriousness by them as an instance, not exceptional except in flagrancy, of a traffic which they assert to have gained a firmer foothold in Los Angeles than has even been suspected, even by the alarmists.

A GRAVE PROBLEM.

Chimera or not, the present existence and the future menace of a "white slave" traffic in Los Angeles is looked upon as a fact and a very serious problem by more than one important and influential civic and protective organization of the Southland. With eyes open to conditions which they say they and cope with them. In that respect it is contended that Los Angeles will be only anticipating the example to which other cities have been driven, to be spared at least a part of that municipal smudge.

That example, they continue, is one that goes to show what may normally be expected of the future. Los Angeles is to be the first port of call beyond the Panama canal, not only for the commerce but as well for the immigration to the West. The fact is cited that the experience of American cities from the beginning has been that the development of a traffic of the character feared has inevitably followed upon the influx of aliens. The more and more closely drawn lines of restriction upon immigration to Eastern cities is taken as an indication of the flood that will seek the West upon the opening of the interoceanic highway. That California, and more particularly Southern California, the Mecca of the world, will attract the bulk of it is looked upon as foregone.

STARTLING STATEMENTS.

Their most startling statement, however, is that the conditions to be met have a fairly adequate miniature in those which now exist. The menace, they believe, is very far from all being in the future. The inspectors of the Housing Commission, probably in closer touch with the city's undertow than already well-rooted among the local foreigners. Only the secretive and racial clannishness, they add, prevented public knowledge of conditions that are shamefully notorious among themselves. Now and again an example crops out that, did it occur among white citizens, would stir the city to its depths.

Aurelia Cuevas, eldest daughter of Apolinar and Christina Cuevas, was stolen from her parents' home, No. 1218 Mateo street, about 7:30 p. m., August 16. According to the statements of the other children, the only witnesses, the abductors were three men. They entered the girl's room, dragged her half-clad from the bed, choked her cries with a cloth gag and carried her away. The abduction occurred during the absence of the parents on an errand to the drug store, but the story of the children was in a measure verified by the indications of rough treatment which they had received.

The last seen of the girl was at Seventh and Mateo streets, where a number of fellows met the party. At that time the three men appeared to be half-supporting and half-dragging the girl along the pavement. The loungers thought that she was drunk and paid them no further attention as they hurried down Seventh street.

EXTRA SAVAGES ON HER HANDS.

Courageous Woman Has to Deal With Problem.

Untamed Indians Thrust Back on Reservation.

Aborigines Ruled With Tact and Intelligence.

That the Yuma Indians have, in the past year sold wood from their reservation to the United States Reclamation Service and to persons residing in Yuma to the amount of $10,347.80, and that since September 1, 1909, to June 30, 1910, the Reclamation Service has paid the Yuma Indians $104,788.31 for labor, are statements which Miss Anna C. Egan, superintendent of the Fort Yuma Indian Reservation, filed with the Federal authorities in this city yesterday. The statement was signed by Francis L. Sellew, engineer of the Laguna Dam project.

Miss Egan had these figures compiled to contradict the impression and to refute the uninformed statement that the government's wards at Yuma have suffered through the construction of the Yuma Dam. Since January 1 last, the government has been using large quantities of wood for the California syphon.

In discussing Yuma Indian affairs yesterday at the Hollenbeck, Miss Egan said:

"The government work on the Colorado River has been of supreme benefit to the Indians there. It has given them labor at good wages, and I now have a demand for 150 men which I cannot supply. In addition to the government's assistance to the Indians in the work given them, Col. Epes Randolph has employed hundreds of Indians, both from Yuma and all other Arizona reservations, in the California Development Company's projects for the benefit of the Imperial Valley.

"The Indians will have work for some time to come. Before the government project is completed, they will be allotted their land and they can live by its cultivation.

"Under the Burke Act of 1904, Indians allotted land since that date do not become citizens for twenty-five years, and they cannot sell their land until that time, nor can they lease it because they will have no clear title until they become citizens. Greedy Americans would like to lease their rich river bottom lands, but only the government agent could sign such a lease; and while I am the agent at Yuma, that will never happen.

"Many plans have been suggested to help the Indians. One of these is to have the government sell five of the ten acres allotted to each Indian and use the proceeds to level and otherwise put in condition the five acres left to them."

Miss Egan is at present facing a unique, if not remarkable, problem. Twenty-five years ago a band of Yumas moved across the Mexican boundary, withdrawing themselves from all government aid in order to escape Federal supervision. Especially did the Indians wish to avoid the compulsory education of their children.

Last week the authorities of Mexico evicted the Indians from the lands of that republic, and this throws fifty uneducated children and 200 totally undisciplined adults upon Miss Egan's hands. Luckily these Indians were included in the government's estimated land allotment.

Two competent authorities have agreed that Miss Anna Egan, who is a plucky little woman not five feet tall, is one of the most remarkable of all Indian agents. These authorities are Francis Leupp, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and the Rev. William Hughes, head of the Indian work of the Catholic Church in this diocese. Rev. Mr. Hughes and others prominent in the Indian work, passed yesterday in conference with Miss Egan.

Speaking of Miss Egan, Rev. Hughes said:

"I have always admired the manner in which Miss Egan has treated her people. She has both tact and sympathy, and all of their needs are met with courage and intelligence. I wish that every Indian in America had for a champion an agent such as she, in her twenty-five years' work among the red men, has proved herself to be."

GOOD ROADS TOUR NEXT.

Gay Party Automobilists Will Celebrate Newhall Tunnel Opening.

The automobile party which will make the first official good roads tour to open and dedicate Newhall Tunnel next Wednesday will be completed tomorrow. In order to make provision for the big barbecue to be served at the Old Home Rancho it is essential that every one intending to go should register before tomorrow noon at the Chamber of Commerce.

The Entertainment Committee is planning to accommodate several hundred people. It will be a day's outing full of enjoyment and educational in showing up some of the development projects of Los Angeles county.

The party will leave the Chamber of Commerce Wednesday morning at 8:30 o'clock. The barbecue will be served at noon. The day's run will cover about seventy-five miles, a large part of it over pavement as smooth as a city street. Register tomorrow morning early at the Chamber of Commerce. There is no expense attached to this trip except for gasoline, and it won't take much of that.

FREIGHT RATES MUST BE FAIR.

Commissioner Knapp Sanctions Co-operation.

Competition, He Says, Breeds Discrimination.

Earnings Are Not Sufficient to Meet Demands.

Perhaps no question before the public is attracting more interest at this time than the regulation of rates for transporting traffic. The railroads are unitedly asking for the right to increase freight rates and, in response to a considerable public demand, the government is exercising unusual interest in the subject of rate regulation.

"Why is a freight rate?" has never been adequately answered, but a careful statement more or less covering the ground from the standpoint of the Interstate Commerce Commission, has just been completed by Martin A. Knapp, chairman of the commission, in Washington.

"The question of railway rates," said Knapp, "that is to say, of railroad revenues, involves vastly more than the direct interest of shippers or shareholders. In a very real sense, in a sense which is fortunately coming to be better understood, it is a great question of national policy second to none in economic importance.

"The pulsation of competition among the carriers is an unwise and mistaken policy, I am persuaded. It is out of the question to have the presence of competition and the absence of discrimination. Just so long as competition between carriers is unrestrained, just so long will it result in policies which are dangerous, for to compete is to discriminate.

"It is a fallacy to condemn discrimination and, at the same time, to insist upon the very policy which promotes it. For this reason I advocate the legal sanction of co-operative action between railways regarding rates.

THREE IMPORTANT ASPECTS.

"Speaking only for myself, and without reference to the pending controversy over rate advances or any other concrete instance, I suggest three aspects of this question which are of immediate and intense public concern.

"If our country is to grow and prosper as it ought; if its untold resources are to be developed and its swelling numbers find profitable employment, we need and must have railway earnings sufficient for three things:

"First, a return on railway investments of such amount and so well assured as to attract and secure the necessary capital—an enormous sum in the aggregate—to improve existing roads and to construct without delay thousands of miles of new lines in fruitful districts now destitute of any means of transportation.

"It is a matter of common knowledge that the output of traffic for the fiscal year 1907 exceeded our entire carrying capacity on land and water. With the rapid increase of population and of productive efficiency; that is, with a greater army of workers and better industrial organization, the volume of that year ought to be and will be nearly doubled in another decade, if only we can provide for its prompt and proper distribution.

"And when we think of the rich regions yet unopened because unserved; when we recall, for example, that there is today in the old State of Maine a section larger than the whole of Massachusetts, in which there is not a rod of railway, must we not be impressed with a realization of pressing need and of boundless opportunity?

"Since it is our national policy—and long will be, I trust—to rely upon private capital and private enterprise to provide these great highways of commerce, to improve and multiply them in pace with our requirements, must we not, in the larger public interest, whatever may be thought by this or that shipper, make the business of furnishing railway transportation, which shall be up to the best standard of efficiency, convenience and safety, so desirable to the investor that the necessary funds for betterments and extensions will be forthcoming, and so attractive as a vocation that the highest ability will be employed in its management? Otherwise, if unhappily this is not done, must not our country come measurably to a standstill and face a future of comparative stagnation?

THE QUESTION OF WAGES.

"Second, the payment of liberal wages to an adequate number of competent men. This not only to insure increasing skill and reliability in a service which is all the while becoming more exacting, and on which the safety and comfort of the public constantly depend, but also because of the very great influence of railway wages upon the compensation of labor in every sphere and grade of private employment.

"To my mind, the fundamental social problem is to provide, by the wise development of our institutions, and without radical action or injustice, for a more equable diffusion of the bountiful wealth which the earth produces. Now, as a large and increasing majority of the able bodied live, and must live, by working for others in some capacity, a high and advancing standard of payment for service of every sort tends strongly to promote and is the best practical means to bring about, the degree of equality in social welfare which makes for the satisfaction and happiness of all our people.

"Third, the betterment of existing lines so as to greatly augment their serviceableness to the public, as can, in varying degree, be done everywhere, without unnecessary and undesirable increase in capitalization.

"Every dollar borrowed to improve a road now in operation involves a permanent addition to the interest charge which the public is required to pay, the improvement from current earnings puts no lien upon the property, but rather augments its value and usefulness, and, by adding to the security of the capital already invested tends to a lower rate of interest upon that capital.

"Broadly speaking, this means a national policy, so to speak, in respect of railway rates and revenues in harmony with our national policy in other matters of public concern, and in accordance with that enlarging spirit of altruism which manifests itself in public as well as in private life, and which impels the present assumption of burden that might be escaped or deferred in order that another generation may have an easier task and a larger opportunity. Is it not in this particular field a wise and patriotic policy?"

BOXED APPLES NOVELTY.

New York Fruit Man Visiting Here Says the Easterners Are Accustomed to Getting Them in Barrels Only.

E. W. Young, member of one of the largest fruit handling companies of New York, is a guest at the Angelus. He arrived here yesterday from Watsonville, where he visited the orchards, packing-houses and packers of apples.

"The California apple is not as yet very well known on the eastern markets. When the ordinary buyer comes into one of the big commission houses," said Young, "he doesn't ask for a box of apples, he calls for a barrel of the fruit. The Ohio, New England and Middle Western orchardist packs his fruit in barrels and has packed them that way for years and years. It takes time to educate people to the idea of a new manner of package."

"They are getting the education and after a buyer has bought a few boxes he realizes that he is getting his money's full worth. A box-packed apple is always good. There are no culls, wormy apples, small sizes stovepiped down the center, as is the case with barreled apples, all too many times.

"Are strawberries very popular in the East at this season? Not exceedingly. They are looked upon as a novelty. The great cry is for grapefruit. That is another matter of education. Doctors have told their patients that grape fruit is just the thing for any number of diseases. When the season is on, there is nothing but grape fruit. The easterners haven't been educated to the having of any kind of fruit all year around. They must have a certain kind at a certain time and that is why strawberries right now are not a real popular fruit, but are looked upon as a novelty, served in the very highest class hotels and in the homes of the wealthy."

NEW "OWL" SERVICE.

Late Cars to Be Operated on the University Line, the Last One to Leave Temple Block at Three.

Commencing the 26th inst. the Los Angeles Railway Company inaugurates an "owl" car service on the University line from Temple Block to Vernon avenue which will give to the residents of the rapidly growing southwest section the same service as now obtains on the Moneta avenue line.

The change is made for the benefit of newspaper men living in that part of the city who have been obliged to use the Moneta line and walk long distances to reach their homes in the early morning hours, and is in line with the policy of the railway management to give Los Angeles a night car service befiting a metropolis.

Regular "owl" cars will leave Temple block at 1, 2 and 3 o'clock a. m. and will go over the same route as the day cars, with the exception that instead of turning west on Thirty-ninth street they will continue south on Vernont avenue to Vernon, where a spur track is situated. The railway company contemplates continuing the service later farther south.

FINE ANNUAL NUMBER.

The Annual Diocesan number of the Tidings, issued under date of December 16, is one of the handsomest of the series issued during the past seven years. It contains 155 large pages, elaborately illustrated with half-tone cuts, and is enclosed in an allegorical illuminated cover. It contains many articles, from the pens of familiar local writers and professional men, covering the history of the Catholic Church at home and abroad, the Old Missions of Southern California being presented with great elaboration. It is printed on heavy plated paper, of fine texture, and will preserve its fine illustrations for all time.

HUMOR OF ENGLISH ORATORY.

The present elections in Great Britain have furnished us with many delightful examples of the wit and humor employed by English orators on "the stump," as we would say in this country. Over there they call it "the hustings," don't you know, or something like that.

That English humor is antipodal, to say the least, when compared with what we regard to be humor in this country, we must prepare ourselves to understand at the start. Whether or not it be true, as alleged, that the English take their pleasures sadly, there can be no question that a joke is a different thing according to their definition than it is to ours.

Let us take, for instance, a speech delivered by Mr. Winston Churchill not long ago at Lambeth Baths, Kensington Road, which is probably somewhere in London.

In this notable utterance, to the uproarious hilarity of his Liberal audience, Mr. Churchill paid his respects to several of the Tory and Unionist leaders. He referred to Mr. Balfour as "an amiable dilettante philosopher, content to brood serenely and sedately over the perversity of the world which he no longer attempts effectively to influence." This is certainly ripping, but we can't somehow laugh our sides sore over it. We are more likely to wait until our British cousin has recovered from his spasm of laughter and ask him "Where's the bloomin' joke?"

We are likely to think that Gen. Porter's famous definition of a mugwump was much funnier. "A mugwump," said the general, "is a person educated beyond his intellect." If you have the time to spring that thing on an Englishman the chances are ten to one that he will say: "Isn't it most extraordinary! My eye! Educated beyond his intellect! But, say, old chap, he couldn't have really meant it, don't you know."

Referring to Mr. F. E. Smith, a gentleman who appears to have something to do with boosting the opposition, Mr. Churchill said Smith was "invariably vulgar." This brought down the house. In a reference to the tariff the speaker declared "There was no tariff reformer who could today show his nose." There must be some local joke about this nose business which we on this side of the water do not understand, for the audience fairly rolled on the floor the moment the words were out of Winston's mouth. But, even to our way of looking at the funny side, Mr. Churchill wound up in fine form by calling Mr. Austen Chamberlain "a wooden effigy."

Despite the fact that the English pelt their orators with decayed cabbages, rutabagas and other missiles equally objectionable, we are unwilling to admit that they anywhere approach the keen appreciation of oratory which the American people possess.

Our method is to allow the stump speaker to have his say, finishing his speech to the end in peace and quiet. There are two reasons for this, namely, that a public speaker is regarded as a harmless and a frequently irresponsible person, and also that if we were to hurl senile vegetables at him the police would doubtless lug us off to the calaboose and see that we were subjected to a fine next morning.

The only really good stuff in the Englishmen's speeches, that we can see, is nothing less than a clean steal from America. For many years the stump speaker's pet anathema in this country was to charge the enemy with the crime of accepting "English gold." Now the favorite scream of the British opposition orators is that the Liberal party is floated solely by "American dollars."

PLEA TO PLAYWRIGHTS.

When we consider the fact that stock companies in theaters throughout the United States are compelled to play over and over again, year after year, the same old productions, we must logically reach the pathetic conclusion that no new plays worth while are falling into the hands of producing managers.

It may be, on the other hand, that many plays distinctly worth while are falling into the hands of the managers, right along, and that the managers do not know a good new play when they see it. This is at least the contention of the many young persons in and out of the newspaper profession who are writing plays, especially in Los Angeles, but the managers insist that nothing worth bothering with has been shown them.

Certainly the public is bound to soon grow weary of seeing the same old plays over again, and we now make a plea to playwrights to try themselves at adaptations if the managers continue to take the position that originality has gone to seed. We are inspired to make this suggestion from an interesting news statement recently published in the London Morning Post.

The news statement referred to recounts the startling success which Lady Gregory of Ireland has achieved by adapting several of the plays of Moliere to Irish uses. She has taken, for instance, the great Frenchman's production, "The Miser," and has reset the scenes in Ireland. The characters are metamorphosed from the French to the Irish peasantry. Their names are not changed, but the patois is switched to the brogue and many other liberties are taken. The story however, remains the same in all essentials.

To further illustrate the ingenious manner in which Lady Gregory "turns the trick" a sample quotation of the dialogue of "The Miser" will prove of interest. Moliere wrote:

"Harpagon (seul:) Ah! le brave garcon! Voila parle comme un oracle! Heureux qui peut avoir un domestique de la sorte!"

Lady Gregory's translation is as follows:

"Harpagon: That's the chap! Troth he is talking like Aristotle! Didn't I have great luck getting a servant the like of him?"

Now if the play had been translated literally without changing the scenes from France to Ireland, the Irish wouldn't have paid a ha'penny to see it. But as it is, they crowded the theater in Dublin to the very doors and went into spasms of delight over the production.

We submit to the aspiring and perspiring playwrights of America that here is a way out. Let the old plays that are true and tried be taken and adapted to present day uses and set in local color. Who knows but the managers and public alike will be delighted and, as a consequence, the authors and adapters will also be made happy because of the inflow of the golden simoleons of the realm gladly flung from plethoric pockets into the box offices.

For that matter, indeed, it may be that the necessity of thus adapting old plays need not enforce the work of translation, thus relieving the playwrights from tackling foreign tongues with which they are perhaps totally unacquainted. They can confine themselves to old English plays.

Let them begin with Shakespeare himself. Hamlet, well handled by some person with the half of Lady Gregory's wit, could be transformed into a melodrama of the present time that would throw even the "low brows" and "rough necks" of the land into paroxysms of glee.

At any rate we are convinced that we have called attention to a possible avenue of relief from the binding situation in which we are all placed—public, players, managers and authors, the one the same as the other.

AFTER-DINNER ORATORY.

Ability to make a speech and ability to make and keep a fortune are not often found coexisting in the same individual. The orators who have tackled the stock market have usually emerged therefrom "with less money and more wit," and the millionaires who late in life have yielded to the flattering solicitations of their satellites, and who, with half-concealed manuscript in their left hands and their right arms sawing the air, have stumbled and stuttered through an after-dinner speech, have not exhibited the wisdom that has made them successful in the counting-room. There are three qualifications needed of a speech-maker. The first is to have something to say, the second is to say it without verbosity, and the third and most important of all is to stop when he gets through. The third rule is the one most frequently violated by the inexperienced, and sometimes by the experienced orator. There is something so charming, so absolutely delightful to him in the sound of his own voice, that he thinks he is making a speech when he is only making a noise, and he keeps on and on in "one weak, wishy-washy everlasting flood," until he has fully exhausted both his subject and his hearers. In the United States House of Representatives when an appropriation bill is under consideration they have a five minutes rule, and, at the end of the expiration of three hundred seconds, whack goes the chairman's hammer and the speaker, though he be Champ Clark or Uncle Joe Cannon himself, must drop into his seat, without any more privilege of extending his speech than an obscure and unillustrious Congressman from Podunk.

But no such rule prevails at banquets. There the Hon. Pignwhistle Pristler, who, because he is a millionaire, has been placed upon the programme for a five minutes' speech, may with impunity talk on in the presence of a yawning audience, and if his speech has not been verbally prepared he may with impunity assassinate the King's English, and tell how he "done it," and what he is "goin'" to do, for half an hour, while tears run down the cheeks of the speakers who are to come after him, for the toastmaster, who may be in need of a small discount the next day, will not risk offending an orator who although shy in ideas and deficient in language, is yet the possessor of a bank account in seven figures.

It has been suggested that a properly equipped banqueting hall should have a rotary platform on which the orator should stand while speaking. One minute before the time allotted him an automatic bell would ring, and, at the expiration of the minute, the platform would automatically revolve and shunt him out of sight. Or it might be arranged that when the speaker's time was up an automatic brass band should sound its loud timbrels, with a rattling snare drum accompaniment. Or a board of examiners might be established, and a license be required of applicants, and a heavy fine, or, say three months' imprisonment, be prescribed as a punishment for those inexperienced gentlemen who were not licensed bores. Unless audiences can in some way be protected against an unlawful dose of spellbinding, the after-dinner speech will fall into "innocuous desuetude."

LISSNER'S PRIVATE PLATFORM.

Boss Lissner says the Legislature is bound by the State platform of the Republican party and is obligated to enact all the populistic fads put forth by the last Republican conventions in California. But let us see if those conventions were truly representative or boss-ridden. Let us see if the State platform which emanated from these conventions and was finally adopted at San Francisco, represented the views of the Republicans of the State or the views of a little boss. Let us begin at the Los Angeles county convention. Never in the history of the county was there a more boss-ridden, thoroughly typewritten, convention. Securing control of its organization by a small plurality, Lissner proceeded to run things in a manner that brought the blush to the face of machine politicians. With a brutality seldom exhibited in political life, he rode roughshod over the rights of the minority. He sacrificed all the long years of inherent home rule, and enforced upon the Assembly districts delegates to the State convention who would not have been chosen had those districts the right to name them. In this manner, unprecedented in the political life of Los Angeles county, he secured a solid delegation to the State convention which went to San Francisco, that jumped when he pulled the string.

From time immemorial Assembly districts have been permitted to select their own representatives to State conventions, and never before has a delegation been sent from this county to a State convention which voted unanimously at the dictates of a boss. Eight years ago when Henry T. Gage was a candidate for re-election as Governor, Los Angeles county was divided, and although friends of Gov. Gage controlled the county convention and could have selected a solid delegation in his interest, yet they deferred to that time-honored custom of Assembly home rule and permitted these districts to select their own delegates. Had he Lissnerized the convention and taken up a solid delegation, it would have resulted in his renomination, as he lacked but a few votes of accomplishing this result on the first ballot. Again four years ago Assemblyman Stanton headed a minority to the Santa Cruz convention which voted consistently for the renomination of Gov. Pardee. Yet the county convention could have chosen a solid delegation and not permitted Stanton to go to Santa Cruz.

It remained for the "good" and "virtuous" in political life, as represented by Lissner, to rule a convention with a rod of iron and to assume a bossism that the dyed-in-the-wool machine politician would have hesitated to put forth. In San Francisco the county convention was elected in the same way, and in this manner was it that Lissner secured control of the State convention, put forth his populistic platform and had himself elected chairman of the State Committee. But after doing all this, did the Lincoln-Roosevelts still stand in? Yes, for their own people; but Lissner, while chairman of the State Central Committee, had his private adjunct (so-called "Good Government League") bolt one of the candidates for Supreme Justice, and all of the county ticket not named by him, and was backed up by the L. R. journals throughout the city and the State, notably the Express and the Fresno Republican, the latter owned and edited by "Chet" Rowell, the State president of the Lincoln-Roosevelt League.

These were the conditions under which the present State platform was brought forth, and they are the conditions, gentlemen of the Legislature, under which this platform is presented to you. You are absolutely under no obligation to support it. You are your own free agents. Will you act as such?

THE ROSE AND THE FLAME.

[From the Russian of Tourganier.]

He watched her where she stood in curtained shadow,
Twirling the red rose in her restless fingers;
The while through half-closed lids her eyes stared tensely
Into the twilight garden. Could he know
The struggle that was passing in her soul.
Or see where lay the issue? All at once
She passed before him through the open door,
Into the dimness of the twilight garden,
Darkness and heavy weeping mists
around her.
One hour—she came not back—with measured steps
He followed the wild path her feet had trampled
Through the wet grass of that dim twilight garden;
Till one red spot arrested his attention.
Red as a fire-fleck, in a pool of water,
Lay his rejected rose. Stooping, he raised it,
Smoothed the crushed leaves, shook back the mud-stained petals,
And on her table laid it; watching, cat-like.
And now at last she comes and brushing past him,
Stands near the hearth and stirs the burning embers;
She sees the rose, she starts, she snatches it,
Stares at the crumpled petals, stares
at him,
Till her round eyes brought to a sudden stand-still Are wet with tears. "O see!" she cried. "My rose;
"My innocent rose, (poor rose!) all crushed and muddled!"
Then he thought fit to shoot a poisoned arrow:
"But your pure tears will wash away the stains."
"No, no," she flashed. "Tears do not wash, THEY BURN"—
And flung his rose into the crackling embers.
Ah, then! too late—
He knew her soul had just passed through the fire,
Alone, amid the shadows of the garden,
Darkness and heavy weeping mists
around her.

High Speeds on Railways.

With regard to the maximum speeds attainable, it may be of interest to mention the speed tests carried out in Germany between the years 1901 to 1903 on the line between Marienfelde and Zossen, a line worked electrically, the distance experimented over being about fourteen miles long and the line being practically level and straight. Speeds up to 97 miles per hour were reached, when the tests had to be abandoned owing to the failure of the permanent way. On the completion of the strengthening of the track a speed of 130.5 miles per hour was recorded in the latter end of 1903.

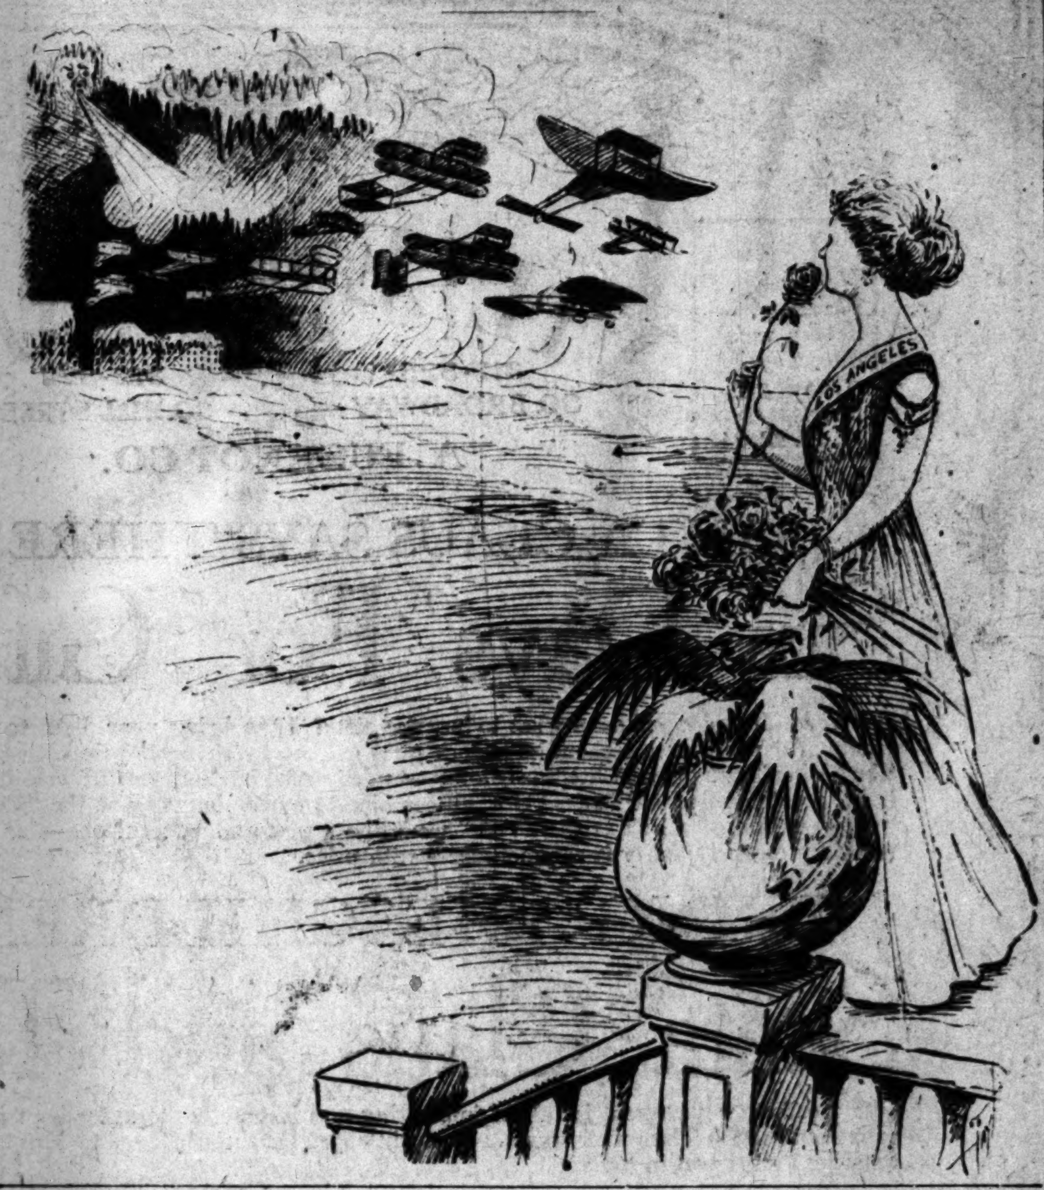
This appears to be the highest speed ever recorded on any railway. On special occasions the Philadelphia and Reading Railway, with their "Atlantic fliers," have averaged the speed of 81.3 miles per hour for a distance of 55.6 miles, while the speed of 100 miles per hour has been reached for single miles.

During a trial run on the Munich-Augsburg line, on the Bavarian State Railways, the locomotive hauled a train weighing 150 tons at a mean speed of 80.8 miles per hour. During a considerable time a speed of 96 miles per hour was attained. This is probably the highest speed ever recorded in Europe with a steam locomotive.

Numerous examples could be given of trains which require to travel at speeds between 70 and 80 miles per hour for portions of the journey in order to run to schedule.

Generally speaking, the speed standard of the majority of railways has arisen almost insensibly, and one may reasonably assume that this state of things will continue.—[Charles F. Draper, in Cassier's Magazine for December.

FLYING SOUTH.



MEN AND THINGS ACROSS THE SEA.

The imports of wheat into the United Kingdom are in the main from seven countries—Argentina, United States, Russia, India, Canada, Australia and Roumania. Of these Argentina takes the lead in the amount of such importations, and the United States stands second in the list, though the shipments of wheat from Canada have been annually increasing and last year surpassed those from the United States. Inquiry among importers discloses the fact that wheat from countries other than the United States is brought in from necessity rather than choice. American grain produces flour more to the popular taste than any other, but its high price—too often the result of manipulation—is a handicap to its exportation, and therefore wheat from Argentina and Canada is sought to supply this market for the purpose of mixing with the American product.

A British manufacturer has constructed a watering cart propelled by steam, with a water-containing tank thirteen feet in length by four feet six inches in diameter built of steel plates three-sixteenths of an inch thick, strongly braced and riveted, with a total capacity of 1200 gallons. This tank is divided into two sections, one with a capacity of 1000 gallons for street-watering purposes and the other a 200-gallon section for water for the boiler. There are two independent spray boxes at the rear with a spray that can be adjusted from four to thirty feet. It is calculated that with a medium spray the wagon can water two miles of road without refilling.

The presidency of the Chamber of Deputies in Paris is a much more important office in every way than that of the speaker of Congress at Washington. Like the speaker of the English House of Commons, he is magnificently housed, at the expense of the state, his residence, the Petit Palais Bourbon, for so long the home of the first Duc de Morny, rivaling in stateliness and in the luxuriousness of its appointments the Palace of the Elysee, where the president of the republic has his official home. His salary and emoluments are on a par with those of the speaker of the House of Commons, amounting to between $25,000 and $30,000 a year, and if the English speaker has his mace bearer, his train bearer and his chaplain, the president of the French Chamber of Deputies has his military guard of honor, composed of picked men, always on duty at the Palais Bourbon, and the commanding officers of which invariably attend him from his own residence, in the Petit Bourbon, to the big Palais Bourbon, where the chamber holds its sessions. But the French speaker has this advantage over his colleague at Westminster: that he and the president of the Senate are regarded as almost equal in rank and in importance to the president of the republic. The executive authority which in this country is restricted to the president of the republic in France is shared by its chief magistrate with the speakers of the Senate and of the Chamber of Deputies, who form with him a sort of triumvirate. On all official and ceremonial occasions they figure immediately next to him on his right and on his left hand.

Some idea of the enormous extent of the royal game preserves at Sandringham may be gathered from the fact that every year now the total bag has steadily increased until the huge figure of 16,000 head has been reached. But the record for the royal estate is much higher than this, the best year being, we believe, in 1896-97, when 14,000 pheasants, 4000 partridges, 850 hares, 400 wood cock, wild duck, teal and snipe and over 6000 rabbits were bagged. As an all around sporting property Sandringham holds its own among the best in the country, though at the big partridge drives on the neighboring estate of Holkham, some fifteen or sixteen miles eastwards, the bags are larger than at Sandringham, Lord Leicester's estate being a better partridge manor than the royal domain.

A woman who feels the hopelessness of her own position writes that if only the law which obtains in Sweden could be introduced into England and America it would be a simple and adequate solution of this tremendous problem, says the Pall Mall Gazette.

In Sweden, if an ill-matched couple have been separated for three years, and still have no desire to come together again, they are free.

Three years is not a long time! Indeed, some people may not think it long enough for such a couple to discover what they really do desire, but to meet this the period might be extended; make it five, or even ten years before the separation merged into a divorce, and the man or woman who is seriously unhappy and unable to spare the money now necessary to buy divorce will patiently, nay, cheerfully, wait the time allotted if confident that the goal is in sight.

One of the quaintest gardens in London, and probably the most costly one, by reason of the value of the land which it occupies, is that in the middle of the Bank of England and belonging to that institution. It is only six yards long by some twenty-five yards wide, has a fountain in the center, graveled paths and a couple of fine old trees, the whole forming a quadrangle, with the bank buildings running around. This little-known garden is in reality the churchyard of the vanished Church of St. Christopher-le-Stock, so-called because of its proximity to the stock market (fish and flesh), which formerly stood where the Mansion House—that is to say, the official residence of the Lord Mayor of London—is situated today. St. Christopher's was pulled down in 1781, when the bank was being enlarged, one of the causes of the demolition of the church being the fear lest it should ever be occupied by rioters to the danger of the bank, which were completely overlooked from its tower. Indeed, St. Christopher's Church played a very important part in the attacks of the "no popery" riots of 1780, when attempts were made to break into the bank.

Sample of His Politeness.

A well-known New Yorker now dead, who during his lifetime bore the appellation "Silent," was accustomed to employ various means to deliver himself from bores and time-wasters.

On one occasion, when the New Yorker was putting in his vacation in England, there was one native so bold as to visit the taciturn man at his bungalow.

"How did ye get along with him?" asked someone, when the bold one returned.

"Fine!" said the visitor. "Fellows, I've often heard that man is only a sullen cuss, but I want to tell you that he is one of the politest fellows I ever saw! I hadn't been settin' chattin' with him more'n two minutes before he'd asked me five or six times to come an' see him again!"—[Lippincott's.

She Says:

It is an awful shock to a man when he discovers that people are nice to him because they think that he has money.

If you notice it is only the people who have plenty of money who tell you about its evils—but they never offer to give it up.

The funny thing about consciences is that they seldom trouble the successfully wicked person.

You can tell how generous a man is by the way he does or does not quarrel with his best girl a short while before Christmas.

Most husbands give their wives a lot of advice about shopping, but they don't always accompany it with money.—[Baltimore Star.

THE PUBLIC SERVICE.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

At the joint meeting of the City Council and the Charter Revision Committee, held in the Council Chamber yesterday, the former body asked more control over the finances of the Water Board, the Aqueduct Board and the Harbor Commission.

The Mayor yesterday sent an invitation to the International Association of Fire Engineers to meet in this city in 1915.

To teach the boy a lesson and let him see what a prison is like, a father allowed his son to be sent to jail yesterday for 150 days on a petty larceny charge.

Ruth W. Bell told in Judge Conrey's court yesterday of having been deserted in Honolulu by her husband of two months, who sailed away to Australia, and left her penniless.

The business contention between Jacob and Abraham Silberstein and Alexander Brick broke out in court again yesterday. The Silbersteins filed a new complaint against Brick, making various ugly charges.

By the will of Frederick D. Parker, filed for probate yesterday, an allowance is made to his brothers provided they are the fathers of children, at the rate of $30 a month for each child so born.

NEW CHARTER DISCUSSION.

JOINT MEETING TO BE RESUMED MONDAY MORNING.

City Council Not Satisfied With Limiting Its Power Over Municipal Finances—Mayor Invites Fire Engineers to Meet Here—Will San Pedro Hold "Roast" Mass Meeting.

The City Council and the Charter Revision Committee held a three-hour joint meeting yesterday forenoon, and discussed more of the voluminous proposed new charter for the city.

Much ground was gone over, many and various provisions discussed, and but few marked changes were suggested. The most notable was in connection with the powers of the Water Board, Aqueduct Board and the Harbor Commission. As provided in the report of the Revision Committee, these three commissions will have absolute control of their own expenditures, and each time the report has been discussed, Chairman Washburn of the Council Finance Committee has contended that his committee, or the same committee of any future City Council, should have power to provide in the annual budget for the estimted expenditures of these important departments of the city government.

He presented in writing, as a suggestion to the committee, the draft of a clause which he asked to have considered before the final report is submitted to a vote of the people. It would bring these three departments under the same rule that governs others, requiring them to make a report to the council at the end of each fiscal year, and also require them to turn into the city treasury any surplus funds they might have at that time.

In his argument, Mr. Washburn said that owing to the magnitude of the business over which they have supervision, they are likely to become very wealthy, and be in possession of great funds, while other departments will be entirely out of funds, and for that reason it is desirable to be in possession of the facts at the time of making up the budget.

Chairman Anderson of the Revision Committee again referred to the fact that provision is made in the charter for this emergency, enabling the Council at any time to call for a portion of the surplus funds on hand. From expressions made by some members of the committee, however, it is possible that a clause will be inserted calling for a report from each of these commissions in May, in order that the council may have knowledge of the funds available. Mr. Anderson also repeated his opinion that broad men of large responsibility cannot be secured as members of these commissions, if they are hedged about by too much supervision.

Consideration of the entire report was not concluded when the joint meeting adjourned at noon, and another was called for 9 o'clock Monday morning, to complete the work, and the date for the charter election will be fixed when the council meets on Tuesday.

THE FIRE FIGHTERS.
MAYOR INVITES THEM HERE.

Mayor Alexander yesterday addressed an invitation to the International Association of Fire Engineers, to meet in this city in 1915. The annual gathering of the body will be held in Milwaukee in August, 1911, and the Mayor was determined to "get in on the ground floor," with his invitation from Los Angeles. He calls attention to the completion of the Panama Canal at that time, and also to our own great local projects, the Los Angeles Aqueduct and the harbor, both of which will have reached practical accomplishment at the same time, and holds out the inducement of the glorious summer climate of the Southland.

WILL TALK IT OVER.
SAN PEDRO MASS-MEETING.

The Board of Public Works yesterday received a communication from a number of citizens of San Pedro, asking permission to hold a mass-meeting in the former City Hall of the seaport, "to discuss matters of interest to us," they say. The permission was granted, and somebody intimated that the meeting is to be held to haul over the coals the city government in general for failure to keep pre-annexation promises. Among other things the seaport has been urging, is the establishment of a municipal ferry, and plans for a launch for that purpose are now being prepared. Inability to control requisite funds has somewhat delayed the ferry, but it is now well under way.

NEW MEXICAN LAW.

Information has been received from Senor Don Aurelio Sandoval, a well-known banker and business man of Los Angeles and Mexico, returned from the Mexican capital, in reference to a new law now under discussion in the Mexican Congress.

According to Don Olegario Molina, the bill authorizes the Secretary of Public Works to organize on scientific basis, a study of irrigation and means for the utilization of all the rivers and waters of the country for such purposes.

The bill presented to Congress is due to the perseverance and labor of years of the Secretary of Public Works, Senor Don Molina, one of the most progressive men of the nation.

His belief is that irrigation in Mexico under modern lines, will give to the sister republic industrial and agricultural independence. Rich in its possessions of lands, its great need is irrigation, making them fertile and productive.

WIFE HAS TO PAWN JEWELS TO GET HOME.

Story of Desertion of Bride of Two Months Told in Divorce Action on Ground of Failure to Provide. Question Whether Woman Having Property Can Maintain Such a Suit.

Two months a bride, only to be deserted in Honolulu and compelled to pawn her jewelry for passage back to San Francisco, was the experience of Ruth W. Bell, as related in Judge Conrey's Court yesterday. She told it in her action against Charles F. Bell, for divorce on the ground of failure to provide.

At the conclusion of the hearing, the question arose whether a wife having property of her own can maintain an action against her husband on such an allegation, and the case was taken under advisement. Attorney Pope, representing Mrs. Bell, is to furnish authorities backing up his contention that the husband is liable in the circumstances.

Charles F. Bell is now supposed to be in Australia. He is well known in Los Angeles as a lecturer on many subjects, running the whole gamut from Tom Paine to Christianity. His wife testified that it was her understanding that he had more than a score of efforts that he delivered in various parts of the country. Before coming to Los Angeles, Bell operated in the East.

The marriage of the pair took place in San Francisco in June, 1909, and the couple immediately sailed for Honolulu, on money furnished by the wife, she testified. Bell pretended to have a pot of money coming to him from Australia, but made a "touch" while waiting for the remittance. He secured $700, all of the money that his wife had. Mrs. Bell is the owner of a farm in Texas, and the cash represented her savings from the rent of the place.

It was the arrangement, she said, that they were both to go to Australia, but, after staying a week at a hotel in Honolulu, Bell told her he had no more money. But he had not forgotten to provide himself with a ticket to Sydney, and he sailed away on the steamship Alameda for that destination. The wife was left without a dollar, and she was compelled to pawn her jewelry with the purser of a ship of the line sailing from San Francisco to Honolulu in order to get home. She has not heard a word from Bell since he bade her good-bye at the dock in Honolulu, but she testified she understood he is in Australia lecturing. Since her return from Honolulu, Mrs. Bell has been making her home with her sister in Pasadena.

FAILS TO PROVE.
COMPLAINT OF DESERTION.

Mary W. Settles, employed as a teacher in the Los Angeles public schools, was plaintiff in a divorce action heard in Judge Conrey's Court, yesterday, against W. M. J. Settles, a mining man of Butte, Mont., on the ground of desertion. The decree was denied with leave to amend so as to make the cause of action failure to provide.

The couple was married in Helena, Mont., in 1901, and one child, Marjorie Lee Settles, is the fruit of the union. In November, 1908, she came to Los Angeles in quest of health, afterward removing to Hollywood. Her husband had given her $200 for expenses, and when this was gone, he refused to send her anything more, or to come to Los Angeles, as she declared he had promised to do.

Deserted and among strangers, Mrs. Settles opened a select school in Hollywood, for the purpose of supporting herself and her child, but that was not a success, and she sought service in the public schools, where she is still employed. She is now living at Highland Park.

Under the rule of the court that desertion must be proven by parties other than the principals, the action failed, but it will be renewed by an amended complaint.

PREMIUM ON MULTIPLE.
ANTI-RACE SUICIDE GIFTS.

Frederick D. Parker, who died in this city, the 12th inst., aged 35, was evidently a believer in the Rooseveltian theory that it is the duty of married folks to multiply and replenish the earth, to judge by his will filed for probate yesterday. The instrument was executed the same day that he died.

The chief asset of the Parker estate is stock of the Hawthorne Water Company, valued at $39,700, and this is left in trust for the benefit of the relatives of the testator, with Oscar J. Drum and Edward M. Lyon, as trustees, who are to hold the property for twenty-five years, and then turn over the stock or its equivalent in money, to the two brothers of Parker.

A number of his relatives are remembered with gifts of from $25 to $30 a month during the life of the trust. Orrel Parker, a brother, of New York, is to be given $30 a month, and to his wife $30 a month is bequeathed for each child that is born to the couple. He also provides that another brother, William R. Parker of this city, be given $30 a month and, if he marries, that much additional is to be paid to each child born of the union. It is further provided that $100 shall be paid to Charles B. Boutwell, secretary of the class of 1896 of Princeton University, for the benefit of the organization.

AGAIN IN COURT.
SILBERSTEIN BRICK TROUBLE.

The suit brought by Jacob and Abraham Silberstein, woolen merchants, against Alexander Brick, former partner of the Silbersteins, is again in court.

It was originally brought more than a year ago, to compel Brick to account for certain assets of the concern, the alleged misdoings having taken place while the three were in partnership. Experts were employed on the books, but the work not being completed on November 22, when the case was to be heard, the action was dismissed by Judge Monroe without prejudice.

At that time it was alleged by the Silbersteins that the work of experting the books was not completed because they refused to pay a sum more than the original contract for the work called for. The second complaint, filed yesterday, is practically the same as the action dismissed. The partnership was dissolved May 23, 1908, and the Silbersteins say that Brick removed merchandise valued at $1500 from the store; that the false entries on the books amounted to $5000; that he drew more money than he was entitled to do under the terms of the partnership, and used $1000 of the firm's money in a real estate deal.

The prayer of the complaint is that Brick render an accounting; that he be arrested and kept in custody until he has rendered the accounting, that he be restrained from concealing goods belonging to the firm, and be required to pay $10,000 damages.

For Value Received.

EAST PAYS US OVER MILLION FOR ITS CHRISTMAS ORANGES.

Holiday Shipments from Southern California Are Unusually Heavy. Three Thousand Carloads of Fine, Well-colored Fruit Being Forwarded—Crop This Season Expected to Be Largest in History of Industry.

AS A CHRISTMAS return for value received the East will send California over $1,500,000 for holiday oranges. About 2000 carloads of fine, well-colored fruit have been sent across the mountains and the plains.

As there are 400 boxes to a car, the easterners will get 1,200,000 boxes for Christmas from Southern California. The prices obtained give different net averages per box to the growers of the several regions. Some will obtain $1.05 f.o.b., others $1.10, others $1.50, $1.80, $1.90, and some favored groves ship fruit which is "fancy" and brings in $2.00 f.o.b. The average may well be placed at $1.40 for this Christmas fruit, which means over $1,500,000 for the growers.

These Christmas holiday shipments are unusually heavy. From Redlands alone 350 carloads have been forwarded so far this season and it is expected that the holiday output will not fall far short of 500 cars. Redlands fruit is bringing from $1.50 to $2.00 per box. About 400 carloads have been dispatched East from Orange county, Orange alone having sent 200, the Fullerton-Placentia district being responsible for 110 and fifty having gone from around Santa Ana and Tustin and twenty-five from Anaheim. The growers expect they will net at least $1.10 per box. Other shipments include forty-one cars from Corona, 100 from the Azusa-Covina-Glendora Fruit Exchange, 200 from Highland, twenty-five from Glendora and 115 from Pomona. All the fruit is splendidly colored.

This estimate of $1,000,000 for the Christmas holiday trade is very conservative; it is probable that when the growers handle the checks the amount will be nearer $1,500,000, perhaps over.

It is expected that the citrus fruit crop this season will be the largest ever known in the State. Estimates made by correspondents of The Times indicate this and the view is also upheld by the California Fruit Growers' Exchange. B. A. Woodford, general manager of that organization, when seen yesterday, remarked:

"Various estimates have been made but it looks like the largest crop we have ever grown. We cannot give any definite figures until a little later. It is hard to estimate when the fruit is green; we have to wait until it gets yellow so that we can see it on the tree."

Mr. Woodford stated that last year's output for the whole State was 32,672 carloads, Southern California being responsible for 26,117 cars. The total includes 5000 cars of lemons.

The average price, net, per box received last year by the grower for all citrus fruits was $1.96 f. o. b., which represents about $26,000,000.

"The condition of the fruit this season is reported to be excellent. "It never was better," said Mr. Woodford. It is somewhat earlier than usual, also. There has been some trouble in certain localities with 'splits,' but only here and there. As a whole there is no heavy loss."

INCREASES EVERYWHERE.

Nearly every correspondent of The Times finds that the output this season will be greater than last. Riverside county, for example, expects the total to be 4500 cars this year as compared with 4000 last; Redlands looks for 5000 from its neighborhood as against 3784; the Ontario-Upland-Cucamonga district expects 4600 carloads as compared with 3700; Pomona 4000 in place of 3300, Azusa district 4000 instead of 2300, Fullerton-Placentia 1500 as against 1168, Lordsburg-LaVerne 1000 as compared with 666; Monrovia-Duarte 800 in comparison with 600. And so it goes all up and down the southland, except immediately around Los Angeles, where the orchards are being cut up into city lots.

The dry weather does not appear to have affected the crop in any way, save, it may be, to prevent large sizes, a fact which causes the growers satisfaction. They don't like the large "off-sizes." It is apparent that the "first grade" fruit will be in larger quantity than ever this year. Growers are learning orange culture more thoroughly each season and as a result there is more and better pruning, cultivation, fertilizing and fumigating now than used to be the case. As a consequence the condition of the trees is noticeably better and the result is pleasing both to the eye and to the pocketbook.

While the crop is heavier than ever it looks as if the demand will be fully equal to the supply. It is pointed out by some growers that conditions are similar to those in 1908. At that time there was a heavy crop and heavy early shipments as now, but the market absorbed all the fruit and remained firm. The outlook is also considered bright because of the Florida shortage and the fact that apples are scarce in the East.

NEW ACREAGE.

Considerable new acreage is being planted to citrus fruit and quite a little is just coming into bearing. In Orange county a large section will begin to count up rapidly, commencing this year. In the Fullerton-Placentia district alone the new acreage is estimated at 250 and at 100 around Anaheim. The San Fernando Valley will have at least 300 acres come into bearing this year while Redlands will have 1500. Around the latter 600 acres were planted to citrus fruits this season. In East and West Highland over 200 acres were set out and 500 acres came into bearing. Around Glendora 190 acres were plowed this fall and 225 will produce their first crop this season. Corona, San Jacinto and other sections experienced much activity in the way of laying out citrus fruit lands this fall.

Turning to lemons the outlook there seems to be encouraging. The San Dimas Lemon Packing Association, which claims to have the largest lemon packing-house in the world, with a capacity for holding 140 cars, expects the output in its district will be 800 carloads as compared with 600 last season. The Orange county crop is light, but yet is more than it was a year ago. New orchards will considerably augment the output. The Tustin Lemon Association expects to ship twice as many as last season.

The San Fernando Valley is coming to the front as a lemon land. A new packing-house was built a year ago especially to handle lemons and has proved a good investment. People, attracted by the lemon producing quality of the land, have invested with the object of raising the fruit and 300 acres were set out this fall. The lemon acreage has also been increased at Santa Barbara, San Diego, Escondido and in the Ontario-Upland-Cucamonga section. Below will be found letters from The Times' correspondents throughout Southern California telling of conditions in their respective sections and giving figures relating to output and facts as to the condition of trees and fruits.

LOS ANGELES COUNTY.

NEVER LOOKED BETTER.

BIG YIELD AT CLAREMONT.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

CLAREMONT, Dec. 17.—During the dispatched from the two Claremont packing houses. The Claremont Citrus Association ships only fruit grown south of the Santa Fe Railroad, while the College Heights Orange Association ships only from north of the line. It is estimated there will be sent from these two houses during the coming season 1185 carloads of oranges. About 200 acres of young orchards have come into bearing, but the great bulk of the increase is from the fact that the Claremont orange groves have been brought during the past few years to such a state of perfection that the crops never looked better. One orchard of ten acres near Claremont, which is twenty-six years old, will yield over 12,000 boxes of oranges this year. Owing to the careful work done by the Horticultural Inspector, the orange groves of Claremont and vicinity have never been in a more healthy and vigorous condition than now. This, together with the abundance of water which the district possesses, has made the ranchers of this section lenders of money, whereas heretofore they were borrowers.

LORDSBURG-LA VERNE.

GROVES HEAVILY WEIGHTED.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

LORDSBURG, Dec. 17.—During the past season a large amount of acreage has been taken from the La Verne district. The largest navel orange orchard in the world, the Seth Richards Ranch, is now in Claremont, although its fruit is shipped from North Pomona, as is also the case with the fruit from many of the La Verne ranches. Lordsburg has become a large shipping center for the orange growers of this district. From the Lordsburg-La Verne district last season were sent 666 cars of oranges. The coming season there will be shipped over 1000 carloads. The orange orchards of this locality are in magnificent condition. There is very little new acreage coming into bearing, the old groves producing unusually large crops this year, as is the case throughout all this foothill country.

SAN DIMAS PACKS LEMONS.

HAS WORLD'S BIGGEST HOUSE.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

SAN DIMAS, Dec. 17.—During the past season 620 cars of oranges were shipped from this point. It is expected 700 will be shipped the coming season. As is the case all along this foothill orange growing locality, this year's increase in San Dimas fruit production is not due to new groves now coming into bearing, but largely to the bigger crops now on the trees.

Practically all the lemons grown in this valley, from Claremont on the east, and including Lordsburg, La Verne, Glendora, Covina and San Dimas, are packed here by the San Dimas Lemon Association, the packing-house being the largest lemon house in the world. It has a capacity for holding 140 cars of lemons. Last year 600 carloads of lemons were shipped from it, and the past season was the most successful in the history of the lemon industry in this country. During the coming season 800 cars of lemons will be shipped. None of this increase, however, is from new acreage coming into bearing, but is from the unusually large crops now maturing.

CONDITION EXCELLENT.

POMONA VALLEY CROPS BIG.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

POMONA, Dec. 17.—The present outlook here is for the largest crop of citrus fruits and one of the most propitious seasons for the sale of the same, in the history of Pomona Valley. The orange and lemon trees generally, are in excellent condition, and the fruit is of good size and excellent quality. Although a comparatively small new acreage has been planted, some young groves have come into bearing with good crops. The fruit has colored earlier than usual and is in better condition than in former seasons at this time, no damaging frosts having been experienced. About 115 carloads of holiday oranges have been shipped, all splendidly colored.

The estimated crop for Pomona Valley is 4000 carloads of oranges and 500 of lemons, against 3300 of oranges and 400 of lemons a year ago. It is expected that the financial returns, barring any adverse conditions from now on, will be better than in former years. All growers are much encouraged over the outlook. The prices for holiday fruit shipped through the San Antonio Fruit Exchange, which handles most of the oranges here, are satisfactory and independent shippers have paid the grower 2 to 2¼ cents a pound for orchard run fruit.

INDEPENDENT OF RAIN.

COVINA GETS MORE WATER.

COVINA, Dec. 17.—One million boxes of miscellaneous fruit, navels and Valencias, will be shipped from here this year, as against 640,000 last season. The long-continued dry weather and the lateness of the fall rains spurred local orange growers to co-operate with others in the business, and the result is the incipiency of one of the greatest water-conservation projects of Southern California, being the storage of water in the San Gabriel Canyon. The Covina Chamber of Commerce is fathering the project and the irrigating companies are making ready for a preliminary survey for a dam site, several locations being under consideration. The Irwindale district has recently completed a water-raising plant which cost about $20,000, and is now worth $250,000 owing to the fact that 450 Calirigating Company is engaged in sinking a twenty-six inch well at Irwindale which will be operated by one of the largest turbine pumps in the world, and which will be but one of a group of wells, while the Columbia Land & Water Company at Charter Oak is sinking two eighteen-inch wells, in addition to the four wells now in operation, watering 1300 acres. Besides these improvements, individual ranchers have put wells into operation that aggregate $90,000 in expenditure. All of which is for the orange.

One of the reliable sources of information regarding the orange output is the Southern Pacific Railroad, and that company has issued a statement through its estimating agent that the Covina district will ship twenty-five per cent. more fruit than last year. G. N. Atwood, manager of the Covina Citrus Association, says the crop in his district will not exceed that of last year, owing to the fruit being of a smaller size and a smaller crop in the inside of the trees. William Hoogendyk, manager of the Charter Oak Association says, however, that his district will ship as many cars of fruit as last year, and that the oranges will be more valuable in the markets, owing to the fact that the fruit is even in sizes. The dry weather has done one good thing to the entire district in keeping down the large "off-sizes." Mr. Hoogendyk adds that a good rain before New Year's will make a wonderful difference in the increase in the navels, a statements which is being universally sustained by the ranchers and packers.

The reason for an unqualified statement that Covina will ship 1,000,000 boxes for the entire season is found in the immense crop of Valencias now on the trees in green condition. Last season's shipment of Valencias was lighter than for several years, but the acreage bearing this fruit is now loaded to the straining point. Two hundred and seventeen acres of new fruit are just coming into bearing.

The combined shipment for the district of navels for the holiday trade is sixty-one cars. The average price received has been $1.30 net.

Two independent packers and one manager of an association in the California Fruit Growers' Exchange predict the astonishing increase of 100 per cent. over last year in the output of Valencias.

CULTIVATION IMPROVED.

GLENDORA GROWERS WISE.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

GLENDORA, Dec. 17.—From a few acres of seedlings, twenty years ago, to more than 3000 acres of citrus fruit trees, including Washington navels, Valencias and lemons, is the record for Glendora. Of this acreage, approximately 190 were planted this year and there are 225 just coming into bearing.

Profiting by years of experience, the growers are caring for their groves much more intelligently and methodically. This is better observed in the fertilization, judicious irrigation and intense cultivation practiced. The results are shown in the splendid tree growth, the dark green foliage and the heavy crop of fruit. The crop this season will grade fancy, because of its smoothness, thin rind, exceptional sweetness and marketable sizes, running from 150 to 200 the packed box.

The estimated output is 1400 cars, exceeding the bumper crop of two years ago by 200 cars and that of the past year by 550.

A total of twenty-five cars was forwarded by the Glendora Citrus Association and Glendora Heights Orange and Lemon Association for the holiday trade. Though no returns have been made at the present time, fair prices are expected.

PRICES SATISFACTORY.

AZUSA VALLEY SHIPMENTS.

AZUSA, Dec. 17.—The citrus industry in the Azusa Valley was never in better condition than at the beginning of this new fruit year. The crop is farther advanced than in any previous season, the fruit is remarkably sweet and well-colored for the time of the year, and all that the packing-houses can handle is being put out for the Christmas trade. Up to date the Azusa-Covina-Glendora Fruit Exchange has shipped 100 carloads at most satisfactory prices.

The output for the year will be about double that of last, as the Exchange expects to ship 4000 carloads as against 2300. The crop will be the heaviest known in the valley. So far the lack of rain, though making much irrigation necessary, has not seriously affected the size, quality or quantity of the fruit. The ranchers in this locality have irrigated regularly and copiously, and so have prevented the oranges from splitting or from being damaged in any way. This has been made possible by Azusa's abundant water supply.

One grower of grape fruit recently picked from his trees a bunch containing sixteen pomelos which together weighed fourteen pounds. Another bunch on the same ranch contained twenty-eight pomelos. This is but a sample of the way in which the trees of all the ranches of the valley are loaded.

A few new groves have been set out and some have just come into bearing, but this region was largely settled years ago and its amount of citrus-bearing land is not materially changed.

Azusa boasts of two of the largest packing-houses in the State. The Azusa Foothill Citrus Association has long had one and, to meet the increased demands, the Azusa Citrus Association has increased the size of its building and its equipment so that it is now prepared to handle twice as much fruit as before. The Lamanda Park ranchers, who previously shipped independently, have now joined the California Fruit Exchange, and are operating through the local Azusa-Covina-Glendora Fruit Exchange.

MONROVIA-DUARTE.

CROP BEST IN HISTORY.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

MONROVIA, Dec. 17.—The outlook for harvesting a heavy crop of oranges is excellent in the Monrovia-Duarte district; in fact, it is said to be the best in the history of the section.

The cool nights and cloudless days of the past month have turned the oranges from green to gold, and the crop shows up in color so plainly that even old experienced growers are surprised at the proportions it assumes. Every indication points to fine fruit, both in point of appearance and quality, although in size the oranges are not up to the standard of last year. This is possibly due to the lack of rain.

The orchards of the Monrovia-Duarte district represent about 1800 acres of citrus trees, and of this number the fruit from more than 1300 acres is sold through the Fruit Exchange. Last year approximately 600 carloads were shipped, and it is estimated that fully 800 will be sent East in the season 1910-11.

This increase is due, not so much to increased acreage, as to the heavily-loaded condition of the trees. As a matter of fact, the increase in acreage is small, not more than fifty acres having come into bearing this year, and during the past two years not a few small ranches have been subdivided into city lots. One of the largest tracts set to Washington navels this summer in this district is inside the city limits of Monrovia, and comprises twenty acres, owned by Montaville Flower, dramatic entertainer and impersonator.

During the season 1908-9 the exchange shipped 600 cars of oranges; last year the number fell to 470, and gives promise of being one of the biggest and best ever known. The crop is unusually heavy, the fruit the finest and the eastern markets bid fair to give the grower better returns than in a number of years. The crop is estimated by local packinghouse managers at 500 cars of oranges and fifty of lemons. This will include shipments from Redlands, Redlands Junction, Bryn Mawr, Crafton, Mentone and Drew Station. The shipments for last season were 3784 cars of oranges and thirteen of lemons; for 1908-09, they were 4551 cars. Last year's shortage was due to the hard freezes, about 25 per cent. of the fruit being frozen. The shipment of 4551 cars is the largest locally made, so if the estimates are correct this will be the biggest year Redlands has known.

The local groves were never in such good condition as now. One reason is the growers are learning orange culture more thoroughly every year, and are following more scientific lines in regard to pruning, cultivating, irrigating and fertilizing. Moreover the greater part of the acreage in this section is owned by wealthy men, who spare no expense in getting the best results, intensive culture being very general. Many oranges have been lost this season through spliting. The fruit that is maturing is of the best, is medium in size, the best for packing purposes, smooth, thin-skinned, juicy and of excellent flavor. The navels are ripening at least two weeks earlier than usual.

During the past year 600 acres were set to oranges and this season 1500 acres will come into bearing. Growers expect to fare unusually well this season, first, because the crop is heavy; second, the fruit is of good quality and good size; third, the Northern California crop is already all gone; fourth, the Florida crop is about sixty per cent. short, and fifth, the marketing of the fruit is being brought to a point whereby the grower is realizing more each season. The average price which will probably be received for this season's Redlands oranges is $1.75 per box. The cars run 400 boxes each, and with 5000 cars this will mean a return to Redlands growers of $2,500,000. The total returns for last season's crop were in the neighborhood of $1,900,000.

The holiday shipments this season are unusually heavy. Even the oldest shippers are surprised that such large quantities of fruit are being taken by eastern dealers so early. To date 250 cars have been shipped and it is expected the holiday output will total 500 cars. The fruit is in splendid condition, ripening much earlier than usual, is of a deep rich color, juicy and sweet. The "choice" grade is bringing $1.50 and the "fancy" commands $2.00 per box.

FIFTY PER CENT. BETTER.
EAST AND WEST HIGHLAND.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

HIGHLAND, Dec. 17.—East and West Highland will ship 2100 cars of oranges and 300 of lemons this season. Some estimates are slightly below, but shippers who have carefully looked over the groves agree the crop will be near these figures. This is 50 per cent. better than last season, when 1590 cars went East from here. The crop of 1908 reached 2114 cars. The groves in this district are generally in good condition. In the year past probably 200 to 250 acres have been newly set out to orange and lemon trees in the Highland section and the district is practically entirely set out.

It is estimated about 500 acres came into bearing this year. These new trees, now five and six years old, are scattered over a wide territory.

Most of the groves in the district are from twelve to eighteen years old, and have returned a handsome crop of holiday fruit, between 200 and 250 cars going forward to the Eastern markets, a shipment considerably in excess of former years. The crop has taken on a good color, and the fruit now being shipped is in fine condition both in size and quality, being the best sent out at this season of the year. It is smooth, no winds having scratched the skin, unusually sweet, and has the true orange color.

All the holiday fruit is being shipped on a basis of $2 f.o.b. Highland, which is equal to $2.85 delivered, a price that will realize very satisfactory returns. The outlook for the entire crop appears to be very bright.

Agents who have visited all the Eastern markets predict the season will be one of the best the growers have ever had. Conditions are similar in many ways to those which prevailed in 1908, when, despite a heavy crop and heavy early shipments, the market absorbed all the fruit shipped and remained firm.

EXCEPTIONALLY SWEET.
RIALTO'S ORANGE OUTPUT.

RIALTO, Dec. 17.—The estimate output for the coming season is 1100 cars of oranges and 200 of lemons, or a total of 1300 cars. The total output last season was 750 cars.

The trees are in excellent condition. The freedom from scale in this section allows the fruit to reach the eastern markets with its natural bloom and on acount of not having to be washed it costs the grower less to pack and suffers less from decay. During the past year the Rialto orange growers have organized into a body and intend fumigating the many different groves for the purpose of catchiag any scale that might have come into the section by careless handling of the orange boxes from other districts.

The fruit is better this season than it has ever been. It is sweeter and better matured, being more than a month ahead of last year. Sizes will run from medium to large, though not as big as last year.

Prospects look good for fair prices.

The annual income from the oranges, lemons and grape fruit of Rialto district has reached the splendid sum of $1,260,000. During the year 200 acres have been set out in citrus fruits in East Rialto alone.

The Fontana Development Company has commenced the expenditure of $250,000 in the development of an additional water supply, and the building of an irrigation system, which will make possible the cultivation of thousands of additional acres.

Forty-five cars of oranges have been shipped for the holiday market. The fruit was exceptionally sweet and well colored and prices averaged $1.50 per box, f. o. b.

Only in the last few years has Rialto come to the front as one of the largest shipping points for oranges and lemons in the State, therefore, the district is not as well known, perhaps, as older sections, although the conditions for citrus culture equal those of any other section.

ONTARIO'S ESTIMATE.
THE BUMPER PRODUCTION.

ONTARIO, Dec. 17.—The orange crop in this section is this year the best growers have ever seen upon the trees. The conditions for maturing have been perfect. The warm days with cold nights and abundance of water made early ripe and unusually sweet fruit.

Manager A. T. Hamilton of the Ontario-Cucamonga Fruit Exchange, says, after careful estimates, that the crop will exceed the bumper one of two years ago by about twenty-five per cent. The exchange controls ninety per cent. of the citrus output, which this season will be close to 3800 cars of oranges and 600 of lemons. Ontario's portion is one-fifth of the whole. To these figures must be added 440 cars that independent organizations will handle for the holiday trade before the middle of December. The prices obtained were above the average for many years, which means that the fruit is bringing the grower close to $2.00 per box.

One reason for the excellent price, Manager Hamilton says, is the condition of the fruit. He declares that never in the history of his connection with the exchange have sizes and quality been more uniform. Then again the fruit is well colored, sound and smooth. This year the oranges are easily a month in advance of the usual period.

The growers of this section spend thousands of dollars every fall fumigating their trees to rid them of black scale, which makes dirty fruit.

The financial outlook was never brighter and as a result good orange grove property has increased amazingly in price. To buy good bearing acreage now the investor must be willing to pay at least $1800 per acre and if he wants his grove on the famous Euclid avenue or up in the foothill section he must be prepared to put up $2500 per acre.

MONTH EARLIER.
FRUIT MATURES RAPIDLY.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

UPLAND, Dec. 17.—It is estimated by experienced citrus men in this section that the orange crop now on the trees will probably exceed the "bumper crop" of two years ago, and will be fully twenty-five per cent heavier than that of last year. Estimates for the Ontario - Upland - Cucamonga district vary from 3500 to 3800 cars of oranges, and 550 to 600 cars of lemons. Last season practically no shipments were made before January; this year about forty cars have gone forward for the holiday trade, the fruit being in first-class condition, unusually sweet, juicy and well colored. Fruit is fully a month earlier, as to maturity and color, than last year. Quality and size are excellent, and there are very few "splits," as compared with other sections. This district never has had a finer, more uniform crop, and with more desirable size. Prices realized for shipments already made have been good, as compared with early shipments of former seasons, and the financial outlook is very bright.

WHITTIER DISTRICT.
ORCHARDS YIELD WELL.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

WHITTIER, Dec. 17.—The year just passed has been the banner one of the citrus industry of the Whittier and East Whittier districts, and the outlook for the coming season is very good. The orchards have yielded larger crops and netted a better income to the grower than in any previous year. In 1908 about 1,240 cars of oranges and lemons were shipped from the district. The season of 1909 was lighter, but the fruit was larger and better and netted the growers more per acre. The trees are in excellent condition this year and practically free from scale. The fruit is firm and runs largely to good marketable sizes.

Only a few orchards came into bearing this year, about fifty acres in all, but about 500 acres of lemons and valencias were set out this spring and summer.

Indications are that the growers will fare fully as well as in previous years financially, and perhaps a little better on oranges, due to judicious advertising.

The oranges are coloring unusually early this season and about seventy-five cars were shipped for the Christmas trade, bringing about $3.00 a packed box on the market. Sixty cars of this lot were shipped by the Whittier Citrus Association, which repre-

Here is instant relief and a lasting permanent remedy—it's called TIZ. TIZ makes sore feet well and swollen feet are quickly reduced to their natural size. Thousands of ladies have been able to wear shoes a full size smaller with perfect comfort.

It's the only foot remedy ever made which acts on the principle of drawing out all the poisonous exudations which cause sore feet. Powders and other remedies merely clog up the pores. Tiz cleanses them out and keeps them clean. It works right off. You will feel better the very first time it's used. Use it a week and you can forget you ever had sore feet. There is nothing on earth that can compare with it. TIZ is for sale at all druggists 25 cents per box or direct, if you wish, from Walter Luther Dodge & Co., Chicago, Ill. Recommended and sold by the Owl Drug Stores.

The Talk of the Day.

PUT STOP TO CHECK KITING.

Ex-City Attorney Proposes Charter Amendment.

Municipal Officers to Make Further Investigation.

Lelande Case Starts Train of Consequences.

A charter amendment will be proposed by the Charter Revision Committee to fit such cases as that of Harry J. Lelande, City Clerk, whose irregular use of a $5000 certified check disclosed what is possible in the handling of municipal funds.

According to Leslie R. Hewitt, who is the dominant figure in the Charter Revision Committee, the amendment will forbid the use by any public official of any money paid or deposited for the use and benefit of the city or as a guarantee with any bid or proposal. It will be made so comprehensive that no money deposited with a city servant may be used by him without the act being a violation of law and punishable as a felony.

That an investigation of Lelande's office will be made seems certain. It is regarded as necessary now in justice to him, the public and such persons as have deposited money with him, as clerk, in the past. Whether the investigation will be asked by the Mayor or by the Municipal League has not been decided but Good Government leaders say some action will be sought when the council meets.

The developments in Lelande's case have shown that the municipality, with its superabundant system of checks and balances is seemingly only running in circles to accomplish what might more easily be accomplished by direct responsibility in clearing all financial matters through the Treasurer's hands. He should be the trustee of all contingent deposits, it is believed, issuing his receipts therefor to the departments from which they originate. Had this been the case Lelande would not have had a certified check for $5000 to deposit to his own personal account. If this check had been made payable to the Treasurer it is pointed out that the law would require him to deposit it where, if it eventually became public money, it would earn interest in the meantime.

In all such transactions Treasurer Hance has been rigid in demanding the promptest and strictest accountability to his office, where everything becomes a matter of record.

As Lelande is to quit his office soon, the investigation must be ordered without delay in justice to Lorin A. Handley, who has been nominated by the Council to succeed him, and in order that the settlement between the two may be final.

City Tax Collector Taggart and City Assessor Mallard, who receive large sums of money for the city, make daily settlements with the treasurer of all their collections. Each balances his accounts at the close of the day's business. The next morning each deposits his collections in a bank, receiving therefor a cashier's check, which is deposited with the treasurer with an itemized list of the individual payments.

Tax Collector Taggart says he has but one personal bank account in connection with his office and this is kept merely to facilitate the refunding of over-payments in taxes. Frequently taxpayers remit in excess of their tax bills, through error in addition, and others who do not know the exact amount send more than they are charged, with the request that any excess be returned.

These excess payments cannot be turned in to the treasurer, as they are not, legally, public money. Taggart deposits them in bank in the name of "Clarence M. Taggart, City Tax and License Collector," not personally, and immediately checks them out to the persons to whom they are due.

"I do this because I have no other way of keeping an account of them," said Taggart. "If I deposited them with the treasurer he could only make refunds by a demand passed by the Council in the usual process, taking from two to six weeks. It is much simpler to return them the next day by check. Still, if any expeditious arrangement could be made with the treasurer I would welcome it. The balance in the account is never enough to make any bank envy it."

Both Taggart and Mallard say no part of their collections is ever deposited to their personal account.

JURY TO PASS ON HIM.

Architect Allen of Pasadena Held Over for Trial in the Superior Court on an Ugly Charge.

F. S. Allen, a wealthy Pasadena architect, who was formerly one of the heads of the Tournament of Roses, must stand trial in the Superior Court on a charge of having been guilty of unlawful conduct toward Carlos Wright, a grocery clerk.

Allen was given a hearing which lasted for three days, before Justice Summerfield. He had been before the magistrate previously on a similar charge, but was dismissed on account of the doubtful character of some of the evidence. Persons of repute who had witnessed part of the transaction were called as witnesses at the second hearing.

Several Pasadena ministers interceded for the defendant with Justice Summerfield, declaring that they are certain that he has a good character. However, the evidence was of such a debasing nature and so well corroborated that the magistrate declared that the fate of Allen should be decided by a jury. He is at liberty under $2500 bail.

ASSETS NEAR LIABILITIES.

The Weber-Duller Company, contractors and constructors of reinforced concrete, yesterday filed a petition in bankruptcy in the United States District Court. The concern gives its liabilities as $155,345.96, with assets of $155,353.40. From the reports which are filed, it can easily be inferred that the company is having difficulty in collecting the debts due it, as its outstanding accounts are given as $103,068.92. The concern has offices in the Pacific Electric Building and has done extensive contracting throughout the southern part of the State.

SPEAK FOR LIGHTING.

Arrangements for electric street lighting for the district west of Arlington street, between Washington and Adams streets, were discussed at a meeting of the West Adams Improvement Association, held Friday evening at the residence of Robert Batchelder at West Twenty-third street and Seventh avenue. Councilman Williams gave some advice and information. The following officers of the association were elected: President, James P. Adams; vice-president, Charles P. Coslett; treasurer, Robert due principally to the fact that the oranges are smaller than ordinarily. His estimate for Southern California is 35,000 cars, and for Riverside 4000 cars.

NEW HAULING METHOD. FINDS FAVOR AT CORONA.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

CORONA, Dec. 17.—The local crop of oranges and lemons for 1910-1911 is estimated at 1600 carloads, 900 being oranges and 700 lemons. The output will be the heaviest in the history of the colony. This estimate exceeds the shipments of 1909-1910 by 249 cars.

The present condition of the trees and fruit is good. Forty-one cars of Christmas oranges were shipped from Corona, the size and quality being above the average. It is believed fair prices will be realized for holiday and later fruit providing the financial outlook in the East remains as at the present time.

During the year 283 acres were set, 123 being to oranges. The Citrus Belt Land Company, which set 145 acres, plans to have out 50 acres to lemons by spring.

A new method of hauling fruit introduced here and found to be saving as to labor and time is the cross-reach trailers. Two of these low broad tired wagons are attached to an ordinary fruit wagon drawn by four horses. One ordinary fruit wagon has to be used for each team as the smaller ones have no brakes. The trailers can be loaded in the ranch making one handling of fruit to three by the old method of hauling fruit from the ranches in small wagons and reloading in the street.

SAN JACINTO VALLEY. THE OUTLOOK AND OUTPUT.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

SAN JACINTO, Dec. 17.—It is estimated seventy-five carloads of oranges will be shipped from this valley the coming season. This will be an increase over last year's output of twenty-five cars. But one car was sent East in time for the holiday trade, and no more fruit will be packed until after the first of the year. Trees are reported in excellent condition, and the oranges from local orchards have already become famous for their high quality, excelling in color, flavor and size. Twice during last season local-grown oranges topped the New York market.

While this valley as a whole is not an orange-growing section, it is fast becoming known that hundreds of acres adjoining the foothills are practically frostless and especially adapted to oranges. Last year 350 acres of new orchards were planted and this year it is estimated 400 more will be. One local nursery firm has already booked orders for 6000 trees and expects to sell 4000 more this spring. The plantings will be made during June, July and August.

The estimated acreage in oranges at the present time is between 900 and 1000. Three-fourths of these orchards are not yet in bearing. With additional water development the acreage set to oranges will be added to each year, as the industry, though in its infancy here, has proved most profitable. The dry, warm atmosphere, free from fogs, develops an orange of rare beauty and flavor.

The sections of the valley where orchards are being planted and grown successfully are Park Hill, the Little Lake district, Valle Vista, and on the north side of the valley, at the Soboba Lithia Springs and the Nat Goodwin properties.

SAN DIEGO COUNTY.

EVERY SECTION ADVANCES. HIGH-WATER MARK REACHED.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 17.—Citrus fruit growers of San Diego county have within the past year made a record of which they feel proud. Production of oranges and lemons has reached the high-water mark in every section of the county. While a number of them have not yet submitted statistical substantiation to their claims, the estimates already furnished give every indication that the total yield for the twelvemoth will average 50 per cent. over that of 1909.

As the 1909 yield exceeded all previous outputs, the county's progress in its claim for recognition among the foremost citrus districts of California has practically resulted in the attainment of the producers' object. Lemons have proven the most prolific, although the quality of the oranges has been considerably bettered, and the acreage increased.

The estimated value of this year's lemon crop is $1,500,000, an increase over that of 1909 of $450,000. The number of boxes will exceed 500,000. The orange product is expected to reach the 100,000 mark on boxes shipped out, with a valuation of nearly $200,000.

Growers are in high spirits over the financial aspect of the year's acreage. The high protective tariff upon foreign importations of lemons and oranges has served to increase the figures offered by wholesalers in the East. Most of the county's output is marketed in New York. Producers have received as high as $2300 for a single carload of lemons, while oranges have brought anywhere from $1800 to $2100.

The demand for tracts to be devoted to fruit culture has been more noticeable during the past four months than ever before.

The average price paid is $1600 an acre, an increase of from $100 to $200 over 1909.

ESCONDIDO VALLEY. PACKING HOUSES BUSY.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

ESCONDIDO, Dec. 17.—In this valley the packing-houses are counting on handling 275 carloads of lemons and oranges, as compared with 220 carloads last year, an increase of about a fourth. The shipments last year were 155 carloads of lemons and 65 of oranges. Although greater in the aggregate, this year's shipments of lemons will not show the same relative increase as oranges from the fact that more lemons and fewer oranges are being produced.

The records show a gradual increase in the output of citrus fruit, with the prospects of the acreage doubling in the next few years. The condition of the trees and the fruit is noticeably improved. More fertilizer is being used and more fumigating is being done. The percentage of first grade fruit is greater this year than for any year in the history of the valley.

Comparatively few acres of citrus orchard came into bearing this year. This winter 125 acres will be set out to lemons in the north, east and south sections of the valley, an unusually large season's planting. The sale of last season's pack brought approximately $175,000, of which the growers received $131,250 net. With the estimated one-fourth increase in the output this season, and on the basis of last year's prices, which many growers believe will be higher, the gross earnings would be $228,000, or about $171,000 net to the growers, with packing and shipping charges deducted. Only a few cars of holiday fruit were shipped from the valley. The early lemons brought from $1200 to $1500 per car, and one car over $2000.

The growth of the citrus industry has called for the addition of a third packing-house the past year—that of the Escondido Citrus Union, which will pack the product of 175 acres.

The most encouraging feature is the quality of the fruit propagated. It is without a blemish and thin-skinned.

Carload shipments of the winter crop were begun about the middle of November. The first carload of oranges went out of El Cajon on November 14, direct to New York. Since that time the shipments have averaged three or four carloads per week from this one district.

For lemons, there is no particular shipping-time. The trees are coming into bearing at different periods, in sufficient numbers to admit of a steady shipment, month to month. There are now about 38,000 acres devoted to lemons in the county, 3000 trees having become fruit-producers this year.

The orange industry is on the upward trend with an increase of nearly 1000 acres over the 4200 embodied in last year's total. While heretofore lemons have been the staple product, persons who are arriving almost daily and purchasing uncultivated land with the intention of devoting it to fruit-culture, have signified their intention of planting orange trees, then waiting four or five years for the crops to materialize.

SANTA BARBARA COUNTY.

LEMONS ARE THE DOPE. THE OUTPUT IS INCREASED.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

SANTA BARBARA, Dec. 15.—The citrus industry in Santa Barbara county is confined chiefly to the cultivation of lemons, the climatic and other conditions making it more profitable than dealing in oranges. As a matter of fact, oranges are not grown on an extensive scale, the annual output being only enough for the local consumption.

The lemon industry has for a good many years been conducted on a paying basis and indications are for even better results in the future. It is said that extensive tracts are to be set to lemons during the coming year and that the annual production within a few years will be doubled.

It is estimated that more than 300 carloads of lemons have been harvested during the past year, a comparison with other years showing an increase. The condition of trees and orchards is reported in most instances good, while the size and quality of the lemons are above the average. While there has been some new acreage set it is not to be compared with what is now contemplated.

The Influence of Irrigation.

Valuable articles by special writers on the numerous irrigation projects now planned in the Southwest will be a special feature of The Times big Midwinter Number, to appear early in the new year. Much practical information will be given on irrigation methods, increases in land values and the making of cities and towns in the waste places by water and electricity, and upon kindred topics. This feature alone, as a part of the Midwinter Number, will be of tremendous interest to people in many sections of the United States who have been following the progress of irrigation projects and are anxiously looking for information and advice on the subject. The Midwinter Week subscription to The Times, including the big Midwinter Number, will be mailed postage prepaid to any address in the United States or Mexico for 20 cents. Out for Suckers.

EACHES HOOKS FOR LOSERS.

AFTER ATTEMPTING TO ROB DEFEATED CANDIDATES.

rooked Operations Apparently onfined to Intended Victims Liv-g in Country Districts—Demands our or Five Hundred Dollars for ommissions for Offices.

new kind of political grafter is at rk in this county and the District orney has issued a warning to all eated candidates to watch out for a.

he swindler's game is to pretend at he can deliver an additional ap-ntment to the contestant who was successful at the polls. He asks only 0 or $500 for the commission which asserts he has exclusive power to liver.

The crook has been working entirely ong residents of the country dis-cts, probably realizing that would-be liticians in the city keep too closely touch with the drift of affairs to give edence to his story.

He stayed at the best hotels in the y and carried on his communications th his intended victims by means of e mails. He wrote to those whom he lected to fleece that he had a matter great importance which he wished discuss with them and asked them all at his hotel. It was there that exploited his scheme. So far as the ficers have been able to learn he did t find any one gullible enough to be-ve him.

One of the persons he last chose as asy money" was M. S. Keppel of hittier. Keppel received one vote for nstable at the last election. When he ceived the decoy letter he came to is city in answer to it.

The smooth stranger explained to m that the Legislature at its last ses-on created an extra office of constable the township in which he resided and at he was entitled to it as he was the nly person who had received a vote, esides Constable Way, who was re-jected.

The swindler dwelt at length on the g fees and perquisites attached to the fice and sought to impress on him hat he should immediately acquire the lace.

The elaboration concerning the emol-ments of the office made Keppel sus-picious, as he knew that the position is ot a lucrative one in his township. he stranger's story interested him nough to hold his attention to the end.

The grafter asserted that he was the nly person in the State who could de-ver the commission for the extra of-ce. He promised to immediately turn over to Keppel as soon as he paid 00, which he said was the fee which he State requires when installing a ewly created position. Keppel assured im that he did not care to become a onstable and left him.

The matter was taken up with the istrict Attorney's office and the de-ectives were assigned to look up the perator of the game. When they vis-ted the haunts where he had recently eld forth, they found that he had hanged his residence, but feared that he had only moved his basis of opera-tions and was still looking for a sucker."

WHITE SLAVES.

lowed, every effort on the part of the police and of the special investigators to locate the girl have failed. Considerable publicity has been given the case, not upon its own merits but by reason of the lately dismissed charges against members of the detective force that grew out of it. But in spite of that the search to date has been absolutely fruitless. On the hypothesis that the girl may have been taken outside the city the police have sent descriptions broadcast to nearly every point in the Southwest, but so far without result.

It has been suggested that the girl's parents may themselves know her whereabouts and that they are concealing the fact for reasons of their own. The supposition is not one, however, that is shared by those who know them.

"The woman is simply slowly dying of grief," said one of the inspectors yesterday. "For a good while I have known the family well and the change in her is almost incredible. She used to be a strong, healthy woman but now—well, you can see for yourself. She has wasted to hardly better than a skeleton of what she was. She can't work, she doesn't eat, she says she never sleeps without seeing her daughter in some terrible straits. Almost daily she has come here, walking the entire distance from her home and frequently carrying one of her children, just to ask if we have not at last had some word of Aurelia.

PITIFUL CONDITIONS.

"The father is in scarcely better condition. He was a hard-working laborer before, but since the girl was taken he has done hardly anything. For a month after her disappearance he walked the streets almost incessantly, wild-eyed and seemingly nearly distracted, searching everywhere for some trace of the lost girl. No, I don't think that their feelings are any pretense."

The Cuevas family have been practically destitute for months. The abduction of the girl seems to have paralyzed them. Neither the father or the mother have been able to earn enough to keep themselves alive and only the charitable activities of local organizations have kept the wretched household together. To add to their misfortunes, diphtheria quarantine has just been declared on them, the sufferer being little Maria, 5 years old.

It is the belief of the investigators that the procuress through whose hands Aurelia is supposed to have passed is the same aged Mexican woman long notorious for operations of a similar character. For some weeks she has been under police surveillance, and it is hoped that the present knowledge of her whereabouts may lead to the discovery of the girl. It was intimated yesterday that, if successful, the investigation may implicate Martin Guiterrez, who was once before arrested for the abduction, but released for lack of evidence. Statements lately made by Helen Wilson, the strange negro woman who has figured like a black wraith in the mysterious case, are said to be of so incriminating a character as to justify a hope that arrests may follow.

Mrs. von Wagner, one of the principal investigators, and one to whom the case is probably better known than to any other, expresses her frank conviction that the disappearance is susceptible to but one—and that the ugliest—interpretation.

FACING THE FACTS.

"Frankly I feel certain that it is so," she said yesterday. "Even with the corroborative evidence that we have accumulated, there might be a doubt about it if it were not certain that such a traffic does exist here—one that is an established fact and known to everyone that is familiar with the conditions that prevail in our lower quarters. In the experience that I have had here I have come across instance after instance of it, though it seems to be only the more flagrant cases that attract public attention.

"It is only a few days, for example, since I found a girl of only 14, that had been brought from far down in Mexico to a house in an Alameda street court. She had been terribly misused and then apparently abandoned. Lorenz, the old Mexican who plays in the Plaza on Sunday has adopted her. There was another, a beautiful girl of about 15, who was adopted by a family in Mission Railroad Court. She left them, they say, to go out to service, but she never reached the place. The family are mourning for her, fearing that she is dead. Of myself I know of many such unexplained disappearances and there are many others on the police records of which no trace has ever been discovered."

"There is no denying the danger of of the situation," said Mrs. Leland Norton, superintendent of the Legal Aid Society. "It seems to me that the very best possible preparation for what will come and treatment for what we have will be found in the direction of well-organized settlement work, by way of purifying the atmosphere of the low places to an extent where such traffic cannot exist.

"While such work lies naturally in the sphere of charitable organizations, it will be necessary for the legal, the punitive and the protective forces to work hand in hand in the development of methods for combating the evil. In the meantime I feel that we are pretty well prepared for the contingencies that may arise in the future."

"Unquestionably it is one of the big problems that we shall have to face in connection with the greatly increased number of immigrants that we will receive," said Mrs. Mary C. Sampson, State Secretary of the Southern California W. C. T. U. "It is one that comes naturally within our province in that our organization stands pre-eminently for the suppression of everything that has to do with moral debasement. To us the remedy appears to be a question of intelligent education and example along lines of purity and it is with such that our activity is becoming steadily greater."

Of a practical and punitive character are the protective and preventive measures urged for California by Mrs. E. Norine Law, now engaged in lecturing in Southern California upon the subject of the suppression of white slavery. Mrs. Law was formerly a national lecturer and organizer of the W. C. T. U., and recognized by them as an authority upon the subject. Recently she has been lecturing in the towns from Santa Barbara southward and dates are being arranged for a series of addresses before local organizations to begin this week.

APPEAL TO LEGISLATURE.

In furtherance of the law which she proposed before the Legislative meeting here on Friday, Mrs. Law will go before the Legislature in February, as the representative of the National Purity Conference, to urge the passage of a statute defining the offense included by what is known as the white slave traffic and providing an adequate punishment for it. It is probable that she will be accompanied by Mrs. Hester Griffith, State president of the W. C. T. U., which has extended its endorsement to Mrs. Law and her work. A forceful and magnetic speaker, Mrs. Law has done much to make clear to her local audiences the real significance of her subject. From her own fund of experience she has pointed out the graver of its dangers with regard to the conditions which do and will obtain in California. The gist of her recommendation as to legislation is that the punishment dealt the handlers of the traffic be made so drastic that it will in itself act as a deterrent, while at the same time being commensurate with the enormity of the offense.

THE PUBLIC SERVICE.

rancy, was released with a sixty day suspended sentence yesterday morning on his promise to go to work, behave himself and report every day to his older brother, a machinist in the Southern Pacific shops.

Neville said he started to work Saturday, but about an hour after starting he was taken sick. Judge Frederickson asked if he wasn't taken thirsty and Neville admitted that the treatment was the same and identical

"Well, I will give you a chance," Judge Frederickson said. "Go to work and stick at it. I will suspend a sixty day sentence for one year. During that time you are not to drink a drop of liquor. I will make your brother your probation officer and a word from him that you are not working or are drinking will be sufficient to send you to jail for two months."

Neville promised to do as bidden and was released.

HE'S BUSY MAN.
SPEEDY PEACE DISTURBER.

William J. Heath, charged with disturbing the peace, will be tried Tuesday.

Heath was formerly connected with the Red Wing Advertising Company, and charged two other men connected with the company with larceny. Heath, the police believe, is mentally unbalanced. When he was taken in to the Deputy District Attorney's office about two weeks ago in connection with the issuing of the complaint against him for disturbing the peace he got the idea that he was the District Attorney. He tried to assume charge of the office and had his orders been obeyed, the force would be working overtime yet.

He was picked up by Capt. Flammer Friday afternoon and on being taken into the detective bureau seated himself at Capt. Flammer's desk and began making changes in the police department with thrilling speed.

He has never attempted to harm any one but causes trouble by working on the idea that he is the general manager of everything in town.

"PUG" IN COURT.
DIDN'T LIKE CLERGYMEN.

Jim Cameron, a negro pug formerly prominent in local rings, was quite prominent in police court yesterday morning when he appeared to answer to a charge of battery.

J. R. Seagraves with whom Cameron was working on a sewer digging contract was the complaining witness, but did not appear and the case was set over until next week.

The trouble started over an argument in which clergymen were discussed. Cameron didn't believe much in one or two of the calling and told Seagraves about it. Seagraves believed differently and finally the name of a colored clergyman known to both was drawn into the argument. Seagraves is said to have told the clergyman what Cameron thought of him and the latter hearing that Seagraves had told, waited an opportunity to mix Seagraves's features. Seagraves then had him arrested on the battery charge.

JEWELRY "PHONY."
CONSTABLE IS STUNG.

A constable at Watts, who was fleeced by a tramp on a fake jewelry sale is avenged, for James Davis, the hobo who turned the trick, was sentenced yesterday morning to fifty days in the City Jail by Police Judge Frederickson.

Davis was arrested by Officer Cottle near Ninth and Main streets Friday afternoon. Davis was seen trying to sell questionable jewelery. Officer Cottle, who has been a member of the police department for many years acted on the theory that a street jewelry salesman is a suspicious character, arrested him and took him to the Central Station.

A Watts constable purchased a ring from Davis for $3.50 and later found it was "phony."

"HELD" FOR SIX MONTHS.
GARTER MEN FEEL SQUEEZE.

Will S. White and L. F. Pitcher, charged with selling fake-patent rights on a garter to Harry McKim, were sentenced to 180 days in the City Jail by Police Judge Chambers, yesterday morning. The men were convicted Friday on a charge of criminal conspiracy.

McKim, who appeared against them at the trial, declared it was represented to him that the rights he purchased allowed him to manufacture some new kind of garters, but that after paying $500, the price agreed upon for the patents, he found they were infringements upon other patents.

Police Court Brevities.

A. T. Messerow was fined $10 yesterday morning for selling milk not up to the standard required by the city.

Helen Conley released on a sixty-day suspended sentence a few days ago after pleading guilty to vagrancy was sent to jail for sixty days by Police Judge Rose yesterday morning. She promised to leave the city, but failed to do so.

WHITE SHRINE INSTALLS.

In the presence of 500 guests, officers of Manetho Shrine, No. 1, White Shrine of Jerusalem, were installed last evening at Masonic Temple. The new officers are: Marie Scovill, Department S.W.H. Priestess; Ella E. van Court, Department S. H. Holy Chaplain; Amah Lander, Department S. W. Scribe; Allie Lambert, Department S. W. Herald.

BANQUET TO VISITOR.

Dr. Edward Martin, professor of surgery in the medical department of the University of Pennsylvania, who is on a visit to this city, will be tendered a banquet by the alumni of the university on next Thursday night at the Alexandria. Dr. Titian J. Coffee is president of the local association, Dr. Granville McGowan, vice-president, and Dr. T. P. Gerson, secretary.

Ailments of Men Happily Overcome

Successfully Tried By Many

Undoubtedly the following prescription will work wonders for that great class of men who, through dissipation of their natural strength, find themselves in their "second childhood" long before the three score and ten allotted to life's pleasures and enjoyments are reached.

It is presumed to be infallible, and highly efficient in quickly restoring in "nervous exhaustion," weak vitality, melancholia and the functions.

First get 50c worth of compound fluid balmwort in a 1-oz. package, and 3 oz. syrup sarsaparilla compound; take home, mix and let stand 2 hours; then get 1 oz. compound essence cardiol and 1 oz. tincture cadomene compound (not cardamom). Mix all in a 6 or 8-oz. bottle, shake well, and take 1 teaspoonful after each meal and 1 when retiring followed by a drink of water.

By mixing it at home no man need be the wiser as to another's shortcomings, and expensive fees are avoided.

Lack of poise and equilibrium in men is a constant source of embarrassment even when the public least suspects it. For the benefit of those who want a restoration to full, bounding health, and all the happiness accompanying it, the above home treatment is given. It contains no opiates or habit-forming drugs whatever. Mix it at home and no one will be the wiser as to your affliction.

DREAMS VEIL BARS OF JAIL.

Prisoner Looks Forward to Freedom and Fiancee.

Waits Patiently for Somber Gates to Swing.

Then He Will Make Phylis Roberts His Wife.

Waiting patiently through the endless hours for the somber gates of the County Jail to swing open—waiting ever anxious for the moment to arrive when he will hear the magic words of the clergyman make Miss Phylis Roberts his wife, E. P. Lambert, under arrest for numerous alleged forgeries, spends the days and nights painting dreams of roseate tints about the future.

"The date for the ceremony has not been set as yet," said Lambert yesterday, "but I fondly hope it is not afar."

"The actual date of course depends upon my fiancee and the day I receive my release from jail. This I am sure is not far off. I am absolutely innocent, and at my trial I will be able to prove it to the satisfaction of a fair-minded jury."

Lambert's fiancee, Phylis Roberts, was released from custody on the presentation of $1000 bail Wednesday by C. F. Moore and J. W. McCauley. The latter is a rich Pasadena man who uses his surplus means for philanthropic purposes. Several times he has gone on the bond of prisoners deemed worthy by women interested in prison work.

Miss Roberts was arrested in Chicago several weeks ago together with Lambert and the latter's friend, J W. Robinson. They had just concluded a jaunt including every city of importance from here to to that city. It is charged that they financed their trip with checks stolen by Lambert from the Pacific Wireless Telegraph Company and forged by all three en route. Robinson is awaiting trial in St. Paul.

Since her arrival several weeks ago Miss Roberts has not been in the best of health. It is believed at the County Hospital that she is held with the criminal charge against her to force her to turn informer against Lambert.

"I have absolute faith in Miss Roberts" said Lambert yesterday. "She will tell the truth when called to testify, but nothing more. She will not follow any programme to railroad me to prison on the promise of freedom herself.

"Long before our trip East Miss Roberts and I became engaged. The marriage was set, but our arrest in Chicago prevented. It was a mutual love for philosophy, and the theosophy of nature and things beautiful that knitted our friendship. We believe firmly in the transmigration of souls—and prior to meeting her I dreamed that when I convulsed with life in another plane, I had wooed and won her. She was then a beautiful princess, and I—well, I succeeded in winning her affections.

"When I first met her I was a clerk at the Van Nuys Hotel, and she was a guest. During moments when she had business in the office I talked with her, and our love for things mutual gradually drew us together. The attraction soon ripened into love, and we were betrothed.

"Since incarceration here I communed with her only in the spirit form. Nights when I lay in my cell-bunk I used to send her spirit waves and all about me I felt the return vibrations. And though I have not heard one word directly from her I know that our love is unsullied by the jail atmosphere that we both have breathed. And I know that as soon as the gates of this jail close behind me the last barrier will have been removed to our marriage.

"Then comes an era of bliss—our Nirvana."

SANDSTORMS TAKE HIS TEETH.

Angeleno Returns Home After an Absence of Seventeen Years in South Africa and Will Stay Here.

After seventeen years' absence from Los Angeles, during which he lost most of his teeth through sandstorms, Harry N. Gilbert is back here, "glad to be again under the Stars and Stripes" and determined to stay beneath them.

Gilbert, who was with the California Powder Works at Pinole about twenty years ago, left this country to go to South Africa and take a position with the De Beers Explosive Works at Somerset West, Cape Colony. This concern is owned by the famous diamond corporation, the De Beers Company in which Cecil Rhodes was interested. Gilbert and some other Californians went out to start the powder works for the De Beers Company and he says the corporation now has the largest establishment of the kind in the world.

This particular part of the country in which he lived was subject to severe storms from the Indian Ocean, and Gilbert found life in South Africa anything but a bed of roses. "I lost my teeth owing to the numerous sand storms," said he. "There is so much quicksilver in the flying sand and it gets in your teeth and also on the gums. As a consequence of those storms Cape Town is full of American dentists who do a big business. They supply stuff to counteract the quicksilver. But no more South Africa sand storms for me. I've had enough of a foreign country. I am going to relocate here and live and die here."

The De Beers Explosive Works are forty miles from Cape Town and two miles from the Indian Ocean. The country is exposed to the sweep of the winds from the Indian Ocean and Gilbert says the district is visited by some of the worst storms any part of the world experiences. He classes South Africa as a poor country for Americans. The Kaffirs, blacks, do most of the manual work at a wage that would be considered a mere pittance here and moreover, white men who work as common laborers can only command "three-and-six" a day, which is the equal of about 85 cents.

While employed at the works in South Africa Gilbert says he buried thirty or forty comrades and this fact alone makes him dislike the country. "I have had enough of it; it's America for me hereafter," he declared yesterday.

SURPLUS AVIATION FUNDS.

The Housing Commission, Playground Commission and the City Planning Committee have asked the Aviation Committee to appropriate any surplus funds from the aviation meet, to the "fresh air fund," in the hands of the City Treasurer. The desire is to establish a camp in the mountains and a municipal bathing beach at San Pedro. The latter is to be located on Terminal Island, upon land formed by acretions since the completion of the government breakwater.

Give Musical Gifts for Christmas--Purchase at Radical Discounts

If you have a musical friend or relative to remember, you'll never have another opportunity equal to this one. Or if you have been long planning to buy a musical instrument for your home, you can't do better than to grasp this chance. Our time here is growing shorter and shorter. We move into our New Building on Broadway, on January 15th. We had expected to be installed there November 1st, but our Contractor failed to deliver the building at that time, as promised. THE LANCER.

of her "past" were suddenly flung at her.

I can see our friend, the leading uady, in that situation.

She would act, more than anything else, as though a corset steel had broken and was jabbing her.

This woman didn't. She sat absolutely still. The hand in which she held "the fatal letter" was as steady as iron. The expression of her face did not change; but a gray pallor seemed to start at her eyes and spread over her features, leaving them ashen. Her figure seemed to shrink; her defiant head to droop down into her shoulders as though she were recoiling from a blow. Her shoulders seemed to grow stooped.

Before our eyes, in three minutes, she seemed to have grown into an old woman. It was dreadful.

Yet there was something in her attitude that showed that she was not beaten. She made me think of a cat that is shrinking from a beating; yet is unconquered and presently will escape, to hate you.

When you see a woman go through that, you have seen something worth while.

So there, Margaret Illington!

Take 'Em Off.

One of my friends has handed me a wrathful protest against women who fling their cloaks over the backs of their orchestra chairs at the theater.

I will shake hands on that. Often I shrink timidly and meekly into my seat at a proper hour before the show begins and just get interested in the noise contest between the peoplet rustling their programmes and the maid who comes onto the stage wondering when Master Charles will be home with his new bride, when something happens.

A large person and his affinity come in and begin merrily burying me with their surplus clothing.

I get an overcoat first then a cape and a cloak and an ostrich farm. What else I get is an outraged glance of indignation when I meekly disengage myself.

The next time it happens I am going to hand them out checks for their clothes.

My friend sa s that he can stand everything except when a woman flings back over the seat a cloak that is decorated with perspiration shields in the arms.

His grievance is certainly well founded. I think we will all admit that you can't lose yourself in the contemplation of love's young dream on the mimic stage with two dress shields looming up large in the immediate foreground.

Too Much Highness.

Stand around near; because I am about to commit high treason.

I'm agin the high building that Col. Somebody or other wants to put on Broadway. He says he's going to take it to Portland if not allowed to build here.

Buildings are about twice too high in Los Angeles now. Good heavens! If you all came out here from the East to find California sunshine why don't you let it shine a little?

I'm not so crazy about having nine hundred million people in Los Angeles anyhow. It seems so strange to me that all the newspapers crow and jubilate—The Times seems to be the worst offender—over the fact that Los Angeles is getting to be a big city.

I, for one, don't want it to be a big city. It was more agreeable when it was about half the size it is now.

It may be all joy to look out upon a future when the residence district is somewhere around San Fernando and you spend about three-fourths of your life hanging onto a strap; but I fail to see it.

I suppose I ought to almost burst over the triumph of Los Angeles and the discomfort of Portland and Tacoma in connection with the last census returns. But, if I had my own way, I would be neighborly and swap them a few thousands and about three stories off the tops of all our high buildings.

I can see where, in a few years, I am going to be the original old mossback.

Peace—Maybe!

Well Andy if you have that many millions you are really anxious to get rid of ——

But I don't believe you will get far on the road to peace.

Andy could have learned more lessons from the example of a certain tough prize fighter who called himself Young Griffo, and who came to San Francisco some years ago from Australia, than he ever will from Senator Root.

Griffo had a face like a hard frost and he was so tough he scared himself. In the evening, when sleep overtook him, he used to go into some busy billiard hall, calmly remove his shoes and lie down on one of the tables.

"Now," he would say, "I'm going to sleep and the first man that wakes me is going to get his block knocked off."

The only way universal peace will ever come is when two or three powers become so overwhelming that they will lie down to snooze with a warning to the rest of mankind, like this:

"Now we are a little tired of fighting and we have decided to have peace. The first one of you little fellows that disturbs us by getting mixed up in a war had better look out for himself."

And then there will be peace—after a fashion.

COLLEGE DAYS RECALLED.

Southern California Alumni Chapter of Phi Kappa Sigma Fraternity Holds Semi-Annual Banquet.

College days were recalled when the Southern California Alumni Chapter of the Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity held its semi-annual banquet at the University Club rooms, night before last. The reunion was attended by about twenty. Chief Justice Beatty of the State Supreme Court and United States District Judge Wellborn, who usually attend these semi-annual functions, were regretfully obliged to be absent.

It was decided to make a new departure and give a monthly lunch at the University Club quarters. This will be held on the first Tuesday of each month. The organization wishes all Phi Kaps who may be visiting Los Angeles on those dates to participate. One of the objects of these luncheons will be to bring as many members of the fraternity together as possible.

Present at Friday night's banquet were J. S. Conwell, Francis F. Rowland, J. H. Peckham, E. C. Taylor, Donald H. Gray, James W. Evans, C. H. Hamilton, E. O. Slater, Peyton L. Rogers, Harrington Brown, L. A. Parker, Melrose N. Martin, J. M. Hixon, W. N. Best, Jr., Dr. T. J. Orbison, Dr. Stanley P. Black, B. F. Kierulff, Jr.

"TOBE" COMES TO TOWN.

Ranchmen and others who have been longing for the rain clouds, may now know that winter is about to begin in earnest. "Tobe Wilson" is in town. "Tobe," about 65 years of age, is a veteran hobo. He has visited every nook and cranny of this country and some others, but he likes the Los Angeles winter climate better than any other. His coming is always an infallible sign of approaching winter, which he always passes in the Los Angeles City Jail. "Tobe" dropped off the rods of a freight train in the Santa Fe yards last night, and in less than an hour he had found Patrolmen Burgess and Browning and managed to have himself arrested for vagrancy, as he has done for every winter for lo, these many years.

DEPOT BUSES GO TO REAR.

HOTEL MEN'S ASSOCIATION SO DECREES.

Hobble Skirts One of Last Things to Contribute to Disgrace of the Relics of Olden Days—Automobile Coaches to Take Place Long Held by High-Wheeled Conveyances.

Those dear, old-fashioned, high-wheeled, leaky-roofed depot buses must go. The Hotel Men's Association yesterday decreed that the fame of Los Angeles is daily tarnished by these vehicles of the past. They are as bad as the depots in which the travelers are landed on arrival, and in combination, the bus does not properly impress the tourist that this is one of the most progressive cities in the United States.

The transfer companies are running two or three buses at present which antedate the famous gold rush. They were brought across the Rockies by travelers who made the trip for their health, at least that is the opinion that some of the hotel men hold of the carriages. They are high, so high that the woman traveler in a "hobble" hasn't a chance. Her only possible manner of getting on is to be lifted and, as that mode of conveyance for ladies is also a trifle "passe," the ladies are not frequent travelers in the buses at present.

The last rain in Los Angeles cost several local innkeepers money. They advised their guests to catch the train by taking the bus. The roof of the carryall was in such condition that by the time the horses pulled in at the depot, the travelers were so wet they were forced to come back to the hotel in a street car and get into dry clothes in order to avoid colds. One hotel man was forced on this account to buy a ticket to Salt Lake for a lady guest, who not only got wet and also had a perfectly lovely new traveling suit ruined, but missed her train.

The proposal for new vehicles has been received by the hotel men with great acclaim. Some of them long ago realized the necessity of better service and purchased auto buses for individual use. As this is rather a costly practice and the single bus cannot make all trains, the association is planning for from three to five buses to carry passengers to and from all the downtown hotels.

It was first suggested that the association as a body go into the bus business, but a number of the members who have family hotels which are too far removed from the general and average run of commercial business, objected a trifle to paying for something they would get nothing out of. When the matter was broached to three automobile concerns, they all saw the possibilities in the business and are now preparing estimates on the cost of installing a modern auto line service and keeping it in fine running condition.

The contract calls for the latest models in cars, roomy, fast and able to stand the hard usage of such service. The driver and an assistant shall be garded in the latest sartorial uniform creations, shall keep their boots polished, wear gloves and act the part of gentlemen while serving patrons, at least. These innovations will be so complete in their change from the present that a number of the drummers who arrive and depart with the regularity of calendar months are liable to have sudden attacks of heart failure or other acute nervous troubles.

Men Who Make Good

Dawson, The Man Who Made "Midway 5" Possible

B. X. DAWSON.

Mr. B. X. Dawson, the head of the Dawson Oil Company, which is now operating in the Sunset field, is the man who made the Midway 5 Oil Company possible. That is one of the few companies in Midway which have made good during the past few months. Midway 5 has struck a gusher, which is accounted one of the best wells in the North Midway district. The stock of that company which was sold at 20 or 25 cents a share six months ago is now worth much more.

Mr. Dawson went into the Midway district along in the days of its early excitement. The formation of the Midway 5 Oil Company followed, and it was largely due to his efforts that the proposition was successfully financed. A first-class rig and equipment were provided and funds were raised to keep the work going without cessation until the gusher was brought in a few weeks ago.

The result justified his judgment, and his own efforts were rewarded by the success which has been attained. Mr. Dawson could retire from the oil business now if he desired, with stock which will pay a life income in dividends. But he does not wish to be idle. His friends, and particularly his associate shareholders in Midway 5, have asked him to pick another winner.

He has lately secured the leas of a bonanza piece of proven oil-land in a proven field surrounded by gushers, and on the same quarter section as the Maricopa National Oil Company's well, flowing as high as 4000 barrels a day and averaging 800 barrels a day after a continuous flow of more than three months' duration.

The Dawson Oil Company has been incorporated with a small capitalization — only $500,000. The stock has been subscribed chiefly by those who have known of the success of Midway 5 or who have shared in it. Very little is offered for public subscription. The preliminary work of organization has been effected, and contracts have been let for the rig and machinery to put down the first well. These are now being installed under the direction of Field-Superintendent V. D. Black, and it is expected that he will be ready to spud-in by the last of December.

Books of the Dawson Oil Company are now open for public subscription at Mr. Dawson's offices, 741 Story Building.

GAY LIFE OF THE CITY.

BY A CLUBMAN.

Who is the "Pooh Bah" of the Jonathan Club? That is the vexing question of Virgin Valley right now and before it is settled on the evening of December 29 there are likely to be floods and washouts to add to the complication. A flood in Virgin Valley is something awful. I saw a great many men in the prime of life picked up and swept away on the foaming crest of the one last year and this Pooh Bah contest promises to be quite as overwhelming.

Pooh Bah, according to the oracle of Virgin Valley, is a Chinese name originally taken from the Greek. It is composed of two words, Pooh meaning "without," and Bah, meaning "brains." A genuine old-fashioned Pooh Bah is classified as a "cross between a she chicken and a hookworm."

In view of these conditions it is quite surprising to find who are the ambitious candidates for the honor of being "Pooh Bah" of Virgin Valley. Such men as W. H. Anderson, B. V. Collins, Robert Marsh, E. W. McGee, G. E. Nagle and George E. Pillsbury are frankly out after votes. They are trying hard to frame platforms that can be distinguished from one another, but the plank that shows up in all of them is "Give us your money and your votes and we will guarantee prosperity."

There isn't much to be said for any of the candidates. The campaign is conducted after the political fashion of depending on what you can say against them. They have styled Anderson "The Virginia Creeper" and his platform is said to include all the fads and fancies from prohibition to race suicide. If he has any show at all he will have to have a lot of wet votes. One of the many reasons given for opposing him is that he is neither a local resident nor a naturalized citizen, having been born in Democracy without ever changing his citizenship.

"Beautiful, Voluptuous Collins" they offer as a thing of beauty and a joy forever—to far-sighted people. Collins is said to have promised to put all the corporations out of business, have the outfall sewer upholstered in attar of roses, and furnish hot and cold water from the Owens River. One of his best friends says "he has about as much chance of being elected as a barefooted Eskimo would have, trying to warm up the North Pole with a frost-bitten lightning bug."

Robert Marsh is paid the compliment of an endearing nickname "Mudflat." His qualification for office is that he once served as census enumerator at a railroad watering tank. Of E. W. McKee they say that as Pooh Bah his light would shine when all other lights are out.

The qualifications offered for G. E. Nagle are that he presents a smooth face, a bank roll and a bunch of ward heelers as his best reasons for election. They say that in lucid intervals he is "against the churches, saloons, corporations, private enterprises and the real thing." Press-agent Cornish says of McGee:

"He is a man who would kill the job on Saturday, burn it to a finish on Sunday, have it cold on Monday, scramble it on Tuesday, make it into soup on Wednesday, feed it to the dog on Thursday, and call in the doctor on Friday. His vote-getting motto of "Us Germans must hang together" should have been carried into effect years ago, as far as it concerns him. The question for you to decide, Mr. Voter, is, do you want a man for Pooh Bah who would insist on universal jags, individual fresh air, and self-starting headaches. It would be a calamity to elect this man to office as he and his gang of leeches would make our beautiful country look like a jellyfish having its nails manicured. We like the Germans in general but not this one in particular."

The harpoon that is thrown into George E. Pillsbury is so pat in its application to perpetual candidates that I wonder it hasn't hit some yet more famous men. Pillsbury has been running for something or other ever since Virgin Valley was first settled and now some cruel wit has suggested that he ought to be defeated for "wearing his wishbone where his backbone ought to be." He is the only candidate who has expressed himself on woman's suffrage—he believes women should be allowed to suffer on election day.

The jinks programme at the Jonathan Club this year is as similar to that of last year as it could be and yet be entirely different. There will be the usual dinner at 6 o'clock but it will be an unusual dinner. Senor Piedad Yorba y Sowl will take charge of the kitchen and a detail from the city fire department will be stationed on the roof.

The newly-elected Pooh Bah will be crowned at 8:45 o'clock with a "weird and impressive procession to the Temple of Pleasure." At 9 o'clock comes the vaudeville performance in charge of Frank Egan, Don Carlton and Dana Burks. The press agent says, "The talent has been specially imported from Paris for this one night only at a fabulous expense; their faces may look familiar, but the above looks better in print."

Every day at the club now adds to the indication that the climax will be something more than a rainy afternoon in Virgin Valley. The elegance of the clubrooms has disappeared to some extent under the prolific placarding of the premises by the candidates. A man is "rushed" for votes from the time he takes off his hat until he gets to the bottom of the elevator shaft, after lunch.

Certain unsophisticated clubmen who went down to the Pacific Gun Club last week were entirely unsuspicious of "William," a pet who belongs to a neighboring family. The goat had made an enemy of the game-warden by coming into the front yard and eating up all the young palms that had been planted there. This did not alter in the least the sociable inclinations of "William." He came down to meet the 'bus when it arrived bringing Ed Tufts, W. H. Holmes, John Schumacher, Frank Schumacher, F. H. Notman and Herbert Cornish for the day's shooting. They immediately adopted him into the family and fed him loaf sugar and fresh celery from the dinner table.

William hung around all night but was overlooked in the morning in the rush of getting away for the early shooting. When the members came in from the shoot they pulled off their boots and stacked them in a row beside the door, to be cleaned. William was hungry. He took a bite out of one boot and didn't quite like the taste. He tried another. And so he went down the line until there wasn't a whole boot left in the club. Whether he really masticated all the boot rubber that was gone or laid up some of it for chewing gum is a mater of some doubt; but at any rate the club members have all been out buying new boots this week.

HIS LIFE TO A CHARACTER.

Beban's "Italian in America" Permanent Study.

Will Portray the Cultured As Well as Ignorant.

How He Got the Clothes For "The Sign of the Rose."

By JULIAN JOHNSON.

George Beban is probably the only American actor who has consecrated his individual efforts to the portrayal of a certain type.

Beban says that he is going to play, and continue to play, "The Italian in America."

He believes that it is possible to get great interest and variety, and perfect a type which heretofore has been very shabbily treated.

Just at present Beban's talents are finding abundant expression in "The Sign of the Rose," a remarkable Orpheum headliner, in which, as Pietro Massena, this character actor delineates the loves and sorrows of a poor Italian emigrant.

This play is to be expanded in the spring to a four-act drama, and it will cover syndicate time.

"But," says Beban, "do not think that I am going to play this unfortunate fellow all my life. You of the Pacific Coast do not realize what a large part the Italian has in civilization in the making as we find it in the East. The swarming port of Naples courses him out to us every day, its traffic lines beating like a great throbbing artery of life. In the main he is poor and despised, and sometimes, though not as often as the sensationalists of the police courts would have us believe, he is rejected.

"But even at his worst he contains a fund of humanity which it is almost impossible to duplicate in any other people as a whole. His passions are so manifest that they are the very essence of the theatric. He loves intensely, he adores children, he is fiery in his friendships and hates alike, and his experiences in getting Americanized furnish a far greater fund of comedy than the wearisome peanut-stand mirth to which the "scene-in-one" artists have accustomed us.

"Then there is another type of Italian, hardly reckoned with at all. He figures largely in life, but scarcely ever in American literature or the stage. He is the traveler, the artist, the literary man, the Roman or Milanese correspondent, or the great musician—who if he is ever held up for observation at all, is grossly caricatured.

"Of course, I don't want you to think that I believe the Italian in America the all-important figure. Not at all. He is just one facet of our many-sided, highly complex civilization. I am doing him because he has always been my delight to study, and because, in this era of the very keenest specialization, I think an actor should do one thing tremendously well, rather than many things just as the ordinary fellow does.

"French? Well, maybe again. I wouldn't say that I won't play French characters under any circumstances, but believe me, my French essays will be few and far between."

And, by the way, the Pacific Coast doesn't know George Behan's French character parts—the most delicious, droll burlesques of the modern Parisian that have ever appeared on the American stage. The first of them was fully ten years ago, when Marie Cahill persuaded Mr. Beban, who was then not much known to fame, to essay a small, conventional, silly and asinine French fop, in one of her new productions. Like Trilby, in her glorification of "Ben Bolt," Behan put something new and vital into his impossible study. It was a touch that hadn't been seen—something that made one theater-goer say to another: "Have you seen ——?" And that sort of thing, once started, makes an actor as dear to the managerial heart as the magic "Sesame" was to the fabled piratic gentleman who owned the golden cave.

The last of Beban's French parts, if I am not mistaken, was that which George Cohan wrote for him, as co-star with Trixie Friganza, in "The American Idea." But the muse of the Yankee Doodle comedian nodded for once, and "The American Idea," as far as New York was concerned, soon became history.

To resume Mr. Beban's narrative: "No one will ever know what an awful time I had to get away from French character. I had to live, and for French character parts I could name my own salary, but for anything else I wasn't worth as much as a chorus man.

"I had made the managers my friends. I had made money for them, lots of money, and sometimes I begged, almost in tears, that they would give me a chance at something serious, that they would let me draw a human being instead of forever remaining a Sunday comic supplement. But with characteristic managerial wisdom they—well, they just smiled; that's all.

"So I discovered, eventually, that if I ever wanted to do this thing, I would have to do it on my own responsibility. And I did."

Under the Hudson River there has just been completed a great tube which carries the trains of the Pennsylvania railroad to their classic marble station, the finest railway terminal in the world, in the very heart of Manhattan. This mighty tube was years in building, and here, down in the depths on the Jersey side, George Beban studied the primitive Italian.

The Irish overseer, on being told that he proposed to "write a book" on sociology, felt such a strange commingling of mirth and pity that he passed him freely into the caissons and open excavations. The bosses below, impressed by his quiet air, believed him a secret inspector from the head offices of the Pennsylvania corporation, while the poor serfs toiling with bent backs under the lash-like tongues of their Celtic padrones gave him, occasionally, a furtive and terror-stricken glance, as if they thought him a detective or a spotter for Black Hand and Mafia members.

From these fellows Beban bought the very clothes he wears in "The Sign of the Rose." He waited for them after working hours, one night, and dickered with them for shoes, overalls, shirts, quaint Italian coat and little Neapolitan hat—every detail of Massena's attire.

For the reassurement of the antiseptic and the prophylactic, I hasten to add that all the details of this outre garb were thoroughly baked in a medical oven immediately after the purchase.

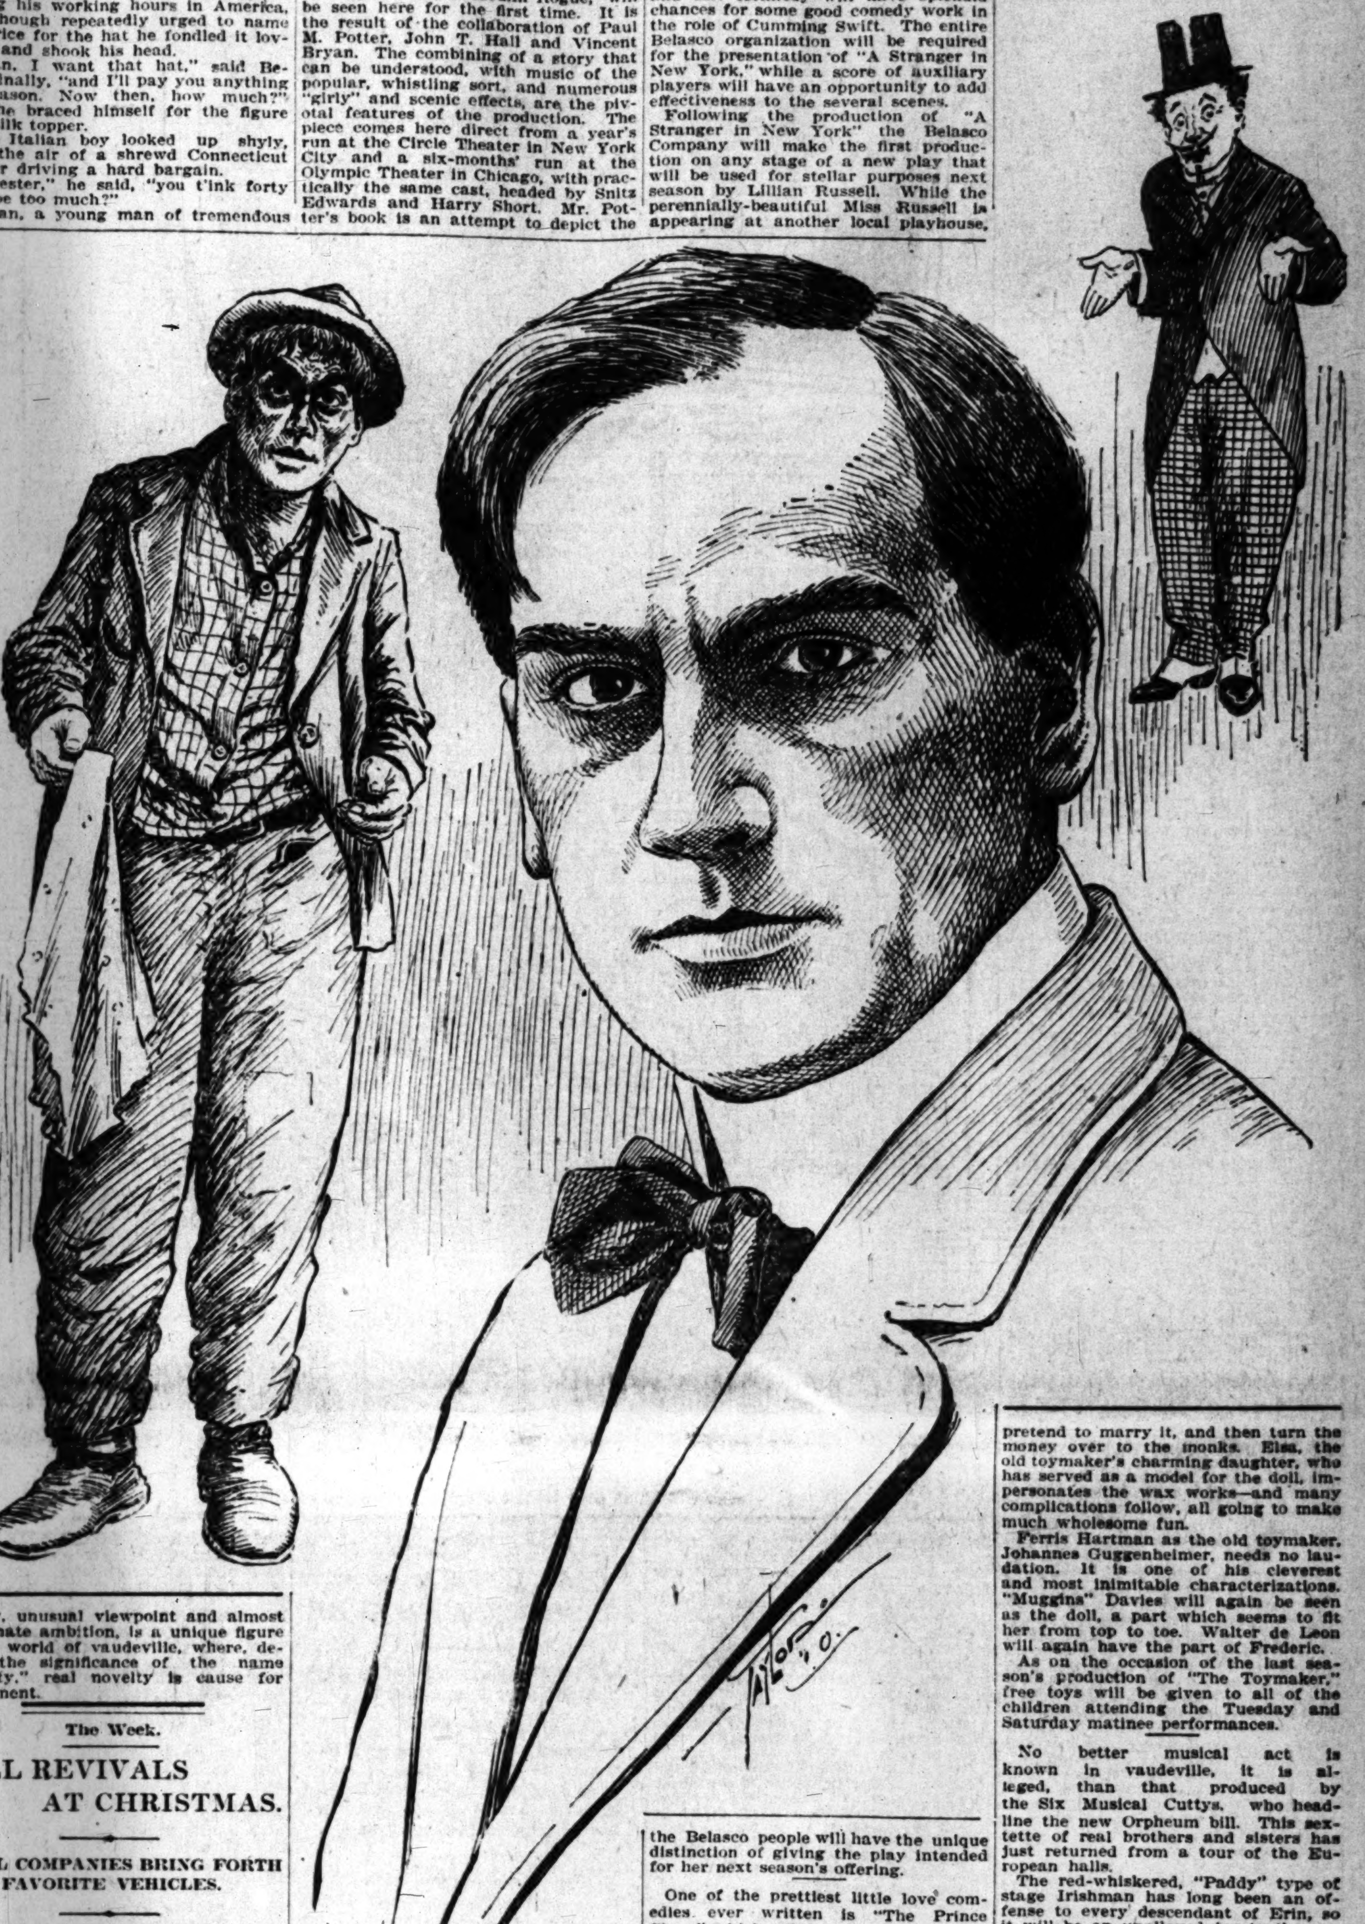
The one item that he nearly lost was the funny little Neopolitan hat—which of course, you can't buy in this country. The youth who was approached had never worn any other headpiece during his working hours in America, and though repeatedly urged to name his price for the hat he fondled it lovingly and shook his head.

"Man, I want that hat," said Beban, finally, "and I'll pay you anything in reason. Now then, how much?" And he braced himself for the figure of a silk topper.

The Italian boy looked up shyly, with the air of a shrewd Connecticut farmer driving a hard bargain.

"Meester," he said, "you t'ink forty cent be too much?"

Beban, a young man of tremendous energy, unusual viewpoint and almost inordinate ambition, is a unique figure in the world of vaudeville, where, despite the significance of the name "variety," real novelty is cause for excitement.



George Behan,

who was submerged in silly French characters until he had practically to fight his way out, and who now declares he will play only "The Italian in America" for years to come—varying his picture, however, from the poor emigrant to the artist, from the humble illiterate to the traveler of distinction and wealth.

The Week.

ALL REVIVALS AT CHRISTMAS.

LOCAL COMPANIES BRING FORTH FAVORITE VEHICLES.

"Kissing Girl" at Majestic, and "Queen of the Moulin Rouge" at Auditorium—Programmes at Belasco, Buranbk, Grand, Orpheum, Los Angeles and Pantages.

"The Kissing Girl" is the alluring title of the new Viennese comic opera which will be presented under the management of John P. Slocum at Hamburger's Majestic Theater this evening, with Miss Texas Guinan as the star, supported by a number of principals and a chorus which has been described as a "seminary of loveliness." The piece takes its name from the principal character, a mountain belle who bestows a kiss as the capital prize for the winner of the annual schuetzenfest in a little community on the Austrian-German frontier in the Boehmerwald Mountains. It breaks the general precedent in comic operas, in that the plot really amounts to something, and the comedy is a legitimate part of the action, instead of having to be dragged in bodily by the players. Marriage for convenience and speedy divorce for relief, furnish the mainspring of the story, which has been adapted by Stanislaus Stange from the German of Leo Stein, who jumped into fame as the librettist of "The Merry Widow," with which the opera often has been favorably compared. Of the twenty-one song numbers there are few which have not jumped into instant whistling favor. Harry von Tilzer has turned out his best work in the compositions, among the favorites being "Good Old German Beer," "On the B—, on the Bou—, on the Boulevard," "A Little Band of Gold," "The Hair of the Dog That Bit You," and others.

Miss Guinan, who made a big hit here last year, in "The Gay Musicians," returns as a star of the first magnitude. Another favorite in the cast is Harry Hermsen, of "Burgomaster" fame, who plays a comedy role with guttural drollery. Mlle. Vanity, pretty and clever dancer, is one of the hits of the show with her toe dancing, high kicking, handsprings, pigeon wings, pinwheels and pirouettes. Miss Venita Fitzhugh, young prima donna, will be heard in the best romantic numbers. Thomas Whiffen and Louis London do the lovemaking and sing the principal male solos in the approved comic opera style. The chorus is handsomely costumed. The locale of the opera affords opportunity for picturesque scenic settings, and the three scenes in the mountains, in the brewers' home and in the German rose garden are artistic examples of stagecraft.

Tomorrow night at the Auditorium Samuel E. Rork's musical production, "The Queen of the Moulin Rogue," will be seen here for the first time. It is the result of the collaboration of Paul M. Potter, John T. Hall and Vincent Bryan. The combining of a story that can be understood, with music of the popular, whistling sort, and numerous "girly" and scenic effects, are the pivotal features of the production. The piece comes here direct from a year's run at the Circle Theater in New York City and a six-months' run at the Olympic Theater in Chicago, with practically the same cast, headed by Snitz Edwards and Harry Short. Mr. Potter's book is an attempt to depict the gay night-life in Paris and is founded on actual occurrances, with the King of Orcania and his bride-elect, Princess Moratz, as the central figures. Each, with their identity concealed, even to each other, visit the famous Quat-z-Arts ball, the annual dance at the Moulin Rogue, organized by the students of Paris. They are afterwards seen at Madame St. Angelo's gambling place, "The House with the Green Shutters," the "Cafe au Rat Mort" and numerous other places of interest in the gay capital. The royal participants and the locale in which they move afford excellent opportunities for good, smart, yet wholesome, comedy, and sumptuous stage settings. The presenting company is said to be unusually large and to include a stunning chorus and ballet.

For its pre-holiday week offering, the Belasco Company will present Hoyt's hilarious farce, "A Stranger in New York." Lewis S. Stone will have the role of the Stranger, who, by innocently picking up a letter of introduction from the corridor of a hotel, gets into all sorts of ridiculous complications that provide the basis of the three acts of fun. When the Belasco Company played "A Stranger in New York" two years ago the farce ran for two weeks to a succession of crowded houses.

During the action of the play a number of popular song hits from recent Broadway shows will be introduced, notably "The Dublin Rag," by Charles Giblyn, "All Right," by Mr. Stone; "What's the Use," by Mr. Bacon; "Every Little Movement," by Miss Farrington; "I'm on My Way to Reno," by Mr. Camp. A series of parodies on well-known successes, by Mr. Kennedy, and two selections, by Miss Bessie Tannehill, who has been especially engaged for the production of the Hoytian farce.

Richard Vivian will have his former role of Wright Innitt, while Lloyd Bacon will play his particular friend, Carroll Sweet; Baron Sands will find a capable interpreter in Frank Camp, and Mr. Kennedy will have splendid chances for some good comedy work in the role of Cumming Swift. The entire Belasco organization will be required for the presentation of "A Stranger in New York," while a score of auxiliary players will have an opportunity to add effectiveness to the several scenes.

Following the production of "A Stranger in New York" the Belasco Company will make the first production on any stage of a new play that will be used for stellar purposes next season by Lillian Russell. While the perennially-beautiful Miss Russell is appearing at another local playhouse, the Belasco people will have the unique distinction of giving the play intended for her next season's offering.

One of the prettiest little love comedies ever written is "The Prince Chap," which will be given at the Burbank Theater for the week beginning today's matinee. This play met with a warm welcome when it was staged by the Burbank Stock Company a little more than a year ago, and it has been revived for the Christmas season, to which it is admirably suited. For charm of plot and delightful style this is among the daintiest of all comedies.

The play is a dramatization by Edward Pepie of the novel of the same name, and its story is idyllic. William Peyton, an American sculptor with his studio in London, is called upon by the dying widow of an old and very dear friend who had died shortly before. The woman knows she is dying and gets Peyton to promise to take care of her child. When the child appears it turns out to be a little girl, and the difficulties encountered by the young bachelor in ministering to her wants provide a series of amusing incidents. In the next act the girl appears again, five years older. This is the pretty Christmas tree scene which is a never-failing delight to children. Another act follows, when the sculptor's ward again appears, this time grown to womanhood, and then Peyton discovers that his former paternal feeling has changed to something very different.

A. Byron Beasley will play the part of the sculptor. Three persons are required to impersonate the girl. Little Ollie Walters, who had a birthday last week, and is now independent of the restrictions of the Humane Society officers, will be seen as the child, Miss Hazel Buckham as the girl nearing womanhood, and Miss Marjorie Rambeau as the woman. Howard Scott, Peter Lang, David M. Hartford, David Landau, Frederick Gilbert, Willis Marks, Ethel von Waldron, Fanny Yantis and Grace Travers will all have important roles.

Audran's delightful "little journey to the land of Make-believe," "The Toymaker," is the vehicle in which Ferris Hartman and his company will make merry during the pre-holiday week. Mr. Hartman could have scarcely selected a better musical play for this season of the year for "The Toymaker" represents the true holiday spirit.

"The Toymaker" has been given before by Mr. Hartman's clever aggregation, in fact it is an annual affair that is always welcomed.

The piece tells the story of an old Nuremburg maker of toys who has constructed a wonderful doll. A young nobleman wants to wed, but being a novice among monks, this is impossible, but quite necessary, for his uncle, the Count Ballenberg, has promised him a large amount of money on his wedding day. This is Frederic's only desire to become a benedict and to save his friends, the monks, from starvation, he agrees to buy this doll and pretend to marry it, and then turn the money over to the monks. Elsa, the old toymaker's charming daughter, who has served as a model for the doll, impersonates the wax works—and many complications follow, all going to make much wholesome fun.

Ferris Hartman as the old toymaker, Johannes Guggenheimer, needs no laudation. It is one of his cleverest and most inimitable characterizations. "Muggins" Davies will again be seen as the doll, a part which seems to fit her from top to toe. Walter de Leon will again have the part of Frederic.

As on the occasion of the last season's production of "The Toymaker," free toys will be given to all of the children attending the Tuesday and Saturday matinee performances.

No better musical act is known in vaudeville, it is alleged, than that produced by the Six Musical Cuttys, who headline the new Orpheum bill. This sextette of real brothers and sisters has just returned from a tour of the European halls.

The red-whiskered, "Paddy" type of stage Irishman has long been an offense to every descendant of Erin, so it will be an unalloyed joy to the natives of the Emerald Isle to be assured that in the act of James Callahan and Jenny St. George, there will be offered the real type of their progenitor—an Irishman whom none need be ashamed to own. Mr. Callahan has made a study in Ireland of the genuine native, and in "The Old Neighborhood," though the act is laid in New York, he preserves all the atmosphere of the old sod, and is said to offer a faithful and delightful character delineation. Miss St. George is a harpist of skill.

D. J. Andree, in his "Studies in Porcelain," gets away from the usual posing and living picture act. The importation is made direct from the Apollo Theater, Berlin, and has all the finish shown by most foreign acts. Six studies of merit are made, the several poses being beautiful delineations of the feminine, retaining a newness that differentiates them from any other posing act.

The Temple guartette, a singing four from New York, will be a welcome number, for good men singers are always desirable on an Orpheum bill. These four maintain an atmosphere of class, in that they wear evening clothes, keep away from the uncouth, and render songs from an extensive repertoire.

George Beban, with his players, will continue another week in his Italian classic, "The Sign of the Rose;" Mme. Jewell and the manikins, a delightful act, Grant & Hong and the Great Asahi, being the others who stay. The usual motion pictures will complete the bill.

The second Sullivan & Considine road show, several of which will be seen during the coming winter months, will open at the Los Angeles theater with the matinee on Monday, headed by minstrel man Billy Van.

Van is perhaps the best known of all of the old school minstrel men and he has entertained the present generation and also its fathers and mothers. This year he has a new black face monologue which he has termed "Slobology."

Of second importance on the new bill are the Five Columbians, Caro Miller and his talented family, who will be seen in their spectacular creation, "The Ballet of the Roses." This is their first vaudeville tour since their engagement at the New York Hippodrome and their present offering is said to be beautiful as well as entertaining.

Much of the fun of the road show bill will be furnished by comedian Charles Wayne and his company offering the comedy sketch, "10 a.m., or The Morning After." The average "jag" act loses much with its audience by reason of its vulgarity, but this is allegedly not so with Mr. Wayne's offering.

John Dillon, who comes with a fund

who will shine over local footlights during the coming week.

of mirthful melodies, is one of the famous Dillon brothers, who have many times encircled the globe. Dillon has any amoutn of bright material, but his success lies in his original method of "putting his songs over."

Others on the new bill are Seymour and Robinson, comedy acrobats, who will furnish the athletic portion of the programme, and Cox and Farley, clever kidlets, who have a number of new songs and dances. The bill looks finely diversified and has been selected with the idea of making a perfect variety show.

The Familia Bell troupe of ten Spanish Troubadors will be the feature act at Pantages for the week starting Monday. It is said to be the largest company of musicians at present in vaudeville. The company play upon a great number of reed and string instruments included in which are two of the largest mirimbophones in the world. The musical programme is made up of selections from a number of standard works and should prove a delight to every one conversant with music, for the programme is changed at every performance. The opening numbers will be an arrangement on a series of monastery bells and sleigh bells; brilliant arrangement of Bucalossi's "A Hunting Scene," in which will be reproduced the sounds of the hunt, such as baying of hounds; the sound of the tally-ho horns, etc.; "Il Trovatore" will be given as a mandolin and guitar number and the finale will be a concerted number of the sextette from "Lucia," and a reproduction of Spanish and Russian dances.

John and Mae Burke, duo of fun makers, have a new comedy sketch, "How Patsy Went to War." Burke is a traditional messenger boy, and Miss Mae enacts the role of a young lady ambitious for stellar honors. There is much singing, dancing and expert piano playing in the little comedietta; the Dare Brothers, European gymnasts and equilibrists will show a number of surprising athletic feats; Tony Genaro is an accomplished impersonator of various types of characters; Gilmore, Kinkey and Gilmore are two young women and a man who are singers, dancers and comedians of the gingery sort of type. New photo plays will be reproduced.

The second month of the existence of Luna Park finds this public playground on a basis of practically twice its opening size. Many new concessions are being installed, and the enterprises as yet unfinished are being hurried rapidly toward completion. Among these are the Thompson scenic railway, the "Merry Widow Waltz" trolley, and the scenic spectacle, "The Inevitable War of the Future," which will commence its picture of the devastation an aeroplane may accomplish, probably, on Christmas Day.

Niklausse Schilzony's Hungarian Band has been enlarged since the coming of this director to Los Angeles. The programmes continue to combine the best of the classics with much that is popular and timely.

Emma Newkirk's diving performances have attracted much attention, and the Saturday and Sunday crowds especially, which, for some reason, appear to contain a large number of lovers of acquatic sport, find her very interesting.

The park grounds are being steadily improved for the reception and comfort of visitors.

Lovers of forestry will be pleased to learn that the Thompson scenic railway, while covering more than an acre of ground, is not to damage any of the beautiful trees on the site that it occupies. More than a dozen of these, some of them almost fifty feet high, are being boxed in in a way that will preserve them, carefully trimmed as they are, for an indefinite period.

Lillian Russell.

Lillian Russell, who will be seen at the Mason Operahouse during Christmas week, opening Monday evening the 26th, will present for the Los Angeles engagement her newest and said to be most successful vehicle, a comedy of society manners called "In Search of a Sinner." It was written for her use by Charlotte Thompson, and was produced upon an elaborate scale by Joseph Brooks, who has directed the fair Lillian's tours since she deserted musical work for straight comedy.

"In Search of a Sinner" is the old story of a woman changing her mind, worked out in new guise and under new impelling forces. This particular quest is one of a widow for a man who has not been so utterly good but that he can be human. She falls in love with a model of masculine propriety, and then tries to make him appear a sinner. She succeeds so well that the danger point is in sight, for the good fellow mistakes her motives and out of chagrin is planning to elope with a variety songstress. He is rounded up in time and it all works out merrily and to the satisfaction of those whose sympathies are always centered in the leading character of a story.

Miss Russell will be seen in the production supported by a company of players including Harry C. Browne, Lynn Pratt, Joseph Tuohy, Hayward Ginn, John G. Brammall, Edward Warren, Victor Benoit, Daniel Fitzgerald, Olive Harper, Hattie Russell, Viola Leach, Jessie Ralph and a corps of extra people to enliven some stage pictures that make up a background of the first act setting.

Mary Mannering.

Mary Mannering, who is now listed among the Shubert stars, will be seen at Hamburger's Majestic for New Year's week, in her new play, "A Man's World." This play is described as a study in realism, dealing with life in the Bohemian set. The motive of the play is a new light on the old problem of whether or not it is possible to lay down a single set of rules of conduct for men and women alike.

PEOPLE AND PLAYS.

Brevities of Interest Concerning the Doings of Actor Folks and Those Associated With Them.

Charles Frohman has secured the rights to "Fair Risette," a new opera, which has just sprung up in Vienna. The author is Leo Fall.

Holbrook Blinn has arrived in New York, and is rehearsing in "The Boss." His place in Mrs. Fiske's company has been filled by another well-known actor.

Julia Wyatt, who was famous in the character of Topsy in "Uncle Tom's Cabin," which she played for many years, died at her home in New Haven on December 1, at the age of 87.

Digby Bell has received a legacy of $5000, which ought to make him feel happy. There are not many actors who have rich relatives, therefore the incident is of more than passing importance. In these times even $5000 is not to be sneezed at.

Mrs. Fiske is enjoying her first vacation in over a year. She made a jump from Atlanta, Ga., to Kansas City, Mo., to be present at a dancing carnival given in aid of certain charities. At the end of the festivities she will rejoin her company at Jacksonville, Fla.

Titles are becoming very perplexing. With your "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford" and "I'll be Hanged if I Do," the public is having a chance to make a short speech before it decides upon the theater, and now comes Henry Arthur Jones's new play with a title that beats them all. It will be named "We Can't Be as Bad as All That."

Kyrle Bellew is to have a floating theater, commencing next August, with a visit to the west coast of Africa. The tour will cover some forty-seven thousand miles. The company will contain fifty players, and the idea is to visit settlements where the English language is understood. The plays to be produced will include "Raffles," "The Thief," "Charlotte Corday" and others.

One of the singers most popular with the Australians is the English soprano, Antonia Dolores, one and the same person as Antoinette Trebelli, under which name she addressed herself to the American public some years ago. She has recently brought to a close a protracted tour of Australia and New Zealand, on which a San Francisco pianist named Selwyn Shrimplin was her accompanist.

When Lillian Russell announced the marriage of her daughter, Dorothy, to R. W. Dunsmuir she never realized that there would be a tempest in the teapot. According to a report from San Francisco, it is alleged that there is another Mrs. Dunsmuir in the field, who was married in 1901. This woman alleges that there has been no divorce, and she has her fighting blood up. The sequel will be told later on.

George Ade, who has piled up a fat bank account through the royalties of many of his plays, and less from his novels, is mentioned as the possible purchaser of the Indianapolis Star, which has been ordered sold by the Federal Court. Mr. Ade is a Hoosier, and he fears that some outside man, especially a New Yorker like "Bill" Hearst, might purchase the plant, so rather than have that happen he will buy it himself. If he does he can criticize his own plays.

Autumn showers of decorations in Germany have left Emil Sauer, the pianist, with the insignia of a Knight of the Order of Henry the Lion, in the first class, with the compliments of the Duke-Regent of Brunswick; Margarete Preuse-Matzenauer, Munich's great contralto, with the Wurttemberg medal for art and science; and Carl Burrian, now at the Metropolitan, one of the King of Wurttemberg's Kammersanger. Herr Burrian was already a Kammersanger of the King of Saxony and the Duke of Anhalt.

The actors have been up in the air many times, but now they have organized a club to go up there legitimately, and its membership will include dramatists, publishers and other distinguished people. There was a meeting at Delmonico's on Sunday night, when The Flyer's Club of America was launched, and it will be closely affiliated with the Lambs Club and the Larchmont Yacht Club. The membership includes William Collier, David Warfield, Harry B. Smith, George Ade, Joseph Grismer, Fritz Williams, Hale Hamilton, Booth Tarkington, Frank Daniels, Robert Hilliard and nearly fifty other actors and authors.

"The President and Board of Directors announce with pleasure the annual dinner of the Society at Delmonico's, Sunday evening, December 11th, at 7 o'clock, upon which occasion Mr. George M. Cohan will be the guest of honor." So read the invitations of the Society of American Dramatists and Composers. The Entertainment Committee consists of Martha Morton, Charles Klein and Harry P. Mawson. The society has held many noted affairs in the past and has had as guests some of our most famous men, therefore in selecting George M. Cohan they conferred an honor upon a man who richly deserves it.

Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, who for several years has been known as one of New York's most prominent amateur sculptors, is having built the most magnificent studio in the world. It is on her estate at Wheatley Hills, Long Island, and is a one and one-half story structure of tile and marble whose cost will be in the neighborhood of $100,000. An imemnse workroom and luxurious lounging and dressing room for models are features of it.

REAL OPERA SEEMS SURE.

MIGHTY PROJECT ON SOLID BASE IN SAN FRANCISCO.

Metropolitan Directorate and Its Practical World Power — New York Men Visit Here—San Francisco Opera Will, of Course, Have Los Angeles End—News Mention.

BY JULIAN JOHNSON.

It is now settled, beyond doubt, that there is to be a definite, organized and well-directed movement to establish genuine grand opera upon the Pacific Coast.

In using the word "establish," I mean to signify an opera which is regular, from year to year, conducted under recognized operatic auspices, and by men who are authorities in the artistic element in which they work.

The focus of this operatic high-pressure area is, naturally enough, San Francisco, where opera has been indigenous to the famous soil ever since the days of the old Tivoli, where opera prospered in what might be called humble surroundings—and faded when transferred to the ornate interior of the new Tivoli.

"Doc" Leahy is in his way as great a man as Maurice Grau. If there are operatic managers in New York today as great as Grau they are yet to be shown, hence the significance of calling Leahy a Western Grau will be made clear upon the appreciation of this statement.

Leahy is one of the central points of interest in this million-dollar-operahouse agitation in San Francisco.

But the good intentions of the operatic propagandist toward the south Coast as well as the north may be helped somewhat by the recent investigations of the directorate of the Metropolitan Operahouse.

Quite unknown to the general public, several members of this board made a Western tour several months ago, and paid especial attention to Los Angeles. They were here several days, and announced that any time Los Angeles was ready for opera, or when Los Angeles and San Francisco together should be ready for opera, the Metropolitan Operahouse would be only too glad to co-operate.

Now a party of artistically inclined and benevolent northern gentlemen want to build a great operahouse which will be a credit not only to San Francisco, but to the whole West, and it is pretty safe to say that the Metropolitan will have a hand in the control.

This Metropolitan Opera Company is in the entirely novel position of being the only absolutely dominant artistic-philanthropic trust.

Most of its membership are men who play with railroads as a small realty operator juggles lots, while stocks to them are counted only in millions. Having conquered the material, and subjugated it, their natural—shall we say evolutionary American?—instinct leads them as directly toward the artistic trust as toward the monopolies of highways and flour mills. In the Metropolitan organization they have a real musical monopoly. The flower of the earth in tributary to them, in the way of tenors, directors, sopranos and contraltos. Having now really more than they can utilize satisfactorily in New York, they are spreading out. Having "benevolently" assimilated, they are "benevolently" dispensing. Thus the Chicago opera company comes into being this year, under the management of Mr. Dippel, who was quite a big figure in New York, but still not so big a man as Mr. Gatti-Casazza. Hence his moving along.

The Chicago opera shows the westward trend.

If things do not change mightily, when the San Francisco operahouse is finished, the Metropolitan will probably have a big influence in forming the company.

This man "Doc" Leahy, though, has always been the terror of the New York impressarii. When they flashed the greatest living soprano, Leahy could modestly draw one from some magic quarter of the globe who would cause the Gotham wonder to fade into insignificance. Thus came Tetrazzini. It was the same with baritones and basses, and though nobody has ever found another Caruso, San Francisco has heard some pretty fair tenors.

It seems rather strange to me why certain world-famous singers have not yet been heard in this country.

For instance, there is the great tenor Anselmi, a young artist of prodigious powers, who has enthralled Russia and other countries of the continent, but who has never been heard on this side of the water.

Titta Ruffo, a baritone whose voice can only be compared in magnetism and vital thrill with Caruso's, sings much in South America, but his feet have never trodden Broadway.

Almost needless to say, what San Francisco gets in the way of grand opera Los Angeles will get. The value of this city as a contributory means of support will not be lost sight of for a moment, and it is safe to assert that the eventual grand opera company of size and celebrity—whether it appears in 1911-1912 or 1912-13—will not be heard at all in San Francisco before the working co-partnership of Los Angeles has been fixed over responsible signatures.

Stevenson Again.

Our fellow-townsman and noted composer-director - organist-pianist-critic-teacher-raconteur and general good fellow, Frederick Stevenson, has no long silences in his busy constructive existence.

His latest work, which bears on every page the flowing touch of the hand of the experienced master, is "Ariel," a dance-fantasie for a chorus of mixed voices, the text by Shakespeare and Lord Lyttleton. Doubtless the astral self of the illustrious Bard of Avon will be pleased at having his verse fall into such melodic hands as Mr. Stevenson's.

Personally, I do not care for it as much as for the charming and original Viennese and Italian "Serenades," or the delicious "Idylle Mongolienne," by the same author, but investigators will find it a work such as could not be produced by more than three or four living writers in this style, and it bears in all its parts the artistically satisfying evidence of Mr. Stevenson's supreme musicianship.

Much of Mr. Stevenson's output has been published by the Ditsons, but this chorale, an excellent example of musical printing, is an entirely home product, being published by the Wilford Music Company of Blanchard Hall.

The dedication is to Dr. A. S. Vogt and the Mendelssohn Club of Toronto.

Arriola-Kingsley.

Pepito Arriola, remarkable boy pianist, will give his farewell concert before leaving for New York in conjunction with Bruce Gordon Kingsley, organist, at the Auditorium next Friday afternoon. A most unique feature on the programme will be the famous Liszt Pianoforte Concerto, one of the most difficult compositions, the beautiful orchestral accompaniment of which has been specially arranged by Mr. Kingsley and will be played by him on the mammoth organ. This is Mr. Kingsley's only appearance at the Auditorium organ this season. Included on the programme are piano numbers by Chopin, Schumann, a Liszt Rhapsody, and organ numbers by Richard Strauss and Wagner. The artistry of both Kingsley and Arriola should make this event one of the star occasions of the musical season.

Teachers' Programme.

Friday afternoon at the Auditorium, the Southern California teachers, who will this week hold their large annual convention in this city, will have a musical programme presented them which, I may say without fear of contradiction, is the biggest thing ever given on such an occasion in Southern California.

The symphony orchestra will be heard under Mr. Hamilton's direction, and the soloists will be none other than Emilio de Gogorza and Mme. Katherine Fiske.

The orchestra will play the "Tannhauser" overture, the Schubert Unfinished Symphony, the Sibelius "Finlandia," Vincent D'Indy's "Serenade" and "Valse," and Kahn's "Grand Festmarch and Hymn to Liberty."

De Gogorza will offer "Dio Possente" and three Spanish ballads, while Mme. Fiske will be heard in the Saint-Saens "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," from "Samson and Delilah."

Miss Elliott's Lectures.

Miss Marie Elliott, who was heard in a series of interesting interpretative lectures at the Hotel Alexandria last winter, is resuming her pleasant musical discourses at the Hotel Maryland, Pasadena.

With the assistance of pianist Reginald Deming, Miss Elliott is discussing the symphony programmes. Her next talk will be given January 11, 1911.

Gerville-Reache.

Mme. Gerville-Reache, whom the writer considers as the greatest contralto living, is coming West to sing a series of concerts under Pacific Coast managers. Her splendid voice is a deep contralto, and like Schumann-Heink's, extremely flexible. When one considers the extreme range of artistic work as presented by Mme. Reache and realizes that she has obtained her position of prima donna contralto of the Metropolitan in New York, Covent Garden in London, Theater de la Monnaie, in Brussels, and was at the head of the Hammerstein forces, they will realize the value of an evening's programme such as will be presented by this talented woman in Los Angeles about the middle of January.

Tetrazzini Coming.

Mme. Luisa Tetrazzini made her only London appearance of the autumn at Crystal Palace just before she started for America. It was held in the great Central Transept which is associated with the Haendel festival triumphs of so many famous cantatrices of the past, and the prospect of hearing the famous diva in the historic locale drew an immense audience which filled every portion of the vast aria. Mme. Tetrazzini was in splendid voice, and this was her last appearance in London. Last Monday was her first appearance in America, at Dreamland Rink, San Francisco. She will be a visitor in Los Angeles when Manager Behymer presents her for two recitals about the 20th of January. She sings but thirty concerts in America and her Los Angeles concert will most likely take place in the Shrine Auditorium.

Levy Programme.

Levy's Cafe Chantant for this coming week has several new offerings. Among the holdovers will be found Sharp and Turek, black-faced comedians, singers and dancers, whose clever work during the past two weeks has attracted much comment. Dorris Wilson, singing comedienne, has made an excellent impression, and will continue with new songs. Ethel Leslie, grand opera singer, will remain over for another week with an entire change of numbers.

The new artists will be the Venetian trio of singers, who have just finished a lengthy engagement at the Majestic Theater in Chicago. They come direct to the Levy Chantant and may repeat the previous triumphs of the Kristoffy trio, as Mme. Kristoffy recommends them very highly.

The Kammermeyer orchestra still continues its concerts. Manager Levy is arranging for a special programme during the holidays, and particularly Christmas night and New Year's eve, the features of which will be announced later.

A programme made up entirely of operatic numbers is to be given before the Friday Morning Club on December 30 by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Balfour, well-known tenor and soprano. Gertrude Ross will be at the piano.

Christmas music at the Cathedral of St. Vibiana will include Rheinberger's "Mass in A," to be sung at the 5 o'clock mass, and for the 10:30 o'clock service, the following, in addition to the usual Christmas hymns: "Kyrie" and "Gloria," from Schubert's "Fifth Mass; Beethoven's "Credo" and the "Sanctus," "Benedictus" and "Agnus Dei," from Tours service in F.

Logan's Academy of Fine Arts, at 2132 West Jefferson street, gave its regular semi-monthly recital on Friday evening. An extended and highly varied programme was presented. A large number of pupils took part.

Moore's Band, at Hollenbeck today, will play a Tobani operatic potpourri, the Paderewski Minuet, Balfe's "The Siege of Rochelle" overture, Boccalari's "Coquette" gavotte, a Lacombe Suite, a selection from the third act of "Lohengrin," Labitzky's Idyll and several popular pieces.

The following pupils were heard in recital last Thursday night, at the regular weekly musicale given by the Davis Musical studio: Howard Land, Miss Gladys Stamats, Henry Busner, Miss Inez Land, Miss Dolly Zeitmaier, Miss Bessie Barker, Miss Ursula Yeager, Miss Lillian Treppensee, Mrs. Turon and Miss Frances Sides.

Selections from the Handel Oratorio, "The Messiah," will be rendered this evening at the Frst Methodist Church by an augmented choir under the direction of Dr. E. E. Davis. A chorus of about 100 voices will be heard in support of a solo quartette.

No Women Allowed Here.

For centuries past, Duke Max zu Sachsen informs us, women have not been allowed on the Turkish peninsula. Even female animals are prohibited. Condensed milk is imported from Switzerland, so that the eyes of the inhabitants may not be offended by the sight of a cow.

The peninsula is Mount Athos, and its inhabitants are the members of twenty monasteries, which have existed there since the days when Christian Emperors held rule at Constantinople and gave laws to all Europe. For 1400 or 1500 hundred years, let us say, no woman has trodden the ground of Mount Athos.

A vast quantity of art treasures and precious manuscripts has been stored in the monasteries, but for the most part their contents and even their character remained entirely unknown.—[Tit-Bits.

GREAT EMPIRE SHOW IN FOR KING'S CORON

Kiralfy Planning to Reproduce Typ rious Parts of the British Dominions With Natives in Their Own Fami Radical Departure from Usual Type

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF

LONDON, Nov. 2.—With the closing last week of the Japan British Exhibition at Shepherd's Bush, London, work was begun on the preparation for the Coronation Exhibition next year, which, if the plans now made are carried out, will be the greatest and most interesting show yet held at this magnificent show ground.

Imre Kiralfy, the director and chief proprietor of the ground, has worked out a scheme for displaying the extent and resources of the British Empire in a way that they have never been displayed before, and he has chosen the year of King George's coronation to show as many as possible of his subjects what a wonderful empire it is. The keynote of the whole thing is to be realism. Instead of the old-fashioned displays of cloths and grains and fruit and other products, which make exhibitions of this kind like glorified drygoods or grocery stores, an effort will be made to reproduce in London actual parts of the empire, with the people in their familiar home surroundings. From India will come her artisans and laborers and they will be shown in an Indian village at Shepherd's Bush, and carry on their usual avocations. North American Indians will come from Canada and camp in a Canadian forest. Miners will come from the Transvaal and work in a real African mine. Savage Fiji islanders will live the life they have always lived in a tropical garden. It will no longer be necessary to go to Ireland

Worked Both Ways.

Upton Sinclair, apropos of the recent church congress' discussion of Christian healing, said:

"Pierpont Morgan, I see, is against any adoption of such doctrine by the church. Well, Mr. Morgan is undoubtedly right. At the same time, what good do drugs accomplish?

"A very lean man once called on a doctor.

"'Doctor,' he said, 'I want to get fat. I look like a living skeleton.'

"The doctor filled a bottle from a demijohn, handed it to the lean man and said:

"'This will fix you up. Take a teaspoonful after every meal. At the same time eat lots of soup, red meat, starchy vegetables, cereals and sweets, and take no violent exercise. Five dollars.'

"An hour later a very fat man entered the doctor's office.

"'Doctor,' he said, 'I want to be reduced.'

"'This will fix you up,' said the doctor, filling another bottle from the same demijohn. 'Take a teaspoonful after every meal. At the same time eat no soup, red meat, starchy vegetables, cereals or sweets, and take lots of violent exercise. Five dollars.'"—[Washington Star.

Would Stop Handshaking.

In Paris they have been seriously discussing the advisability of forming an anti-handshaking society. Its members, so it is suggested, should only be pledged to avoid this form of salutation during the winter months. But when once it is started it is believed, and sincerely hoped, that the practice of grasping all and sundry by the hand will be permanently discouraged.

There is a good deal to be said on both sides. To have a hot and moist hand clasp one's own on a day when one is already suffering

Famous Expert Tells

How Fat May Be Removed Rapidly By a Simple Home Remedy Without Causing Wrinkles, Disturbing the Diet or Necessity for Exercise.

"Fat is nothing but unused energy," says a prominent physician, and the man or woman who is burdened with it can easily get rid of it if they wish. All they need is ½-oz. of Marmola, ½-oz. of Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic and 3½ ounces of Peppermint Water, all of which they can get at any good drug store for a few cents. Then let them take one teaspoonful after meals at bedtime until they are down to the weight they want to be.

This simple home receipt is far and away better than any or all the patent or secret medicines, for it reduces the fat safely and harmlessly. The ingredients are in fact beneficial to the system, having both tonic and purifying qualities, and so help rather than distress the stomach. The remedy does not cause wrinkles, for it reduces one gradually and naturally, preserving a good outline, and, best of all, needs neither physical exercise to help it do the work, nor does it require any change in diet—one can get results and still take things easy—eating meanwhile just what, when and how he or she pleases. Be sure and get the Marmola in a sealed package, so that you get Marmola and not a substitute.

Try This Home-Made Cough Remedy

Costs Little, But Does the Work Quickly, or Money Refunded.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with ½ pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle; then add the Sugar Syrup. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

You will find that this simple remedy takes hold of a cough more quickly than anything else you ever used. Usually ends a deep seated cough inside of 24 hours. Splendid, too, for whooping cough, chest pains, bronchitis and other throat troubles. It stimulates the appetite and is slightly laxative, which helps end a cough.

This recipe makes more and better cough syrup than you could buy ready made for $2.50. It keeps perfectly and tastes pleasantly.

Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in guiaicol and all the natural pine elements which are so healing to the membranes. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

This plan of making cough syrup with Pinex and Sugar Syrup (or strained honey) has proven so popular throughout the United States and Canada that it is often imitated. But the old, successful formula has never been equaled.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Los Angeles' Greatest Christmas Shopping Week

—Now comes the real test by which you may measure the store's organization. Six days of the merriest, merriest Christmas shopping, six days in which every Holiday line will be attacked by the thousands who have yet to accomplish so much, before their gift list is complete.

—Now comes the test in which our months of effort and most careful planning are to be measured by you.

—We know that such merchandise has never before graced the Broadway's counters and shelves and quantities too in nearly every case are so greatly enlarged this season, that we believe the very heaviest kind of buying every day this week will mean wonderful assortments for the last minute buyers.

—Yes, every day is important, there'll be crowds, you must expect it but crowds are easily handled here. Think of six broad entrances and five stairways leading to the upper floors besides the four elevators.

—Remember the Wells Fargo Express Office, a branch of the Post Office, the wonderful post card booth, the accommodation desk and the package booth, the nursery for the care of the children, public telephones and rest rooms.

ART AND ARTISTS.

BY ANTONY ANDERSON.

Greenbaum's Return.

Joseph Greenbaum the portrait and landscape painter, has just returned to Los Angeles after eight months of Europe, three of which were spent in Paris, three in Brittany, where he painted many pictures, and two in "meandering" through interesting places.

Greenbaum spent three weeks in San Francisco, where he sold a dozen or more pictures at good prices, and where he left behind him, in the ladies' writing room of the St. Francis Hotel, a large picture, six feet by four and a half, a study of three old Breton women praying in a chapel for the safe return of their sailors at sea. This picture, full of feeling, is a new departure for Greenbaum, a first attempt at genre. It is also one of the most ambitious of his many canvases. If not sold in San Francisco, it will doubtless be shown in Los Angeles later on.

While in Paris, Greenbaum painted a portrait of Charles Gilibert, one of the Metropolitan House's most famous tenors. Gilibert happened to be in the French city at the time. He died only a few weeks ago in New York City.

Greenbaum expresses himself as being more than delighted to be back in Los Angeles, for our sunshine is like soothing balm to his fog saturated body. He has not yet decided where he will open a studio, though it will probably be in Blanchard Hall.

Art School Burnt.

The College of Fine Arts, which was burnt to the ground last week, will be rebuilt at once. The newer part, devoted to arts-crafts, remained almost intact, and on the day after the fire the classes in drawing and painting worked here as if nothing had happened. The new school will be in the California adaptation of the mission style, and will be handsome and commodious, more in unity than the old building, which had been built piecemeal to meet the expanding needs of the school.

The College of Fine Arts, an off-shoot of the University of California, was founded in 1900 by William Lees Judson, who has been its manager from the very start, and who has always taken an active part in the teaching of the classes. Judson lost many of his most valuable pictures in the fire, all his last summer's work, which numbers some of the best canvases he has ever painted.

An exhibition of pictures was in progress at the time of the disaster. Among the exhibitors was Helma Heynsen-Jahn, whose striking portrait of her mother was destroyed. As Mrs. Heynsen lives in Europe, this portrait cannot easily be duplicated.

It is Judson's intention to hold an auction sale of his remaining pictures very soon.

Paintings and Illustrations.

An exhibition of paintings and illustrations by John C. Okey and Ida Lillie Taylor is now in progress in Mr. Okey's studio, in the Canadian Building, No. 432 South Main street. The exhibition opened Friday, and closes this afternoon at 6 o'clock.

Jack Okey is, of course, well-known to us all. He studied all last year in Paris, and has just returned to Los Angeles. He has brought with him his Paris sketches and studies, which he is now exhibiting for the first time. Besides the studies made in the classroom, he is showing numerous little "color notes," rapid sketches, made all round Paris. They are crisp and fresh. Some small studio sketches from the nude are also very interesting.

Miss Taylor, who recently came to Los Angeles from Newcastle-on-the-Tyne, England, shows a complete set of illustrations for a forthcoming book for children, to be entitled "An Amusing and Absurd Alphabet." They are effective in color and design, and the alliterative rhymes that go with them (also Miss Taylor's,) are often very funny. Miss Taylor has a fine sense for decorative color. She also shows illustrations for George Meredith's "The Shaving of Shagpot."

Arts and Crafts Exhibitions.

Exhibitions by workers in various arts and crafts are numerous in Los Angeles during the Christmas holidays. I visted three of them the other day, and found many things that were very beautiful, many that were useful as well as beautiful, none that had neither use nor beauty.

Emilie Stearns Perry's collection of bas-relief portraits does not come under the head of arts-crafts, of course, but as she also showed illuminated texts and calendars enriched with photographic reproductions of her sculpture work, I shall speak of it as if it did. Her exhibition was held on the fourth floor of the Y.W.C.A. building all last week, where she has just opened a studio.

Miss Perry showed excellent portraits, in low relief, of Mrs. Pioche Robinson and Mrs. Belle Chipron. There was also a relief, somewhat higher, of two charming children in a group, Elizabeth and Norman Chipron. Some well modeled medallions of famous musicians and literary men attracted favorable notice from lovers of art. On another wall appeared a beautiful portrait, in relief, of Mrs. Marguerite Fennimore.

The illuminated texts were very attractive, well done, good in color, excellent in composition. Miss Perry handles her pen with dexterity, and shows much feeling for the art of illumination.

At the Artemisia Bindery, East Avenue 41, Idah Meacham Strobridge has a permanent gallery of well-chosen pictures by local painters—Wachtel, Mrs. Wachtel, Borg, St. Clair, Maynard Dixon, Ward, and many others. Among the beautiful and interesting things shown in the arts-crafts section of her shop is a full set of her books of Western stories—three volumnes—written by her, illuminated by her, and bound by her.

I also noticed some remarkably attractive books, all bound by Mrs. Strobridge, from the famous press of Helen Bruneau Van Vechten of Wausua, Wis. An Omar Khayyam, whose sumptuous pages held an old Persian border design, was carried out by Mrs. Strobridge, in her binding, in various tints of the grape. Another handsome book was Browning's "Saul," with decorations by Anning Bell. Still another was the "Sermon on the Mount," all its designs being taken from famous church windows. There were also attractive address books, card cases, etc., as well as work from outside craftsmen. Miss Perry, Miss Entler, Fred Robinson (the first man to use Los Angeles clays in pottery,) and others.

Among the interesting new things at the Craft Shop, No. 218 East Avenue 41 (all the work exhibited being by either Mabel Free or Emma Craft, or both,) I noticed a handsome lamp in amber and brown, the design of whose shade, pine cones and needles, was particularly well done and well balanced. Some attractive tobacco jars in browns and yellows were also shown.

The Craft Shop seems to be very successful in its copper plates, getting old rose colors that are as unusual as they are lovely. A vase in dull bluish gray, with a grape vine design, held my eye for a long time, though finally I left it for the display of original jewelry in which semi-precious stones had been used with artistic results.

De Swirsky in Marble and Paint.

Countess Thamara de Swirsky, who delighted thousands of Angelenos a few weeks ago by her beautiful dancing, is so pleased with our climate (and no wonder, when you consider the sunshine of the past month!) that she has decided to remain with us till the beginning of next year, when engagements will force her to "move on" to less congenial fields.

The classic dancer's graceful form has been perpetuated many times in both paint and marble. She poses exceedingly well, and, being an artist herself, enjoys it. A statuette representing her as an Oriental dancer was recently purchased by the Chicago Museum. This statuette is the work of Prince Troubetskoy, the Russian sculptor and painter, who is the husband of Amelie Rives.

Prince Troubetskoy first met the Countess when she was appearing at the theater in St. Petersburg, shortly after her debut. He had closely watched and wondered at her form and face, and, visiting the theater again and again to see her dance, was finally introduced. He asked if she would consent to pose for him. Though unwilling at first, she at last agreed to do so, posing not only as an Oriental dancer, but in many other characters. One of the figurines of the Countess executed by the Prince won the prize at the exposition at Rome.

Piero Tozzi, whose striking painting of Countess de Swirsky is now being exhibited at the Folsom gallery, New York, with other portraits from his hand, won a medal in Seattle last year and one in Rome in 1906. His picture of the Countess is a dashing full length. Tozzi is now in Los Angeles.

Leonard's French Landscapes.

George L. Leonard, the American landscape painter, has just returned to Paris from the town of Etaples, in the French fishing districts, where a colony of artists gather every summer, and has brought with him a number of new canvases which are to be exhibited in Chicago during this winter.

The subject chosen for most of his canveses have been little "spots" of French landscape—sometimes a road, sometimes a field with a few trees, a little rustic hut—an orchard—the simple things with which one meets in this charmingly quaint old town.

Leonard's work is so true to nature, so sensitive and so subtle, that the season of the year, and even the time of day, is felt distinctly by the contemplator who is in sympathy with it—one literally feels the hot, dry days, the storms of autumn, the summer moonlight. These effects have something more in them than their delicate, refined color and correct values; they have the very soul of the French country landscape.

Leonard was born in Boston. After he had finished his education at Harvard he went to Paris to study art, and Paris has been his home for the last nineteen years? His early student days were spent in the studios of Gerome and Bouguereau, and later he took a course of instruction under the more modern painter Aman-Jean.

The figure did not appeal to Leonard as much as the ever changing and gorgeous effects of landscape, so after his studies were completed he devoted himself exclusively to landscape and marine painting. He is a frequent exhibitor at the salons, while his private exhibitions in Paris and in the larger cities of America have always aroused the interest of all lovers of art.

International Studio.

Two articles dealing with the work of well-known etchers, with numerous illustrations, appear in the International Studio for December. The first, written by Frank Weitenkampf, has Sir Seymour Haden for its subject. Some of the famous Englishman's most successful plates are reproduced. The second paper treats of some etchings by Frank Milton Armington, a young Canadian of much talent. Armington's subjects are all European.

A beautifully illustrated article is that by Tor Hedberg on the animal paintings of Bruno Liljefors, a Swedish painter. Another interesting paper is Prof. Jiro Harada's on the wood and ivory carvings of the Japanese. Some remarkable work is shown in the twenty-four illustrations.

W. Alden-Hoven writes of Henry Tebitt, an Australian water color painter; Aymer Vallance on Burne-Jones's designs for painted glass; J. Nilsen Laurik on the third exhibition of advertising art in the National Arts Club; Alice T. Searle on the current exhibition of the New York Water Color Club.

Reviews of holiday books, studio talks, etc., round out the number, an unusually interesting one.

ART NOTES.

Norman St. Clair has been invited to exhibit some of his water colors in the exhibition to be held in Rome in 1911.

S. M. Palmer is delivering a series of interesting lectures on illustrative drawing to the teachers in the Olive street school, every Thursday afternoon at 4:15.

Four hundred of the most beautiful prints from James D. S. Chalmers's collection of two thousand Madonnas are now being exhibited in the Public Library at Long Beach. The exhibition will remain there for a month.

William Wendt's California landscape, "Silence of the Night," which won an honorable mention and a prize of $100 at the recent exhibition in Chicago, has been purchased by the Art Institute for $800. It is now on exhibition in the Corcoran Gallery. From there it goes to the exhibition of the Pennsylvania Academy, and thence to the Carnegie. Verily, a prophet is shown honor out of his own country.

"A Golden Sunset" is one of the good canvasses that Elizabeth Borglum is now showing in her Blanchard Hall studio. It is painted in quiet browns and grays, as to foreground, with vivid yellows in the sky. It is one of Mrs. Borglum's most successful landscapes.

Clarence Urmy's well-known poem, "A Wreath of California Laurel," originally published in Munsey's Magazine, has been reprinted in a small booklet with several charming photographic reproductions of California missions. San Gabriel appears on the cover.

Miss Mary E. Holmes, class of 1895, is the chairman of the Committee of Alumnae in charge of the work of building a student building at Wellesley College. Miss Alice Browne, '05, the secretary, reports that $12,136 has already been raised toward the undertaking. There is also an undergraduate committee.

To Write Their Thanks.

In one of the jewelry stores I saw the most novel stationery for little ones. It is in holly green, scarlet and a pretty shade of dark blue. Now do not imagine for a moment that you know just how it looks, from my description, for it is different from any paper and envelopes you or I have ever seen. It is gilt-edged and is put up in a hinged box and in fact it is just the cunningest little writing outfie for the wee ones to use in writing the thanks for their Christmas gifts.

To Write.

And speaking of stationery, reminds me of pens—no great stretch of the imagination to reach that far. I have always felt that a parody of the couplet, "Of all sad words of tongue or pen," might easily have been concocted about the fountain pen, for long ago I vowed that never again—but I am beginning to be convinced that at last there is one. A man who has been truthful in all other ways tells me that he has carried one of these for five years and that it has always been on the alert for business and has never failed to hold tight to the ink at the proper time. That seems almost incredible—but the testimony seems to multiply—and those who are friends to this pen are as unswervingly loyal as people are to their family doctor or as women are to their own favorite make of sewing machine, or men to the auto by which they swear. Now there must be something about this particular fountain pen to have gained it so many friends. When I saw one which I was assured would carry in a woman's hand bag, without spilling a drop of ink—no matter how often the handbag was dropped, I made up my mind that the gift which I always buy myself after Christmas—when I have learned for sure that no one means to give me what I most want—will be one of those pens. You see they fill themselves and then there is a lock which shuts the ink safely in and yet it is liberated the moment you wish to write. Think what a pleasure it would be to have in your handbag a pen which would write—your check, say—or the address of a friend, given, when you meet her; for you know the pencil points are always broken in your handbag and the pen at the nearest counter is usually not your kind. As you go the round of the stores just listen for the girl who says "fountain pens," and I believe you will be convinced as I am.

EDUCATIONAL NOTES.

The important relationship a commercial school should bear to the business interests of the city was well set out by different speakers at the recent meeting of the Missouri Valley Commercial Teachers' Association. The private business school, said C. E. Birch of Lawrence, must be keen to anticipate the demands of the business world; learn where to strengthen the course, and equally important, where to lengthen it; seize upon new subjects that should be taught; discard subjects and methods no longer needed. Its field is the instruction of those who have not the time or means to attend the high school or university, or who are convinced that the private business school offers the most effective service.

Elbert Hubbard was quoted as saying: "I would not graduate an individual who was not able to go into an office and make good. I am not sure but that I would not give my final diploma until the individual had been a year in a business office, and then I would have the diploma signed by the employer. To me it is a ridiculous and absurd thing to graduate an individual from a school who is not able to earn his living."

Harvard has more leading men of science than any other American university, according to the Harvard Alumni Bulletin, issued today. Of the 1000 foremost scientists of the country seventy-nine are members of the Harvard faculty, forty-eight are at Columbia, forty-seven at Chicago and thirty-eight at Yale. This ranking was made by Prof. J. McKeen Catell of Columbia, and was based upon the expressed opinions of 120 leading American scientists. Prof. Catell's technical scheme of rating gives Harvard .374 points, Columbia, .203; Chicago, .188, and Yale, .141.

Rev. Dr. Charles Alexander Richmond, president of Union College, protests against the growing tendency to trade schools. "The educators of the country," he says, "are going mad over the subject of trade schools and technical training. Col. Roosevelt in one of his Washington speeches said that every college student should be taught a trade. I suppose he had in mind that in the case of some boys a good carpenter or a good farmer had been spoilt in the making of a poor preacher or a briefless barrister; but you might just as well demand that every farmer should be taught Greek."

The old saying that where there's a will there's a way, was fully borne out in the annual report of the committee on employment for students at Columbia University, which was recently announced. The report was signed by Paul C. H. Holter, graduate secretary of the committee, and shows that 707 students applied to the committee for employment, out of which 301 reported their earnings.

The sum total which these men earned as a result of the help the committee gave them in obtaining positions, plus their own efforts, amounted to $166,777.49. This is a record in this department.

Secretary Holter also reported that the amount earned with the committee's aid increased from $29,245.83, last year's figures, to $39,054.02, a difference of $9,808.19, while the independent earnings practically doubled, going from $65,908.89 to $127,723.47.

During the summer vacation of 1909 227 students reported that they had earned the aggregate sum of $13,241.10, through the efforts of the committee, as contrasted with $7,802.59 for 1908, and independently $38,020.50, as against $19,700.98. The statistics show further that 31 per cent. of the earnings came from teaching, 9 per cent. from clerical, 8 per cent. from technical and 32 per cent. from miscellaneous work.

A French Surprise.

SEWING GIRL WHO PROVED TO BE LITERARY GENIUS.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

PARIS, Dec. 2.—When Americans, who are unfamiliar with the literature of modern France, hear that the book of the season in Paris is a novel by an illiterate dressmaker, they might easily be tempted to evoke a picture of highly colored, questionable anecdotes gleaned by some Rue de la Paix purveyor from the daily observation of her smart clients. Such is in no wise the case. "Marie-Claire," was written by an unpretentious little seamstress, Marguerite Audoux, who for many years did piece work for third-rate dressmakers or who sewed in bourgeois homes for a few francs a day.

Literary Sewing Girl.

Marguerite Andoux, who has written the novel of the year in France.

"Marie-Claire" is the story of an orphan who is raised by nuns in a provincial town. At the age of twelve she is sent to be a shepherdess on a farm. After six years of sheep tending and household duties, she return to the convent, where the mother superior turns her out with forty francs to face the world. Marie-Claire buys a ticket to Paris and the book ends. There is practically no plot, nothing but a chain of homely incidents strung together with such simple charm and such an innate mastery of style that the greatest living writers unite in classing the novel with the best of modern French fiction.

Thanks to the public's warm and rapid recognition, the authoress has been able to give up sewing and now she plans to devote herself entirely to writing.

Although Marguerite Audoux has changed her profession, she has not yet moved from the modest room which has been her home for so many years. It is up six steep flights and her small dormer window overlooks the busy life of a Latin quarter thoroughfare. This room, lined with deal cupboards, tables, a sewing machine and mannikin—the simple paraphernalia of the trade—is a combined dining, bed and work room. On the low stove is a covered sauce pan and behind the door a market basket hangs.

Once in a great while when times were good and customers prompt in payment, Marguerite Audoux would relax rigid economy and, instead of a home-concocted meal, she would dine at a cheap dairy lunch establishment—a "creamery," as it is called in France. It was at one of these meals that she met the late author, Charles Louis Phillippe, who was the first to encourage her to write. She confided to him that for several years she had been planning a tale but she feared to try her hand, realizing her lack of education.

"I fancied I must go through the schools to be a writer," she explained to your correspondent. "But the literary friends I had made assured me that it wasn't at all necessary."

After "Marie-Claire" was finished—its writing required from four to five years—it was submitted to many distinguished men and women of letters, among them, the Countess Mathieu de Noailles, who declared that she couldn't get beyond the bad spelling. Others were more fortunate and, although many appreciated its beauty and value, they neglected to take the necessary steps to bring it before the public. At last Francis Jourdain, the artist, submitted it to Octave Mirbeau, who saw that it was laid before one of the most influential Parisian publishers. Mirbeau himself has recommended it to the public in an extremely eulogistic preface.

"Many people have the idea that 'Marie-Claire' is an autobiography," the authoress said, "and that is why many have prophesied that it will be my last book. This isn't at all true. Of course I have borrowed certain incidents and scenes from my own life, but most have been adapted and embellished. It seems to me that a writer must inevitably draw on his or her personal experience to a great extent for literary material. But these personal touches should be merged into a plot whose framework must be mainly imaginative. Of course a plot must stay as close to fact as possible, but it is highly improbable that a series of adventures forming such a harmonious whole should happen to one person. Real life is generally crude, unfinished, lacking the proportions and composition that a written story must have, to be artistic.

"To be sure, the first part of 'Marie-Claire's life resembles my own. I was brought up by the nuns and one sister—the Sister Marie-Aimee of the book—was particularly good to me. I did live on a farm for eighteen months, but I only tended sheep for one month; the work was too hard. The slight love story of Marie-Claire with Henri Deslois I created for the purpose of the story. I had them meet always in the empty house on the hill. It was symbolical of their love just dawning, awaiting its fullness and maturity.

"Yes, like Marie-Claire, I came to Paris when I was quite a young girl, from the department of Cher, where I had always lived. I had worked as a seamstress for 50 cents a day at Bourges. In Paris I got employment for a time with small dressmakers, then, for a while, in a cartridge factory. Those were long, hard days. Later I did sewing at my home and sometimes I went out by the day. Like Marie-Claire, I had a sister who was adopted when we were both children. I don't know where she is now or even whether she is still living.

"When the literary people I met told me that I could write in spite of my lack of schooling. I used to spend my evenings and Sundays covering stray bits of paper with the beginning of 'Marie-Claire.' I wrote to wipe out the memory of the tedious days and on Sundays to distract me, for I have very few friends."

In order to prove that "Marie-Claire" is not merely her autobiography and consequently her first and last book, Madame Audoux is now at work on another novel which will deal with the life of Parisian dressmakers and sewing girls. It will be published in the autumn. Then later she will write the sequel to "Marie-Claire," picturing the vicissitudes of the orphan after her arrival in Paris.

Previous to the publication of "Marie-Claire," several short stories by Madame Audoux appeared in a provincial daily, but these attracted practically no attention. Now the authoress finds that her book is the subject of exhaustive criticisms by prominent writers and herself the recipient of the Academie Goncourt's prize of $1000 for the best novel of the year and the most talked-of literary woman in Paris.

ACTIVE WOMEN.

Mrs. Elizabeth Smyth-Paige writes poetry on order for members of the British smart set. Many persons socially prominent in Great Britain, Mrs. Smyth-Paige said, often carry as many as six or seven of her stanzas about in their heads ready for use all the time—in a love letter possibly, to dash off into a girl's album, to recite at a dinner and that sort of thing, says the Philadelphia North American. She really has more orders than she can fill a good part of the time.

Rev. Effie M. Jones, a Universalist minister of Iowa is spoken of by the newspapers of Berlin as having made the greatest impression oratorically of all the speakers heard at the recent World's Congress of Free Christians and Religious Liberals. The German newspapers dilate on Dr. Jones's impressive appearance, the carrying power of her voice, her self-possession and her wise and witty sayings.

Miss Jane Haskell, daughter of Gov. Haskell of Oklahoma, is taking a course at the Cincinnati School of Expression. "I don't like the idea of girls remaining a burden to their parents after they are able to mae their own living," she says. "Therefore I am going out to teach, or else will go on the Lyceum platform. And I'll earn every penny I spend, too."

Miss Mildred Belknap, a 14-year-old sophomore in the Dorchester, Mass., High School, will undertake to walk from Boston to Baltimore, and if she makes the jaunt without difficulty will then continue on to the Pacific Coast. A few days ago she tramped from Boston to Providence, a distance of forty-four miles, without fatigue. Last spring she walked from her home to the White Mountains.

Miss May Krueger was the youngest delegate at the Prison Congress, which was recently held in Washington City. Miss Krueger was appointed by the Governor of the State of Washington to represent that State because she was so well versed in juvenile court work and all its attendant branches in the State of Washington. As the organizer of the State Society for the Protection of Children and Animals she was also a delegate to the American International Humane Conference.

IN THE LIMELIGHT.

Gen. Henry H. Bingham, the oldest member of the national House of Representatives in point of service, was born in Philadelphia, December 4, 1841, and received his education at Jefferson College. Immediately after leaving college he enlisted in the Union Army and was commissioned as lieutenant of the One Hundred and Fortieth Regiment of Pennsylvania Volunteers. He served till the close of the war, being brevetted brigadier-general for gallantry on the field of battle, and received the medal of honor. Gen. Bingham was elected to Congress from the First Pennsylvania District in 1879 and has served continuously ever since. He also enjoys the honor of having been a delegate to every national Republican convention since 1876.

Senator W. A. Clark of Montana has purchased the most expensive dinner set ever made in America, for use in his new home on Fifth avenue, New York. The service is complete for a party of twenty-four, contains 903 pieces and it is said cost $100,000.

"There's just one thing I'd like to do with you," said Justice James T. O'Neill of Baltimore, as he glared over his desk at a prisoner charged with brutally eating a little 10-year-old boy with a cat-o'-nine tails. "I'd like to be locked up in a room with you for just about ten minutes, and by the time I got through you would be in a condition to keep a hospital staff busy for some time."

Sergeant Wolfe of the Seventh-street Station, Jersey City, settled a schoolboy strike, that had caused some turmoil. Appointing himself a committee of one he took off his belt and employed it as a "pants duster" on thirty of the strikers. Then he made this official report: "I've dusted thirty pairs of breeches and I guess the strike's over. The teachers need to provide cushions, for this bit of leather has got a nip to it. If the teachers had used a ruler in the first place there wouldn't have been any strike."

"Let's take a little ride," said Michale Egan, New York capitalist to his wife, while visiting in Chicago. "Let's," she promptly replied. Egan went into the hotel lobby and bought $1700 worth of railway and steamship tickets that will take them to China, Australia, Europe and home to New York.

RECORD MAKERS.

On a wager, S. M. Salliotte of Detroit, has climbed the stairs of a fourteen-story office building just seventy-seven times the present month. Recently he made the trip eleven times in one day.

George York, Jr., of Skowhegan, Me., is said to hold the State record for sawing wood with the old-fashioned buck saw. He sawed a cord of dry hard wood in an hour last week and recently sawed nine cords in a day of ten hours.

Attorney Joseph Mottan of Brockton, Mass., claims the distinction of smoking the largest pipe in the country. The bowl of his pipe will hold an entire package of tobacco and will smoke all day. The stem measures six feet, four inches in length. The pipe formerly belonged to the King of Bavaria.

I. E. Stewart of Knowlton, Iowa, is being proclaimed by his friends the champion corn husker of the United States. In nine hours he shucked 231 bushels and 50 pounds of corn. Stewart was in the fields for nine hours, forty-five minutes, and took time out but four times in the entire day. At one time, a singletree was broken, and he spent thirty minutes repairing it. Twice he stopped for luncheon, losing fifteen minutes in all, and once his husking pin broke, and he lost another ten minutes.

Elnathan Sherman, an 82-year-old farmer of Rock, Mass., has never been shaved. If he had shaved regularly every day, beginning at the age of 16, he would, according to his reckoning, have scraped himself no less than 34,152 times. If he had been shaved in barber shops it would have cost him, he asserts, nearly $24,000. A total of one year, two months, three weeks and four days would have been consumed.

ARMY AND NAVY MEN.

Lieut. Clifford L. Corbin of the Coast Artillery, who four months ago was offered $20,000 a year as manager of the extensive mining properties of his father-in-law, has again donned the uniform and retired from commercial life. He has been assigned to the 142nd Company, at Fort McHenry.

Gen. Richard H. Pratt, for twenty-five years superintendent of the Carlisle Indian School, was 70 years old recently. He was born in Rushford, Allieghany county, New York. He is a veteran of the Civil War, and was in the regular army many years. In the Indian service, he achieved phenomenal success.

Melvin A. Halstead, 90 years old, founder of Lowell, Ind., has proved up 320 acres of land near Harrison, Neb. He did all the work himself. Halstead is a "forty-niner" and a Civil War veteran. He homesteaded land in Lake county, Ind., when Chicago was Fort Dearborn, and ran the first grist mill in the State.

Brig.-Gen. Earl Denison Thomas, commanding the department of the Colorado, will celebrate his 64th birthday on January 4 next by retiring from the army. This will be the close of a military career longer than that of any other officer now in the army. Gen. Thomas has been in "harness" forty-nine years.

The Lord or the Mule.

The Saline River, in Arkansas, was out of its banks and swiftly flowing, owing to the heavy rains. An old negro and his two sons wanted to cross, each riding a mule. The older son ventured first and came up safely on the other bank. The younger went next, the father remaining to watch, thus the two anxiously witnessed the younger negro's battle against the swirling current. The mule was swimming low, the rider showing little except his head and shoulders above water, when the saddle girth broke, and saddle and contents slipped off the animal behind, which allowed the faithful mule to partially emerge from the water.

It was a critical moment, and the watchers from opposite banks were all anxiety. The imperiled boy clutched frantically upon the tail of the swimming animal, but the old negro evidently failed to note this, and shouted: "Look to de Lawd, Eph'um; look to de Lawd; look to de Lawd!"

The more worldly son on the other bank was obviously skeptical about such advice under the circumstances, for he screamed out: "Nevah you min' lookin' to de Lawd, Eph'um; nevah you min' lookin' to de Lawd; you hol' right on to dat mule's tail."—[Philadelphia Record.

London's New Dish.

"Jugged wallaby, with red currant jelly," or "wallaby pie," is a novel dish with which Londoners are soon likely to be familiar.

Already it is on the menu of more than one restaurant, and before long the housekeeper will be able to purchase from her poulterer a wallaby just as at present she buys a chicken.

The price will be about 3 shillings each, the whole animal, averaging from six to ten pounds, being sold at 5d., or 6d. a pound.

The wallaby is an Australian marsupial, a species of small kangaroo, and is nearly twice as large as an English hare.

The flesh, when cooked, is almost as white as that of a rabbit, and has a pleasantly soft, sweet flavor. To some extent the flavor is reminiscent of oxtail. The wallaby is a most economical food, being almost all meat and quite devoid of fat.

"For the first time on Tuesday last we had jugged wallaby and red currant jelly on our bill of fare," said the proprietor of a restaurant in Leadenhall Market to The Daily Mirror.

"Customers found the dish palatable, and we have arranged for a further supply on one day this week and again for next week."

Preserving Spiders' Webs.

Naturalists employ an interesting method to preserve all kinds of spiders' webs. The webs are first sprayed with an atomizer with artists' shellac and then, should they be of the ordinary geometric form, they are pressed carefully against a glass plate, the supporting strands being at the same time severed.

After the shellac has dried the plates carrying the webs can be stored away in a cabinet.

Even dome-shaped webs may be preserved in their original form by spraying them with shellac and then allowing them to dry before removal from their supports. Many spiders' webs are very beautiful, and all are characteristic of the species to which they belong so that, from a scientific standpoint, their permanent preservation is very desirable.—[Harper's Weekly.

CHAPTERS FROM THE EX-SULTAN'S LIFE.

BY HADDAD EL BAKER.

Sultan Abdul-Hamid had installed a new tobacco-cutter in Yildiz palace. His name was Mustapha.

One day Nadir Agha, the second eunuch, went to Mustapha to get a box of tobacco for the monarch. Nadir took the box to a stuffy little room, where he found the Sultan lying on a couch listening to a slave who was reading to him from a blood-curdling novel, every page of which seemed to be filled with horrors.

The eunuch bowed low and held out the box. Abdul-Hamid's thin, white hand reached out, took it, and cautiously lifted the cover. But it seemed that he did not care to smoke, for after peering inside for a moment with an expressing of deep concern, he placed the box on one side.

Something in his master's action aroused the eunuch's curiosity. That night he chanced to find the tobacco-box lying on a table. He peered cautiously about. There was no one near. He lifted the cover and peeped inside.

"Ah!" he gasped, and drew back with a shudder, as if he had seen within the box some dreadful thing. Next morning a cunning smile played in the corners of the Sultan's mouth as Nadir Agha approached him. "You may have the tobacco you brought me," said His Majesty. "Take it and enjoy it."

No sooner had the eunuch left the royal presence than he again lifted the cover of the box and timidly peeped within.

"It is gone," he muttered. "But I have seen it. I know now what Mustapha is."

THE TOBACCO-BOX.

Mustapha's mysterious tobacco-boxes and the wily monarch never failed to peer inside with the liveliest interest. But it was noticed that he never smoked the tobacco they contained. He was afraid of it. Yet his eunuchs, to whom it was invariably presented, used it with no ill effects. What was it, then, that the little boxes contained?

No, not poison. It was onlya scrap of paper—only a little scrap of paper with a few lines of writing across; it was a thing that meant death.

The scrap of paper was what is called in Turkey a "journal." A journal is a spy's report of a plot. Abdul-Hamid had a passion for journals, and he was always willing to pay well for them, whether they were true or false. Most of them were false, as it happened, but the Sultan seldom took the pains to prove whether they were fact or fiction. Perhaps he could not have done so to his satisfaction, even if he had wished, for he distrusted everybody, was in constant fear of assassins, and was always credulous of reports against his life.

It was not through men alone that Abdul-Hamid's wonderful spy system was carried on. He was shrewd enough to appreciate the value of the subtleties of a woman's nature in the probing of secrets too deep for the masculine mind.

Never was he at a loss for feminine assistance, for he had 300 women in his harem in Yildiz palace, and many of them were mistresses of the art of intrigue. When the men spies reported failure the Sultan turned to a woman invariably if the case happened to be of such a nature that she might be put to work upon it for her work would be confined necessarily to the homes of men of wealth and prominence.

Abdul-Hamid often made presents of women, and it was likely to be considered as a mark of distinction to receive such a gift from the Sultan. But to those who knew the secret the Imperial harem were gifts of unspeakable terror.

THE BEAUTIFUL SLAVE.

On a couch in his study the Sultan lay asleep.

It was early evening, and the palace blazed with a thousand lamps.

From the harem came the tinkle of guitars and the songs of women. Now and then came a harsher sound—the roar of a lion, the savage laugh of a hyena, the chattering of monkeys—from the cages that flanked the wall of the palace grounds. Beneath the windows and along the shadowy walks under the trees of the park a hundred guards paced to and fro with measured tread.

Many years had passed since Abdul-Hamid reached the goal of his ambition. It would have been hard to recognize the young Prince Hamid of the reign of Abdul-Aziz in the haggard, bearded sleeper on the couch. His jaws had grown broader, giving to his face a brutality it did not have before. The large nose had become more hooked and the cheeks sunken to the point of emaciation.

Softly the door opened. A lovely Circassian girl, barely more than a child, for she was only 16 years old, slipped in and gazed for a moment at her master. The girl had become one of the Sultan's favorites and had the privilege of entering his room unannounced. Seeing that he did not wake, she looked about for something to amuse herself with. On a table close to the couch lay a jeweled pistol. Its beautiful settings attracted her, and she picked it up.

Just then Abdul Hamid slowly opened his eyes, and there was a look in them that made her start back in fright. Those eyes were usually absorbed and melancholy, but sometimes in a flash of anger or fear, they would light up like a stormy sky. Now they were concentrated upon her, keen and alert, the pupils appearing very large, like those of a cat in the dark.

—AND WHAT HAPPENED TO HER

"What are you doing?" inquired the monarch slowly, his eyes still fixed upon her face.

"Nothing, your Majesty."

"But you are looking at something"—"Yes, sire—it is so pretty—this." "And what do you call that object?"—"A pistol." "And what is a pistol used for?"—"To kill, sire." She was beginning to tremble.

"To kill? To kill?" muttered the Sultan. "Let me see."

He took the pistol from her hand and his eyes never shifted from her face. Suddenly he sat bolt upright on the couch, and fired—once, twice, thrice. Without a cry the girl slipped to the floor and lay dying at his feet.

Such was the tale told by one of the palace officials in the brighter days when Abdul-Hamid no longer sat upon the throne and it was no longer a matter of death to reveal his secrets. The official had been on duty in the corridors as the girl's body, covered with a rug, was carried through the doors.

EDUCATORS, CHURCHMEN.

Dr. Samuel [illegible] Binion of New York, who has been at work for sixteen years on "A Dictionary of Names," has recently completed his manuscript at the British Museum. Dr. Binion is 73 years old, and the author of several works on art and archaeology. He is best known, perhaps, for his English translations of "Quo Vadis" and "With Fire and Sword."

Prof. Max Muller, who has returned from a six months' stay in Egypt, bringing with him a valuable collection of papiri and copies of the hieroglyphics on the doomed Temple of Philae, is to be appointed lecturer on Egyptology in the University of Pennsylvania. He will undertake his new duties, fortified by the results of his last expedition to the valley of the Nile.

Three college presidents took part in an old-fashioned spelling bee at Columbia, Mo., the night of December 14. Dr. A. Ross Hill, president of the University of Missouri, led one side of the match. His rival was Mrs. Luella W. St. Clair, president of Christian College. Prof. H. N. Quisenberry, president of Stephens College, gave out the words, which were the most unused terms he could find in the dictionary.

Rt. Rev. Peter Rowe, Episcopal bishop of Alaska, will soon begin a journey of 15,000 miles through Alaska, 2500 of it on snowshoes, to visit his isolated missions and establish a new one 500 miles from the nearest fixed trail. For fifteen years he has been the only traveling bishop in the great territory of the Northwest and year by year he has established missions in the frozen country until now he has twenty-two regular stations with teachers, missionaries and trained nurses. Some of them are north of the Arctic Circle and some on the shores of the Arctic Ocean still farther north.

Maj. P. H. Fawcett of the British army has just returned from a 2000-mile tramp through jungle, swamp and hostile savages, as a member of the Bombay Commission, to settle the dispute between Bolivia and Peru. He will present the result of his investigations before the Royal Geographical Society, as well as present the first map ever made of the Heath River, which may be a part of the boundary line between Bolivia and Peru.

Gen. Murray's ability in securing the approval of Congress for the work he was expected to carry out would not have been so great had he not shown himself to be thoroughly acquainted with the details of that work. It is expected that when he is given some other assignment, his present assistant, Lieut.-Col. C. J. Bailey will be designated to succeed him. Liuet.-Col. Bailey has had about four years' experience as assistant to Gen. Murray, and is considered well qualified for the duties which he will probably assume.

PERILS OF PUBLIC OFFICIALS.

Legislation Needed to Protect Them From the Vindictiveness of Anarchists and Wrongdoers.

Not since the simple days before firearms and explosives has there been any adequate protection or assurance against assassination. In those early times a ruler in a dagger-proof shirt was safe enough, if the courtier whose privilege it was to taste the royal food for poison was faithful.

But no precaution can offset the pistol or the bomb in the hands of the murderer who disarms suspicion by appearing as one of the crowd of well-wishers and admirers of the man whom he is about to slay.

"The attempted assassination of Mayor Gaynor," says the New York Evening Post," has inevitably revived queries which were in everybody's mouth at the time of the murder of President McKinley. Cannot our high officials be securely guarded from such perils? Is there no way of making the penalty for crimes of this sort so fearful as to prevent them? Should not even criticism of those in responsible positions be forbidden as leading to crime? To these questions the answer has to be in the negative. Despite all the precautions that can be taken,—and every precaution ought to be taken continuously,—it remains true that exposure to the stroke of an assassin has to be set down among the permanent risks of men prominent in public life. As King Humbert coolly said, after his first escape from attempted murder, such things are among the hazards of the trade. The mayor himself not long ago remarked to a friend who remonstrated with him for going about unguarded, that no one but a lunatic could desire to harm him, and against lunatics it was impossible always to be protected.

"The truth that there is in this should not lead us to overlook the other truth, that our chief executives ought to keep near them men skilled in the detection of criminal impulses. The fact that protection cannot be made absolute is no reason for not making it as full as possible. Sercet service men are not able to make the life of a President perfectly secure, but they can greatly diminish the hazard; can as they repeatedly do, turn away cranks and megalomaniacs and half-cracked haunters of men in high office.

"In the case of Mayor Gaynor, the vengeful spirit which led to the murderous attacks upon him put sharply before us the peculiar risks of an official who seeks to render government honest and efficient. Here was an employee discharged for ample cause, brooding over his fancied wrongs, nourishing his resentments and desire for revenge, until it took this horrible form. But any executive who determinedly set about cleaning up the public service, enforcing economies, resolutely cutting out the deadwood, dismissing the incompetent and the crooked, is certain to provoke a great amount of this lurking ill-will."

It is predicted in Washington that the attempted assassination of Mayor Gaynor will hasten legislation for the better protection of high officials in the government service.

THE KING OF METALS.

Important Position of Iron in the Electrical Industry and the Antiquity of Its Use.

The very root of the electrical industry is iron, says the Electrical Bulletin. Without iron it is doubtful if the larger generators and the mighty motors could be built, for the powerful magnets upon which these inventions depend for their power are all made of soft iron, either in the form of thin plates or long wires covered with insulation.

The iron age is commonly believed to have begun in Africa or Asia. The latest investigations prove that it was not worked in Egypt until the ninth century before the Christian era, or in Libya until 450 B. C.; that the Semites adopted its use still later, and that it has been known in Uganda only within the last five or six centuries. In China iron is mentioned in 400 B. C. Bronze weapons were employed in China until 100 A. D., and in Japan until 700 A. D.

The metallurgy of iron must have originated in Central Europe, especially in Noricum, which approximately represented modern Austria and Bavaria. Only at Hallstett and in Bosnia and Transylvania, from which countries the Achaians and Dorians are supposed to have migrated to Greece, are found evidences of a gradual introduction of iron, at first as an ornament applied to the bronze, which it ultimately displaced. Everywhere else iron was introduced, a fact which implies foreign origin.

Meteoric iron was known in Egypt but a piece of steel bent in theSvbgk in remote antiquity, but no doubt it was worked as flints were worked, by cutting or chipping, and was not smelted. In other words, it was the metallurgy, not the knowledge of iron, that originated in Central Europe.

Nearly everyone is familiar with the common horseshoe magnet, which is but a piece of steel bent in the shape of a horseshoe and charged with magnetism. When a steel bar of this shape is rubbed against another magnet it is "charged," and will remain so for a long time. The magnets used in electrical machinery are of the induction type—that is, the magnetism vanishes just as soon as the current is taken away from them. If you wind a long insulated wire tightly around a soft iron core and send through this wire a weak current of electricity the core will be instantly possessed of strong magnetic qualities.

"MARK TWAIN'S" PLAYGROUND.

BY EDGAR WHITE.

Of the many cities in the United tates which have called "Mark 'wain" their own, none feels toward im as great a depth of tenderness s Hannibal. The citizens of this riverside town knew Sam—the old boys over ere never call him Mark Twain—as youngster. They saw all his frailties, nd they loved him none the less for hem. The only thing they have gainst the great humorist is that he ld not return to them in his declining years, and sit with them on the iver-front and swap yarns of the ong ago.

Mark Twain, soon after his folks ocated in Hannibal, was sent to the g school house in the park. Dr. uck Brown, a much older man than am was, who is yet living in the njoyment of good health, attended hat log school house and was in some f Sam's classes. He was asked if had detected any latent signs of enius in his schoolmate. The old entleman scratched his head and tudied the floor.

" have often thought of that," he emarked slowly, "and it seems like ought to be able to say yes, but the old truth is that I don't remember hat Sam ever gave the slightest hint f a career that would set the world n fire. Why, he wasn't even bad. He ays he was, I know, but I never aught him at any tricks. We did ave a bright lad in our school then, am Raymond by name, and whenever the teacher wanted to show off visitors she would always put Sam p at the board to work examples make him recite, 'The Boy Stood on he Buring Deck.' The visitors always apped their hands and said that one these days Raymond would certainly land in Congress or some place. think he became a tramp printer, nd that's the last I ever heard of im."

Hannibal and the adjacent country eems to have been constructed by the aster Architect in accordance with e wishes of youthful spirits. There at least one hundred ways to get illed within a quarter of a mile of e square. There is Lovers' Leap, wering 100 feet or so above the railad yards, offering a constant and alost irresistible temptation to jump f. It is no trick at all to get lost "Tom and Becky's Cave," to wander bout in the gloomy avenues for miles nd miles and then die gloriously of arvation. The river is alluring and eacherous. There are delightful hirlpools and eddies, where the swimer sinks to rise no more. Behind the uthern bluffs are admirable jungles nd hiding-places for pirates and outws of all descriptions. Sam himself as the captain of the several bandit ngs operating in the neighborhood, he frankly put the history of em in his books.

When Mark Twain rediscovered his playground, thirty years after he d left it, he had become famous a writer, and all the old boys turned t to do him honor. They proudly owed him the immense hotel on roadway which they named after m. At that time it was the most posing building in Hannibal. The morist looked at it thoughtfully. d then studied the surroundings.

"They had to fill up Bear Creek to ild this house here," he said; "it's great pity; that used to be one of e best fishing-places in these parts."

On that occasion the humorist told is story of an incident that occurred st east of the big hotel:

"nd as they have made me out ce I left here, I want to say that never stole anything, no matter how any scrapes I got into. I expect the ason you folks have been slandering memory during my absence is beuse of this part of my boyhood hisry. One day a crowd of us boys anted to go down to the Island to buccaneers or something like that. was necessary to have a boat. There e all sorts of skiffs along the river nt, but we were too honest to borany of them. You see, they were ined to stakes and padlocked. While king around we observed a mariner ming down the river in a low rakish wl of the kind pirates used. He to a stake and went up in town a load of bilge water. We could ily have taken his boat without s knowing a thing about it. But we ere not that sort. All of us went Sunday-school—when we had to—d even stayed to church—once or ice a year when our folks were oking.

"So we went into a boathouse where ere stored some brushes and a can bright red paint. Inside of ten mines we had that yawl looking like a ery sea-serpent. We hid behind a le of lumber to await the mariner. retty soon he came staggering down, d when he saw that red boat there t on the bank and mopped his rehead. We could hear him mumling as he tried to figure it out.

"'If zat's my ship,' he said, 'shen must be awful drunk. If I ain't runk, shumbody has sthole my szhip. uess I'm shober, cosh I know where am at. Don't she no way round t.'

"His brow cleared as if the logic d sustained his reputation for society. Then he zigzagged back to wn, and we boys, with quiet conciences, seized that flaming craft and d a good time down on the island."

On the occasion of his last visit to annibal Mark Twain was bending what beneath his years. The old ums rallied around him as they always did. It was Sunday, and in spite his boyhood's reluctance to attend a unday-school, he consented to go to ne which was being conducted in a ew church on the site of the building which had figured so extensively "Tom Sawyer." The humorist was vited by the superintendent to adress the scholars.

"He never looked more solemn in all is life," said George A. Mahan, an torney of Hannibal, who is a great dmirer of Mark Twain. "When the outhful audience saw that sombre ace they began to look grave. No umor could possibly emanate from at funereal countenance, they hought.

"'It seems to me but yesterday when attended this same school,' said Mr. lemens impressively; 'yet the record f my whitening locks convinces me hat it must have been long, long ago. t is a sad reflection.' A long pause. And yet things haven't changed so ery much. You young folks look just he same as did the young folks with hom I went to school. On looking t you a little closer, however, I fancy hat there has been some alteration—he girls seem to me to be a heap sight rettier than the girls of my time; and he boys'—looking about as if scrutiizing each individual face—'the boys reen—heap—sight—homlier!'"

Many of his old playmates still live n Hannibal. Some of them are older han Mark Twain. Among them are . R. Levering, president of the armers' and Merchants' Bank; Col. ohn L. Robards, who was Missouri's oungest '49er; Joe Tisdale, a little old entleman, who prides himself on the act that he was "cigar maker to Mark wain;" Maj. Frank M. Daulton, a omrade of the "case;" "Doc Buck rown," schoolmate, in the old log academy," on the central street, and rs. Laura Frazer, who was the original "Becky Thatcher," the sweeteart of "Tom Sawyer."

These people, all of whom are yet ctive in some industry, are at the ead of a movement to erect an imosing statue of Mark Twain on the ummit of Lovers' Leap. Electric ights will bring the statue out in pectacular relief at night, thus serv-

the river safely into port. The idea is a good one. No other writer did so much to make the Mississippi River known abroad as did Mark Twain. As a pilot he studied and learned its every mood, and loved it as a patriotic soldier loves his country and his king. The German Emperor once told Mr. Clemens that of all his works he was interested most in "Life on the Mississippi."

KIND HEARTS—GOOD DEEDS.

> "How far that little candle throws his beams!
> So shines a good deed in a naughty world."

The cold weather in Chicago has caused almost innumerable demands upon the charitable organizations for clothing. The number of such requests has been augmented by the number of working people who have been idle for many weeks because of strikes. The women of the Needlework Guild, by their systematic methods, had about 9000 garments on hand and these were promptly distributed among the destitute. The system of the guild is to divide itself into thirty sub-organizations, each with a membership of fifty. These fifties are divided into tens, and the tens are responsible for two garments each year. Some of the members of the guild make the garment they provide. Others buy or get others to contribute.

At a recent charity bazaar in Chicago over $10,000 was realized for the benefit of destitute crippled children. One thousand dollars was paid for a drink of tea. Thomas Griffin, a wealthy manufacturer, stepped in the tea room conducted by Mrs. Graeme Stewart and two dozen pretty debutantes last night and ordered a cup of tea.

Griffin took a sniff.

"Great, isn't it?" commented the young woman who served it.

"Yes, indeed."

Then Mrs. Stewart, supervisor of the tea room, came along. Mr. Griffin drained the last drop, then put the cup down and filled out a check.

"I want to pay for my tea."

Mrs. Stewart took the check and scrutinized it.

One thousand dollars.

"Never mind the change," said Mr. Griffin.

A remarkable will was left by Franz Botor, a wealthy bachelor, who died at Grosswardein, Hungary, recently. Botor was known as a violent woman hater, but the cause of his antipathy was not fathomed until after his death.

In his will he explains that he never married because modern women are utterly ignorant of the principles of cooking. He leaves his entire fortune to the municipality for the purpose of establishing a free cooking school in order that young girls may be taught how to prepare food in a civilized man-once begin the erection of the new cooking school.

A gift of $13,000 to Wilberforce University at Xenia, O., has been announced by Miss Hattie Brown at the university. The money is a gift from a prominent London, Eng., philanthropist who is greatly interested in the education of the negro. Miss Brown, who has just returned from England, obtained the gift by personal solicitation.

George A. Pattison, a patrolman attached to the West Thirtieth-street station, New York, was standing at Forty-second street and Fifth avenue recently, when he saw an aged couple vainly trying to make their way across the avenue through the maze of traffic. He immediately went to their assistance and led them safely to the other side.

The patrolman then started back and was caught in the crush of vehicles. He dodged about for a moment and had almost reached the curb, when an automobile bore down upon him and hurled him to the pavement. He was removed to the New York Hospital, where it was found that his leg had been crushed and that an amputation would be necessary to save his life.

The operation was performed and two weks later Pattison hobbled down the steps on crutches, expecting to board a surface car and start for his home in New Brighton, Staten Island. To his surprise he saw a number of the officers and men of his station lined up to greet him. His fiancee, a Miss Lynch, was also there, her face wreathed in smiles.

Pattison was led through the cheering crowd to a taxicab, which the Thirtieth-street men had engaged to take him to his home. Deputy Commissioner Driscoll has promised to show his appreciation of Pattison's conduct by fixing up a soft berth for him at headquarters.

Mrs. Emma Flower Taylor of Watertown, N. Y., has given to Trinity Episcopal Church of that place $60,000 for a parish house to bring under religious influences "those who are today outside the Christian churches."

Mrs. Taylor had recently erected for the benefit of the town the Roswell P. Flower Memorial Library at a cost of $500,000.

The Largest Loaf of Bread.

The largest loaf of bread in the world was baked the other day by Andrew Newberg, of Austin, Tex. This gigantic mass of the staff of life weighed 140 pounds and was two feet high, three feet wide, and twelve feet long. After the ingredients were mixed the baking process consumed over an hour, a special oven being used for the purpose. The loaf was sent to a barbecue at Moulton, where it was cut and distributed for a large crowd. Mr. Newberg accompanied the bread to its destination to see that it was safely carried. By making this loaf Mr. Newberg breaks his own record for the largest loaf of bread in the world, which was one weighing a hundred pounds sent to the Louisiana Purchase

INDUSTRIAL PROGRESS.

Maj. F. Von Stumm, general staff officer of cavalry, military expert and one of the leading steel manufacturers of Germany, has just completed a tour of the principal iron and steel plants of the United States and sailed for home.

"The American iron and steel industry is organized and conducted on a truly colossal scale," said Maj. Von Stumm. "The degree to which thorough organization and the use of the most perfect labor-saving machinery has been carried, stamps the United States as being in the foremost of the world's progress. No better equipment for production of iron and steel is to be found anywhere."

Several hundred tons of eel grass are shipped annually from Yarmouth, N. S., to Boston and other points in the United States, where it brings a price of from $10 to $12 a ton.

Two or three gatherers of this grass, who appear to monopolize the export trade, buying from the smaller gatherers what they cure, have erected mammoth sheds and are busy storing it away. They report that the market in the United States is well supplied at this time, and that with the excepvery little exported during the coming year, and not a great deal until 1912.

Boston is a very large buyer for this grass, where it is used in building, packing, cheap mattresses, and mixing with other fibers. Efforts have been made to utilize the grass for rope, twine, rug and other materials for which sisal and other grasses are used. It is stout, long and of fine fiber, and it is suggested that it might be used to advantage in paper making.

something wonderful. Whereas a dozen years ago we used very little cement and imported most of that from England and Germany, paying $4 a barrel for it, last year we produced 65,000,000 barrels in over a hundred factories, and the wholesale cost was less than $1 a barrel.

Cloth made from seaweed is the very latest thing. This seems to infringe on a mermaid monopoly. The seaweed used is found on the southern coast of South Australia. It grows on a limestone bottom, but the action of the tide through many centuries, so Vice-Consul Baker reports, has sifted over it masses of shells and sand, until the plant, forcing its way upward, lies on a deposit of its own fiber, intermixed with sand and shells and varying in thickness from four to twenty-four feet. This fiber has been used for bedding and upholstering purposes, for rope, mats, linoleum, army blankets, and paper. Mixed with wool it weaves into an excellent cloth. The present difficulty is the expense of raising the fiber, ninety-nine tons of sand, shells and debris coming up with every ton of pure fiber.

Liberal, Kan., is undoubtedly the biggest broom corn shipping point in the country. So far this season about 350 carloads have been shipped. In one day recently 180 loads of broom corn were brought in by the farmers. Three-fourths of a million dollars will be paid the farmers this year for this product, the price averaging $75 per ton.

The country around Liberal has become a broom corn producer because of a peculiar adaptability of the soil, which is a dark mixed sandy loam. The sand holds moisture well for many months, the farmers say. The average

For some ady Blanche Rosslyn had a collecting skulls, both hu- and reproductions in china, and metal, the gem of them a very small ivory one, which, opened, displayed a tiny

It is that of an "Afridi," by Sir Arthur on the field hich is weirdly interesting ecuiar configuration of the rom the fact that a tooth out of the lower jaw close le of the chin bone. Sir several collections, one of specimens of which have from members of the royal family, while the walls of his study, above referred to, which is a room on the ground floor of his town house, are completely covered with wild animals' heads, from the smallest of deer and antelope to lions, leopards, and tigers, all of which have fallen to his own gun.

Sir Bache Cunard and his father before him have collected armor, and in this Lady Cunard has much helped him, their hall at Nevill Holt having a splendid display of every description. Mrs. Lulu Harcourt's collection of miniatures in wax is unique, very interesting, and singularly beautiful Mrs. Hall Walker has a marvelous number of china cows, quite unequaled by any one, and to these for some years past she has added china birds; while her brother, Mr. Sheridan, lately married to Miss Claire Frewen, who collects Jacobian furniture and silver, has a hobby of china cottages, of Chelsea, Battersea, and other old makes. Mrs. George Batten, the singer, who so lately lost her husband, for many years has given much interest to gathering uncut stones, and the old painted "eye brooches," which a couple of hundred years ago were the rage, lovers having their eyes painted for their "faire ladye"—on any old piece of ivory and set as a brooch, while in return the lady had a representation of her eye similarly painted for her admirer.

Mme. Clara Butt—now Mrs. Kennerley Rumford—has set her fancy on silver fishes of every size and kind; Lady Dufferin lets no "article de-vertu" of the period of Louis XV or Louis XVI pass her by if it is at all attainable; while Mrs. Jordan Mott makes Napoleonic relics a special object.

Mrs. Willie James may be said to be an inveterate collector, for no sooner has she finished (so far as any one can finish) one collection than she starts another. Lady Sackville's hobby is for jade in every form; Lady Decies and Lady Marcus Beresford share a love for cats, whether real or represented in china, silver or bronze; Mrs. Chauncey possesses some wonderful ivories, which were the great interest of her late husband; Mrs. Burrowes, of Stradone, who always has been a great lover of fine needlework, has the walls of her boudoir covered with embroidered oictures, many of which she has done herself.

And so the list goes on, scarcely two people one knows in society having collections of the same article, while one of the most perfect groups of Bartolozzi prints I have ever seen adorn the four walls of Mrs. Harland Peck's boudoir in Belgrave Square.

One of the most important of sales of valuable autographs, letters, poems and historical documents took place at the Messrs. Sothey's week before last, the day following the sale of the collection of the famous Owen Meredith's manuscripts. The lot included letters in autograph, as well as manuscripts, of Burns, Byron, Walter Scott, the Duke of Wellington, Nelson, Benjamin Disraeli, the Brownings, and an important series of papal documents from 1513 up to the present time. Among the Byron pieces was a translation, in autograph, of the "War Songs of the Greeks," including the folowing verse, probably intended for "The Bride of Abydos.":

Who would not do—what he hath done
Death is but what the haughty brave,
The weak must war—the wretch must crave
Then let life go to him who gave
I have not quailed to Danger's brow
When high and happy—need I now?

There is also an interesting letter by Byron from Genoa while he was engaged in buying arms and ammunition for the Greeks. Another interesting lot is a manuscript containing extracts from the journal of Thomas Moore, in the autograph of Lord John Russel,, relating to the burning of Lord Byron's memoirs. These documents almost certainly would have cleared up the mystery surrounding Byron which has exercised biographers since his death.

An important series of seventy-nine autograph letters by Walter Scott, addressed to John William Croker and written between 1809 and 1831, also was sold. These letters discussed many topics and persons, including Lord Byron, "whom," writes Scott, "I would fain bring back to sound politics and sound sense, as his talents are really of such an extraordinary description . . In sincere good will to him and to the country he belongs to, I have done my best to give him a rally."

There is another important letter from Walter Scott to R. K. Douglas, in which he repudiates the suggestion made by Gourgaud that some of the documents he used in his "Life of Napoleon" were forged.

Of the Burns lots the most important was a manuscript song of two stanzas, entitled "Wilt Thou Be My Dearie," for singing to the tune of "Sutors Dochta." The second stanza runs thus:

Lassie, say thou lo'es me;
Or if thou wilt na be my ain,
Say now, thou'lt refuse me
If it winna, canna be.
Thou for thine, may chuse me,
Let me Jeanie, quickly die,
Trusting that thou lo'es me;
Jeanie le me quickly die,
Trusting that thou lo'es me.

Other interesting lots were an autograph poem by Chatterton, entitled "Heccar and Gaira, an African Eclogue;" two interesting letters by Meredith on authorship and literary style; an important series of letters from Benjamin Disraeli before he was prime minister, and chiefly addressed to his sister; also an autograph receipt from Oliver Goldsmith, acknowledging that he "Received from Mr. James Dodsley thirty guineas for writing and compiling a history of England."

Of a similar character was the original receipts signed by Laurence Sterne and James Dodsley for the sale of the copyright "Trisatram Shandy," which was put up for sale, but not sold.

nes to his credit. He was born in 1867 that part of England which he has adequately described, in the Five owns—the pottery district of Northn Stratfordshire. His education was quired at New Castle, where he arted a career of law. This profeson, however, he abandoned and unged into journalism. In 1895 he as the assistant editor of a London ublication called "Woman," and in 98 became its editor-in-chief. Two ears later he retired from the edirial business and gave up his time xclusively to writing books. He has ade his home in France and it is here at most of his novels have been writn. He works rapidly, but thoroughly. he following are his principal books: Fame and Fiction," "The Grand abylon Hotel,"—"Anna of the Five owns," "The Truth About an Author," Leonora," "A Great Man," "Sacred nd Profane Love," "Tales of the Five owns," "Whom God Hath Joined," The Grim Smile of the Five Towns," Cupid and Commonsense," "What the ublic Wants," "Deeds of Denry the udacious."

Ernest Peixotto, author of "Romantic alifornia," is one of those who hold hat Bret Harte's stories were not exggerations in any way, and to show ow possible they were, he says: "Oftimes, even today, gambling dens at ngel's are as lively as ever they were the fifties. Men play poker with pissls on the table, stake all that they ossess upon the outcome of a horse ace, or coolly lay wagers on the time aken in dying by a Chinaman, stabbed ith a cheese-knife in their presence."

Comes, now, another one, Mrs. Elizaeth Smyth-Paige, who writes poetry n order for the members of the Britsh smart set (and for commercial ses only occasionally,) and whose erse has flowered not only in the love ntes of the mighty, but also in the ivorce courts over there, is all the way rom Londontown to see if there isn't oom for her sort of thing on this side if really now, she mayn't tuck a viot of thought amid the cold stone and laster realities of our existence here, or in the rose of inspiration, in passing, pon the drab garb of our everydays.

Many persons socially prominent in reat Britain, Mrs. Smyth-Paige said, ften carry as many as six or seven f her stanzas about in their heads eady for use all the time—in a love etter possibly, to dash off into a girl's lbum, to recite at a dinner and that ort of thing. She really has more orders than she can fill a good part of he time and she finds a growing demand for the output of the flock of weet-faced poetesses whom she keeps onstantly employed. As soon as a erson uses up his stock of verses or ets too near the limit of his stock in ind, he orders more. Of course much f the work is done to suit special ases—to fit the color of a girl's eyes r the subject of discussion at a dinner—and these are more expensive. The oetesses who do the work are very apable and can turn out stuff apparntly that is a good imitation of what he real money-getting poets do. Mrs. Smyth-Paige only attends to the more portant work, and the mill is grinding away while she is on the trip here o see if it wouldn't be good business o establish an American branch of her orks. A special line often called for re verses with blanks that may be illed in with a girl's name or a man's ame, and in this sort of thing Mrs. Smyth-Paige and her cohorts imitate everything in the way of poetry from he profanity of Kipling to the tender yricism of Keats or Shelley.

The news that Edward Markham, lla Wheeler Wilcox and others have rganized in an effort to do something for poetry, recalls a similar organization in sixteenth-century France. Five young men attending college in Paris, all of good family and from cultured homes, deliberately formed themselves into a society to refashion the poetry of their country and reform its literature. They called themselves the Pleiade. They were very young. Two were 17, one was 21, and two were 24. Two elderly fellows who later associated themselves with the movement were respectively 28 and 41. The French Pleiade is the best known constellation of the literary heavens

A. E. W. Mason, the English author whose "At the Villa Rose" is among recent publications, has tried his hand successfully not only at writing novels, but also at writing plays and acting in them, and playing politics. At that he is but 45. Mason took his B. A at Oxford, where he was one of the university's amateur actors. Later he took to the professional stage, touring the provinces and playing in London as one of the soldiers in Shaw's "Arms and the Man." In 1895 he decided to leave the stage to write a novel, and "A Romance of Westdale" was produced that year, well received by the critics but not enthused over by the public.

But when only the next year his second effort, "The Courtship of Morrice Buckler," appeared, it at once became the book of the day, running through many editions, and put its author in the front ranks of popularity. Its sale continues, like most of Mr. Mason's stories, in a popular 6-penny series. The author proved himself industrious as well as versatile. "The Philanderers" came in 1897, then "Laurence Clavering," "Parson Kelly," written in collaboration with Andrew Lang, "Miranda of the Balcony," "The Watchers," "Ensign Knightly," a collection of short stories, "Clementina," reminiscent of Dumas, "The Four Feathers," Running Water," "The Broken Road," and "At the Villa Rose." In collaboration with Miss Isabel Bateman he dramatized "The Courtship of Morrice Buckler," which was successfully produced; he dramatized "Miranda of the Balcony," which was staged in New York; and in the last year saw the production of his two plays, "Colonel Smith" and "Marjorie Strode." All this would seem to have been sufficient to keep a man busy, but in 1906 Mason was seeking a new outlet for his energies in the political world and was elected member of Parliament for Coventry. "He signalized his advent in the House of Commons," says the current Bookman (London,) "with a notable maiden speech, proved himself shrewd and eloquent in debate and if he had not escaped we might in due season have been the richer by a sagacious and sympathetic cabinet minister and one brilliant novelist the poorer. But fortunately the fascinations of the mother of Parliaments were not so potent as the charms of that muse who presides over the doings of all good novelists, and at the last general election Mr. Mason was not to be persuaded to offer himself as a candidate again."

Howard Pyle began his career as an author under somewhat unusual circumstances. A number of years ago he heard of an island off the coast of Virginia where a peculiar breed of ponies ran in a semi-wild state. He visited the place, and wrote a paper upon it, which he sent to Scribner's Magazine. Following the advice of friends, who saw in this article the promise of better things, Pyle came to New York and began to work with both his pen and his pencil. He had inherited from his mother a taste for both art and literature; and she, being a large reader of light literature, and a critic of keen perceptions, cultivated and directed this taste, thus exerting a marked influence in the formation of her son's intellectual character. After coming to New York, Pyle did a considerable amount of work more or less obscure, until finally he caught the attention of his brother artists by a more serious drawing than any he had yet undertaken. This was called "Wreck in the Offing;" and represented the interior of a life-saving station of the old-fashioned style. A fellow in oilskins and sou'wester has just flung open the door, in a gust of wind and rain, and shouts to his companions the startling words which form the title of the picture. This drawing was published as a double-page engraving in Harper's Weekly, and brought Mr. Pyle at once into prominence. Of late Pyle has been directing his attention more and more to book-making, writing and illustrating his own stories, and bringing all parts of the book into harmony with the spirit of the tale. Being somewhat of a bibliophilist, Pyle finds the creating of books to be without question, his most congenial occupation. He has rarely painted for exhibition. The first book in which his skill as a story-teller and his talents as an illustrator became conjointly apparent was "The Merry Adventures of Robin Hood," published in 1883. His next book, a romantic sea story, called "Within the Capes," published in 1885, was without illustration. Following these two were: "Pepper and Salt," (1886) a collection of fanciful tales and verses, and "The Rose of Paradise," and "The Wonder Clock," etc. Pyle's latest illustrated book just published, "The Story of the Grail and the Passing of Arthur," is the third in a series dealing with King Arthur and the Knights of the Round Table. In 1879 Pyle returned to Wilmington, Del., where by the way, he was born in 1853, and since then he has made his home there.

BOOK CHIT-CHAT.

H. G. Wells novel, "The New Machiavelli," which was to have been published this fall by Duffield & Company, has been postponed until January. The central figure of the story is an English statesman who deliberately chooses exile rather than accept the political prize that his own skill has brought within his reach.

In the passing of John La Farge, America has lost not only one of its greatest painters but also its foremost art critic. People will ever be glad that he remained long enough to complete a new volume called "One Hundred Masterpieces," which Doubleday, Page & Co, will bring out in a few months. In his earlier volume, "The Higher Life in Art," he produced a notable resume of the work of Delacroix, Daubigny, Decamps, Rousseau, Corot and Millet; while in "Great Masters," he analyzed with his fine skill, Michael Angelo, Raphael, Rembrandt, Rubens, Velasquez, Durer and Hokusai. Coming as they did from the pen of a master workman, these two volumes took their places as authoritative contributions to art criticism.

S. D. Woods, a prominent Californian will publish this month, through Funk & Wagnalls Company, "Lights and Shadows of Life on the Pacific Coast," a volume of reminiscences and anecdotes of a long life, beginning with many stories of the gold rush of '49 and continuing with observations on the daily life and history of the Pacific Coast from that time to the present day.

Houghton Mifflin Company announce for publication in the early spring a memoir of the late John La Farge, with a study of his work, by Royal Cortissoz. Mr. Cortissoz, who is critic of art and literature of the New York Tribune, and the author of important books upon art matters, has an intimate knowledge of Mr. La Farge and his work, based on a friendship of some twenty years. The book, which was sanctioned by Mr. La Farge, will embody recollections communicated by him to the author in manuscript, together with numerous notes of conversations, anecdotes, etc., making it a personal portrait of authenticity. It will be fully illustrated with reproductions of La Farge's work reproduced in photogravure.

IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

UNDER the broad title of "Teachers Institute, a great series of educational meetings will be conducted in Los Angeles from Dec. 19 to 23, inclusive.

During this time joint institutes of the Long Beach City School district, the Los Angeles City School district, the Los Angeles City High School district, the Pasadena City School district, the Pomona City School district, and Los Angeles County will be held, with the Southern California Teachers Association. This is the eighteenth annual session.

An especial feature will be the musical programme at Temple Auditorium on Monday afternoon, presenting some of the best local talent which the city affords, and an afternoon devoted to sight-seeing, at which time the Chamber of Commerce, the Southwest Museum, the various high school buildings and the City Playgrounds will be open to visitors.

The play, "Mice and Men, to be given by the Los Angeles Teachers Building Association for the purpose of raising funds for the joint clubhouse, will be presented at Polytechnic High School Auditorium, on Tuesday evening, December 20, and attendance at this play will be considered as a substitute for one-half days attendance at the institute. The entire cast of characters is from among the city teachers and the orchestra also is made up of teachers.

Some of the subjects of popular interest which will be discussed during the sessions are: Art, with George T. Winterburn, chairman; athletics, Dr. Everett C. Beach, chairman; Evening, Special and Vacation schools, E. J. Lickley, chairman; science for girls, Miss Blanchard of Los Angeles High School, chairman; student government, W. W. Tritt, chairman; nature study, J. B. Monlux, chairman; language and languages, Dr. Grant C. Karr, chairman.

Special section meetings will be devoted to such subjects as manual training, moral training, humane education, health and development and agricultural education, all under able leaders.

The high school section, Prof. W. H. Housh, chairman, will present a very interesting programme, consisting in part of an address, "High School Extension Upward," by Prof. Alexis F. Lange; address, "High School Morals," Miss Bertha Oliver; address, "High School Manners," E. L. Hardy, and discussions of these subjects by President Jesse F. Millspaugh, Miss Eugenia Fuller, Nathan F. Smith, F. A. Wagner, LeRoy D. Ely, A. B. Clayton and D. E. Burcham.

There will be addresses by Superintendent Francis, County Superintendent Mark Keppel, President Thomas Newlin, Hon. Webster Davis, President Millspaugh, Bishop W. M. Bell, President Baer of Occidental and others well worth hearing.

The Parent-Teachers' Associations will have charge of one session, Mrs. Chalmers Smith, chairman.

During the entire week, the Los Angeles City Teachers' Association will keep open house at the Angelus Hotel, suite 221, where all teachers will be made welcome and tea will be served each afternoon.

The institute programme will be printed in full each day in The Times, and full reports of the proceedings will be given.

At an Aud Call at Polytechnic last week, Congressman-elect Stephens addressed the student body upon the history and greatness of Los Angeles in particular and California in general.

Both the Senior and the Junior Ionian clubs gave programmes last week at Poly, and each was exceptionally good. The Junior Ionian on Thursday was as follows: Mandolin Club, "Juanita;" recitation, "Long 'Fore I Knew Who Santa Claus Was," by Miss Ester Barber; reading, "The Carnal and the Crane," by Lorenza Rifenbauch; duet, "Christmas Carol," by Misses Hammon and Booker; recitation, "Dickie's Christmas," by Miss Anna Arms; piano solo, Rondo Brilait, Miss Ethel White; recitation, "Patsy," Miss Fern Doster; "Birds' Christmas Carol," Miss Bremen. The music by the Mandolin Club was especially fine, and Miss Bremen's piano solo elicited much enthusiastic approval.

The Senior Ionian, given on Friday, was a full Christmas programme and consisted of: Critic's report, Helen Candler; Yuletide Potpourri, P. H. S. Orchestra; The responsibility of giving, a talk by Allan Box; Trio, A Quiet Night, Neidlinger, by Hazel Landers, Gladys McKay and Bernice Ellis; The Christmas Carol, Dickens, by Florence Stockwell; Humoresque, Dvorak, by P. H. S. String Quartette; Largo, Handel, by Boys' and Girls' Glee Clubs; New Year's Message, original poem by Elinor Richards, Myron Rodda (accompanied by chiming bells;) Christmas Bells, song by the school. The stage was handsomely decorated with poinsettias, holly wreaths and Christmas greens. Miss Ida Morris, vice-president of the Senior Ionians, had charge of the programme.

Members of the Dramatic Club, "The Masque and Sandals," gave a party on Friday evening, in honor of Miss Dickson, dramatic leader, and the boys of the dramatic department, at the home of Miss O'Conner, 1243 Westlake avenue.

The Self Government (Girls' and Boys') gave a general party on Friday at the gymnasium of Polytechnic. Dancing, games and refreshments were upon the "programme."

The French classes of Miss Molle are making careful preparation for the play to be given in commemoration of the birthday of eJanne d'Arc, early in January. The play was written by a member of the class.

Commencement gowns are already being discussed by the girls of Polytechnic, who under the advice of Miss Ross have decided to make simplicity one of the principal features of their clothing upon that occasion. Most of the dresses will be made by the girls themselves, in the sewing department.

The Evening High School, located in the Polytechnic building, and numbering among its faculty many of the same teachers as those of Polytechnic, has held its large membership throughout the term; and is in fact growing in popularity as its facilities are becoming more widely known. Practical and helpful to those who cannot attend day sessions, this school affords exceptional advantages to those who are seeking advancement along the lines of their present occupation or who are striving for culture while making a living by daily work.

At Los Angeles High School, a programme of Christmas music was given on Friday, a pretty feature of which was the series of songs by tiny tots from the Alpine school, the wand drill by B-10 girls, and an original poem by Laura Caldwell. The programme was under the auspices of the Star and Crescent and the Phrenocosmian societies, with Muriel Rowell in charge.

On Thursday afternoon, the Boys' Glee Club of L. A. High gave a fine programme at the County Hospital. The appreciation of the inmates of this institution was most enthusiastic and the boys of L. A. entered into the work with the true Christmas spirit. Miss Blythe had given them excellent training.

Dr. Blaisdell, president of Pomona College, addressed the student body of Los Angeles High at an assembly call last week, his subject being "How to study." "The best thing learned at school," said he, "is how to learn. Not the mere acquisition of facts, but to acquire the habit of study, is the highest object of education in school and college," said the speaker.

An interesting event of the holiday season will be the presentation on January 4, of the Glee Club of Stanford University. A number of those who recently took part in a play at Stanford are former students of Los Angeles High School. Miss C. D. Workman, who took the leading feminine part, was a Los Angeles graduate, R. H. Seward, leading man, took part in many plays while at Los Angeles, Laurence L. Hill of Stanford, and editor in chief of the Stanford newspaper, was a Los Angeles boy, as was also P. M. Ogilvie, who recently won first prize in the Bonnheim Discussion, at Stanford.

"As You Like It" will be presented at Los Angeles High on January 6.

Miss Blythe, head of the music department of Los Angeles High, will have charge of the chorus of over 200 voices in the programme to be given at the dedication of Agricultural Park, on December 17. Patriotic songs will form the main part of this programme.

Between 200 and 300 students of physical geography at Los Angeles High will go on an excursion to Eagle Rock Valley on Friday, under the tutorage of Messrs. Van Cleve, Jacobs and Van Patton. They will study and sketch the contour of the country and its formations.

Prof. Bentley from Stanford University visited Los Angeles High last week.

It is said, upon authority, that the clock of Los Angeles High School tower will really be set in motion during the Christmas holidays.

At Sixteenth-street school, some very interesting work is being done by the students in the grades.

Miss Bear's A-7 classes show remarkable range and taste in their color work, which is taught from the foundation, when they are set to studying the color rhythms and complimentary colors and from these are led to compose simple drawings in crayola. Harmonious coloring and in many instances real genius in composition are shown. From the flowers they draw and then conventionalize, according to their own ideas. In stenciling they show especial interest, having made for the holidays many pretty novelties upon fabrics.

Miss Pritchard's eighth grade boys and girls do excellent work in singing, and Miss Angell's kinders created a most interesting Christmas celebration in which they were joined by Miss Frances Kingery's class, A-1. Miss Kingery is a born teacher, and that she loves her work is shown by every move made by her as well as by the boundless affection elicited from her pupils. She has invented games for teaching, spelling and reading and if there was ever a royal road to the slavery of spelling, she has found it for her little students. In their drawing, their singing, their recitations, there is an infusion of enthusiasm seldom found in any grade and long forgotten, as a rule, by older students. Miss Kingery puts herself into all that she does, and manages to charm away all that is commonplace about the most simple tasks. Miss Williams, the principal of this school, is also a woman of most pleasing and spiritual personality.

In a lot adjacent to the school the gardens recently instituted by the Board of Education are already under way, a number of the larger boys being at work spading and hoeing and preparing the ground for "crops."

At the last meeting of the Science and Mathematics Association of Southern California, Dr. Snyder, principal of Hollywood High School, was elected president of that body.

Low Fee for This Week—Low Fee.

ALWAYS CONSULT THE BEST. IT IS THE CHEAPEST IN THE END. IT IS BETTER TO CONSULT NO PSYCHIC THAN ONE WHO IS NOT ABLE TO HELP YOU.

Before you go into anything of importance—or undertake anything serious—in business, love or marriage, or before you make any change—you should consult this master mind of psychics.

IN FACT, ARE YOU HAPPY,

KNOWING NOT WHICH WAY TO TURN.

THEN CONSULT

BYRON STANLEY

The Acknowledged Leader of Them All.

Don't struggle with a burden you can divide. A troubled mind begets a morbid conscience. Sympathy, consolation and timely advice heal the worst of wounds. Be advised and relieved of anxiety.

If you want the truth, with reliable advice, you will consult BYRON STANLEY on past, present and future. Also remember what has been told you, which too often is not the case.

NO NEED TO TELL HIM!

There is no need to tell Stanley your story. There will be no "quizzing" or asking questions. His talents enable him to instinctively know your wants and troubles. Without any attempt at mystification, but with unerring sight into the inner nature of things, he reveals that which you most wish to know. His advice on all matters, business, lawsuits, marriage, health is invaluable. He is exact and correct—no guesswork. He gives names, dates, facts and figures and shows clearly and distinctly the road to success in business, as well as in domestic and family affairs.

Byron Stanley's name is a household word in thousands of homes in California. He has restored happiness (where there seemed no hope) to thousands, and has brought success, contentment and happiness to thousands more. He is here offering you the benefit of his priceless powers and knowledge gained during twenty of the best years of his life. Could you possibly ask more?

To whom it may concern: We take great pleasure in recommending our brother, PROF. STANLEY, as a life reader of good standing, having to our knowledge been fully developed in all the various phases of mental mediumship. We cordially recommend him to any individual or society that may need his advices.

PROF. C. IRVIN ALTHOUSE.

NOTED ASTROLOGER AND PALMIST.
205½ S. SPRING, NEAR THIRD ST.

A resident of Los Angeles 27 years.

PROF. ALTHOUSE is an experienced practitioner in the science of modern ASTROLOGY, by which he has made many REMARKABLE PREDICTIONS. The HOROSCOPE—calculated from the PLANETS at your birth, will show what a powerful influence they have in all affairs of life. It shows diseases, deaths, domestic affairs, financial affairs, your talents; your environments; tells about children; when and where to travel; what to seek and what to avoid; when in danger of illness, accidents, death, losses, troubles, etc., etc., also your good periods coming—GIVING DATES OF THESE EVENTS FOR THE FUTURE, in fact, the HOROSCOPE GIVES ACCURATE AND RELIABLE information on ALL AFFAIRS OF LIFE. No important changes of ventures of ANY kind should be made except at such a time when the planets in YOUR horoscope are favorable. PREDICTIONS for the FUTURE—made by the trained judgment of Prof. Althouse, will stagger the senses. PROF. ALTHOUSE read E. H. Sothern, Nat Goodwin, Virginia Harned, Gadski, Admiral Schley, David Starr Jordan, ex-Gov. Pardee, ex-Senator Clark, Gen. Chaffee, Edison, Sousa, Modjeska, Annie Besant, Frederick Warde, Louis James, Lillian Russell, Calve, Admiral Evans, Baron Rothschild, H. E. Huntington, Julia Marlowe, Anna Held, Joaquin Miller, Capt. Hobson, Jefferson, Countess de Swirsky, Fritzi Scheff, Ysaye, De Wolf Hopper, Barney Oldfield, etc. These are a few of the more NOTED PUBLIC PERSONS—and for this reason only are they here mentioned—ALL positively read by PROF. ALTHOUSE besides hundreds of the best people of Los Angeles, with whom all his readings are strictly CONFIDENTIAL.

DR. J. A. LARSON writes: "I want to say that your reading was the most satisfactory thing I have ever had in my life. I know a great deal about these sciences, and I consider your work as the most thorough and reliable of any reader in the United States."

PROF. ALTHOUSE is an expert PALMIST, and WITH EACH PALM READING GIVES ALSO AN ASTROLOGICAL READING.

PROF. ALTHOUSE'S skilled work must in no wise be classed with that of other readers. Therefore, do not waste your money on the idiotic advice and warning of HUMBUG astrologers, cheap fake would-be readers and teachers of "Ancient" Astrology; also palmists, psychics, etc., who deceive the public through dishonest methods.

PROF. ALTHOUSE'S wonderful proficiency in the casting of horoscopes and hand reading has brought him a large and successful practice. The most private confidences are reposed in him, and his advice is sought in the most difficult and critical circumstances.

HIGHEST GRADE OF WORK that skill and experience can produce; therefore, HIGH-CLASS PATRONAGE SOLICITED.

Daily and evening. Sunday, 10 to 2.

PERSONAL—

MRS. MASSON,

the noted palmist of London, Eng., may be consulted at 222 S. SPRING ST. (over Owl Drug Store) by those desiring CAREFUL, CONSCIENTIOUS AND SCIENTIFIC HAND READINGS FROM ONE OF THE FOREMOST PALMISTS OF THE DAY.

The earnest student and thinker will soon learn in his investigation along psychological lines, that that which pertains to occult phenomena proper can readily be distinguished from crude and oft-exposed SLEIGHT-OF-HAND TRICKS, the most common of which is the telling of the subject's name, age, etc., AFTER HE HIMSELF HAS WRITTEN THAT information.

PALMISTRY, HONESTLY PRACTICED, WILL NOT tell you your name, but it WILL give you information of considerably greater value in every-day life.

Your vocation, your present line of work, matters of health and domestic life, financial conditions, and ways and means of climbing out of a rut of ill luck into wide paths of success and prosperity, can all be told you through scientific palmistry WITHOUT A SINGLE QUESTION, WRITTEN OR VERBAL.

MRS. MASSON DOES NOT APPEAL TO IGNORANT SUPERSTITION, BUT TO THE FINEST INTELLIGENCE.

HIGH-CLASS PATRONAGE SOLICITED.
(Daily and evenings; Sundays, 9 to 5.)

PERSONAL—REWARD; WILL PAY $100 FOR information leading to conviction of any one claiming to be physician and treating the ill, not licensed in this State or revoking physician license for unprofessional conduct. Address C, box 24, TIMES OFFICE.

MR BUYER MR SELLER.

Read this, it will interest you.

There is only one place in this "Big Town" to buy a good auto and not pay fancy prices—Remember our system, $25 to us and take any auto in stock at owners' marked price "on every car."

We are selling one to five machines every day, why? we lay the blame to our "down to date system."

A hint to owners—We find it harder to get good cars than to sell them—be wise—bring us your car, watch it every day and see your price on it and depend on us for the rest, we will sell the car. 25 to 30 to select from and every one a rare bargain—our success has been so great we expect to announce within the week the opening of our 2nd store—We trade cars and sell on installment.

LOZIER AGENCY—

Mr. Buyer, do you realize that when you pay from $1600 to $3000 for a new car, you are throwing about 20 per cent. of it away, for if you only run a new car 1000 miles, the car depreciates 20 per cent. Now, wouldn't it be better for you to come to us and buy one of our guaranteed used cars and save that 20 per cent., for you can drive any one of our cars that we sell you for a year and it will only depreciate about 8½ per cent. (Just figure this out.)

We have the following used cars on our garage floor, all of which are in perfect condition and guaranteed.

One four-cylinder Briarcliff model Lozier, in perfect condition. This car will go over any hill in town at least 25 miles an hour, and will do 65 miles an hour on the road. This car cost originally $5300. We will sell it this week with a guarantee for $2500. We are putting this low price on this car in order to determine whether people read our advertisements and answer them. Bring this ad with you.

One 1910 Locomobile "30," fully equipped and in perfect condition. $2500.

1908 Locomobile, 45-60 horsepower, seven-passenger touring car, just painted and overhauled; original cost $5500. This week only $2000.

70-h.p. hotel bus with trunk rack on top; positively sold this week to the highest bidder.

1910 Hudson Roadster, in perfect shape, just overhauled and painted, has the appearance of a 1911 car. Price this week only $925.

We have on our salesroom floor one 1910 Little Six Lozier, 5-passenger, fully equipped touring car, in perfect condition, wh'ch was left with us to be sold. The owner of the car has been asking $3000, but owing to the present money condition he claims he is in a pinch and needs $2500, and told us to let the first man that had the cash have the car. His loss is your gain.

Now, two people were lucky enough to get bargains in second-hand cars from us this last week. They understood who they were dealing with. Now, it is up to you to ask any of your friends or people whom you have been dealing with whether or no you are safe when you buy a car from us, whether new or second hand.

GRUNDY'S.
1150-56 South Main st.

The premier position of the Pacific Automobile Company in the handling of used automobiles is now so well established and its superior methods of business so generally acknowledged that we simply intend to keep our name before the public in newspaper advertising in the future, coupled with an occasional letter received by us from satisfied customers. You may read, in other advertisements, of the largest stock, etc., but we can say, without fear of contradiction, that there is no stock in the city of Los Angeles to compare with ours, in either quality or price. We are the only establishment in Los Angeles, containing completely equipped repair and rebuilding shops. At the present time, we are employing eight first-class mechanics. As to our responsibility, both financial and moral, we refer any intending purchasers to any automobile factory agent, tire company, automobile supply house and to Dunn and Bradstreet's. At the same time you make inquiry as to the Pacific Automobile Company, make a little inquiry as to some of the other fellows.

Gentlemen:—

About one year ago, I purchased from you a touring car, which I have driven over 9000 miles with the very best of satisfaction, and on deciding to sell same, I was less than a week in getting my money for it.

At the time I purchased my car, I knew very little about automobiles and left the matter entirely with you.

Thanking you for the care with which you have attended to my automobile wants, I am

GOVERNMENT Lands—and Land Scrip.

STATE LAND IS NOT ADVERTISED BY THE STATE.—Much school land has been forfeited to State for non-payment during many years past. Some I have seen and know is valuable. I write you WHY there is good school land now. WHERE and HOW to obtain State land from Northern to Southern California; total expense for deed less than $2.00 per acre. Many would rush for land if they knew what I know. It has cost me much. NOTHING FREE. For $10 I will answer questions, send information, marked map and description of ten pieces of State land that I find nearest any town you mention, provided you promise to pay me 25 cents per acre as soon as you are officially informed that your application has been accepted. First payment to State is $25 on 40 or 640 acres; about 25 cents an acre in six months; $1 an acre runs indefinitely at 7 per cent. interest; deed signed by three State officers. Some land good for fruit, such as apples and oranges; some for stock—high priced meat; some on or near river or railroad; some level in Southern California that can be irrigated from Colorado River or wells, that will be better than Imperial. California gives any man or woman a right to take school land; no final proof; never necessary to come here. Use your right, right now. Unpleasant rumors had been in circulation for some time before the exposure came, but the minister was the intimate of King Frederick and the idol of the poorer classes and his financial genius, indomitable will and brilliant oratory repeatedly saved him

But the time came when he could no longer cover his tracks, and hard pressed, Alberti confessed that he had misused th efnuds of the bank and that he had systematically robbed the export association and its customers from the day it began business in 1888.

His speculations amounted, he said, to about $2,300,000 and the money had been lost in South African and American mining ventures.

Just before the closing session adjourned at noon today, President Taft was re-elected honorary president and John Hays Hammond was elected president; Governor-elect Simeon F. Baldwin of Connecticut, vice-president; Theodore Marburg of Baltimore, secretary; Judge J. G. Schmidlapp, Cincinnati, treasurer.

The Executive Committee will be: B. F. McFarland, Washington; W. W. Willoughby, Baltimore, and James Brown Scott, Washington, retiring president.

Maj.-Gen. Grant, son of Gen. U. S. Grant, whose words, "Let us have peace," have been closely associated with his military achievements, was one of the speakers at tonight's banquet He read a letter written by President Grant in 1879 to the Universal Peace Union, in which he suggested a permanent court of arbitration, the development of which is one of the chief objects of the present conference. The letter said, in part:

"I look forward to a day when there will be courts established that shall be recognized by all nations, which will take into consideration all differences between nations and settle by arbitration or decision of such courts, these questions."

Gen. Grant said he believed the American army was not an "instrument of aggression," but that it stood for the maintenance of peace. He added an army always would be necessary to uphold the decisions of The Hague conference, as well as to prevent internal disorders.

Permission of the management of the Palace and Fairmont to women to smoke was originally granted a year ago, or at the time of the opening of the Palace hotel. It was forced by action of a group of English women, wives of titled Britishers, who were at the Fairmont. They smoked in the dining room and in the lobbies, apparently oblivious to the surprised glances of attaches.

The management was called upon for a ruling and decided that women could smoke. However, according to attaches of the hotel, the habit of smoking has not increased during the past year among the women of San Francisco. Few instances of women smoking in even the grills have been observed.

President of the National Association of Manufacturers in San Francisco. Strong Speech.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] John Kirby, Jr., president of the National Association of Manufacturers, arrived here this evening from his visit to Portland, Seattle and Tacoma, where he delivered speeches in support of free conditions in the industries and against lawlessness by organized labor. He was greeted at each place by enthusiastic audiences of strong men, including small and large employers and independent unorganized workers. He spoke from this text:

"The issue is lain. It is a struggle between law and lawlessness. It is an issue which has now reached its culmination in this country. Today the American people—each man, woman and child of whom is directly interested in our common industrial welfare—must face the question whether rampant and criminal unionism or law and order and common justice shall prevail."

Mr. Kirby is accompanied by his strong first lieutenant ,the manager of his great industr... organization, J. P. Bird, also a speaker in the same cause. Gen. Harrison Gray Otis spoke at both Portland and Seattle. The party will arrive in Los Angeles on Monday.

HOLLENBECK LODGE, No. 319, F. & A. M., will confer the first degree Tuesday, December 20, commencing at 7 p.m.
J. WILL DICK, Secretary.

OLDFIELD RACE CALLED OFF.

Ascot Turns Too Soft for Fast Work Today and Barney Enjoys Hunt With Jim Jeffries.

Barney Oldfield will not race today at Ascot Park. The meet has been called off because the champion does not care to drive on the track until it is in better shape. World honors suit him, but he has no chance to equal the record of De Palma with the turns at Ascot in the present condition.

With Jim Jeffries as his side-partner Barney has spent the week in the hills hunting. He expects to return today and will take a rest until such time as the track is in fit condition to stand the whirling drives of the big Benz. The 200-horse-power monster is in condition for fast work and Oldfield is ready and will start when the time comes.

J. Aleck Sloan returned from San Francisco last night. The Panama-Pacific Associations want Barney to drive in the big race meet at the Bay City which may be held February 22. The outlaw question may keep Oldfield off the course unless he is reinstated in the meantime.

Another Warning.

PACIFIC COAST NOT PROTECTED.

PHILIPPINE VETERAN POINTS OUT SLOPE NEED.

Agrees With Secretary of War That Japan, If So Disposed, Could Land Army Without Serious Molestation. America, However, Bound to Come Out Victorious in Case of War.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Gen. Charles L. Hodges, commander of the Department of the Great Lakes, today declared that Japan could land an army on our Pacific Coast with ease at any time, on account of the weakness of the United States army at present, as pointed out by Secretary of War J. M. Dickinson. He also declared we would finally be victorious after a long-drawn-out fight.

"I don't believe that Japan is looking for war," declared Gen. Hodges. The general knows something about the Japs, as he saw considerable service in the Philippines and had some opportunity of studying the Japanese army and navy.

"Of course an invasion of the Pacific Coast is entirely practicable," he continued. "The Pacific Coast is not adequately defended. There is 2000 miles of shore line along our western coasts, and an enemy would have little trouble in landing an army."

Gen. Frederick Dent Grant, commander of the East, who was formerly stationed in Chicago, declared in an interview in New York that our country was in no way prepared for war.

Said Gen. Hodges: "The Pacific Coast would be the first point that Japan would attack in case of war. In my mind it would be poor strategy for Japan to attack the Philippines or Hawaii first, and Japan is not making any mistakes in time of war.

"The Japs have a great navy and have a large number of transports, with which they could send a big army to our shores under convoy of battleships, which could protect the transports easily. The landing on the coast could be accomplished almost without opposition.

"Our coast defense has never been anything to boast of and the points which the Japs would select as available for landing purposes are not fortified strongly enough to put up any defense.

ILL HEALTH SUICIDE MOTIVE.

St. Louis Manufacturer Shoots Himself So His Sickness Will Not Spoil Family's Yuletide Joys.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Brought to the realization that he could not hope for the gift of good health for Christmas, Philip McDart, manufacturer, shot himself through the heart as he sat in a rocking chair in the bedroom of his home last evening and died almost instantly.

Grief over the death of his only daughter, Mrs. Adele Hart, last summer, hastened a breakdown and contributed to the despondency which caused him to take his life. Medart was 70 years old.

His dearest wish, often expressed to his wife and to other members of the family, was that he would get well before Christmas, so that the enjoyment of the yuletide would not be marred for the family and so that he could enjoy it himself.

Scranton (Pa.) Man, Mass of Blisters and Hands and Feet Frost-Bitten, Staggers Into Bar-room.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—With his body from ankles to neck a mass of burns and his face and feet frost bitten, Edward Dillcher of Scranton, Pa., is lying in the hospital at North Hudson, N. J., today in a serious condition. Dillcher, absolutely stripped of clothing, ran into the barroom of a small hotel in Granton, N. J., last night and fell unconscious to the floor. When he revived momentarily he was only able to tell his name and murmur weakly:

"Burned in fire by men."

Dillcher then relapsed into unconsciousness and later became delirious. He will probably die.

The man's terrible condition and his disjointed utterances gave rise to the belief that he had fallen a victim to a band of railroad tramps who had tortured and robbed him and left him in the open to die from his injuries and from exposure. The police today are working on this theory and seeking all possible clews as to the identity of his torturers.

Dillcher was able to say that he lived at No. 16 Hardison street in Scranton.

THREE DIE FOR A MULE.

Alabama Brothers Use Revolvers to Settle Ownership of Animal, and All Three and the Mule Fall Victims.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TALLIPOOSA (Ga) Dec. 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Following a quarrel over ownership of a small gray mule, Will Benefield, John Benefield and White Benefield, brothers, and well-to-do planters, engaged in a duel with revolvers at Hopewell, just across the Alabama line, and all three were killed. The mule was also killed.

Will and John Benefield quarreled over the mule, each claiming to be the owner. White Benefield tried to act as peacemaker, but failed, and John and Will Benefield drew revolvers and fired at close range. White and the mule were killed by stray bullets.

The Benefields were members of a prominent family. Each of the dead men leaves a wife and children.

Portland (Or.) Real Estate Agent Held Under $6000 Bonds for Attack Upon Wife of Acquaintance—Most of Details Recounted to Husband by Spouse While Slumber-Locked.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Dec. 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mrs. Melvina Hughey, No. 255 Thirteenth street, talked in her sleep at night, and her husband listened. What he heard made him angry. He asked only a few questions and his somnolent wife promptly answered. He learned enough, however, to take up the conversation Thursday morning, and this resulted in the arrest of J. W. Olds, a real estate dealer with offices in the Board of Trade building.

Mrs. Hughey testified in the justice court before Judge Olson that she frequently talked in her sleep. When she went to bed that evening, the woman said, she made a vow that she would not talk that night, for an incident had occurred on the previous afternoon that she did not wish her husband to know.

The next morning Hughey asked his wife about the conversation he held with her while she was asleep. Mrs. Hughey at first denied knowledge of the affair. Hughey was persistent, and finally she charged that Olds had attacked her the previous afternoon. Hughey asked that a warrant be issued for the arrest of Olds, who was taken into custody Thursday afternoon. and held in bail to the amount of $6000.

[ASSOCIATED PRFSS NIGHT REPORT.]

DENVER, Dec. 17.—Declaring that the problems of Colorado are practically those of every State in the country, John Brisben Walker, chairman of the committee appointed by the Denver Chamber of Commerce to investigate conditions that hamper Colorado industries and the justice of existing freight and express rates, today issued invitations to twelve eminent transportation experts and economists to act as an advisory committee in the investigation.

The Advisory Committee invited comprises President Arthur T. Hadley of Yale, Louis D. Brandeis, Francis J. Heney, President Daniel Willard of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, Lincoln Steffens, Brand Whitlock, Rudolph Spreckels, Charles Edward Russell, President W. J. Underwood of the Erie Railroad, Senator Robert M. La Follettee, Gov. Stubbs of Kansas and Gov. John F. Shafroth of Colorado.

This committee is asked to meet in Denver on the third Tuesday in January.

LODGE AIRS TARIFF VIEWS.

Bitterly Opposes Any Attempt to Amend Measure by Wholesale, Favors President's Plan.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Asserting that wholesale revision of the tariff would be an "unmitigated injustice to the business interests of the country and ruinous to the party that undertakes it," Senator Lodge, in a speech today in the Senate, supported tariff amendment by sections.

He spoke on a motion to refer the Cummins joint resolution to the Committee on Rules. The House, he said, now had power to bring in special rules to cut out amendments. He believed the Senate could adopt a similar plan.

Senator Lodge announced himself in accord with the President's tariff commission plan, and speaking of the desirability of the amendment of the tariff in separate parts rather than as a whole, Mr. Lodge said that on more than one occasion conditions had arisen which rendered desirable alterations of portions of the tariff, but that such changes could not be undertaken without entering on a revision of all the schedules

"It may be said," Mr. Lodge argued, "that it is easy for the majority to vote down objectionable amendments, but the range is so great as to render it impracticable to offer any amendment that does not open up the whole subject."

Mr. Heyburn announced direct and unyielding opposition to the Cummins resolution and to all efforts at piecemeal revision. He expressed apprehension that the "fine-spun scheme" might bring about a revision of the wool schedule because the manufacturing States want wool treated as raw material.

The resolution was left on the table for further discussion.

CARNEGIE GIFT DISCUSSED.

David Starr Jordan Thinks It Potentially Most Important Ever Made by Man for Any Purpose.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—David Starr Jordan, president of Leland Stanford, Jr., University, discusses Andrew Carnegie's $10,000,000 gift to peace today in a signed telegram to the New York Times. He says:

"Mr. Carnegie's gift ot peace is potentially the most important gift of money ever made for any purpose. Specifically this fund should develop a code of international laws; it should enlarge and complete the work of Jean Bloch on the cost of war, and should give us a clear view of how all civilized nations, save Canada and the United States, have now passed into the control of their creditors. The war debt of $26,000,000,000 under which Europe now staggers, did not grow up without a history of blunder and crime.

"It should probe to the extreme the effect of war by reversal of selection in destroying the virility of nations. To this cause almost alone is due the downfall of these nations, which have lost step in human progress.

"To show that the moral equivalent of war is found no higher than in the prizefight, to show that the waste of nations in debt and in loss of virility is due mainly to war and to show the world the only way out lies in better relations among men in the spread of law and justice, and at present, in the work which culminates at The Hague, is the noblest work of Carnegie's gift."

WIFE CAUSE OF BARON'S RECALL.

AUSTRIAN AMBASSADOR TO LOSE DIPLOMATIC POST.

Free Criticism of Washington's Social Set by Baroness Hengelmueller Held Responsible for Rumored Intention of Foreign Government to Make Change.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The transfer of Baron Hengelmueller, Austrian Ambassador, which has been expected for more than two years by his colleagues in Washington, is forecasted by the public announcement of views entertained about Washington society by the baroness, who is regarded as a social leader of the first rank.

It is stated by society people, commenting on the undiplomatic attitude of the baroness, that she was moved to speak unreservedly because she herself expects the transfer of her husband to another post.

The case has a parallel in the annals of Washington society, the other being that which enentually caused the transfer of Baron des Planches, Italian Ambassador here until six months ago. Baroness des Planches one afternoon, while honor guest at a reception given by a western American woman, remarked that she did not like Americans and American society. The tempest that followed kept her in Italy for about four years out of five and always weighed against the Ambassador, whose transfer followed.

Baroness Hengelmueller has always been regarded as a leader in Washington society, and she has never hesitated to blue pencil the list of guests submitted for her consideration and approval at any diplomatic functions in which she was to take part. She has also been the one woman who has openly defied the Taft social regime. She has favored the open observance of Sundays here along the lines ordained by European capitals, knowing all the while that Mrs. Taft took the opposite view.

What has been even a more potential factor in society's attitude toward the wife of the Ambassador is the way she has compared the social status of the Tafts in New York and elsewhere with that of the Roosevelts. In mentioning the names of the Sloanes, the Vanderbilts, and others who have not frequented the capital since the advent of the Taft regime, the tenor of Baroness Hengelmueller's views became a criticism of the Tafts' social supremacy.

Another phase of the Hengelmueller view, which ostensibly characterizes Washington society as dull, but in reality criticizes its structure as well as make-up, is its timeliness. Washington at present is in the midst of a ring of social wars, each inside of the other. The Taft changes of winter plans for receptions and dinners which have already caused no little discontent, are strengthened by the hostility shown by the residential set to the Baroness Hengelmueller and American leaders allied with New York and Boston society.

Baron Hengelmueller is at present the dean of the diplomatic corps So the utterances of the baroness became a burden borne by the entire diplomatic corps. It is not denied by some of the diplomats themselves that the only way to clear the diplomatic corps at present is by the immediate transfer of the Hengelmuellers.

Advices from Vienna within the last week have stated that the transfer will be announced at an early date. It was with this knowledge that Baroness Hengelmueller spoke.

PROTECTING REDWOODS.

SAN JOSE, Dec. 17.—Small redwoods are in such demand for use as Christmas trees, that owners of ranches in the Santa Cruz mountains are protecting their property with shotguns For several years hundreds of persons in this valley have been accustomed to drive wagons into the great forests in the hills on the western rim of the valley and cut thousands of trees from three to ten feet in height. These expeditions were conducted just before Christmas and little attention was paid to the law against trespass. The destruction of the young redwoods is preventing the reforestation of sections that have been worked over by the lumbermen.

Message Found Tied to Neck of Wild Goose Brings Pathetic Tale of Suffering from Wilds of Yukon.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. LOUIS (Mo.) Dec. 17.—Exclusive Dispatch.] Telling of boundless wealth, sickness and privation and of abandoned hope in the heart of the Yukon wilds, a message was found bound to the neck of a wild goose killed today by Fred Wanton, a Granite City hunter.

The message in full, reads: "July 8, 1910, twenty miles due north of White Horse Rapids, on the Yukon River. I have been sick since June 15 and feel certain I am going to die. My right arm is broken above the elbow, due to falling from the side of the mountain. I can hardly walk, and although there is flour in my cabin, I have no way of cooking it, as my condition is such that I cannot do the work.

"Back of my cabin, 200 yards up the gulch, where I have dug, there is a body of almost solid gold. It will never do me any good. Winter will be here in a few weeks, and if I am not found before then I will die from freezing to death. There is absolutely no hope for me."

MRS. GOULD MUST PAY BILLS.

New York Supreme Court Upholds Judgment Rendered on Debt for Clothing and Furs.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Judgment for $3,165.08 given in the Supreme Court to Malcolm N. Butler against Mrs. Katherine Clemmons Gould, wife of Howard Gould, on a bill for furs and clothing, was affirmed yesterday in the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, first charge.

Mrs. Gould, according to the complaint, bought various kinds of furs and wearing apparel from the Lichenstein Millinery Company in January, 1907, and refused to make payment. The claim against her was assigned to Malcolm N. Butler, who brought an action against Mrs. Gould.

Mrs. Gould admitted in the lower court that she had bought various articles from the millinery company and that she had never paid for them, but based her refusal to do so on the ground that the articles were necessaries of life and her husband was responsible for the cost of them. The jury found the sales had been made to Mrs. Gould, and that her credit, rather than that of her husband had been relied upon by the millinery company, and gave a verdict against the defendant. Mrs. Gould appealed, but the upper court found nothing in the verdict unjust and refused to disturb it.

A RUNAWAY ACCIDENT

Francis Truth Busiest Man In Town.

DISEASES VANISH.

Free Lectures Nightly Except Saturday and Sunday, 338½ So. Hill Street.

Twelve years ago a prominent lady and her husband were taking their regular afternoon ride when the horse became frightened at something, and ran away, completely overturning the carriage, throwing out its occupants, nearly killing them. They were taken home, which happened to be near-by, and upon examination by a physician, were found to be in a very bad condition. The lady had her arm and wrist broken, the injuries leaving her arm stiff at the shoulder. Her husband's right arm was broken, and was getting along well, but he slipped on the ice and the old break gave way again. After having the arm dressed and taken proper care of it was left to heal again. But the second process was slower, and did not get along as well as could be expected, so the good wife, hearing of Francis Truth's great work in the East and her husband being in such terrible pain and suffering, decided to write him for prayer, to see if there could not be some relief through the power of divine healing. In a few days a reply was received that the great healer, Francis Truth, would offer a prayer at a certain time to this end that the pain should leave and the gentleman recovered upon the receipt of the letter which arrived in the evening. He decided as he was in great pain to go to bed and await results. In the night he was awakened with a feeling of unutterable peace. Not wishing to awaken his wife he laid there until morning, and then told the good news. The prayer had been answered and all pain had left, never to return. The wife then with her great faith strengthened, wrote for healing for her shoulder, which was also cured.

This is the simple story told to the writer by the lady herself in one of the lecture rooms at the Universal Health and Success Club a few evenings ago. The lady said: "I have been looking for Healer Francis Truth for the past ten years, to heal a daughter, and now, thank God, I was led to beautiful Los Angeles and saw the notice in your paper which brought me here today." Space does not allow the writer to go on, but this case is only one of the many that could be cited. Why be sick? Ah! That's the question. Hundreds of people are going to Healer Truth daily at his rooms, 338½ South Hill street, many going in the early morning hours to try and see what can be done for them. A mighty power, this. Without money and without price.

APOPLEXY ENDS USEFUL LIFE.

PIONEER GOES TO REWARD AFTER BRIEF ILLNESS.

His Activities Embraced Nearly All Enterprises in His Adopted City and His Masonic Affiliation Reached to the Highest Degree Obtainable in This Part of Country.

POMONA, Dec. 17.—Joseph Relton Garthside, for over a quarter of a century a resident here and one of the prominent members of the Masonic Order of Pomona Valley, died suddenly late yesterday afternoon. He suffered a stroke of apoplexy at his home on North Main street from which he never recovered consciousness.

Mr. Garthside has been in failing health for some months and has been closing out his business affairs and resigned from several offices he has held for years.

He walked downtown yesterday forenoon and was apparently feeling better than for some days. In the afternoon, while his wife was entertaining callers, he went to his room, but soon hearing him rapping on the wall, Mrs. Garthside hastened to her husband in time to see him fall face downward on the bed. Medical aid was hastily called, but to no avail.

The deceased was 64 years old and a native of New York State. He was one of the pioneers here. For a long time he was city clerk and for years he was secretary of the Odd Fellows Hall Association, the Pomona Cemetery Association, and the Currier Tract Water Company. He was deeply interested in Masonry and was a Past Master of Pomona Lodge, Past High Priest of Pomona Chapter, and Past Commander of Southern California Commandery of this city. At the time of his death he was deputy Inspector of this Masonic district, Secretary of Pomona Chapter; Recorder of Southern California Commandery and Presiding Officer of Pomona Council, Royal and Select Masters. Aside from being a member of all Pomona Masonic bodies, Mr. Garthside belonged to Al Malaikah Temple, A. A. O. N. M. S., Los Angeles, and Los Angeles Consistory of the Scottish Rite. His intense interest in Masonry gave him a wide acquaintance in Masonic circles in Southern California. He was also a member of the local order of Odd Fellows and was actively connected with the erection of the Odd Fellows' building here years ago.

Funeral services will be held on Sunday afternoon from the new Masonic Temple at 2 o'clock under the auspices of Pomona Masonic Lodge, Southern California Commandery Knights Templar acting as escort. Reverend F. U. Bugbee of St. Paul's Episcopal church, of which the deceased was a member, will preach the funeral sermon at the temple, and the Masonic burial service will be performed at the cemetery.

Aside from a widow the deceased is survived by two brothers, H. J. and C. W. Garthside of Utica, N. Y.

DEATH CLAIMS "TOM" COLLINS.

SUCCUMBS TO APOPLEXY AT THE MIDNIGHT HOUR.

Genial and Entertaining Blind Guide at the City Hall Amazed Visitors by His Faculty of Unerringly Finding Any Office — Won Friends by His Cheerfulness.

Thomas W. Collins, better known as "Blind Tom" Collins, guide for many years at the City Hall, is no more. He passed away at midnight, Friday, following a stroke of apoplexy at 5 o'clock the same day.

The news of his death caused general sorrow. So many knew and respected him, he was so genial and entertaining that thousands who spoke to him at the City Hall will miss him sadly.

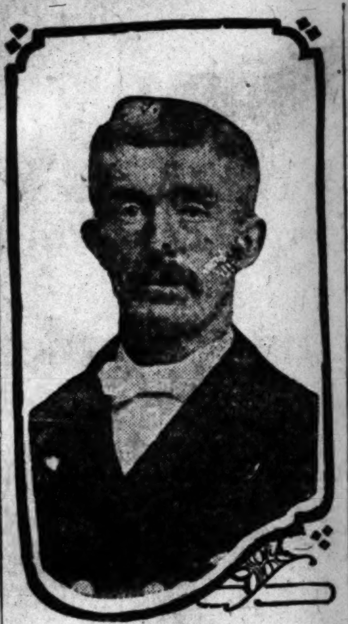
For years Tom occupied a sentinel chair at the main entrance to the hall. Stone blind, he found comfort in his familiarity with every corner of the City Hall he had helped to build, and his great joy was when he was asked by some stranger to be led to an office. With such precision did he conduct them that few ever realized he could not see.

When Tom slid out of his seat Friday evening, just as he was about to be taken home by his son-in-law, several leading men of the municipal life of Los Angeles ran to his side with as much concern as though he had been a member of their own families. He was hurried to the Receiving Hospital, with all tenderness, but Chief of Police Surgeon Zerfing and Police Surgeon Wright, after a glance at the stricken man, shook their heads and whispered that this was the beginning of the end. The sick man was taken home.

Collins lapsed into unconsciousness soon after reaching home. He was speechless then. His wife and daughter and other dear friends watched over him, but at midnight the light of heaven had dawned upon the eyes of "Blind Tom."

The body was taken to the undertaking establishment of Riedeman and Meyer, at Seventh and Main streets. Late last night it was said that arrangements for the funeral had not yet been made.

The office of City Hall Guide, created especially for Collins, when he lost his sight in the service of the city, will possibly be abolished by the City Council.



"Tom" Collins,

Judge Martin granted a stay of sixty days so that the convicted men may appeal.

CITY COUNCIL RESPONDS TO OWNERS' OBJECTIONS.

Amends the Limits of Proposed District of Assessment for the Opening of American Avenue Through to the Sea—Pacific Electric Pays Percentage of Earnings.

LONG BEACH, Dec. 17.—The proposed opening of American avenue through the bluff from Ocean avenue to the beach, an ordinance of condemnation for which is pending in the City Council, ran up against a snag last night. Some of the owners of property in the proposed assessment district filed a written protest against the narrowness of the territory fixed and charged that the promoters of the project left Pine avenue out of the boundaries for fear that the scheme would be defeated.

They asserted that Pine avenue, as the main business street, will be more benefited by the improvement than any other thoroughfare. The Council after discussion took the same view of the matter, killed the pending measure and has introduced a new ordinance with amended boundaries which will take in the needed territory. The opening of the street, which is to be 100 feet wide, will cost a big sum of money as it runs through a site originally intended for a hotel facing American avenue and giving a magnificent view of the mountains to the north.

PAYS FRANCHISE EARNINGS.

The Pacific Electric yesterday paid into the city treasury $432.21, which is 2 per cent. of its gross earnings for the franchise on the Redondo-avenue line. The report says the gross earnings of the Pacific Electric trackage of 320 miles for the year is $4,229,851.33.

At the annual track meet of the athletic section of the high school held last night in the auditorium, the sophomores won the inter-class pennant by scoring 51 points. The seniors were second with 26 1-3 points; freshmen, 25 1-3 points; juniors, 19 1-3 points. The stars of the evening events were Ross Middough, sophomore, with 22 points; Wilmot Long, senior, 18 points, and Wilcox, freshman, 13 points. Tommy Dodd, the sophomore runner, won the half-mile and mile events with ease. New features in the meet were a 440-yard heel and toe walk and a high dive over a vaulting bar.

WILL INVESTIGATE.

The sudden death at Missoula, Mont., of the wife of Fred Laurance, a barber, is to be investigated by the Missoula authorities at the request of Fred Noyes of this city, a brother of the woman. A letter from the Chief of Police of the Montana city says that the woman went by the name of Mrs. Ella Freeman, although she was supposed to be Laurance's wife. The pair formerly lived in Long Beach, and conducted a barber shop. One day they had trouble and Laurance sold out and departed. His wife went to work at another shop, and a little later Laurance came back, paid her half of the money and again left. Soon after Mrs. Laurance also departed.

Capt. Thomas D. McFarland, whose engagement to Miss Ruby Hirsch of this city was recently announced and who brought the steamers Yale and Harvard from the Atlantic coast, has been appointed captain of the Yale by the Pacific Navigation Company, succeeding Capt. Gove, who returns East. Capt. Jepson of San Francisco will command the Harvard. Until recently Capt. McFarland commanded the Hanelei, and Capt. Jepson the Governor. The 200 sailors of the two steamers who came around with the boats were paid off yesterday, $17,200 being required and most of them left at once for their homes.

R. J. Curry, an elderly man, fell from the steps of an electric car at Third street and Magnolia avenue today and was severely bruised and battered, although no bones were broken. The victim says that the car started while he had one foot on the steps and the other on the ground.

Property owners along the Walk of a Thousand Lights have asked that the City Council clean that thoroughfare the same as a street. The Council, however, is in doubt whether the passage is a street or a sidewalk, and empowered the Inspection Committee to investigate. Meantime it has notified the business men and holders of concessions on the walk that the city garbage men will make daily calls and haul away all rubbish that has been collected and swept up.

The Los Angeles Dock and Terminal Company was given an extension of time by the City Council last night in which to complete its work of dredging out the ocean entrance. The time was extended to January 1, but the company expects to have the entrance dredged to its full depth of thirty feet before that time.

Stockholders of the Inner Harbor Gas Company were advised today that the transfer of its holdings to the new Consolidated Gas Company had been completed and as soon as the Inner Harbor company can be dissolved under the State laws, the stockholders will receive the stocks and bonds of the new company.

The remains of the late David Padgett, who died here last Sunday, were sent to Denver today for burial by the Order of Railway Conductors. Neither his brother or Miss Tessmer, with whom he lived here as his wife, accompanied the remains back East.

Vernon Haden, a lad, was knocked from his bicycle this morning and run over by a reckless autoist, who did not stop to see what injury the boy had sustained. The number of the machine was 40,357. The police are looking for the owner. The lad is suffering with a broken ankle and bad bruises.

Talks on Teeth
BY
Rex Dental Co., Dentists
(INCORPORATED)
A Book Free

Only a few people know why teeth decay, loosen and fall out.

It is a subject that deserves close study.

We have written a book which goes into the subject of teeth in general—but the particular object we had in writing this book was to tell about the REX ALVEOLAR method of supplying missing teeth without the aid of plates and bridge work.

When we first began to advertise this REX ALVEOLAR Method people were incredulous. They failed to see how the work could be done. It meant a revolution of existing methods. Dentists said it couldn't be done. But thousands of men and women throughout the country will gladly testify that it CAN be done, and in their cases HAS BEEN DONE.

They used to say Pyorrhea (Riggs Disease) was incurable, but we have been curing it right along and making loose teeth tight and firm in the gums.

Dentists and laymen have had to acknowledge that there was no use going behind the returns—THERE WERE TOO MANY PEOPLE READY TO TESTIFY IN FAVOR OF OUR METHOD.

Most of our patients have come to us through reading this book. We want to send it to you if you have teeth troubles of any kind, and particularly if you are wearing a partial plate or so-called "bridge work."

The REX ALVEOLAR teeth do away with plate or bridge work.

All we ask is two or more teeth in either jaw—don't ask that they be firm in the gums—we will fix that.

Just write to us—the book will be sent to you absolutely free. WHEN YOU READ IT YOU WILL ARRANGE TO COME TO ONE OF OUR OFFICES TO HAVE NEW TEETH PUT IN YOUR MOUTH—JUST AS THOUSANDS HAVE DONE AND ARE DOING EVERY MONTH IN THE YEAR.

Our diagnosis is entirely free and carries no obligation to have work done, BUT IT MUST BE DONE AT ONE OF OUR OFFICES.

BIG BUILDINGS ARE PROJECTED.

Construction Activity of San Diego Is Notable.

Los Angeles Syndicate Plans Theater Block.

Fine Cottages Being Erected for Rental Purposes.

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 17.—New building projects continue to push San Diego forward as next to Los Angeles the most progressive city of Southern California. Plans are maturing for the immediate erection of two large buildings, the agregate cost of which will exceed $150,000.

A Los Angeles syndicate is interested in a long-term lease of 100 by 100 feet of vacant ground at the southeast corner of Third and C streets, adjoining the U. S. Grant hotel. The promoters will erect a building to accomodate a moving picture theater and offices. The height is not fully determined. Representatives are expected here Monday to look over the field. J. E. Wadham is attorney for the land owners. This building will in all probability cost in the neighborhood of $50,000.

H. G. Crowe is promoting another syndicate to construct at three-story building on a vacant corner 100 by 100 feet adjoining the Union building on the south and facing Second street. It is proposed to spend at least $1000,-000 on this structure. The site is directly opposite the new $500,000 theater and office building recently begun by John D. Spreckels & Bro.

Since December 1 there has been a noticeably increased demand for city property, the list of sales being greater than for several months. J. C. Rice, representing a syndicate, has sold 200 feet on Palm by 175 on Park avenue, for the Keating estate, to P. J. Benbough, the consideration being $25,-000. The property includes high-class residence sites.

Grant McArthur, who recently came here from British Columbia, has bought through J. C. Rice 100 by 140 feet at the northeast corner of Twenty-fifth and D streets, for $7500. McArthur will erect buildings for busines purposes.

The Pioneer Truck Company has bought through J. C. Rice 100 by 100 feet at the northeast corner of Fourteenth and E streets for $6500. A brick warehouse for the storage of household goods will be erected. H. R. Yates has bought through J. C. Rice 100 by 230 feet on the north side of Lewis street between Bachman and Fourth. Yates will erect several cottages for rental purposes.

The Hillcrest Company has sold to Frank Kibler a lot fronting 45 feet on Lewis street, between Second and Third, with a six-room cottage, for $5000. E. E. Smith has bought of D. Burford a 50-foot lot and six-room cottage on Brant street, between Kalmia and Laurel, for $6500. R. A. Fraser has bought of Geo. Burnham & Co, 150 by 100 feet on Jackdaw street, north of Lewis, for $4000. Fraser will erect several cottages. Geo. M. Hawley has sold to John Warren a lot in Normal Heights, with a five-room bungalow, for $1650. O. J. Kennedy has sold to J. O. Henry, late of Philadelphia, a five-room cottage and 50 foot lot at Forty-third street and Mission Drive, for $1500.

F. B. Woodmauser, late of Goldfield, has bought of W. H. Bohler 60 by 100 feet at Lincoln and Louisiana streets, with a five-room cottage. The Silas Burnap home at Coronado has been sold by Ingelow & Co. to Mrs. M. A. Wilkins for $6000. The largest deal of the week in acreage property was that in 91 lots in Pauly's Park which were sold by C. F. O'Neall to Geo. W. Stephenson for $18,000.

CLOSE TO MILLION MARK.

Permits for Buildings to Date for December Represent in Excess of Nine Hundred Thousand Dollars.

The Chief Inspector of Buildings issued between December 1 and December 16, inclusively, 499 permits for new construction work representing a money outlay of $910,455. The business in the department yesterday morning served to bring this figure close to the million mark. The totals for the corresponding period of last year were 403 permits and $813,983.

The best previous December in the history of the city was that of 1904, which boasted a valuation of $1,527,000. This record, it is believed in the building department, is in imminent danger of being eclipsed before the first of the year. The aggregate valuation for the present record-smashing year is now $21,121,764, which represents permits to the number of 10,422.

The activities of the month to date have been confined to ordinary routine building, there being no very large items. Permits to the number of 230, representing a valuation of $472,170 have been issued to the home builders of the city.

LEADING APARTMENTS SOLD.

Hotel Brokerage Company Reports Transfer of Leases of Cambria-Union and Briggs During Week.

The sale of the furniture and lease of the Cambria-Union Apartments in the Westlake district to John H. and Carrie E. Talbot is reported by the H. Jerome Toy Hotel Brokerage Company. The purchase calls for a ten-year lease at a total rental of approximately $96,-000 and the appraised value of the furniture and furnishings is stated by the agent to be $20,000. The sellers were E. M. McGillin and the H. J. Woolacott estate. The building contains 125 rooms.

Other transactions reported by the same agency follow: C. R. C. Dye, lessee, and The Briggs Apartment Hotel Company, lessor, to A. J. Gulck, of Sioux City, Iowa, lease and business of the Briggs Apartments, No. 407 South Hope street, $5000. The place contains 112 rooms. From Mrs. Bernard Beyer, lessee, and A. N. Davidson, lessor, to J. C. Dyer, of Denver, Colo., furniture and lease of the Ingraham Hotel, $116,-000. Plans are being prepared for an addition to the property which will add about 100 rooms to the building.

To Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Smith, the lease and furniture of the Kaiser Apartments, No. 1126 South Grand avenue, $8000.

WILL ADD TO FRONTAGE.

Leasing of Adjoining Structure Gives Cafeteria Eighty Feet on Hill. Buy Present Site.

By leasing the building on the east side of South Hill street formerly occupied by the Los Angeles Water Company Boos Bros. have increased the frontage of their cafeteria at Nos. 436 to 438 South Hill to nearly 80 feet. The structure leased adjoins the building now occupied, the purchase of which on Thursday for $125,000 was reported in The Times. R. A. Rowan & Co. acted as agents in both the sale and the leasing.

The leased building will be altered so that its floor space can be added to that of the cafeteria, the improvements planned being expected to represent an outlay of over $20,000. The present structure was bought from the Clark & Sherman Land Company.

SEEK LARGER QUARTERS.

The Business Leasing Department of the W. Ross Campbell Company reports the closing of a lease for five years to the Metropolitan Ice Cream Company of a two-story brick building to be erected on a lot at No. 454 East Third street, owned by T. J. Stephens of San Francisco and Los Angeles. The business of the Metropolitan Ice Cream Company has grown so rapidly during the last three years that the building which they had built for them at that time on West Pico street is inadequate for their present needs. The new factory will be equipped with modern machinery and appliances, and will be a notable improvement.

BELLE VERNON ACTIVITIES.

Emil Firth reports the following sales in Belle Vernon: John I. Backtiger, two acres with bungalow, $2600; M. A. Martin, one and one half acres, $1200; E. W. Sohler, one acre, $1000; Willard H. Meginnes, one acre, $1000; Mrs. Annie Watson, one acre, $1100; Ida M. Haslett, one acre, $1200; H. L. Panhurst, one acre, $1150; C. I. Christiansen, one-half acre, $350; Adolph Dinkelacker, one-half acre, $400; Ernest Dempsey, one-half acre, $500; Robt. G. Hussey, one-half acre, $500; Anna M. Quaid, one-half acre, $500; E. R. Hollenbeck, one-half acre, $500; Herbert G. Williams, one-half acre, $550.

BEAUTIFUL PARK SUBDIVIDED.

An attractive site in South Pasadena has been secured by the firm of N. M. Murray Company from the Jones Estate and will be subdivided and sold for fashionable residence purposes. The tract lies just north of Huntington Drive between Garfield avenue and Oak street. The land is covered with orange trees and surrounded by fine homes. It is directly across Oak street from Camden Court. The new schedule to be adopted by the Pacific Electric Railroad reduces the running time from Los Angeles to twenty minutes and insures the section excellent car service.

FINE SITE FOR A FINE SCHOOL.

SANTA MONICA HAS IT READY FOR BIG BUILDING.

Board of Education Will Ask the Voters to Authorize Bond Issue of Two Hundred Thousand Dollars for Polytechnic High, Which Is Much Needed.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

SANTA MONICA, Dec. 18.—A Polytechnic High School, which will cost $200,000, is proposed for this district, and the Board of Education has passed the matter up to the voters for decision. An election will be held as soon as the legal formalities preliminary to a bond election can be given attention. The funds obtained from the bond issue of $200,000 are to be used in securing a site, erecting the necessary buildings and equipping the institution. The location is settled, so far as the members of the board are concerned, everything now depending upon the result of the election. Should the necessary two-thirds vote be cast in favor of the bonds, the school will be located on the double block of fifty-one lots bounded by Fourth and Sixth streets, Michigan avenue on the north and Fremont avenue on the south. The tract is approximately 700 feet square, and is on a hill overlooking the city and the sea. Should the bonds carry, the members of the Board of Education stand pledged to vote unanimously in favor of this site.

Although Santa Monica has had a High School in successful operation ever since 1891, it has been housed in one of the grammar grade buildings. More room is necessary, as the school has an enrolment of 400 and is being accommodated in a building the original capacity of which was 280 pupils.

If the electors record themselves in favor of this bonded indebtedness, it is the intention of the Board of Education to at once have plans prepared for a building of such size as may serve the district for a number of years. Work on construction will be started as soon as the bonds can be sold and contracts let. The school would possibly be able to get into its new home by the holiday vacation of next winter.

The school district has an assessed valuation of about $10,000,000 and the high school would draw pupils from the adjoining districts of Sawtelle, Palms, Ballona, Playa del Rey and Ocean Park, which are without such facilities.

The force engaged in building the new concrete pleasure pier at Marine street and Pier avenue, has been doubled and now pile casting and setting goes on throughout the night as well as during the day. Originally 600 piles were called for by the plans, but the decision to add 250 feet to the length of the pier to accommodate additional amusement attractions has caused a considerable increase in the number. One of these attractions is to be a "Mountain Roll." It will occupy the extreme northwest end of the pier and will be the first amusement feature of the kind ever installed. It consists of mountains and valleys over which a passenger car in the form of a great wheel is to roll upon tracks. It is to be a gravity ride, not unlike the scenic railway, the passengers sitting within the big wheel as it rolls, their weight proving sufficient to maintain the center of gravity and prevent them from revolving. It is expected to have the entire pier, with its theater, scenic railway and revolving cafe ready for dedication June 1.

For a stated consideration of $150,-000 the Thompson Scenic Railway Company has purchased the 500 feet of ocean frontage of Lycurgus Lindsey on the sand at the foot of Ashland avenue. This strip lies to the west of the broad walk and is to be occupied by a scenic railway, to be known as the "Devil's Gorge." This is to cost $100,000 and work will be commenced early in January and finished by the middle of April. The device will have a depth of 130 feet and the front will be ornamental, with a waterfall delivering 3000 gallons of water per minute. The frontage will be occupied by stores, booths and cafes, with promenades running through to sun parlors. A huge devil's head will be posed over the entrance and at each corner of the front there will be large revolving balls supported by ninety-foot towers.

As soon as property owners can complete a $2000 contract for grading, a new thoroughfare will be opened connecting the northern and southern ends of the city. This work includes the grading of Fremont avenue from Ocean avenue to Appian way and of South Ocean avenue from Fremont to Bay street on the south. This will connect directly with Speedway at Hollister avenue for the south, and at Front street with either Appian way or Ocean avenue for the north.

Episcopal Project.

DIOCESE HOPES FOR CATHEDRAL.

Present Church Headquarters Are Inadequate.

Plans for Splendid Edifice in Hands of Bishop.

Churchman Favors Southern Gothic Design.

The utter inadequacy of the present diocesan headquarters of the Episcopal church interests of the Southland has long been a source of perplexity to the Rt. Rev. Joseph H. Johnson, bishop of the diocese, and to the loyal churchmen of his denomination in this, the see city, and in other Southern California cities and towns. As a matter of fact, the agitation in the interests of a suitable cathedral is several years old and a cause dear to the clergy and laymen of the Episcopal church in this section. Hence it is that anything which looks like a step toward the realization of the diocese's hopes is of great interest to local Episcopalians.

Just such an impetus has been given to the movement within the past week. Plans prepared by Cram, Goodhue and Ferguson of New York and Boston, the famous architects of the new West Point and other magnificent structures, and embodying suggested ideas for a magnificent cathedral in Los Angeles have been received by the bishop, who is intimately acquainted with the designers. Two of these pictorial suggestions are reproduced on this page of The Times. The architecture, although southern European in type, retains the Gothic spirit, which the bishop hold to be disassociably connected by tradition with the Episcopal communion. The architects refer to the style as an adaptation of the Spanish Gothic spirit.

"These plans have been given to me personally by one of the greatest architectural firms in the world," said the bishop yesterday, "and they suggest admirably the kind of thing that it would be possible to do in Los Angeles. One thing is sure, the great and expanding Episcopal diocese must soon have a worthier structure either on the site of the present St. Paul's or elsewhere. I am not at liberty, however, to state just exactly what is the status our scheme now.

"As a matter of fact the Olive street property belongs to St. Paul's church and under certain institutes was made the pro-cathedral of the diocese, that is to say it serves the purpose of a cathedral, even though the holding is vested in the old parish of St. Paul's.

"My interest," he added, "is in the cathedral, and I am anxious that if St. Paul's is to serve continuously the office it now holds in the church in Southern California, a building be erected adapted to the needs of the diocese as well as of the parish. The cathedral should be of sufficient size to accommodate the largest of diocesan gatherings and should be an illustration of the finest type of architecture. In it should be established the form of worship for the diocese and from it as a missionary center should go out influences that do much in shaping the future of the Christian life of this community.

"It is because of the larger scope of a diocesan church that I am anxious to see something like the plans proposed by my friends Cram, Goodhue and Ferguson, adopted. I sincerely hope that the cathedral we build will follow the southern Gothic spirit rather than that of northern Europe. I am ambitious also that the cathedral can be conveniently situated near to or adjoining other institutional buildings projected or to be projected as the church advances in this section, giving the diocese a centralized group of church structures and a vital center of Episcopal life in this community."

Bishop Johnson has adopted a unique and interesting plan for contributing to the interest in the cathedral project. At considerable effort he set about a year ago, collecting certain symbols of the ten periods of history through which the Anglican church has passed, it being his intention to attach these to the cathedral fabric by some ornamental device, which will give to the building, whatever its form may be, the interest of age-long association. He believes that interior columns of the structure could be well used as lending themselves to such a purpose, and his idea is to attach a piece of stone or other relic of each period in some ornamental way to these.

"All of the pieces of buildings which I have collected are well authenticated," declared the bishop. "For the British period I have a tile from St. Martin's in Canterbury. For the Saxon period I have secured a bit of stone from St. Laurence Church, Bradford-on Avon. The Norman period is represented by a bit of flint from the foundation of Edward the Confessor's work in Westminster Abbey. For the Plantaganet period I have a conventional rose which fell from the tower of Salisbury Cathedral a few years ago.

"The Lancaster period is represented by a bit of stone from the tower of Hursley Church. A piece of wood from the church of Stratford-on-Avon, in which Shakespeare worshipped and is buried, represents the York period, and I have a bit of purbeck from Henry VII's chapel in Westminster Abbey for the Tudor period. For the Stuart period I have a quarter of a capital of a column from St. Paul's in London, secured through the courtesy of Canon Scott-Holland.

"Strangely enough the break occurs at this place, but I am sure to get something sooner or later as a symbol of the Hanoverian period. For our own colonial period and for the column which I propose should be dedicated to the churchmen who were signers of the Declaration of Independence and of the Constitution of the United States I have secured a brick from the foundation of the Jamestown church. In addition to these, I have other very interesting fragments which would contribute to the interest of the collection."

The upper picture in the layout on this page represents the ideas of the eastern architects for a magnificent church group with the cathedral commandingly set at the highest point. The lower picture is a suggestion for a campanile tower effect.

BUY LEMON ACREAGE.

We mean our heading literally, for we have just succeeded in cutting $1500 from the price asked for this beautiful home. And it was not a bit too high at the $16,000 price! It is superb—a home among a thousand; ten rooms, fitted with every convenience and elegant detail which money can buy, simply and staunchly built—a perfect home. The location is on a sixty-foot lot, close to Wilshire blvd., commanding from the wide veranda and easterly facing windows a mountain view which can never be cut off. Most of the lower floor is finished in golden oak, the library alone being in selected slash-grain Flemish oak. There are five large bedrooms and a fine sleeping balcony, fully inclosed, and two large bathrooms. An attic gives much space above. We must give a deserved item to the basement, also, as it is more than a cellar, providing ample space for the furnace, automatic water heater, fuel and storage. In the rear a garage for two machines is entered either from the drive or from a wide alley.

And, now, if we have not already convinced you that in this property there is a Christmas present of $1500 come in and let us show you!

FOR SALE—$3500.

Biggest bargain in six-room bungalow in Agricultural Park district. My reason for sacrificing is that I will take a position on the road in January with San Francisco headquarters, and have some obligations owing that I am going to straighten up before that time.

The house is strictly up-to-date, six rooms, with 7-8-inch hardwood floors all over the house. It is built like a watch. An eight-foot china closet with art-glass doors in dining-room in addition to regular sideboard, outside rock chimney, cemented porch with cobble-stone pillars. In about the choicest district immediately west of Agricultural Park.

The lot is worth a good $1500. The house cost over $2300. It is yours for $3500 only, $800 cash and payments.

I also have a lot within 400 feet of Figueroa on 15th street. Take it right away for $900 cash. I intend to clean up both these properties by the 15th of January at latest. Hence the prices.

These two offers are the two biggest bargains anywhere in their respective districts.

I MAKE A CHANGE.

I presume you are paying $15 a month or more as rent today and getting very little for your money—just a place to live in—and probably when you want some little thing about the house adjusted, the owner refuses to have it done. Why don't you change all this and get a home of your own? Can't afford it? Of course you can. The same monthly sum you are paying now will buy you a modern, well-located bungalow. Here is a well-built house on the best carline out of Los Angeles, 17 minutes away. It stands on a big lot 72 feet wide and 300 feet deep—a place where you can have a nice garden and a big flock of chickens. $15 a month will buy this home, which is priced at only $1200 for house and lot. Make a first payment of $100 cash, and then your regular monthly payment of $15. Look into this! Don't be satisfied with merely thinking about it. Full information at my office.

MOST ARTISTIC

BEAUTIFUL BUNGALOW.

GREAT BARGAIN.

If you have $1000 cash and are willing to wait two or three weeks for possession, you have the chance to buy a most exceptional bungalow at close below its actual cash value. The special reasons which account for this price will be discussed privately, but we will say that the plans in our office and specifications will prove to any one who has looked at houses that this rare bungalow is certainly worth from $1000 to $1200 more than asked.

It will be delivered, complete, for $2950, and please keep this price in mind in reading the following detailed description.

Lot is 45 foot front. No narrow lots on the street. Pavement, curbs and walks all in and paid for.

Bungalow is the new "Philadelphia Flat" style, the floor plan being modeled according to the most favored apartment-flats of Philadelphia. Architecturally, it is the most enticing bungalow effect, with extra wide eaves, many gables, massive and quaint outside chimney of brick with brick fernery. Massive cement porch with heavy brick balustrade and supports.

Interior, not yet completed, will have best polished oak floors in all rooms except bath and kitchen. All woodwork is selected grain. Beamed ceilings, built-in seats, buffet, bookcases.

Roomy closets, separate linen closet, broom and storage closet on back porch, cabinet cupboards in kitchen.

Great broad plate-glass window almost clear across living-room. Artistic art effects on all windows. Art-glass over buffet.

Solid brass hardware, electric fixtures to harmonize with interior, class "A" plumbing.

Price includes cement walk, lawn, fence around rear and 2 years' insurance in standard company.

Location in most picturesque and pleasant suburb of Los Angeles, convenient to electric cars, stores, churches, school.

Electricity, telephones, water 50c per month.

This property is actually worth $4000. Compare it with any home advertised on this page at that price.

You can buy it this week for $2950, the cost of a cheap, ordinary bungalow. $1000 cash, but no reduction if all cash is paid.

FOR SALE—
IN THE TREND OF PROGRESS.

ON THE VENICE SHORT LINE.

THERE IS NO OTHER SPECIFIC SECTION IN THE whole Southwest today where the profit to be realized in so short a time will be as great as that derived by the purchasers who now invest their money in property along the VENICE SHORT LINE. Property on the line of the subway that is now being offered for sale can never again be purchased at such ridiculously low prices as are now prevailing, and it can be truthfully stated that in one year from now every piece of property we are now selling will be quoted at exactly twice the present price. It is hard for even the most optimistic person to realize what it will mean to be within 15 minutes of the heart of the city, to be able to enjoy all the pleasures of a country home and at the same time retain and have all the conveniences of the city.

ONLY—$600—ONLY.
Large, beautiful 60x145-foot lot; all covered with large full-bearing walnut trees. Price includes 5-foot cement walk, graded and oiled roadway, etc. Right at the new Venice St. Marks boulevard. Your own terms.

Fine 52x145-foot lot, corner, right on the new Venice St. Marks boulevard; covered with large full-bearing walnut trees. Easy terms. This property will double in value within the next two years. Invest now and watch your money grow.

ONLY—$1000—ONLY
Large 100x181½-foot lot, east front, cement walks and curbs, high ground, beautiful view and only 20 minutes out now; will soon be 15 minutes. Easy terms.

$1550.
A beautiful acre 100x390 feet, an easterly exposure on a wide boulevard, close to car line; cool in summer, and a rare bargain at price asked. Terms easy.

$1350.
A fine acre, well located 192¼x181½ feet, elegant soil, high ground, beautiful view. Just the place for a rambling California bungalow.

ON THE MARKET.
OPENING SALE OF LOTS.

This is the FIRST ANNOUNCEMENT of the sale of lots in SOUTHMORE TRACT, and careful buyers will lose no time in making early choice of offerings. It is one of the last close-in tracts in the city remaining for subdivision, and only a limited number of lots will be sold at prices now set.

Purchase calls for quick action. Remember, this is close-in property—only 20 minutes' car ride from Main st., and in a choice residence section, built up on all sides.

Lots are large, fronting on wide streets, with gas, water, electric light and phone service, right at hand. The property appeals to a man seeking a home place convenient to work and the business center. His wife will appreciate the public school, branch postoffice, bank and stores, all near at hand, as well as desirable neighbors.

There is a chance to double your money in a few months, and a visit to the tract will convince you that this is the best real estate investment now offered in Los Angeles.

FOR SALE—

A WILSHIRE OPPORTUNITY.

We are forming a syndicate to buy 14¼ acres on a hill in the Wilshire district, inside the city limits, two to four blocks from Wilshire blvd., at $4250 per acre, where acreage is mostly held at $6000 to $7500. The 14¼ acres make 33 building sites, averaging about 70 to 110 feet wide and about 180 feet deep. These large lots will cost, with street work complete, about $26 per front foot for inside lots and about $28.50 for corner lots, much lower prices than less desirable lots in the same vicinity are now bringing. Each thirty-third interest costs, without street work, $1827, $997 cash and $830 6-per-cent. mortgage, due on or before two years. The cost of the improvements, to be begun at once, will average about $410 per lot, to be paid at intervals during the next six months.

This property is part of a new tract which fronts on Wilshire blvd., these lots being two to four blocks from the boulevard. They are being sold at these low prices to pay off the present indebtedness and to bring in money for the improvement of the balance of the tract. Those who want a profitable investment, or who need home sites in the best part of the Wilshire district, should see us at once to receive full particulars and inspect the property.

FOR SALE — WE MAKE A SPECIALTY of apartment house sites in the Westlake and walking distance section. We have over a hundred properties which can be delivered at prices cheaper than any other apartment house property in the city, and better located than most of it—60x165 feet to a 20-foot alley on Bixel street, about three blocks west of Figueroa and south of 6th, at $150 per foot, or $50 per foot lower than any of the adjoining property. Other sites north of 6th street as low as $65 per foot; apartment sites north of Washington street and close to Figueroa at $100 per foot up; apartment sites in sections where the ground floor can be used for stores, from $500 per foot up. We will sell you the site and lend you the money to build with, if you haven't got it yourself. BLACK BROS., 208-9 H. W. Hellman Bldg.

FOR SALE—OR TO LEASE FOR 50 YEARS, No. 607 S. Figueroa st., 68x265 ft.

Sixth-st., Washington-st. and Glendale lines of electric cars pass the door. Seventh-st. line is about 400 ft. away.

It is within the circle of the central business district, and on the side of the business center in which business is expanding.

In every growing city the central business district expands toward the houses of wealthy classes.

The well-to-do people of Los Angeles will always live west and southwest of Figueroa st. They must cross it in going to and from the banks and principal stores and before they can reach Hill, Broadway or Spring sts.

Figueroa st. is now the longest and one of the most central streets, and soon will become one of the most important business thoroughfares in Los Angeles.

On the west side of Figueroa st., between 6th and 7th sts., is the largest unimproved frontage of close-in business property in Los Angeles. It has a depth of 265 ft. Its great depth gives it additional value for many kinds of business.

It is now ripe for which permanent buildings as hotel, clubhouse, operahouse, insurance buildings, etc.

One of the most beautiful modern buildings in Los Angeles came near being erected on S.W. cor. Figueroa st. and 6th st. a few years ago.

MATSON HILL, 205 La Salle St., Chicago, Ill.

INVESTMENT IN
EXCLUSIVE COUNTRY HOME SITE.
This choice 5½ acres which is the very crown of the Oak Knoll Tract, lies immediately adjoining H. E. Huntington's home; distinctly an advantageous country home site because it slopes gradually to the north, east and south, giving a perpetually unbroken view of the mountains, valley and sea. For an ideal exclusive country home site this property has no equal at any price.
As an investment no more solid and sure 20 per cent. proposition can be had anywhere. Owner must sell at once at a genuine sacrifice. $35,000, terms may be arranged on a one, two and three year basis, interest at 6½ per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually. This is the first time this property has been offered in five years. If you are looking for this class of property, answer this right now and get in touch with the owner. ROUND TRIP

To our land in Tropical Mexico, one of the most fertile and delightful countries on the globe. In this region of amazing vitality and productiveness, the earth seems incapable of holding its wonderful energy in check, and great masses of vegetation of a richness and variety beyond description covers the earth. These rich alluvial lands know no rest or repose; the soil is so rich that the crudest attempts at cultivation produce the most astonishing results. No other section in any part of the country, presents so complete a combination of advantages to the investor, fruit grower and farmer; healthful climate, regular and abundant rainfall, plenty of reliable and cheap labor, rich land, a great variety of crops, and cheap and excellent transportation facilities. Here, oranges, lemons, grapefruit, bananas, pineapples, mangoes, limes and other varieties of fruit grow to perfection. Corn makes two crops in a season without cultivation, and coffee, tobacco, rice, cocoa, sugar-cane, both varieties of potatoes, vanilla beans and fattening grasses thrive in this land of superlatives. Our land is almost surrounded by some of the finest plantations in Mexico, and we are selling it at the very low price of $7.50 per acre on liberal terms. Our next excursion leaves Los Angeles January 16th. So don't miss this opportunity.

FOR SALE—CALIFORNIA—
We have 620 acres in Glenn County, near Willows, the county seat, the livest place in the State today, having doubled its population in the last ten months; the only town in the county of any notice and getting all the trade and business of the county; now has 4500 people and is an up-to-date city in every respect.

The streets of this bustling city are now opening up to our tract, which is only a mile—or may be a little more—from the Court House and the High School.

There is not a more beautiful or richer and more productive tract of land in the State than this. Abundance of water near the surface to irrigate by wells. No better land for alfalfa, all kinds of fruit, nuts, vegetables, berries and all-round farming. Eighty acres was in barley last year and raised twenty-eight sacks to the acre. The whole tract, except this eighty acres, is being sown to grain and with an average season should make thirty sacks to the acre, or 16,000, or [illegible].

Land no better than this and less than a mile nearer to town is selling at $300 an acre, and being put in alfalfa and fruits.

Our price for the section as a whole is $65 per acre; for half section $70; for quarter section $75. It will sell in small subdivisions of twenty-acre tracts at $100 per acre and up, readily. But we will not sell less than a quarter section at a time.

Terms, one-third cash, balance in one and two years.

Address W. A. WHITMER LAND COMPANY, Box 128, Palo Alto, Calif.

Mexico.

MEXICO
is the land of opportunity. This is especially true of the states of Sonora and Sinaloa, which are the continuation of Southern California, and are so similar in climate, soils and other features. In the matter of water they, in places, have by far the best of it. The opportunities in these northwest states of Mexico are those that existed in Southern California a few years ago. The products are unlimited; the markets, both home and foreign, are excellent and always reliable. Both land and water transportation prevent high freight rates. Land is cheap. Good land, the kind that sells for hundreds of dollars an acre here. Does the international boundary line warrant the wide difference in values? Study this question and invest before selling prices have adjusted themselves to actual values. Call or write for the West Coast Booklet and other literature and prices.

FOR SALE—
OWENS VALLEY.
APPLES.
APPLES.
APPLES.

Well! Another apple story in this week's Collier's. For the last year many of the large national magazines have been telling of the remarkable future in apples.

This particular story is written by L. H. Bailey, Dean of Cornell Agricultural College. Prof. Bailey is also the author of the Encyclopedia of American Horticulture. Therefore, we must presume that Mr. Bailey is a master of the subject. If you are interested at all, you should get Collier's of December 17.

Not only is the apple gaining in popularity in America, but in the entire civilized world. For the asking, you can get the consular reports from Washington. They tell a very, very vivid story of the fruit situation in the different European countries, and many of them tell of the popularity of American apples.

Although apples can be grown most anywhere in the temperate zone, it is only in remote spots, here and there, that we find conditions that will permit bringing the apple to that high state of development, which demands big prices in the large markets. In these favored sections, where the orchards have been brought to full maturity, prices of apple land and developed orchards sell for a very excessive price.

It is our firm belief that we are offering apple land which, in five years, will be recognized as one of the choicest sections in the United States, for the growing of the big, red winter apple, the apple which is such a good keeper and shipper and so sought after in the eastern market.

It is your opportunity today to buy at today's prices. In a year or so, we are going to have the satisfaction of saying, "I told you so."

You can buy 10 or 20 acres from us, have us prepare your land, plant your apples and care for them while they are coming into bearing. You can buy land immediately adjoining the land that the directors of this company have purchased and will plant to apples, not with the idea of selling, but to keep as an investment.

Drop us a line and let us mail to you our booklet, entitled "Fortunes in Apples." It is most interesting and tells a very vivid story of this remarkable fruit.

Perhaps you are a farmer and do not care particularly to raise fruits, but are looking for a general farming proposition. Possibly you want 40 or 80 acres or even as high as 160 and want to raise alfalfa and corn. If such is the case, we think we can prove to you that there is no more ideal spot in all California than the Owens Valley. We are now prepared to show land from Lone Pine to Bishop and have listed in our office, practically everything that is for sale in that beautiful valley. We have lands all the way from $10 per acre to $150 per acre.

You will be unfair to yourself if you do not investigate Owens Valley before deciding, for should you buy elsewhere, in a few years you will recall that Owens Valley was called to your attention and you passed it up. Then Owens Valley will be looked upon as the Garden Spot of America and lands will be selling for three or four times what you can buy them for today.

If you cannot call, fill out the inclosed coupon.

Selling Agents,

Kindly mail without expense to me, your booklet, "Fortunes in Apples," together with what other literature you have on the Owens Valley.

"EXTRAORDINARY VALENCIA ORANGE GROVE."
30 ACRES—$12,000 CROP.

This grove is TRULY A MOST UNUSUAL OFFERING. It will bear strict investigation by the most skeptical. The adjoining grove, planted at the same time from the same stock, and by the same man, SOLD TWO YEARS AGO FOR $2000 PER ACRE, to a man who had hunted all over Southern California and was being advised by an AUTHORITY on ORANGE GROVES whose name you would recognize at once. THIS GROVE IS EIGHT YEARS OLD, HEAVILY FRUITED, CLEAN—JUST FUMIGATED—NEVER NEGLECTED. Produced 6308 packed boxes two years ago. The most ideal soil and temperature conditions obtainable—many groves in this district producing from $800 to $2000 per acre yearly. THIS CAN BE VERIFIED. Only 3-4 mile to electric car line; 2 miles to packing-houses, down-hill haul; 25 miles from Los Angeles. IF YOU WANT A GROVE THAT WILL PAY FOR ITSELF IN FOUR YEARS, don't fail to see this one. Owner a successful orange grower who is not forced to sell but on account of old age is diminishing his cares. CITRUS MEN WHO HAVE EXAMINED IT PRONOUNCE IT EQUAL TO THE BEST GROVES IN THE COUNTRY—MOST OF WHICH ARE NOT OFFERED FOR SALE. This grove will be on the market but a short time. Don't waste time looking for a CHEAP, RUNDOWN PROPOSITION, when such a beautiful grove as this can be had. IT IS THE EQUAL OF MANY GROVES HELD AT $3000 to $4000 per acre. SEE THIS BEFORE CHRISTMAS. IT WILL PROBABLY BE GONE AFTER CHRISTMAS.

The Maricopa Northern's well No. 1 is now 700 feet deep. The derrick for well No. 2 is now being erected and drilling will commence immediately. Again we say, buy this stock before the advance. THE BEST BUY TODAY.

In our ad in this paper last week we called your attention to the stock of the Midway Northern Oil Company and advised you to buy it at once. It was then selling at 25c. It is now 85c bid and is going higher as there is a good reason for it. Well No. 1, which we mentioned has been cleaned out and on Friday it was allowed to flow again, which it did at the rate of 25,000 barrels per day. It flowed from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., and then was shut off. The well is under perfect control and is a money maker for the company. Well No. 2, is down 1250 feet. This well will also be heard from in a comparatively short time. Well No. 3, has been started. With no debts and a small amount of outstanding stock, why then, should this stock not advance still higher? We believe it will soon go to 50c and later on to 75c when dividends are paid. It is a matter now of only a few months before regular dividends will be declared. Buy the stock at once. We are in the market for five thousand shares at 35c. We buy and sell all unlisted stocks.
G. E. TOMLINSON & CO., O. T. Johnson bldg.

CHOIX CONSOLIDATED—
There is no mining enterprise in Mexico which has a brighter future or should make larger profits for its stockholders than the Choix Consolidated. The mines are all owned by the Company; titles are perfect. The mines are largely developed. The ore bodies are large and rich in copper, carrying gold and silver. The ores can be cheaply mined and smelted, on account of cheap labor and generally favorable conditions, and the Company has arranged to treat its ores near the mines, saving cost of transportation and high smelter charges at custom smelters. The Company has purchased and is about to install an up-to-date smelting plant of latest and best design. A small block of treasury stock is being sold at $1 per share. Call at 533 S. Spring st., on this offer. See fine ores, gold, silver and copper, and get full information. CHOIX CONSOLIDATED MINING CO., Ltd., Suite 516 Grant Bldg.

Eye Glasses Not Necessary.

Eyesight Can Be Strengthened, and Most Forms of Diseased Eyes Successfully Treated Without Cutting or Drugging.

That the eyes can be strengthened so that eyeglasses can be dispensed with in many cases has been proven beyond a doubt by the testimony of hundreds of people who publicly claim that their eyesight has been restored by that wonderful little instrument called "Actina." "Actina" also relieves Sore and Granulated Lids, Iritis, etc., and removes Cataracts without cutting or drugging. Over ninety thousand "Actinas" have been sold; therefore the Actina treatment is not an experiment, but is reliable. The following letters are but samples of hundreds we receive:

J. J. Pope, Ballinger, Texas, writes: "I have spent thousands of dollars on my eyes, consulted the best doctors in the United States, dropped medicine in my eyes for years, and 'Actina' is the only thing that has ever done me any good. Before using 'Actina' I gave up all hope of ever being able to read again. Had not read a newspaper for seven years. Now I can read all day with little or no inconvenience."

Kathryn Bird, 112 Lincoln St., Milwaukee, Wis., writes: "I was troubled with astigmatism and had worn glasses from 10 years of age. I could not read or write without them. In a surprisingly short time, after using 'Actina,' I laid aside my glasses and I will never use them again."

John Kramer, Ricketts, Pa., writes: "Several years ago my eyesight began to fail. Oculists prescribed glasses, but received little benefit from them. After several months use of 'Actina' I could read and write by almost any kind of light. I would not take one hundred dollars for my 'Actina.'"

"Actina" can be used by old and young with perfect safety. Every member of the family can use the one "Actina" for any form of disease of the Eye, Ear, Throat or Head. One will last for years and is always ready for use. "Actina" will be sent on trial, prepaid.

Send your name and address to the Actina Appliance Co., Dept 89 N, 811 Walnut St., Kansas City, Mo., and receive, absolutely FREE, a valuable book—Prof. Wilson's Treatise on Disease.

How Grace Benson Became Famous for the Beauty of Her Hands and Arms

FREE PRESCRIPTION THAT CAN BE PREPARED AT HOME WITHOUT EXPENSE.

Grace Benson, famous for the marvelous beauty of her hands and arms, in a recent interview, says: "If I could tell every woman about the prescription that has caused all this talk about my hands and arms, they could every one of them make their hands and arms just as beautiful as mine. I am glad to have the opportunity to give my receipt free to the world. It will help every woman to improve her personal appearance." When I asked her if she would allow me to publish the prescription, she quickly answered: "Certainly, only too glad to have you do it." Turning to a desk she wrote it on a slip of paper and handed it to me; here it is: "Go to any drug store, get an empty two-ounce bottle, also one ounce bottle of Kulux Compound. Pour the entire bottle of Kulux into the two-ounce bottle, add quarter of an ounce of witch hazel, then fill with water. Apply night and morning." She further said: "This prescription makes the skin transparent and removes all defects such as freckles, tan, sun spots, roughness and ruddiness. A single application works a marvelous transformation." Where low collars are worn it can be applied to the neck with equally as startling results. It is absolutely harmless, and will positively not stimulate or produce a growth of hair.

SEARCH DESERT FOR CRAZED MAN.

Parties Seek Oakland Man on Arid Waste.

Two Are Killed in Railroad Accidents.

Premature Explosions End Lives of Two.

[Special Correspondent to The Times.]

PRESCOTT (Ariz.) Dec. 13.—Though several parties of searchers are in the field, nothing thus far has been found of C. R. McKee, the Oakland (Cal.) railroad man, who wandered off into the plains country northeast of Ash Fork several weeks ago. It is expected that a large number of cattlemen will be enlisted in the hunt by a reward of $200, which has been offered for information of the man's whereabouts. He was last seen, without coat or hat, on November 20, near Apache Springs, twenty-four miles northwest of Williams.

There is a bare possibility that McKee is being cared for at some remote sheep camp. His sudden insanity was due to excessive indulgence in the imitation whisky, popularly known in Ash Fork as "sheep dip." It has heretofore driven men to murder and insanity.

ROAD ACCIDENT VICTIMS.

William Benzie, aged 25, was killed at Williams last Friday under a freight train in front of the Santa Fe depot. The average resident of Williams soon becomes expert in passing between coupled freight cars, as long freight trains separate the main part of the town from the depot for much of the day. Benzie was balanced on a coupling on his way across when the train started and he was thrown down upon the track. A brother lives at Madera, Cal.

W. P. Johns, a conductor on the Santa Fe, Prescott and Phoenix Railway, was killed last week at Jerome Junction by a locomotive which he had signaled to back and upon which he had evidently tried unsuccessfully to gain footing. He was 40 years old and married.

KILLED BY EXPLOSIONS.

Charles Stringer, aged 50, was killed Monday by the premature explosion of a blast near Fair View, on the work of double-tracking the Santa Fe main line. He was employed especially for the handling of dynamite, with which he had had years of experience. Notwithstanding his knowledge, he used an iron bar for tamping down some explosive which had stuck in a drill hole. In the resultant explosion he was thrown to the other side of the railroad track, while a Mexican helper was so injured that his death is probable. Stringer's body has been sent to Los Angeles for burial.

Last Friday, on Copper Creek, Walter W. Cheney, while doing assessment work on a mining claim, was killed by a giant powder explosion, probably due to a defective fuse. He was 54 years old, of long residence in the district and of known capability as a miner.

Frank Waddell, a late arrival from Texas, is in the Catholic Hospital, with a serious bullet wound through the side, shoulder and one lung. The bullet was from the pistol of Night Officer McMahon, who appears to have acted solely in self-defense against an unprovoked attack by Waddell and his brother.

PLUCKY SCHOOL MA'AM.

In Arizona it is the law that a prospective teacher, lacking Normal school or college qualifications must be examined at the county seat of each county, where quarterly examinations are held. This necessity for appearance at the county seat of Coconino county lately confronted Miss Carrie E. Fish, a young woman who came from Ohio two months ago to teach at Fredonia, the northernmost settlement of Arizona. Mainly populated by Mormon stockmen, it lies on Kanab Wash, only three miles south of the Utah line. To the southward is Flagstaff, 130 miles distant, but the direct line would be possible only to a bird, for between lies the Grand Canyon of the Colorado River. The only road to Flagstaff is by way of Lee's Ferry across the Colorado and through an Indian reservation for the greater part of the total journey of 235 miles, broken by not over three groups of habitations and abounding in danger. This route seeming impracticable, the little eastern schoolma'am started northward for Flagstaff, by stage, to a junction point on the Salt Lake Railroad, by which she was delivered to the Santa Fe at Barstow, Cal. The round trip was one of 1600 miles, the mere travel consuming twelve days, while the cost made a serious hole in the salary she will receive for the term's work. It is pleasing to note that she passed the examination.

LUMBER MILLS RUNNING.

The great mill of the Flagstaff Lumber Manufacturing Company has been started at Flagstaff and is at work steadily upon an initial contract for 75,000,000 feet. The mill cost $300,000 and has capacity for working up 100,000 board feet of lumber a day. Only two other large mills are in operation in northern Arizona, that of the Arizona Lumber and Timber Company at Flagstaff and that of the Saginaw Company at Williams. A planing mill and a large box factory are to be added to the new plant, which will cover sixty acres of ground. It is managed by the company's president, E. T. McGonigle, for twenty years superintendent for the Arizona Lumber and Timber Company. J. C. Dolan of Los Angeles is treasurer, though about all the officers and stockholders are Arizona business men. The company's logging railroad is now five miles in length and is being extended into an immense and virgin timber belt.

OTHER NEWS NOTES.

The Prescott Chamber of Commerce has been duly organized, with R. N. Fredericks, president and J. E. Russell, secretary. The first directors are A. J. Head, C. T. Joslin, E. S. Clark, W. J. Mulvenon, M. B. Hazeltine, F. W. Foster, H. W. Heap, W. F. Timerhoff, F. G. Brown, E. A. Kastner, D. H. Biles, LeRoy Anderson, J. A. Hope, R. N. Looney, R. N. Fredericks, J. W. Gardner, W. A. Drake, Charles Hooker, Ray Hill, R. S. Masson, F. O. Smith and J. M. W. Moore.

In the late direct primary for municipal nominees, Morris Goldwater was the only nominee presented for mayor, an office which he has filled for several intermittent terms before. For sixty days past he has been absent in Phoenix as a member of the Democratic majority in the Constitutional Convention. Many ballots were irregularly cast and there is a possibility that the whole primary was illegally conducted.

Major John Reese, aged 75, died suddenly in Prescott, within a few minutes after he had returned from the remote Santa Maria district, apparently hale and hearty. He had been a resident of this section of Arizona since the close of the Civil War, in which he was promoted to the rank of major for gallant conduct in the field, serving throughout in the Seventy-ninth Ohio Infantry. A son resides in Oakland, Cal.

Major Henry Kirby has relinquished command of Whipple Barracks and has left for the East, to await promotion to the rank of lieutenant-colonel. He is to be succeeded at Whipple by Lieut.-Col. Tillson.

CRUSADE COMING IN DIVORCE CITY?

COLLEGE PRESIDENT SAYS RENO WILL BE CLEANED UP.

Legislature to Be Asked to Pass Amendments Taking Fashionable Waiting Place for Divorcees Out of Desirable Class — Explains How Fame of Nevada Town Arose.

"Gambling has been abolished in Reno, and we are going right after the divorce problem, so that in another six months you may hear that this little city of Nevada has suddenly lost all its attractions for the men and women who are tired of their other halves," declared J. E. Stubbs, president of the University of Nevada, who stayed at the Hayward only a few hours yesterday on his way to San Francisco.

"Reno isn't half as bad as it's made out," he continued. "Like all things of this character, its vices have been far more widely heralded than its virtues. The people who cried out against the abolition of gambling were gamblers or interested in games themselves. Our merchants, and business men generally will affirm the fact that since the gambling laws have put a stop to the practice, business has increased from 20 to 30 per cent.

"The sudden fame of Reno as a place to obtain an easy divorce, was caused by the fact that South Dakota amended its Constitution, making a longer residence in the State essential before a divorce could be obtained. That left only Nevada to pick on, with the result that Reno became the Mecca of the dissatisfied married people of the nation who wanted quick action and had the money to pay for it. We will have a hard fight during the next session of the Legislature to pass amendments changing the time, but I think the amendments will be passed."

Stubbs is the father of the Southern Pacific Railroad official, R. E. Stubbs, who was recently appointed to the position of general eastern freight manager. He pointed to his as an example of what the University of Nevada has accomplished in the twenty-five years of its existence.

"We haven't the territory heavily populated to draw a big scholarship from, but we have one of the finest schools in the country, not lacking a single department.

"We have fifteen buildings, some of which would shame the structures of much older schools. Our College of Mines is fast becoming recognized as one of the leading institutions in this branch of learning in the United States. Clarence Mackey has contributed in the last four years more than $350,000 to the school, of which $115,000 has been expended in the erection of the Mining Building.

"Our entrance requirements have been elevated until they are on a par with those of the University of California and Stanford University. We have reciprocal relations with these institutions, which, in turn, are affiliated with eastern institutions of learning so that the university is really becoming a factor in western educational circles."

HERE FOR GOOD TIME.

Gen. Wentworth Arrives from New Hampshire—Thinks There Are No New Developments in Hotel Plans.

Gen. M. C. Wentworth, his wife, Miss A. A. Bowen, and servants arrived at the Alexandria yesterday afternoon after a journey from Jackson, N. H., where Gen. Wentworth has his big summer hotel.

"I didn't come out to see what I could do to put new motion into the stock, standstill hotel company here," he said. "No sir, I came for the climate and for a good time.

"I've worked hard these last three years, worked harder than ever before to get back a little of the money that I lost in the California venture, not absolutely lost you know, but tied up. And I've had several fine seasons, so my pockets are bulging with cash." This latter was said with an additional beam and an extra twinkle in the eye.

"I don't think there are any new developments at all in the Wentworth Hotel plans. It's certainly a shame to leave it stand as it is, but the receivers have the thing so tightly tied up that there's no use attempting completion. Just think, all of the furniture is in the place. The big halls are lined with new carpets, with pictures, furniture of every description, and we can't use it, all for the reason that it's impossible to come to a working agreement.

The entire party will remain indefinitely at the Alexandria, to afterwards move to a residence which Gen. Wentworth has leased for a period of months.

TRIO PLEASES.

Among the pleasing features of the graduating exercises of the autumn class of the Los Angeles Normal School held Friday were the musical numbers given by the Heloise Coutolenc Trio. This was the first public appearance of the trio as a body, although the three members, Miss Heloise Desiree Coutolenc, violin, Mme. Elsa Von Grofe-Menasco, 'cello, and Miss Myrtle I. Eldred, piano, are well known locally.

The programme, which was greatly appreciated, follows:

Mrs. Emily J. Valentine.

NOTED TEACHER AT REST.

Funeral of Mrs. Valentine Conducted at First Methodist Church, Is Largely Attended by Local Musicians.

In the atmosphere of the art to which she had devoted her life and which she dearly loved, the friends and relatives of Mrs. Emily J. Valentine, late president of the Los Angeles Conservatory of Music, paid a tribute of respect yesterday to an exemplary woman. The funeral services, which were conducted at the First Methodist church, were extremely simple. Prof. W. F. Skeele played the organ and the Euterpean Quartette sang. The address, was made by Dr. A. C. Smither, who was assisted by Rev. Dana W. Bartlett, and both ministers spoke from the heart of the life-long devotion of Mrs. Valentine to the cause of music. A short service was conducted at the late residence by Dr. Horton.

Members of the Euterpean Quartette assisted as ushers at the church; the active and honorary pallbearers comprised the intimate friends of the deceased.

Mrs. Valentine was born in Boston August 31, 1842. She was the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. William R. Chapman, and inherited her talent for music. Her father was a prominent Presbyterian minister, at one time pastor of Old South Church, also a professor in the Union Theological Seminary, New York. Mrs. Chapman, her mother, was a pioneer teacher of art and music in Bradford Seminary, Massachusetts; a woman of rare attainments.

The early life of the daughter was passed in travel abroad. At the age of 19 years she married Louis T. Valentine, a New York business man. Six children blessed the union, five of whom are living, namely: Mrs. Emily V. Cunningham of New York City, Mrs. Adeltha E. Carter, Charles, George and Earl Valentine, all of this city.

In 1883, the family moved to Los Angeles and Mrs. Valentine established the present music school. They resided at Fifth and Main streets, which was then the extreme southern part of the city. Mrs. Valentine was actively engaged in teaching music in the State Normal School. She was the first to foster and encourage merit in music and hold out a helping hand to those who sought to lead a better life. As a teacher she was considered one of the city's foremost instructors. Her death is mourned by a wide and loving circle of friends. A brother, Wm. R. Chapman, is a leading musician in New York and Maine.

LOOKING OVER WHITTIER.

Legislators Hear Estimates for Maintenance and Improvements of State School.

WHITTIER, Dec. 17.—Three State Senators and Senators-elect and about twenty Assemblymen-elect came here today to inspect the Whittier State School and pathological laboratory.

The party arrived on a special car at 9 o'clock and were met by Superintendent Greely, Assistant Superintendent Dr. W. V. Coffin, and a delegation from the Board of Trade. They went first to the boy's department of the State School, where they made an inspection of the administration building, the libraries, farm, dairy and various trades buildings.

After devoting about two hours here, they were taken to the girl's department and then to the pathological laboratory, after which, as guests of the Board of Trade, they went in automobiles through East Whittier and over the city. Lunch was served at the State school.

Superintendent Greely asked for an appropriation of $135,000 for the general support of the school for the next two years, and $153,000 for salaries, additional buildings, electric plant, books, piping and other things.

The pathological laboratory asks for $27,000 for an addition to the main building, laboratory, barn, work shop and citrus soil investigations.

About 200 were present at the men's league of the Friends' Church last night. Supper was served, after which an address was made by Bishop William M. Bell of Los Angeles, who spoke on "Alms for Men." President Joseph John Mills, formally pastor of the Friends' Church, presided.

ELSINORE.

ELSINORE, Dec. 17.—Every seat was filled last evening at Bank Hall when Raymond Cree, County Superintendent of Schools, spoke before the Parent-Teacher Association. Superintendent Cree was introduced by P. H. Coogan. Cree said in the course of his address that the parent should not expect everything of the teacher. He touched on some of the problems and difficulties of the latter. Principal C. T. Meredith of the Elsinore High School, who is also a member of the County Board of Education, spoke of what the schools are and are not doing for the child. Mrs. P. C. Graham read a letter from State Superintendent of Public Instruction Hyatt bearing on the operations of the Parent-Teacher Associations.

INGLEWOOD.

INGLEWOOD, Dec. 17.—A meeting of Inglewood, Los Angeles and Redondo Beach people interested in the new Kramer oil fields was held Wednesday evening at the home of W. S. Magee, when the Inglewood Kramer Oil Company was organized. It was decided to incorporate for a period of fifty years and a board of directors was chosen. The following men were named: W. S. Magee, A. N. Hatherell, O. H. Perry, J. W. Wilson, Earl Bowen, Frank D. Parent and George P. Keese. The company expects to begin active work in the new field as soon as the incorporation is effected.

It is expected that in the event of a State university being established in Southern California Inglewood will bid for the location.

Nightmare.

DREAM SHATTERS A MAN'S NERVE.

IN VISION HE FELT A DEAD BODY CRAWLING OVER HIM.

Now He Is a Broken, Spiritless Creature Who Dreads Light, Fears Night and Cares Not to Look on the Face of Man—Ignores the Presence of Relatives.

SANTA ANA, Dec. 17.—Leodora Garcia, in the County Jail, is a spiritless broken man. As officers were bringing him here from Mexico, he dreamed he felt a dead man crawling over him and clutching at his throat. He waked yelling and struggling, and when he came to his senses his nerves were unstrung. From that time the officers noticed a change in Garcia. He would not eat and talk. His mind dwelt on the terror of that dream, and the remorse that was quickened by his disordered brain seemed to grip him.

Eighteen months ago Garcia and his father, Jose, led a feud among local Mexicans. Leodora pumped lead into Luis Manzo, and left him for dead. That same night Reyes Molino's head was battered in with a rock and crushed into pulp most brutally. The officers have laid the actual murder of Molino to the hands of the elder Garcia, but in that they may be mistaken, for Leodora was with his father at the time of Molino's killing.

The Garcias escaped to Mexico. Eight months ago Leodora was captured, and this week he was brought here by Officers Cervantes and Murray. When taken into the courtroom, Leodora had all the appearance of a man upon whose physical strength disease had fed deep. He did not raise his eyes from the floor to seek out in the courtroom, his mother and brother, whom he had not seen since the night he fled for the border.

"He has lost his nerve," said Cervantes. "Before that nightmare on the train, Garcia was bright and ate well and talked a good deal. He awakened everybody in the car with his yells, and I had to throw him and hold him. When he calmed down, he said: 'A dead man tried to carry me away. A dead man crawled over me.' From that time Garcia was a changed man. He hasn't a bit of fight left in him."

STANTON FILES ANSWER.

Philip A. Stanton of Los Angeles today filed an answer and cross-complaint in an action brought against him by Mrs. A. A. French. The complaint asked $6500 judgment on the ground that Stanton had not furnished irrigation water to land sold by him to the plaintiff near Anaheim. Stanton's answer is that the water was there, but that Mrs. French never tried to use it and never tried to raise a crop. In his cross-complaint Stanton asserts that he sold Mrs. French twenty-six acres for an agreed sum of $5894. Of that, $819 was cash, and the remainder a note, water stock and farm stock. The best he could sell the personal property for was $3500, which was $1512 less than Mrs. French had represented to him it was worth. Stanton therefore asks judgment in his favor for $1512.

SEEKS TO EJECT.

The Southern Pacific Railway Company today brought suit for possession against F. K. Eckley. The complaint asserts that Eckley has possession of parts of three sections in the Santa Ana mountains adjoining the Cleveland National Forest line, which property belongs to the railroad. The court is asked to order the sheriff to eject Eckley.

ENGLISH SUPPLANTS SPANISH.

Advent of New Year Is to Witness the Retirement of Latin Tongue in Old Mission.

OCEANSIDE, Dec. 17.—It is reported that soon after the first of the new year English-speaking priests of the Jesuit order will be substituted for the Spanish-speaking priests of the Franciscan order, now at the San Luis Rey mission, four miles east of Oceanside, and that Father O'Keefe, the venerable priest of the Franciscan order, who came there from Santa Barbara twelve years ago and who is the only English-speaking priest in the mission community, will retire from active work.

The change, it is said, is to be made at the suggestion of Father O'Keefe, who recognizes the merits of the requests for English-speaking priests. The Spanish-speaking fathers now at the mission will be returned to Mexico, and their places will be taken by Jesuit order priests from St. Louis. During his twelve years here Father O'Keefe has directed the greater part of his energies to the restoration of the historic mission, erected in 1798, and which at one time was the largest in the string of missions extending the length of the State. The work, the funds for which were secured largely in Mexico, has been only partially completed, but the walls which form three sides of the great court contain rooms sufficient for the housing of sixty persons, if it should be decided to use the buildings auxiliary to the church for the education of priests, or for a convent.

During the past few years a number of students from Mexico have been graduated as priests from the school.

San Diego.

IS MURDERED FROM AMBUSH.

BRUTALLY SLAIN BY MEN WHO THOUGHT TO OBTAIN MONEY.

Sheriff and Posse Are Scouring the Hills in Effort to Capture the Perpetrators—Wealthy Pasadenan Wakes Up in Lodging-house Minus His Cash—Suspects Arrested.

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 17.—Shot from ambush while his brother was absent on a trip to a store in Jamul, east of San Diego, was the fate of M. G. Mau, an aged rancher of Lawson Valley. Today and since 1 o'clock this morning the Sheriff and a posse, including the Coroner, have been on the ground looking for the slayer. No word has been received from them.

The crime was discovered by Fred Mau, the dead man's brother, when he returned to the cabin the two had occupied, late last night. Every corner of the place had been ransacked in the search for money, a large sum of which it was believed the two men always kept in the cabin.

The body of the murdered man was found in the brush some distance from the building. The Sheriff and Coroner were notified at once and early this morning the hunt for the murderer was begun.

PASADENAN ROBBED.

Walker Jones, said to be a wealthy resident of Pasadena and who conducts a resort in South Pasadena, today is the complaining witness against W. Victor Neal and Robert Gould on a charge of drugging and robbing him. Both men are in jail. Jones arrived in San Diego yesterday afternoon and, according to the police, met Neil and Gould at a depot, had a few drinks with them and remembered nothing more until he woke up late in the evening in a rooming house minus his money. The police say Neil and Gould have confessed and have also admitted they are wanted at Lordsburg, N. M., on a charge of horse stealing.

Under the schedule Escondido gets two trains a day, one leaving Oceanside at 12 o'clock upon arrival of the southbound train from Los Angeles and reaching here at 1 p. m., and the other leaving Oceanside at 5 p. m. upon the arrival of the afternoon southbound train, reaching here at 6 p. m. Structural steel for the main building of the Holly Sugar Company plant was shipped from St. Louis on Monday and its arrival is expected here in two weeks when the work of constructing the factory building will be begun. Work on the foundations of the sugar warehouse has already commenced and by next week more than one hundred laborers will be employed at the factory site. Every house in this city is now filled and more are to be built as rapidly as possible.

Los Angeles' Unparalleled Land and Suburban Home Opportunity

THE HOME BUILDERS' OPPORTUNITY is the opening of the immense Van Nuys and Lankershim Ranchos in the San Fernando Valley by the Los Angeles Suburban Homes Company. UNPARALLELED because of the character and location of the LANDS offered, the large amount of capital behind the project and the extent and substantial nature of the improvements coupled with the onrushing wave of population sweeping towards Southern California.

The Lankershim and Van Nuys lands embrace six large ranchos with a total acreage of about 47,000 acres, nearly three-fourths of which is unexcelled for agricultural and horticultural purposes. Farmed to grain for nearly forty years under the same management and not offered for sale until the City of Los Angeles has expanded to within about 4½ miles of its border. All its characteristics of soil, climate, scenery and environment are essentially Southern Californian. Purchased about a year ago by a strong syndicate of Los Angeles business men, it is now being developed and subdivided as a home-creating project. The original purchasers and the Board of Control are Gen. H. G. Otis, Harry Chandler, O. F. Brant, M. H. Sherman and H. J. Whitley. The last named is General Manager of the enterprise.

The terms and conditions under which the property will be offered for sale will be liberal, reasonable and such as to encourage and assist the actual homeseeker.

Profits Follow Improvements

BOULEVARD

The Company has now under construction a superb, double, asphalt paved boulevard practically through the center of the entire Tract. This work will cost in excess of half a million dollars and is being done by the Barber Asphalt Paving Co., and is designed to be one of the most perfect automobile driveways in the world, as far as is now known. The boulevard will comprise about 14 miles of double roadway with only two curves. One roadway will be for automobiles exclusively and the other for general traffic. Both paved with asphalt and lined with cement curbs. Between the two roadways the electric railroad is being constructed.

The boulevard will be parked on both sides with thousands of high-class tropical and semi-tropical ornamental trees and shrubs, the pick and choice of all the nurseries in the state.

This highway will be connected by a system of good roads with the paved roads constructed by the County Highway Commission and the paved streets of the city.

ELECTRIC LINE

The contract has been signed for the construction of a broad-gauge double-track electric railroad connecting with the Los Angeles Pacific System at Hollywood through Cahuenga Pass to the Townsite of Van Nuys, the first town to be opened and established by the Los Angeles Suburban Homes Company. This road will be known as the Van Nuys Branch, will be rock ballasted and of the most substantial construction and will cost to complete to the town of Van Nuys in the neighborhood of $500,000. The road will run via Lankershim and the contract calls for an early completion by April 1st, 1911.

FIVE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS

will be allowed in the form of improvement discounts to those who at once erect houses on this Tract. This will be for the first 500 buildings erected to cost a total of $1,000,000. These discounts will be in the form of credits of approximately one-half the cost of buildings erected, under conditions and restrictions adopted by the Board of Control, which are reasonable and practical, and this appropriation should assure the erecting of over $1,000,000 worth of buildings in the near future. Material is now on the ground for over 100 buildings to be erected by those who purchased property during the few weeks last June when a small portion of the lands were on sale.

OPPORTUNITY TO INSPECT PROPERTY BEFORE SALE OPENS

lands are placed on sale, an up-to-date automobile bus, one of the finest in the United States, seating twenty passengers, will be put into service en Los Angeles and Van Nuys, making several trips every day at a reasonable fare, pending time when service is installed on electric line.

This property will be placed on sale January 9th, 1911. This advertisement is an announcement of improvements under way and projected, and tended to be in the nature of a detailed offer of lands for sale.

BANISH PLOWS FROM GROVES.

RESULTS OF INVESTIGATIONS ABOUT PORTERVILLE.

Results in the Packing-house Appear to Demonstrate That When Fruit Is Well Colored Before Shipment It Commands Better Prices When It Arrives in Eastern Market.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

PORTERVILLE, Dec 17.—As a result of experiments which were concluded this year, two radical changes will be recommended to all members of the associations of Porterville district in the orange orchard practice and in the packing and shipping methods.

Hereafter, it is expected, no grower who is an up-to-the-minute orchardist will allow a plow in his groves and all weeds and foreign growths will be kept in subjugation through the use of cultivators and harrows. It was learned this year through careful examination that the main roots of the orange trees, extending out between the rows, send up slender filaments of root, smaller than the finest thread, and that just below the surface of the ground these filaments are sometimes numerous enough to form a perfect mat. The use of the plow cuts off these fine roots and destroys that much of the feeding surface of the tree.

Orchards from which the plow has been banished the last two years have shown much better returns than those in which the old practice obtains. One grower reports an increase of 700 boxes from ten acres of fruit as a result of the change of practice from the plow system to the cultivator and harrow. It is also probable that the practice of spraying for thrip will be discontinued this year since it is the consensus of opinion that control of this tiny insect may be accomplished with nothing more expensive than careful elimination of weeds.

In the packing-house during the present season careful sweating of fruit from numerous orchards has been carried on and in every case when fruit was carefully colored before shipment it brought better prices on the eastern market. The result of records of temperature in the sweat-rooms, the time required for processing the oranges and other data preserved this year will undoubtedly be that next year practically all fruit will be treated before shipment.

As a factor in this determination it is interesting to note that yesterday in New York there were sold two carloads of fruit which were shipped from here October 20. This fruit has been for weeks in banana rooms and, refusing to develop color, was sold at a short price, the two cars of fancy fruit bringing $1.70 and $1.80 only against general average of $2.40 for the day.

With proper sweat-rooms in the association houses, it is proposed that next year samples will be taken from the orchards and tested out before the pickers are ordered into the trees. If the fruit does not color properly the picking will be delayed.

GIVE DOG A CHANCE.

Police Decline to at Once Shoot a Canine Which Followed a Woman Home from Meat Market.

Unless claimed by its owner and provided with a license, a little yellow dog taken to the Central Police Station yesterday afternoon by a boy, who said it followed his mother home from a meat market, will pass beyond Monday morning.

The woman's request that it be shot was denied by the police, who declared the dog should be given a chance even if it hasn't a license and looks as if it had been a long time without a dinner.

The dog's offense, for which it is to be sent across the line into the realm where dogs never get hungry, and never need a license, is simply that it followed the woman to her home, not because it had taken a fancy to the lady, but because she had a nice cut of nice smelling beef under her arm.

She tried to scare the canine away but the beef was a strong inducement to follow, so it tagged along behind, raising its muzzle ever and anon to sniff the odor of the meat. The dog followed the trail and the woman on reaching home sent it to the station, in custody of her son, to have it shot. The police told the boy they wouldn't shoot it and sent the dog to the pound where it awaits an owner, or the "chamber."

BLACK EYE FROM DRUNK.

Warrant Officer Irvin was given a black eye by a drunk yesterday afternoon while assisting in searching the man. Joe Lardin, the man with the careless fist, had just been brought into the station by a patrolman and Irvin volunteered to help search him, as he was unruly. The black eye was the reward for the service.

DROPS DEAD IN OFFICE.

While waiting in an office on the fourth floor of the Byrne building yesterday morning, Jesse Hyde, a cabinet maker, dropped dead of heart disease. He was taken to the Receiving Hospital and later the body was removed by members of his family to an undertaker's establishment. Hyde was 70 years old. He lived at No. 151 West Eighteenth street.

JAPANESE SHOOTS SELF.

I. Hamamoto, a Japanese cook living at No. 527 1-2 East First street, shot himself when in his room yesterday morning. No reason is known for his act. K. Washib, who conducts the rooming-house heard the shot and found the man dying.

More Electrizing.

TWO TROLLEY LINES TO ENTER THE ARCADE STATION DIRECT.

THE Southern Pacific will begin at once the electrizing of its steam lines adjacent to Los Angeles for the purpose of unifying and harmonizing them with the great trolley system acquired in the taking over of the Los Angeles Pacific, the Pacific Electric, and the other lines included in the recent merger.

Announcement was made yesterday by Paul Shoup, vice-president of the Southern Pacific in charge of electric lines, that the company will at once begin electrizing the part of the steam tracks of the Southern Pacific railroad between Sentous, near Palms, and the Arcade station.

Years ago the Southern Pacific projected and built a line to Santa Monica and to the end of the long wharf built by Collis P. Huntington. Later that part of the line from Sentous, near Palms, to Santa Monica, was leased to the Los Angeles Pacific. That company transformed it to a trolley line and has since operated it as part of its system. The original line was about twenty-six miles long. This mileage was split in half when the lease to the trolley company was made. Now the purpose is to electrize the thirteen miles from Sentous to the Arcade station. Near Clement Junction, which is Slauson on the Pacific Electric, and Clement on the steam line, the tracks of the trolley and steam lines intersect. It is here that the transformation of the steam line to an electric line links the Los Angeles Pacific and the Pacific Electric, and the building of the line from Clement Junction into the Arcade station gives to both lines an entrance to the Southern Pacific station.

The transforming of this line is followed by a similar transformation on the line to Pasadena with a subsequent rearrangement of lines and a rerouting with a view of facilitating service between Los Angeles and the Crown City. Then will follow the line to Pomona and Ontario, the line to San Pedro and Long Beach terminating in the double loop at West Anaheim, Tustin, Newport and Los Alamitos. Eventually the main line will be electricized as far as Ventura or Santa Barbara.

The result of transforming the steam lines to trolley lines will be a harmonious system under one head, including all of the interurban lines and the steam lines, controlled by the Southern Pacific, within a radius of from seventy-five to 100 miles of the city.

The electricizing of these steam lines will add about 200 miles to the 1000 miles of trolley trackage taken over by the Southern Pacific.

The company engineers have practically worked out all of the details for the physical union of the steam and trolley lines so as to bring about a complete and harmonious operation of the whole. There is to be a general rearrangement of lines and rerouting of cars to afford as complete a service as possible to all parts of the territory covered by the lines of the merged companies.

One of the all-powerful motives in the acquisition of the interurban lines by the Southern Pacific was the perfection of a comprehensive system of lines for the handling of the rapidly developing freight traffic in the territory traversed without imposing any handicap upon the passenger service that is expanding continually with the tremendous growth of Los Angeles and deevlopment of contiguous territory.

FALLS, CUTS HEAD.

Joe Gonsalez, a Mexican, fell down at Aliso and Alameda streets yesterday afternoon while under the influence of liquor. His head was cut and he was taken to the Receiving Hospital to have it treated. He will recover.

Health and Beauty Secrets

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN.

V. J.: To keep the scalp clean, sweet and healthful it is necessary for many to shampoo once a week regularly. If your head is inclined to be oily or if you encounter much flying dust, you should shampoo weekly. Soaps make the hair dry, hard and brittle—and cause streaks; don't use them, no matter how delicately perfumed or attractively colored. You can depend always upon canthrox thoroughly cleansing your hair and scalp, removing all dandruff, oil and dust. It makes an abundance of searching yet bland lather. Dissolve a teaspoonful of canthrox in a cup of hot water, pour a little on the head at a time, rub as you would with any shampoo; then rinse well. Your hair will dry quickly and evenly, so that it is easy to do up, and it will be so light, bright and fluffy that it will seem as if you have twice as much as before your shampoo.

Mrs. X.: It is true your husband took you "for better or for worse," but I do not blame him for urging you to do something for your falling hair, for a partly bald woman is about the most unattractive sight I can imagine. You can postpone the "for worse" many years if you will. The hair responds quickly to proper treatment. Use canthrox for shampooing and rub into the scalp and hair roots twice a week a quinine tonic, which you can make at home at little cost as follows: Get from your druggist one ounce of quinzoin, dissolve it in one-half pint of alcohol, then add one-half pint of water, and shake well. This inexpensive tonic feeds the follicles and gives the hair new strength and life. It prevents dandruff and itching scalp, and keeps the hair clean, soft and silky. Quinzoin will not change the color of the hair but it will heighten the natural color and give it lustre. It will stop your hair falling out when you comb it and will tend to make it grow in thick and long.

Blanche L.: To be sure, you are likely to get fatter during the winter months unless you take proper steps to prevent the accumulation of excess flesh. In fact, you are even now entirely too stout for one of your height. Get from your drug store four ounces of parnotis and dissolve it in 1½ pints of hot water. Then take a tablespoonful before each meal. This remedy is harmless and a rapid flesh reducer that will not make it necessary for you to half starve yourself to keep from getting too fat.

L. T.: No person's eyes will remain clear and bright under all conditions. If yours are inclined to become dull, expressionless, red and inflamed when exposed to sun, dust or wind, you can easily remove the trouble by dropping one or two drops of crystos eye tonic in each eye. Make this tonic yourself. Just get an ounce of crystos from your druggist and dissolve it in a pint of warm water. That is all there is to this simple remedy, but it is so good that many have been able to dispense with spectacles after using it for a month or two.

B. W.: Red hairs are no more disfiguring on a woman's face than hairs of any other color. I think you are too sensitive, but you can easily get rid of that downy growth on your face and forearms if you wish. Get from your druggist one ounce of delatone, make a paste by mixing a little of the powder with a little water, and apply to the surface from which you wish to remove the hairs, allow to remain two or three minutes; then wipe off the paste and wash thoroughly with warm water. This treatment will not injure the skin and can be repeated if the hairs should return. Two or three applications will kill the hair follicles for good. Your druggist will charge you a dollar for one ounce of delatone. It certainly is much cheaper and less painful than electrolysis.

Miss Patsy.: You Ask for some complexion beautifier more refined than powder. Try this: Dissolve four ounces of spurmax in a half-pint of hot water, add two teaspoonfuls of glycerine, shake well and let cool. Apply to the face, neck and forearms with the palm of the hand and rub gently until dry. Spurmax face wash cools, freshens and whitens the skin, does not "shine" or streak with perspiration, and "holds" all day. It prevents freckles, tan, redness and roughness. You will be delighted with its delicate daintiness, I know.

R. F. G.: You can make face cream without grease that will remove blackheads and cure open pores if you will get from your druggist one ounce of almozoin, dissolve it in one-half pint cold water, add two teaspoonfuls of glycerine, stir well and let stand over night. Massage with this almonzoin cream jelly nightly and it will prevent or arrest wrinkles, and soften and embellish the skin, for it carries into the cuticle and pores the glow of health and gives that transparency and satiny feel so much desired. It quickly corrects a greasy, coarse skin, effectually braces it and stimulates it to healthy action.

Nancy: You cannot expect to have a smooth, rosy complexion as long as your blood is full of impurities from a deranged liver, which causes those ugly red pimples on your face. What you need is a good, cleansing, system tonic that will purify your blood and enable you to cultivate good looks. Get an ounce of kardene from any drug store, dissolve it in one-half pint alcohol, adding one-half cup sugar, then enough hot water to make a full quart. Take a tablespoonful before each meal and in a short time this good, old-fashioned tonic will clear up your skin of sallowness, give you a good appetite and make you feel better and more engertic. It will really improve your looks a great deal and do you a world of good.

Kern County.

M'KITTRICK IS IN CLASS ALONE.

Only Kern County Oil Field Showing Increase.

Is Not Due, However, to an Unusual Production.

Much Interest Being Taken in New District.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

BAKERSFIELD, Dec. 16.—Oil production figures for the month of November show a falling off in nearly all the principal fields that will tend materially to diminish the lead which production has been maintaing recently over consumption. The total production for the State was 5,808,805 barrels. The figures for the several fields follow:

Valley fields—	Barrels.
Coalinga	1,427,402
Kern River	996,560
Sunset	454,240
Midway	1,055,180
McKittrick	431,500
Total valley fields	4,364,882
Southern fields—
Salt Lake Sherman	252,100
Los Angeles	37,000
Whittier Coyote	83,000
Fullerton, Brea Canyon and Puente	449,200
Ventura County	39,000
Newhall	13,000
Total Southern fields	873,300
Coast fields—
Santa Maria	565,123
Summerland	5,500
Total coast fields	570,623
Total for the State	5,808,805

McKittrick is the only one of the larger producing fields that shows an increase from October. This is due to the resumption of pumping following the signing of the Agency-Associated contract and the relief from the congestion of storage and transportation facilities. This relief came a little more slowly in the other fields, and while the figures of the field operations for November show a larger number of active wells on the last day of the month than on the last day of October, the resumption of pumping in most of the fields was too late to off-set the inactivity of the early part of the month.

Much interest is taken in Northern Kern county in the announcement that a Pennsylvania syndicate has leased ten and a half sections of land of the Harry Quinn ranch nine miles east of Delano for the purpose of drilling for oil. Leases and options have been secured on a large additional acreage in the vicinity, and as the land thereabout is all patented the new field, if it proves to be a new field, will not be the scene of the excited activity of claim locators as has been the case with other Kern county oil districts. However, the development, which, under the terms of the lease, is to begin within three months from this date, will be a great stimulus to trade and real estate activity in the northern part of the county, and should the hopes of the lessees for finding a productive oil field be realized an immense addition will be made to the resources of northern Kern.

The Quinn ranch is about twenty-five miles north of the Kern river oil field, which is the nearest producing territory. Should oil be found there the foothills and mesas all along the eastern side of the valley in this county undoubtedly will be prospected at no very distant day.

It is rumored, but not confirmed, that early in the new year prospect drilling will be begun on the Tejon ranch of Truxton Beale. The ranch and the country thereabout has been experted several times in the past two years for different corporations of large financial strength, among them the Standard Oil. If the small concerns now drilling on the west side of Tejon canyon meet with success, undoubtedly test wells will be sunk on the Beale ranch.

A new proof of the productiveness of the Buena Vista gas field is furnished by the Honolulu Consolidated's well on section 6, 32-24. Some months ago a flow of gas estimated at 50,000,000 cubic feet per day was struck in this well, and the company, which is after oil, not gas, spent much time and money in the effort, finally successful, to kill the flow. Ten feet below the point where the first gas stratum was cased off another flow was encountered, which is said to be even stronger than the first. Little difficulty, however, was experienced in casing off this second gas sand, and the well is now being carried down after the long-sought oil sand.

The Midway Basin Oil Company on section 28, 32-24, has turned over its drilling job to the Union Oil Company after an unsuccessful attempt to shut off the water. The well was drilled to a depth of 3100 feet, at which point oil was struck in what is supposed to be paying quantity. Owing to the fact that the cementing job did not keep out the water, however, it was impossible to demonstrate the value of the discovery. An attempt to bale out the well succeeded only in lowering the water eighteen feet from the top of the ground. The Union will pull the casing back, probably, and re-cement.

ADMIT THEY HAVE OIL.
AGENTS SECURE LAND.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

PORTERVILLE, Dec. 17.—After completing the leases today upon land to the total of almost 3000 cars, the agents of the Reid Development Company practically admitted that they have struck oil in their wells on the Hockett ranch in the Porterville hills, supplementing the admission with the statement that they now have under their control either directly or indirectly, nearly 25,000 acres of foothill lands, stretching from the Quincy district to within a few miles of Porterville on the east.

Engineers are in the field today surveying a route for a pipe line from the hills in section 27 and 28 in township 24 south, 28 east, to the railroad, branches being surveyed to the hills in other districts, the assumption being, apparently, that a large proportion of their holdings will eventually be producing ground.

It must be admitted that the Reid people have handled the situation craftily and that they have kept their secret remarkably close during the past two years. Since the Reids controlled a large orange territory to the south of Porterville, this fact lent color to their contention early in the course of their explorations that they were in a search of water.

As soon as the logs of their wells showed that oil was struck beyond question agents began to pick up adjoining lands and it was not until the company controlled thousands of acres of the foothills that the owners of surrounding property awoke to the fact that they had allowed valuable lands to slip through their fingers for a mere fraction of their true value.

Already the reported strike on the Hockett ranch is apparent in its effect upon the filings in the local land office and today three contests were filed against homesteads situated in the Quincy hills, a short distance from the Hockett ranch. Small fractional portions of quarter sections which are eligible for filing, but which were always considered worthless and which in fact are worthless from an agricultural standpoint, were filed upon today under the old homestead laws. In spite of the fact that it appears certain the land will produce oil it is still under classification as agricultural lands.

TEN SECTIONS LEASED.
GOING AFTER OIL LANDS.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

PORTERVILLE, Dec. 16.—S. R. Shoup acting for a syndicate of easterners, the personnel of which he refuses to divulge, today signed with Harry Quinn, a widely-known sheep owner of this city, a lease upon ten and one-half sections of land which lies at the mouth of Rag Gulch, on the line between Tulare and Kern counties, and a few miles south of the new station of Richgrove. It is stated in the lease that the land is to be uesd for oil exploration, and that operations are to be started within 120 days, with no less than four rigs.

It is generally understood here that Shoup is acting for the Reid Development Company, the same people who have made the strike on the Hockett place south of Porterville, this lease extending their holdings south to within twenty miles of the nearest producing well in the Bakersfield section. With this lease signed up, the people with whom Shoup is associated, now control a strip of land aggregating 30,000 acres.

Leases which have been signed up within the last few days for Porterville foothill lands also call for the immediate installation of rigs, indicating that within the next three months work will be started on a big scale. On the known contracts no fewer than a score of rigs have been pledged, but how many more have been agreed upon in other contracts nothing has as yet been learned.

It is stated by those who are associated with the Reid people in their orange and real estate investments that a fund of $8,000,000 has been pledged for their oil operations in addition to the funds which have been expended thus far in securing leases and bonds on the 30,000 acres of lands which they now control.

IN SANTA PAULA FIELD.
PYRAMID GOING DEEPER.

The deepest well in the Santa Paula field, Ventura County, is the No. 1 well of the Pyramid Oil Company, which is now 2000 feet deep. This well was finished several months ago and put on the pump at a depth of 1685 feet. The Pyramid Company felt satisfield that a bigger and more productive sand existed at a greater depth and so decided to redrill the well deeper. Drilling conditions have been very good permitting rapid progress. From thirty-five to forty feet per day is being made through a brown shale formation carrying a great deal of gas and considerable oil. The deeper oil sand which it is expected to encounter in this well should occur at a depth of a little over 2000 feet.

Extra heavy derrick and tools are being used so that the Pyramid Company may be in position to go to any depth deemed advisable. No. 2 well on the Santa Paula property of the Pyramid Company is doing about 100 barrels of oil daily which is being sold to the Union Oil Company at 75c per barrel.

Midway Northern Again.

The other day the well of the Midway Northern sanded up, and while it was enjoying a period of quiescence huge gate valves were attached. Friday morning the gusher again broke loose, and a telephone message states that it is flowing at the rate of 25,000 barrels a day. It is claimed that the well is under perfect control.

Great Northern to Use Oil.

The announcement has been made recently that the Great Northern railroad will hereafter use oil in its locomotives exclusively for the stiff haul over the Cascades. The Spokane, Seattle and Portland, running between the cities named, an auxiliary of the transcontinental Hill lines, has been using oil for the past six months.

Coalinga.

WILL NOT WAIT ON THE COURTS.

UNITED DEVELOPMENT COMPANY IS GOING AHEAD.

Two More Rigs Are Ordered and Drilling Operations Will Be Pushed. New Company Organized to Drill in the Lost Hills Country.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

COALINGA, Dec. 16.—The United Development Company, which has been drilling for some months on the southeast quarter of 19, 20-15, and carrying on a suit against the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, has decided to go ahead with the development work as fast as possible, and to that end has ordered lumber for two more rigs on section 19. The rigs will be erected as soon as the lumber is hauled, and the work of drilling will be prosecuted with as much diligence as on the first well drilled by the company. This well is now 2400 feet deep and is being cemented off today. It will be shut down for two weeks to allow the cement to set, and will then be drilled into the oil sand.

Lumber for four standard rigs will be hauled immediately to section 17, in the same township, and here also work of drilling will be rushed. Lumber is already on the ground for three rigs on Section 5 and two on Section 7, all in 20-15. It is understood that drilling will be started here also in a very short time.

George D. Roberts, president of the United Development Company, expects that Well No. 1 on 19 will be brought in within the next month, and he will make arrangements before that time for the disposal of the oil. Tanks will be erected for ground storage and it is likely that the company will join the Producers' Agency and deliver the oil to that organization.

The company has the present suit well in hand, and the members of the company are so sanguine of the success of their action that they have absolutely no fears as to the outcome, and believe that they will have no trouble in showing that the land now in the name of the Southern Pacific and K. T. & O. is government land so far as the oil deposits are concerned.

A new company has been organized here to commence work on a sixty-acre piece of land recently purchased from the Martin & Dudley people in the Lost Hills. The capitalization is $50,000 in as many shares, and Frank Cheney, Z. L. Phelps and H. C. Kerr are the organizers. The company will be named the P. C. Oil Company, being the initials of Phelps and Cheney.

The company has been fully financed for the work which is to be done, and the rig of the Tri-County Oil Company, which has been wildcatting in the Antelope Valley, has been purchased. It will be taken to the Lost Hills immediately and drilling will be started as soon as it is erected.

All arrangements have been concluded for the turning over of the Aladdin property on Section 6, 21-15, to San Francisco capitalists and work will be started on the land next week. W. H. Hutton of San Francisco is at the head of the company which will take over the property, and his first work will be to make a producing well out of the No. 1 which was spoiled after being brought in a producer by the notorious Burr brothers. The well was drilled into the sand by Z. L. Phelps under contract, but was later drilled deeper into the underlying water sand by E. W. Preston, superintendent of the Burr Bros.' drilling operations. It it believed also that a string of tools will have to be finished from the hole.

The new company will also begin the drilling of another well on the property at once.

SANTA MARIA FIELD.
ACTIVITY OF PROMOTERS.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

SANTA MARIA, Dec. 16.—Much activity is again being shown by promoters hereabouts, and it is anticipated that several new oil land deals will be pulled off this month. Particular interest seems to be manifested in Tepusquet territory, where the Princess and Santa Maria Midway companies are now wildcating. The former is already down some 800 feet and has so far met with very encouraging signs of success. The latter has just finished preparations to begin work, and it is understood that drilling will be done by day work—not by contract, as formerly reported. It is the opinion of most oil men hereabouts that oil, if found in this new district, will be of light gravity.

A number of local oil men have been flirting with government land propositions, but are a bit coy with their advances—one or two having been stung on recent Lost Hills happenings. However, some considerable prospecting has been done in the Cuyama and Carissa districts, but the bulk of new development will undoubtedly be done on patented lands, at least until some more definite ruling has been made by the government.

The Palmer Oil Company is still engaged in preparing to increase its present production, and expects to have completed soon ample facilities for handling its product. Well No. 2, recently shut in because of over-production and lack of carrier facility, has again been opened up, and is expected to be back in the gusher class almost any time now. Nos. 3 and 4 are following in the path of their famous predecessors, pumping about 300 barrels each, and expected to flow strongly as soon as the sand shall have been cleaned from the wells.

Superintendent Ailman of the Esperanza Consolidated Oil Company was in town yesterday, and after having visited his company's holdings in this field, expressed himself as much pleased with the outlook of affairs.

The Federal Oil Company well, on the Careaga tract, is down 3860 feet, on the 6 1-4 inch, and is going fine. The drill is in blue shale, and a good gas pressure is present. Casing is being pulled up on the old well.

Work is to be resumed on Princess No. 1, on the Tognazzini tract, immediately after Christmas. The hole was recently cemented off at 1920 feet, on the 10-inch. Well No. 2, on the Tunnel tract, in the Tepusquet is down about 780 feet, and is in blue shale with the 12 1-2 inch. Superintendent Archer reports operations going along finely.

JUST LIKE THE OTHERS.
NEW WELL IS INCREASING.

The Palmer Oil Company's well No. 4 B is showing up nicely and daily increasing in output and gas pressure. All indications point to its becoming a gusher in the near future. Well No. 3 B, which came in a month ago, is also rapidly increasing in output as the sand clears, and is now pumping nearly 500 barrels per day, with the promise of soon rivaling well No. 2 B in volume.

Well No. 1 on the Palmer Junior property is now 2935 feet deep and is expected to come in any day. Heavy gas pressure indicates that the well is now close to the lower pay streak. An upper stratum of rich oil sand has already been passed through, itself of sufficient thickness and saturation to make a good producing well.

The Palmer company will soon build a pipe line from its properties to deep water and it is understood that the Brooks, the Dome, and other Cat Canyon companies will assist in the work. The district is so near several good harbors that oil can be transferred through the pipe to them in less than twenty-four hours.

PREPARING TO DRILL IN VALLECITOS DISTRICT.

The Range 16 Oil Company, operating in the Vallecitos district, is down nearly 300 feet in well No 1 and making good progress. It expects to spud in another well in the near future.

The Sussex and the Vallecitos Development companies, on properties near range 16, are both arranging to drill two wells. The holdings of all these companies lie within the territory pronounced to be oil bearing in Anderson's Geological Survey bulletin, just from the press. In that the geologist states that the best part of the Vallecitos field is north, northeast, and northwest of the Ashurst ranch house for a distance of several miles.

Ready to Begin Drilling.

The Santa Maria Midway Oil Company, holding 320 acres of the old Tepesquet rancho, Cat Canyon district, has located the site for its first well and the derrick and rig for it is going up. The property is considered as good as any in the district, and should produce large quantities of oil, geologist Orcutt estimating that in portions of this part of the field there are one million barrels of petroleum to the acre. The Princess Oil Company, adjoining the Santa Maria Midway, is now down 800 feet in a very promising formation of shale, exactly like that passed through by the drills of the Palmer Oil Company.

President Visits Property.

The Los Angeles Midway Oil Company has purchased the necessary material and power for a well and will spud in soon on its eighty acres on section 6, 31-23. Its president, John H. Pettit of Pasadena, has just returned from the field and reports that the Midway Pacific is making good progress in its wells on the adjoining section. It has four drilling, and is putting up the derrick for another. The Barnoden's four wells on section 4 are said to be slightly increasing in volume and gravity of oil. The Union Oil Company, which has one well on section 6, is preparing to spud in another one this week.

Two Wells for Guaranty.

Director Burdick and Assistant Field Superintendent Smith are in the field putting up two derricks and rigs on the property of the Guaranty Oil Company. They have wired Cromwell Simon, of the Standard Securities Company, that the adjoining August well is expected to come in at any moment, and the crew is expected to control it. The American Oilfields well, on the other side of the Guaranty, which came in a gusher and then sanded up, is nearly cleaned out but will not be allowed to spout again, heavy gate valves having been put on the pipe to control it.

Parties Visit Field.

During the past week parties from Portland, Chicago and New York, have visited the Sulphur Mountain district, Santa Paula field. One of the Chicagoans was Harry Drum, one of the staff

Falling Off.

NOVEMBER PRODUCTION OF OIL SHOWS VERY MARKED DECREASE.

As PREDICTED, the official figures showing the production of oil in California for the month of November indicate a material decrease as compared with previous months. The total production, exclusive of the oil consumed as fuel in field operations, was 5,753,625 barrels, an average of 191,787.5 barrels a day. Unless several big gushers are brought in before many days a further reduction in the amount of oil produced may be looked for in the month of December.

The November production was only about 500,000 barrels more than the amount of oil consumed in October, and in view of the increasing consumption the marketers may soon be drawing upon their stocks if the decline in production keeps up. The stocks on November 1 amounted to $1,000,000 barrels, about two-fifths of which is carried by the Independent Agency.

poetry by the yard which is classed by those who read it, as "not half bad."

The prisoner was taken into custody on a charge of having embezzled two diamond rings from Alex and Meyer Lippert. He was arrested in Detroit, and brought back to this city for trial.

Attorney Paul Schenck, who represents the prisoner, seems to have been the inspiration which led him to turn his pen to poetry. The lines are dedicated to the lawyer.

Fischer is unable to make the muses work during the daytime, and communes with them at night. He scrawls the poems in the gloom with a lead pencil. The next day he transcribes them in a neat hand.

Most of his products are of a moralistic turn, in which he urges his fellow men not to be despondent over one slip from the righteous road, but to keep on trying to get back on it again.

FOLLOWING THE CROWD.

New Postoffice Carries In Its Wake Many Enterprises and Property Leases Are Increasing in Value.

Rents in the vicinity of the new Federal building are advancing, and the reason is unique.

While the postoffice occupied temporary quarters at Seventh street and Grand avenue, it was surrounded by many small stands, representing a variety of interests, and all did a thriving business from the thousands of persons who passed that way daily on their way to the postoffice.

With the removal of the postoffice to its permanent building, business gradually fell away from the smaller stands near the old site, and instead of gracefully submitting to the inevitable, the small captains of industry ambitiously followed the throngs to the new Federal building.

As a result, a man may now buy anything from a pair of shoestrings to a boutonniere in the vicinity of Temple Block, and every hole in the wall has value.

So great has been the increase in the line of small business that property in this vicinity is at a premium for leasing purposes.

This has no particularly bad effect upon the district which the smaller street merchants have abandoned, as many large and good things are constantly brought to life in the ever-expanding southern portion of the city.

BOY SUFFERS BURNS.

Stephen Click, a 12-year-old boy, attending the Griffin-avenue school, was painfully burned about the hands on Friday when he appeared in the role of Santa Claus at some Christmas exercises in the school. His cotton beard and clothing covered with cotton snow, ignited. The hero of the occasion was Otto Derch of No. 446 South Avenue 20, who had been banished to the hall for misconduct, but who, when the panic became general, put the fire out and possibly saved his little playmate from serious injury. The boy is a son of Stephen C. Click, a Southern Pacific engineer, living at No. 2623 Darwin avenue.

HATS OFF, LADIES!

OROVILLE (Cal.) Dec. 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A crusade has been started here against the big hats worn by women in places of public gatherings. The matter was taken up at the meeting of the City Trustees last night and three of the city fathers said they had attended church last Sunday night and their view of the speaker had been obstructed by the hats worn by women in front of them. Investigation revealed that there was an ordinance forbidding hats to be worn in places of public gatherings. City Marshal has been instructed to see that it is rigidly enforced.

REVOLVER DUEL AVERTED.

Sheriff and Attorney in Louisiana Exchange Blows Over Negro and Friends Step in Just as Guns Are Drawn.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LAKE CHARLES (La.) Dec. 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Following an exchange of blows in front of the courthouse between Sheriff David D. Reid and Dist.-Atty. Joseph Moore, the sheriff whipped a pistol from his pocket and offered it to the district attorney. "Take this," he cried, "and we'll shoot it out right here."

Friends jumped between the two men, else a killing would have taken place, as both men are of fearless temperament.

The fight and trouble followed the filing of information for proceedings against the sheriff by the District Attorney for his alleged brutal treatment and bulldozing of a negro boy. It was alleged the boy spoiled a suit of women's clothes which he had been dyeing, and that the woman went to the sheriff to get redress. The sheriff, so the story goes, tried to bulldoze the youth into paying the money, and yesterday locked the boy in his office, it is said, where he abused him.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET.

Only a very heavy shipping business took the past week out of the ordinary run of trade on the local markets. Buying was very slow in most lines as far as retail dealers of this city were concerned. Evidently the housewives and others who buy things to eat were too busy buying Christmas gifts to think of the ordinary necessaries of life. There were not many great changes in quotations.

One of the features of yesterday morning's business was the large shipment of strawberries to New York, Chicago and a few other eastern points. They are handled by the express companies and are expected to arrive before Christmas by a day or two at least, and act as one of the chief attractions on the tables of the wealthy. Reports from the East state that a few of the last berries shipped were more than refrigerated. They were frozen on account of the zero weather through which they passed before arriving at their ultimate destinations.

Eggs have been on the toboggan. Yesterday saw the first drop in several months that took candled stock below the 40-cent mark. They went to 39 cents. Case count sold as low as 34 cents, but the average was maintained at 35, and so the price was fixed at that figure. Receipts for the day were 177 cases, accounting in a great measure for the lower price.

Butter receipts were 24,480 pounds. The demand for butter was fair. Cheese arrivals were only 187 pounds.

Onion arrivals were 760 sacks. The market on onions is very firm on fancy stock. There is a lot of second-grade stock floating about at any figure.

Potatoes continue very firm and are looking upward. Arrivals yesterday were 1378 sacks. The North is holding spuds higher nearly every day and it is only the fact that local dealers have a big supply on hand that the market is not higher than at present.

Pink beans continue very firm and dealers have just about given up hope of any cheaper beans this year. The growers are distributing them so evenly and slowly that there has not been a bit of surplus, but usually just a little shortage which keeps prices very firm. This is not only true of pinks, but also of the other varieties. Arrivals yesterday were 437 sacks.

Sweet potato receipts were 153 sacks. The demand for sweets was good and has been for several weeks.

Three cars of apples from the North came in. They were of the highly colored varieties and went into immediate distribution instead of storage.

LOS ANGELES EXCHANGE.

Business Was in a Comatose Condition and the Trading Light as a Consequence.

Saturday's market on the Stock Exchange was exceedingly dull; it seemed to be impossible to get trading started. The prices were good, however, and the undertone seemed strong, but there was a decided lack of interest and as a number of the brokers were away it was almost impossible to strike up anything lively.

The only particularly strong feature was the market on Palmer Oil, which showed another splendid gain, selling at 170 in San Francisco and 168 here. The rumor will not down that the Palmer has made a big deal and it is certainly helping remarkably. American common was strong at 56. Consolidated Midway remained firm, and California Midway was not particularly active, but was strong at the close.

In the public utility list there was nothing of particular interest and practically no change. While business in the bond list is good on the outside, prices on the exchange remain about the same and there are very few trades consummated on the floor.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

May oats fluctuated between 33⅞ and 34¼@34⅜, with final sales ⅛@¼ down at 34. Provisions became strong and weak by turns. New York Cotton Market.

[Special Service to The Times by E. F. Hutton & Co., Members New York Stock Exchange, No. 112 West Third street, Los Angeles.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Logan & Bryan's letter says:

"No market will develop an hysterical upward tendency that has no short interest. The cotton market has no short interest and there is no one to get badly scared in the speculative world. A good portion of those who are long the market look forward to the ginning report as a place where they can get unloaded, but they are fearful lest the report might fail to confirm the very small figures which are now current. Assuming the ginning figures to be issued next Tuesday at 10,617,000, against 9,358,000, and deducting in each instance the amount of crop into-sight to date each year, which figures are 7,291,000 versus 2,859,000, leaves behind as ginned but not yet into-sight 3,466,000 versus 2,859,000 bales last year, plus what is yet ginned in each year. It is thus established that while speculation may not be as rampant as a year ago in the contract rings, the South is speculating on about 600,000 more bales than on this date last year. In addition to this the visible supply is also slightly in excess of last season, which adds to the momentary bearishness of the argument. This argument can be met, however, by the fact that the South is in a very prosperous condition and needs no aid to finance her cotton and also has the nerve to await the pressing needs of the spinner without forcing her cotton for sale. Much talk is being done in regard to the Indian crop, the most recent statements of official character making the crop slightly larger than private advices, but with so much evidence at hand it is probable that the Indian crop is slightly smaller than last year and a much better demand at home. Our market is of a holiday character and will probably continue so."

Effective Home Remedy For Tuberculosis.
"It is a serious matter when the lungs are affected. A trip away or to a sanatorium is not only tremendously expensive, but it involves separation from home and friends. Some are benefited, but none can safely return. Eckman's Alterative is effective—no leaving home necessary. For example:
231 S. Atlantic Ave., Haddonfield, N. J.
Gentlemen: "In the Fall of 1905, I contracted a very severe cold which settled on my lungs. At last I began to raise sputum and my physician then told me I must go to California immediately. At this time I was advised to take Eckman's Alterative. I stayed at home and commenced taking it the last week in October. I began to improve, and the first week in January, 1906, I resumed my regular occupation, having gained 25 pounds, fully restored to health. It is now five years since my cure has been effected and I cannot praise Eckman's Alterative too highly. I have recommended it with excellent results."

Eckman's Alterative cures Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, Throat and Lung Affections. For Sale by The Owl Drug Co. and other leading druggists. Ask for booklet of cured cases and write to Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for additional evidence.

A Round-Up.

GATHERING IN ERRING ONES.

AKRON SHERIFF ADDS TO PARTY ON HIS TRAVELS.

Leaves With Three Husbands and Will Pick Up Two More En Route. Same Fault Binds Them All, a Fondness for Deserting Their Wives and Children.

Sheriff Daniel P. Stein of Akron left this city yesterday with three prisoners. Two more will be picked up by him at Salt Lake and Kansas City, and the quintette lodged in the Ohio city's bastile to await trial for the abandonment of their wives and families.

The criminal round-up is the most singular that the local police has recently assisted in. One of the men taken East, Leroy Rose, was arrested by Police Detectives Murray and McCann for Sheriff Stein at No. 1316 West Fiftieth street. He has a wife and two children at that address, and how they are going to provide for themselves is a question.

According to Sheriff Stein, Rose has divorced wife and two children in Akron. When his marital bonds were severed a few years ago, he was ordered by the court to provide for his children until they attained their majority.

The eastern officer alleges that Rose has done that faithfully up to a few months ago. Owing to the fact that his former wife believed he would neglect her in the future, she swore out a complaint against him, alleging the commission of a felony.

The second man arrested for Sheriff Stein was F. D. Amann. He is charged with the same offense as Rose. According to Sheriff Stein, Amann owns a grocery store in Ocean Park, and though able to provide for his former wife and children, has neglected to do so. Amann's entre into the matrimonial field has evidently satisfied his every desire in that line, for he has never made a second attempt.

The third man arrested was George Winterbottom. He was taken into custody shortly after he had passed the preliminary examination for entrance to the navy. He was idly watching some naval reserves drill at Mare Island Navy Yard when he was arrested.

Sheriff Stein says that Winterbottom deserted his bride of four weeks, several months ago, in Akron, and up to the time he was located at Mare Island, little was known concerning his movements. Winterbottom's wife is in a delicate condition, and since the disappearance of her husband, she has been supported by an Akron charitable institution.

Salt Lake City will be the next stopover, according to Sheriff Stein's itinerary. There he will gather up another prisoner with whom matrimony has not been a favorable venture. After Salt Lake, his criminal family will enjoy a brief stay in Kansas City, to enable him to add another to the outfit.

Santa Barbara.

LAWYER WARNS CITY OFFICIALS.

SANTA BARBARA WATER RIGHTS MENACED BY ATTORNEY.

Municipality Has Spent Almost a Million Dollars to Secure Water Supply and Is Now Confronted With Litigation—City Officials Visit British Gunboat.

SANTA BARBARA, Dec. 16.—After spending nearly three-quarters of a million dollars on the tunnel through the mountains for bringing a water supply for the city, Santa Barbara now faces litigation in a suit threatened to prohibit the use of the water from the Santa Ynez River. J. L. Murphy, an attorney of Los Angeles, owns the Alisal Ranch in the Santa Ynez Valley, and he has notified the City Council that he will contest the city's right to divert the flow of water.

Attorney Murphy says the Santa Ynez River runs across his ranch, and as the riparian owner he has the right to take, divert and use the water flowing into the river. He warns the city that if it goes to any expense in preparing to take the water it does so at its own peril. It is said the city has anticipated such a suit and is prepared to meet it.

BRIEF NEWS.

Santa Barbara seems assured of an aviation meet during holiday week. It has received another offer, the last one from Capt. Thomas Baldwin, who offers to furnish an exhibition for a guarantee of $5000. The matter is under consideration by the Chamber of Commerce, and action will be taken tonight.

Mayor Clio L. Lloyd and a number of prominent citizens yesterday paid the officers of the British gunboat, Shearwater, an official visit. The boat is anchored in the channel and will remain here until tomorrow evening.

SOUTH PASADENA.

SOUTH PASADENA, Dec. 17.—The educational institutions of South Pasadena will be benefited in the near future by the recent decision of the deans of Occidental College to discontinue the academy after its four classes have graduated, the first two in June of the coming year and the other two the year following. Many of the students of the academy are residents of South Pasadena, also of Highland Park, Garvanza and East Los Angeles. There being no High Schools in this immediate vicinity, they will undoubtedly avail themselves by using the South Pasadena High School.

The auto fire truck in charge of Fire Marshal Ledgerwood and his crew made a mad rush down Mission street yesterday.

The Board of City Trustees have passed a resolution authorizing the Chamber of Commerce to proceed with its plans for the publication of a booklet calling attention to the beauties of the city and for the decoration of one or more floats for the Pasadena tournament and has appropriated $250 for the purpose.

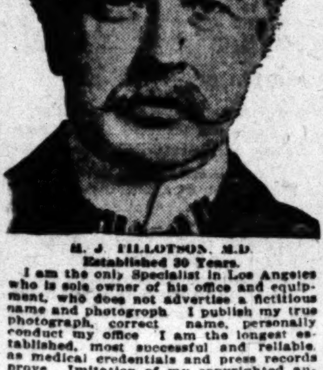
CURED IN FIVE DAYS
Hernia, Piles, Fistula and Varicose Veins



H. J. TILLOTSON, M.D.
Established 30 Years.

I am the only Specialist in Los Angeles who is sole owner of his office and equipment, who does not advertise a fictitious name and photograph. I publish my true photograph, correct name, personally conduct my office. I am the longest established, most successful and reliable, as medical credentials and press records prove. Imitation of my copyrighted announcement is an evidence that I am a bona fide Specialist. I make this statement that you will know you consult a Specialist, who sees and treats patients personally. I possess skill and experience acquired in such a way that no other can share, and should not be classed with medical companies. Experience is the safe standard by which judgment may be valued, and it is unwise and expensive to embrace the statements of medical companies. It is impossible for a medical company to attend college. Companies have no diploma or license to practice medicine in California or any other State. Medical companies usually are named after a doctor. A portrait, whose personality and identity are indefinite, is selected and published as the legitimate specialist of the office. Hired substitutes, ordinary doctors with questionable ability give consultation, examination and treatment.

A thorough investigation should be made by every ailing person as to the specialist he consults. Duty and destiny to self and those who depend upon you demand the best medical attention. I have the ability and can give you this service. I have always charged a very reasonable fee, so that my services may be obtained by any man who sincerely desires to be cured. I make no misleading statements or unbusinesslike propositions; neither do I desire to be particularly independent, and I would like to have you for a patient, if you will come to me on a strictly professional basis, and the inducements that I offer, which are my ability and thirty years' successful experience. Time-saving treatment and guarantee of cure of certain diseases.

NO MONEY REQUIRED TO COMMENCE TREATMENT. Many patients have no confidence in their doctor, because he demands pay before a cure has been effected, and there are many who have been misinformed about their condition, or through unsuccessful treatment have become skeptical and think there is no cure for them. I want an opportunity to treat such cases. It makes no difference about the financial part, as I accept pay for my services as benefits are derived, when I am satisfied the patient is reliable. Health is capital at interest. I will prove my ability to cure you before asking pay for my services.

WRITTEN GUARANTEE.

Dr. Tillotson's written guarantee means a cure or no pay for services. I guarantee to cure certain diseases or refund every dollar you have paid me for my services. My services cost you nothing unless I cure your Varicose Veins, Hernia, Piles, Fissures, Ulcerations, or any disease I guarantee to cure. My terms are reasonable and no more than you are willing and able to pay.

Many Cases Cured Permanently in One TREATMENT. Most Time-Saving. Most Natural. Most Safe. No Detention from Occupation. Family or Home. A Radical and Permanent Cure. I Will Give $500 to Any Charity as a Guarantee That Every Statement in This Announcement is True.

I cure rapidly, painlessly and at small expense. Cured Patients are My Testimonials, however, I do not make patient's Names Merchandise by publishing them. I will give conclusive evidence of my merit which is obtained and maintained by ability. I invite you to come to my office; I will explain my treatment for Hernia, Piles, Fistula, Varicose Veins, Pelvic, Nervous, Blood, Kidney, Bladder and Rectal Diseases. I will give you free a physical examination; if necessary a microscopical and chemical analysis of secretions to determine existing pathological and bacteriological conditions. Every person should take advantage of this opportunity to learn their true condition. Certainty of cure is what you want.

Varicose Veins

In the cure of Varicose Veins, Rupture and Associate Diseases of the Pelvic Region, I am successful in bringing to bear the curative power of Nature's forces in such a manner as to supplant the oldtime, wide-open surgical operations. Once it required several weeks to cure these conditions and the method which some still use is such as to endanger the life of the patient and require a long period of convalescence. Now an absolute cure can be accomplished in a few days and with perfect safety.

TRUSSES SELDOM CURE RUPTURE.

Disregard for existing Hernias has cost many lives. The smallest hernias are the most dangerous to life, because of the increased liability to strangulation. I am aware that a great deal of fraud has been practiced on the public in connection with the alleged cure of Rupture, and when I say positively that I cure Rupture, to stay cured, I do not expect any one to accept my statement without investigation of my professional work. My claim to your confidence is based on absolute facts, accomplished results. A personal consultation. I will make a free examination and can explain every detail of your Hernia and demonstrate to you the curative value of the method I have discovered. I invite the careful investigation of any person who sincerely desires to be cured. I cure Rupture, in selected cases, with perfect safety, and entail no suffering, and do not detain you from occupation under Written Guarantee. Many cases cured to stay cured by one treatment.

PILES, FISTULA, RECTAL DISEASES.

These diseases are very common; most frequently found in persons of middle, or advanced age; are exceedingly annoying, often very painful and sometimes very dangerous, and frequently unfit one for pleasure or occupation. My treatment and successes are the result of years of experience; my treatment is kindly applied. I cure Piles without cutting. Some cases are cured by one or more treatments. If I do not cure your Piles, Fistula and other Rectal Diseases, my treatment does not cost you anything. Gentleness in treatment comes from treating many cases, so I guarantee a cure of Piles, Fistula, Fissures, Ulcers and all curable Rectal Diseases.

LIFE'S BLOOD STREAM.

The great clearinghouse of a person's body is the blood stream. Your blood cells are your bank account. Your only defense against disease is by and through blood corpuscles. My blood-making, blood-purifying remedies have been tried and proven. My blood-cell remedies nourish, strengthen and increase the blood cells and nourish the nerve centers. I want to prove to you at my expense that my blood-making, blood-purifying remedies give power to weak brains and life to nerve centers.

KIDNEY AND BLADDER DISEASES.

With these diseases you may have more complications than are presented by any other diseased organs. By my searching illumination of the bladder I determine accurately the diseases and by my microscopical examination and urinalysis I make sure of the condition of the kidneys, thus laying foundations for scientific treatment.

Plans for Wilshire Christian Church Completed.

Numerous Building Projects Reported for Week.

Train & Williams are preparing plans for the reconstruction of the building of the Los Angeles College of Fine Arts on South Avenue 66, which was burned recently. Prof. W. L. Judson is dean and owner of the college, which was conducted in conjunction with the University of Southern California. The new building will be two stories and the construction cobblestones, frame and plaster over metal lath and shingles. The main portion will be 92x45 feet and there will be a wing 77x40 feet joining the main portion at an angle. The building will contain offices, art gallery, studios, class rooms and a dormitory.

Other projects reported in the Southwest Contractor and Manufacturer follow:

J. C. Austin and W. C. Pennell have prepared a perspective and preliminary plans for a three-story and basement tourist hotel for the Santa Monica Land Company, for the Palisades district at Santa Monica. J. B. Proctor, manager of the company, states the project is still in an indefinite stage.

C. C. Rittenhouse is preparing plans for a three-story frame apartment building to be erected on Bonnie Brae street, between Seventh and Eighth. There will be sixty-four rooms, parlors, reception hall with mezzanine floor, roof garden and store rooms. Suites of two and three rooms will be provided with private bath to each. Front and sides will be cement plastered over metal lath.

William C. Harris has completed plans and will supervise the erection of the new Wilshire Boulevard Christian church at Normandie avenue and Wilshire boulevard, estimated to cost $15,000. It will be in the style of a club house, 80x100 feet, with basement under the entire building. The lecture room will seat, with balcony, about 750 people, provision also being made for Sunday school rooms, choir room, baptistry and rostrum. Social quarters and class rooms will be in the basement.

F. S. Allen has been selected to prepare plans for a high school building to be erected at Selma, Cal. It will probably have exterior walls of reinforced concrete with interior of wood. Bonds in the amount of $60,000 will be voted upon at an election to be called soon.

Walker & Vawter are drawing plans for a studio building and shop to be erected on Hollywood boulevard near Ivy stret, for the Hoover Art Company. The structure will be of brick, 38x105 feet, and one story high. Departments for retail trade, water colors and curios will be provided, also show room, operating rooms for photographic work and painting, laboratory and dark room.

C. C. Rittenhouse is completing plans and will be ready for bids next week for the erection of a three-story and basement frame and plaster apartment house at Eighth and Coronado streets, for L. H. Mitchell.

George H. Rector has drawn plans and will erect at 528 Westmoreland avenue a two-story frame flat building to cost $6000. It will contain four separate apartments. A. I. Conkey will build a two-story frame apartment building, 42x90 feet, at 3823 Moneta avenue. It will contain two and three-room suites.

Hunt & Burns are preparing preliminary plans for the new hospital building to be erected at Sunset boulevard and Vermont avenue for the Children's Hospital Association. No definite plan has been adopted as yet, but, according to Mrs. William P. Johnson, chairman of the building committee, the new structure will probably be of reinforced concrete construction, either two or three stories high, and modern throughout.

A tract of 320 acres near Delano has been purchased by Edwin Alderson from A. B. Glass. The land is located two miles southwest of Delano, on the main line of the Southern Pacific. Roads will be cut through the track before the property is offered for sale.

The bank will be of the classic Ionic style of architecture and a single story in height. The exterior will be attractively faced with matt-glazed, cream colored brick, the footings and columns being of reinforced concrete. The interior finish and fixtures will be of mahogany, verde antique marble being used for the base and deal. The floors of the lobbies and porticos are to be of vitrus tile.

Earl Remington will construct the reinforced concrete vaults, and the contract for the finishings has been awarded to Jacob Niederer.

The officers of the bank are C. H. Brown, president and W. G. Brown, cashier.

DEALERS PREDICT ACTIVITY.

MONROVIA, Dec. 17.—Realty dealers and owners prophesy a prosperous season. Coincident with the advent of the vanguard of winter tourists and homeseekers, many important sales have been closed in the past ten days and others are pending. The salient feature of the week has been the heavy investment in business frontage by local capitalists. The assurance of a $125,000 high school, a new technical grade school and a comprehensive sewer system during 1911 has given impetus to the demand for urban home and business sites. Sales reported during the week aggregate $55,000, and are as follows:

REALTY MAN IN HOSPITAL.

W. M. Lane, of the realty firm of Bryan & Bradford, is confined to bed at the Good Samaritan Hospital, where an operation was performed yesterday upon his left ear. Mr. Lane has been suffering for weeks from an ulceration in the interior of the member and has been unable to attend to his business duties part of the time owing to the severe pain suffered. His physician stated yesterday that he would be around again in about two weeks.

PLAN HIGHER BLOCK.

If the City Council will raise the building restrictions, the Los Angeles Investment Company declares it will put up a twenty-five story building on its site at Broadway and Eighth. Action was taken at the directors' meeting yesterday afternoon authorizing an outlay of an additional half million to carry on the project. The total cost of the building and the land, would, it is estimated, be $2,000,000. Twenty floors of the building would be carried up following the plan already announced, the other five being in the shape of a tower similar to the Singer tower of New York, the latter to contain the most desirable offices in the building, and each face to carry a clock with a 30-foot dial. Charles A. Elder, president, said that his company would neither oppose nor favor raising the present building height, it being the intention to take advantage only of such concessions as might be granted by the Council to H. C. Merritt for his proposed tower building.

CHINO RANCH SALES.

The Chino Land and Water Company report the following recent sales on the Chino ranch, aggregating $33,750; fifty acres for $9000 to Frances C. Ericsson $18,000 to Stephen O. Schaeffer of Chino, located about a mile south of Chino.

HERE'S A CHANCE.

Government Position Calling for Civil Service Examinations, Open to Bright and Ambitious Young Men.

An examination for laboratory aid in the Bureau of Plant Industry of the Department of Agriculture will be held by the United States Civil Service Commission on January 18, 1911.

The competition is open only to the masculine sex. The position pays $70 a month, but furnishes a good opportunity for advancement. Regarding this feature, the commission, in a bulletin which has just been issued, says:

"The position of aid in the various branches of the Bureau of Plant Industry offers many advantages to young persons who desire to take up certain lines of special or scientific work, either in the Department of Agriculture, the State Experiment Stations or elsewhere.

"The preliminary training, practical, theoretical and scientific, to be obtained while serving as a laboratory aid, will be valuable to any young person who has a taste for scientific work in agriculture, or who contemplates taking a course in some agricultural college.

"While the pay of an aid is necessarily low, as in case of all inexperienced workers, in comparison with that of persons doing a higher class of work, yet opportunities wil be afforded for advancement to more remunerative positions. Any ambitious young person who has had the advantage of a high school education and has a general knowledge of pomology, will be eligible. Applicants must have reached their seventeenth but not their twenty-fifth birthday on the date of the examination.

UTILITIES COMMISSION.

San Francisco Attorney Says This State Needs One to Regulate Stock and Bond Issues.

That a State Public Utilities Commission, modelled after the ones established by New York and Wisconsin, is a need in California was the argument of Thomas E. Havens, assistant City Attorney of San Francisco, before the City Club yesterday.

He said the creation of such a commission would not materially benefit Los Angeles, because it already has a commission that is possessed of governmental advantages other cities, particularly San Francisco, do not enjoy. But the State Commission would aid all municipalities as well as the State in the proper regulation of stock and bond issues and rates charged for service.

The control of stock and bond issues to his mind was a most important feature, because it will prevent over capitalization and consequent necessity for high rates to sustain it.

Havens told of the numerous uses of the New York law in keeping business on a sound basis and preventing competition, through public franchise rights, that ultimately leads to consolidations and recapitalization and stock jobbery and results in high rates.

His talk amplified the outlines of a Public Utilities Commission bill announced by Meyer Lissner, Republican State Chairman, before the City Club a week ago.

Tone Up the Hair From Root to Tip

(Mrs. Rohrer in Style and Fashion.)

"Many women cannot wash the head for reasons of health;—all find it inconvenient to do so at times. These can prepare a shampoo powder at home that will make the hair clean, fresh and glossy.

"Mix four ounces of therox with four ounces of orris root. Sprinkle a little of this mixture on the head once a week and brush it thoroughly through the hair. It is particularly good to use when the hair is dusty, dull or greasy, and no other shampoo or tonic is necessary.

"Therox has beneficial properties that make the hair grow and preserve its natural color. A shampoo powder made as above has a delicate perfume and makes the hair beautifully soft and fluffy. It is non-greasy, refreshing and revitaliz'

MONROVIA

Picturesque Residence Suburb

This announcement is addressed to you newcomers, not by a private concern but by the BOARD OF TRADE OF MONROVIA. This semi-public organization has nothing to sell but is engaged like similiar organizations in promoting the general welfare of Southern California.

Special confidence may therefore be reposed in the statements following;

Monrovia is a residence suburb of Los Angeles famous as being more typical of Southern California than any other near-by section.

Its natural attractions are high-elevation, grand mountain scenery, excellent soil, pure mountain water, practically no fogs, no mud, no raw or cold winds.

Its thirty miles of paved streets, thousands of great shade trees, orange groves, artistic homes make it ideal for a permanent home.

Coupled with its surpassing natural advantages are all the conveniences afforded by any big city. Gas, electricity, telephones, fine stores, schools, churches, clubs, library, newspaper.

Business men's flyers shoot over the private-right-of-way of the Pacific-Electric, bearing passengers to the Los Angeles business district in about the same time consumed by slow city-cars from the outskirts.

Address the Monrovia Board of Trade, Monrovia, Cal., or take a car-ride and see for yourself the most active, solid and picturesque suburbs of Los Angeles.

Year Ends Busily.

HOSPITAL PLANS ARE ADOPTED.

Supervisors Authorize a New Five-Story Ward.

Substantial Block Is Planned for Hill and Second.

Excavation Started for Huge Office Building.

It now seems quite likely that the present December will lead all others in the city's history in point of construction cost, thereby being the seventh month of the present year to smash old records in building valuation and the tenth to eclipse past performances in the way of the number of permits issued by the City Building Department. The total for the month is already close to $1,000,000, and even with the distraction of the holidays, it is altogether probable that enough builders will find time to visit the City Hall in the next two weeks to bring the aggregate up to a record figure. The best previous December total was that of 1904, which boasted $1,527,000.

The Board of Supervisors adopted plans during the week for a new surgical ward and a stable building to be erected at the County Hospital grounds. The plans, as prepared by Hudson & Munsell, call for a surgical building five stories in height and of steel frame, fireproof construction. It will be in the form of a letter E. The appointments will embody the most modern ideas for this kind of institution. The stable structure will be of brick and concrete construction.

A one-story brick moving picture theater and store structure has been begun at No. 829 Michigan avenue, Hollywood, by E. E. Roessler. The contract has been awarded for the construction of a one-story brick store building at Nos. 1459 to 1463 North Main street, the Los Angeles Trust and Savings Bank being the builder. Paul C. Pape is the architect.

The Mason Company is contemplating the immediate erection of a substantial building at the southwest corner of Second and Hill streets, and an old wooden structure on the site is being cleared away at the present time. The lot has a frontage of sixty feet on Hill by 103 feet on Second. The type of building has not yet been determined upon, the owners being undecided whether to erect a fireproof apartment house for bachelors or a loft building. The height of the structure and the material entering into it is also yet to be decided upon. R. B Young & Son will draw the plans.

The contract has been awarded for the construction of a three-story brick store and apartment building on the southwest corner of Seventh street and Ruth avenue for Alice M. Brown, Elizabeth Pallette and P. S. Brown. The plans, which were drawn by Fred R. Dorn, call for a concrete foundation and brick walls, there being six stores and twenty-six two-room apartments in the structure. Hunt & Burns have finished plans for a two-story brick store building to be erected at No. 443 South Hill street for Thomas C. Bundy.

Ground was broken during the week for the foundation of the fourteen-story steel frame block to be erected by E. T. Earl at the northwest corner of Seventh and Spring streets. The site is 63x165 feet in size. Parkinson & Bergstrom are the architects.

Dennis & Farwell have been asked by the Council to prepare designs for a police substation to be built on East First street, between Cummings and St. Louis. The appropriation calls for a two-story brick building to cost $20,000. Plans are under way by Homer W. Glidden for a garage to be erected on Grand avenue, between Ninth and Tenth, for Edward Baruch.

BUNGALOWS UNDER WAY.

CONVENT IS FINE TYPE OF MISSION.

ST. MARY'S ACADEMY NEARING COMPLETION.

Construction Embodies Best in Typically Southern California Architecture—Cost With Equipment Close to a Quarter Million. Site Is Beautiful.

The exterior walls of the beautiful new building of St. Mary's Academy at Slauson and Cypress avenues are practically completed and the contractor promises that the structure will be ready for occupancy within two months. The structure is one of the most striking in the Southland and probably as fine an example of the pure mission type of architecture as can be found anywhere. It bids fair to be one of the notable convent schools of the United States.

The building occupies a site of twenty acres, commanding a magnificent view of the surrounding valley and of the city. The grounds front 1322 feet on Slauson by 640 feet on Cypress, and are east of the Redondo car line.

The convent, which was designed by John C. Austin, has a frontage of 288 feet by a depth of 204 feet. The main portion is three stories in height, there being four two-story wings. The construction is brick, the exterior being in cement plaster. The roof is of Spanish tile. With its fittings and appointments the building will represent a cost of $250,000.

The two main wings, extending out from the front of the structure, will be joined by a cloister, which will be one of the beautiful features of the construction. The building, which is one of the largest of the kind in the country, will contain dormitories for day and boarding pupils, numerous class rooms, rest rooms, lecture rooms, laboratories, science and art departments and a main music room surrounded by a colonade opening off into smaller music rooms.

The chapel will be treated in the Greek Ionic style and ornately finished. The ceiling will be vaulted. The room will be 54x90 feet in size and a feature will be the beautiful chancel. The assembly room will contain a stage for the presentation of class plays, and will be connected with the gymnasium.

Mills for highly improved 30-acre ranch at Mesto station on the Santa Ana line, valued at $20,000.

A Colossus.

BILLION-DOLLAR MAGNATE.

Theodore N. Vail, Head of All the Merged Telephone Companies of the Country, Now President of Western Union Telegraph Lines—Captivating Story of the Organization Whose Tentacles Touch Everybody.

BY WILLIAM H. KNIGHT.

NEXT to the Continental Railway systems and the gigantic Steel Corporation, the two most powerful trusts in this country are the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, formerly under the presidency of Frederic P. Fish, and the Western Union Telegraph Company, of which Col. Robert C. Clowry was the head till his death a few months ago.

Theodore Newton Vail succeeded Mr. Fish as president of the telephone company in 1907, and has now been selected to fill the vacant presidency of the great telegraph company, thus uniting under one head and one control the vast interests of the two dominating organizations of the country which are engaged in the transmission of intelligence by electricity.

Theodore N. Vail.

WHO IS VAIL?

Born in Carroll county, Ohio, sixty-five years ago, young Vail went with his parents to Morristown, N. J., where he finished his school education at the village academy. For two years he studied medicine with his uncle, but Theodore was not cut out for a doctor. In the town of Speedwell, near by, the Morses were perfecting their new telegraph invention and young Vail became so much interested in it that he decided to devote himself to the business of telegraphing.

Going west he first secured employment as operator in a small railway station in Iowa. From there he entered the railway mail service, becoming assistant superintendent in 1873, and general superintendent at Washington from 1875 to 1878. While engaged in this service be introduced many reforms and improved the methods of classification and distribution of mail matter while en route on the trains.

When the telephone was invented it was regarded at first rather as a toy than a serious business proposition. But Mr. Vail discerned the great possibilities of its development as a universal convenience, and set about perfecting the methods of handling it and adapting it to the needs of the public, and was instrumental in making it a factor in business and social life.

His health failing, he sought rest and recuperation by travel in Europe. There he came in contact with men capable of handling large financial transactions, and was induced to enter a new field in South America. He visited the Argentine Republic and installed his telephones in the principal cities, and then proceeded to equip Buenos Ayres with the American system of electric railways. After amassing a large fortune he disposed of his Argentine interests and returned to his own country.

He purchased a great farm of 3600 acres at Lyndonville, Vt., where he planned to spend the rest of his days. But his active mind could not remain dormant, nor confine its activities to five square miles of the earth's surface. Carrying messages to folks had been his life work and, having invested in a large block of the American Company's telephone securities, and being placed on its board of directors, he could not refrain from taking a deep interest in its expansion. When, therefore, Mr. Fish retired from the presidency in 1907 on account of failing health, Mr. Vail became the unanimous choice of the directors.

GROWTH OF THE TELEPHONE COMPANY.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company, a title prophetic of its future scope and field of operations, was incorporated in 1885, before it was realized, even by its most sanguine promoters, what a magnificent career lay before it. But it founders had dreams, for its capital was placed at what was then regarded extravagant figures, $100,000,000.

But this ample capitalization enabled it to secure controlling interests, usually a majority of stock, of many local companies operating in large and populous areas, in the United States and Canada. It acquired the valuable holdings of the American Bell Telephone Company in 1900, and the next year increased its capital stock to $150,000,000. But this was only a beginning, for in 1903 it added another $100,000,000 to its capital, which sufficed for six years, when, in 1909 it added $50,000,000 more, making a total of $300,000,000. But still larger and more far-reaching plans were ahead, and a few months ago, as if hundreds of millions were paltry sums, again jumped its nominal capital stock to an even half-billion dollars.

At the end of the year 1909 its bonded debt was $101,130,000, but this vast sum, so difficult to grasp intellectually, was after all a trifle, for it had been reduced to that figure from $150,000,000 by enormous earnings within the previous few years. The trust was at the same time acquiring control of new local companies on every hand. There are sixteen absorbed and subsidiary companies to whom its bonds are payable, but the company owns securities of thirty-seven corporations.

A year ago the American Telephone and Telegraph Company had 5,142,649 stations in the United States, and it was using 10,480,000 miles of wire — 649,308 miles of which had been added within the year. The company also owns 80 per cent. of the stock of the Western Electric Company, the largest concern in the world manufacturing telephone appliances. Its sales in one year amounted to $69,000,000, and last year to nearly $53,000,000. Of course, Mr. Vail is a director.

HOW THE SUBSIDIARIES GREW.

An important chapter in the history of both the American Telephone and the Western Union companies is connected with a large subsidiary — the New York Telephone Company, originally capitalized at $16,000,000. It was a ravenous concern and swallowed up, one after another, the smaller companies all around it, and succeeded in extending the Bell system throughout the eastern States. Having increased the capital stock, first to $50,000,000 and then to $100,000,000, U. N. Bethell, an able manipulator of telephone securities, secured control of the Hudson River Company the Central New York Company, the Bell of Pennsylvania, all wide in their scope, and turned them in to the American company.

But the Western Union had a substantial interest in the New York Telephone and appeared to be anxious to increase its telephone holdings. Mr. Bethell attacked the problem, succeeded in buying the Western Union's telephone stock on a basis of $151.50 per share, and thus eliminated a dangerous intruder in the telephone field. And now the Western Union is itself gobbled up. How the world wags!

Another of the large controlled and owned organizations, not included in the capitalization of the American company, is the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company, with an independent capitalization of $50,000,000. It was formed by merging the Pacific States Telephone and Telegraph Company with the Sunset Telephone and Telegraph Company. Henry T. Scott of San Francisco is the president, and John A. Glass is the local manager in Los Angeles. The two merged companies have 240,000 telephones and 70,000 miles of wire. It is intended to connect every city, town and hamlet on the Pacific Coast, from British Columbia to Mexico, with the system.

In February last the J. P. Morgan firm endeavored to get possession of a majority of the stock in some western companies ramifying through Ohio, Michigan, Indiana and Missouri, but he was restrained by legal proceedings on the ground that he was forming a monopoly. It is expected that through some other nominal agency the stock will be secured and the companies merged into the big concern, for when a great trust goes after a plum it usually manages to get it in some way.

But there are a large number of other independent, unattached companies, many of them supplying rural neighborhoods in the Middle West. The telephone is not only a luxury and a convenience, but it has come to be almost a necessity to the well-to-do farmer, quite unknown to his predecessor two generations ago.

There are now about 15,000 independent companies, operating 4,000,000 telephones. The larger ones are gradually being absorbed by the adjacent suburban companies, and these are extensively controlled by the American Company or one of its large subsidiaries. Thus, by a process of evolution all the telephone systems of the country are gradually being welded into one gigantic monopoly. The merging of all the Bell Telephone companies of the country into one corporation would aggregate a present capitalization of $970,000,000.

Three years ago the firms of J. P. Morgan & Co., Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and Kidder, Peabody & Co., offered $40,000,000 of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company's bonds for investment. Embodied in the advertisement was the statement that the gross earnings for the previous year were $24,428,434, and the operating expenses, including interest and taxes, were $11,644,968, leaving a balance of $12,783,466. The bonds were promptly snapped up.

HISTORY OF WESTERN UNION.

The Western Union Telegraph Company was incorporated in 1856 with a modest capital—large enough for those days—of $500,000. It was successor to the New York and Mississippi Printing Telegraph Company which had acquired the Morse, House, Speed and Wade patents. In 1864 its capital was increased to $60,000,000 in order to take over many new companies which were springing up in all directions, some of them connected with railway lines. In 1908 the stock was increased to $100,000,000, and a few months ago further extensions, both on land and sea, called for another jump to $125,000,000.

The gross earnings of the Western Union in 1909 were $30,641,073, and its operating expenses $18,211,476, from which dividends of 6 per cent. were paid, leaving a clear surplus of $7,247,107. The company has 207,879 miles of poles, 1,322,506 miles of wire, and delivered 68,058,489 messages during the year. It has paid regular dividends of 6 per cent. per annum since 1887. Its stock is pretty well scattered, the num-

ONTARIO, A RICH AND ATTRACTIVE CITY.

District Surrounding Producing Crops Which Are Making Many Ranchers Wealthy—Water Power From Mountain Streams Developing Electricity on Large Scale.

ALMOST at the mouth of the beautiful San Antonio Canyon and a few miles from the base of the great Sierra Madre Mountains lies Ontario. Daughter of a Canadian namesake, she was born in California, and as if to protect the gentle stranger from being enticed back to her cold northern dominion, the mighty Sierra Madre Mountains, a great army of lofty peaks, will forever guard her from any encroachments on the North. "Old Baldy," stands out majestically as the captain of this army. He towers his old snow-white head almost 11,000 feet above the sea and seems to smile down upon Ontario a confident assurance of his best protection.

A little forward and several thousand feet lower than "Old Baldy" stand his subordinates, "Ontario" and "Cucamongar" peaks. They seem to rise up right at the very foot of the city like two gigantic sentinels and rear their heads some 9000 feet above sea level. Their special duty is to prevent the hot dry winds of the Mojave Desert from ever molesting Ontario in the summer, and likewise to beat back the cold frigid winds from the north which would, if unchecked, annually attack the district.

The remaining mountains are not by any means idle. As if inspired by the good work of their officers, they are annually engaged in supplying the needs of Ontario. Each year these busy workers collect tons and tons of water on their slopes. This water splashes and tumbles down the most picturesque mountain canyons in its gravitation and passing through the turbines of several power plants, generating electricity for illumination and motive force, finally gushes out of the mountains into the conduits of an extensive irrigation system covering an area of 5000 acres of ranch lands.

Thus has Dame Nature been very kind to Ontario. In fact it is generally considered that she has been quite partial to the district. Not only has she afforded Ontario a most effectual protection against severe climate and an inexhaustible supply of water for power and irrigation, but she has also dowered the soil with a most excellent fertility. All these natural gifts contribute to the formation of one of the best provided and most beautifully situated cities in this part of our sunny south.

"Ontario, the city that charms," is the foreword of the local Chamber of Commerce, and if beauty has any charm, the Chamber is more than entitled to the claims of its motto.

RAILROAD CONNECTIONS.

Ontario is situated thirty-seven miles due east of Los Angeles in the southwestern part of San Bernardino county. It is banded to the world by the three great transcontinental railroad systems of the State. In the southern portion of the town the Salt Lake and Southern Pacific pass, paralleling each other a block apart. Both these companies have large station buildings in the town and handle a large passenger and freight business from the community. In the extreme northern part of the town the tracks of the Santa Fe system are to be found. This road offers convenient transportation facilities for those people living north of the town's business center. From thirty-five to forty passenger trains stop at Ontario daily.

The Salt Lake company is to build a direct line from Ontario to Redlands soon after March 1, 1911. This new line will add more advantages to the local traveling public and shippers. A motor car service on the Salt Lake route between Los Angeles and San Bernardino has lately been established and Ontario will benefit from this convenience.

The Ontario and San Antonio Heights Railway is a local suburban electric road which runs north and south through the town at right angles to the steam roads. This road connects Ontario with Uplands and San Antonio Heights. The beautiful park of the San Antonio canyon and the mountain trails of Old Baldy and a number of other prominent peaks are reached from the northern terminus of this line. By January 1, 1911, the company plans to have completed an extension connecting Ontario, Claremont and Pomona.

THE MUNICIPALITY.

In 1890 an area of one-half a mile square was incorporated as a city of the sixth class. In 1899 the population amounted to about 1000 people but between 1899 and 1901 a very noticeable increase was made. By the end of that year 1500 souls were living in the town and surrounding district. The city reincorporated and a new area of thirteen and one-half square miles including the original incorporation was adopted as the municipality. The population since that time has been steadily climbing up. Between 1904-5 it amounted to about 2000; in 1906, 2500; in 1907, 3000; in 1908, 4250 and in 1909-10 approximately 5000 with a ranching district within a three mile radius of the town containing about 2500 more people.

The assessment on the town property this year amounted to $2,376,108.00. There are two rates of taxation. Those persons living in the old incorporated town are enjoying the use of a municipal water and sewer system and pay a tax rate of $1.61 1-2 while all other residents outside this district pay a rate of $1.37.

October 31, 1910 the city voted $175,000 bonds for a municipal water system to cover the entire city and to provide a larger and more efficient supply for the present existing system. Bids on the bonds were opened December 1 and it is thought they will all be sold within a short time. As soon as they are sold the engineering work will be immediately commenced.

The city has purchased a small block of land in a convenient place for $22,000. On this property has been erected a neat and attractive City Hall constructed on the mission order of architecture. The sum of $2000 will immediately be spent for the parking of the remaining portion of this block. Being located at the very entrance of the town and visible from the railroad coaches of the Salt Lake and Southern Pacific this improvement will certainly be admired by thousands of railroad passengers who pass annually through the town and also provide the inhabitants with a long felt want.

As a result of the town's growth the annual receipts of the local post office have increased 81 per cent. During the fiscal year 1907 they amounted to $8,578.30 and for 1910 to $15,573.95. There is a free mail delivery in the city and the local postoffice supervises two rural routes one of which is twenty-six miles in length the other twenty-two miles.

A handsome public library is one of the chief prides of the community. The building and equipment cost over $15,000, the larger portion of this sum being donated by Andrew Carnegie. The building is surrounded with lawns and palms and is situated in a location where it can be easily reached by the entire population.

A local gas plant furnishes the inhabitants with illuminating and fuel gas at a cost of $1.50 per thousand cubic feet. The Ontario Power Company supplies the city with electric current for the street lighting system as well as for domestic illumination. The rate for private residences is $.13 per kilowatt with a rebate of 10 per cent. if bills are paid before the 15th of the month. Electric motive power can be furnished at a very low rate.

Ontario has fifteen miles of sidewalks and twenty miles of curbed and improved streets. Three miles of the improved streets are macadamized the rest being thoroughly graded and oiled. The city engineering officials are making every effort to extend the good road work in every direction. Public spirited citizens in the outlying parts of the city are banding themselves together in improvement associations and these bodies are mutually assisting the work of extending the street improvements.

The city engineer's reports show that over 150 acres within the incorporated limits of the city were subdivided into town lots within the last three years and it is expected that many new tracts will be opened this year, now that a municipal water system is to be established on a large enough scale to supply all the outlaying districts.

A sewer system valued at $35,000 is maintained in the most densely populated part of the city. The sewerage is disposed of on a sewer farm located a mile south of the town. The natural slope of the ground is ideal for sewer drainage and an efficient Board of Health is constantly engaged to keep all sanitary conditions up to a high standard.

The existing municipal water system disposes of nearly 10,000,000 gallons of water monthly for domestic use. The rate to customers is $1 for the first 1000 cubic feet and 50 cents per thousand for additional quantities.

BUSINESS ENTERPRISE.

The business center of Ontario is continually alive with activity. There are a number of first-class mercantile stores, representing nearly every line of business. Most of these are managed by progressive and enterprising men who think as much of pleasing a customer as they do of the customer's money. Nearly every store is doing a successful business and one does not hear woe begone tales of business failures from the Ontario merchants, as is the case in many towns.

Illustrating the growth of Ontario, in a business way, may be mentioned the progress of the Frst National Bank which was established in April, 1902, with a capital of $30,000, surplus of $7500 and deposits of about $65,000. The last statement of the Comptroller of the Currency shows for this bank a capital of $50,000, surplus and undivided profits, $30,000 and deposits amounting to nearly $400,000. The total assets of this bank are at present over half a million.

The Citizens Bank also offers convenient banking facilities for the local people. The institution has been established in the town a number of years and is handling a large volume of business.

Over $150,000 worth of property has changed hands this last year in Ontario. Besides, the real estate men have experienced great activity in the sale of residence lots and ranch property. The present list price of property for sale in the district is not inflated and investments in the district's ranches will net splendid interest to the buyers if the property is properly cultivated.

Unimproved land ranges in price from $150 to $300 an acre. Some lands in the outlying districts may even be had for less money but the prices quoted are generally prevailing. Improved alfalfa lands in the valley can be had from $350 an acre up while setablished orange groves command a price of from $1000 to $2500 an acre according to location and irrigation facilities.

Residence lots 48 feet by 177 feet sell variously from $300 to $1200 each. Lots in the business section can be bought all the way from $100 to $300 a front foot.

SCHOOLS.

One of the greatest advantages this State offers to easterners who desire to live here is found in the splendid public school facilites which our smaller towns afford. It is most remarkable, the vast amount of money which is spent by these towns within the last four or five years in the construction of beautiful grammar and high school buildings. These are so new and so fully equipped with all modern appliances for academic and technical education that they at once appeal to the stranger. The country schools do not have the large classes of the big city schools and in consequence of this fact each student is provided with more individul attention and instruction.

Ontario is provided with six fine grammar school buildings and a new up-to-date high school plant, which includes all the features of a large city polytechnic school. The High School is centrally located in the town on a five acre plat of ground. The school building with its surrounding park occupies about two acres of this space while the remaining portion of the ground is given over to an out-door gymnasium. A large amount of out-door gymnastic apparatus has lately been ordered from the East and will be installed in a few weeks. The building is of brick construction with an exterior finish of cement plaster. The mission order of architecture prevails. It is practically a three-story building with two stories above ground and a large basement. There are sixteen rooms in all. Splendid sanitary conditions are maintained and the general comfort and health of the students is amply provided for in many other ways.

The principal's office, library containing 500 volumes, an auditorium seating about 500 and several recitation rooms occupy the main floor while the physics and chemistry laboratories, a science lecture hall, botany, zoology and drafting rooms are found on the second floor. The domestic science, commercial and wood working departments are at present located in the basement. The wood working department, however, will eventually be moved into another building. The need of a separate shop has been felt for some time and it is the hope of the local school superintendent to see this erected within the next twelve months.

The students enjoy very pleasant life and the monotony of continual study is broken by various other activities. There are two instrumental orchestras, and this musical work has become part of the school's course of study. Two glee clubs are in the habit of giving vocal selections and their efforts are exceptional. Oratory, debating and dramatic art are also engaged in. The school is the proud possessor of a number of trophies won from institutions in athletic contests. The athletic situation is in the entire control of the student body and much of the school discipline is also left in their hands. The students publish an annual magazine which is a creditable piece of work.

The instruction staff is composed of fourteen competent teachers and a principal, who is also superintendent of the city schools. The present student enrollment numbers 265 and the school could comfortably accommodate 300. The building has only been opened since 1909 and is entirely new in every respect. A class in applied electricity is a feature which has just been started and meets two nights a week in the building.

Of the six grammar school buildings one is just completed. This one is known as the San Antonio-avenue school and is located in the eastern part of the city. It is a pretty mission building containing eight rooms with an accommodation for 350 pupils. It is equipped with a fine sanitary heating apparatus and all other modern conveniences. There are seven teachers and the present enrollment numbers pupils. The grounds will soon be planted out in flowers which will add to the beauty of the building.

There are five other similarly equipped buildings in the district. The total grammar school enrollment this year is 750 and the local school board provides twenty-three teachers for these children.

To show the growth of the school work in Ontario it is to be noted that in 1900 the total public school enrollment for Ontario and Uplands numbered 576. In 1906 Uplands incorporated as an independent town and the school census for Ontario alone that year showed an enrollment of 600 pupils. The last school census places the enrollment at a little less than one thousand.

SOCIETY.

Ontario provides exceptional social advantages. There are a number of fraternal and literary organizations which hold regular meetings and have large enrollments of membership. The local lodge of Masons and the Odd Fellows have their own buildings containing their meeting rooms and dance halls.

A great many religious demonstrations are represented and all through the city may be found church buildings which are architectural ornaments and bespeak the moral environment of the town. Civic improvement associations have been organized. All of these are accomplishing much and are generally adding to the welfare and upbuilding of Ontario.

Nearly every business man is a member of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce. This organization has been organized a little over a year. During the short time of its existence, however, it has made its good work emphatically felt. One of the prettiest little ornaments in the entire town is the Chamber of Commerce building which stands in the center of beautiful Euclid avenue surrounded by lawns and palms. Euclid avenue is a 200-foot thoroughfare which runs from Ontario back to the mountains, a distance of seven miles. A fifty-foot strip through the center of the avenue is parked for its entire length. It is on the extreme southern end of this parked strip the Chamber of Commerce building is located. Communications addressed to Secretary J. J. Barr will be gladly answered.

The Ontario Merchants' Association is an organization for the protection of the individual merchants. It has a membership of about forty of the local merchants.

Cementing all these social bodies together, as it were, and keeping the different organizations acquainted with each others' doings is the Ontario Daily Republican, the news organ of the town. This newspaper contains a full account of the local happenings and also touches on the most important news items of the outside world. It is a live, progressive organ and well supported by the community.

THE RANCHERS' WEALTH.

The ranchers in the Ontario district are the backbone of the town. They are all happy and prosperous. Many are wealthy. Industry rather than speculation has made the Ontario rancher rich. With hard labor he has turned the sod, his hands clamped to the handles of his plow. There was real gold to be plowed out of the soil, and the energy and zeal needed to direct the plow were supplied by industrious farmers.

It is not necessary to say that the farming prosperity of this district is remarkable, nor to comment upon the section's fertile soil, its water supply and its general farming facilities, for Ontario can afford to depart from the ordinary custom of elaboration. She can present facts and figures of the most convincing sort. Only a district that had actually something to offer the public could produce what the Ontario section has produced during the last few years. Here are some figures obtained right from the account books of the local packing houses, the local railroad agents and individual ranchers.

From October 1, 1909, to October 1, 1910, all three steam roads, the Salt Lake, Southern Pacific and Santa Fe, handled 5133 carloads of produce from their Ontario stations. Of this shipment from 3500 to 4000 cars were Washington navels and Valencia oranges. About 500 cars of this shipment were lemons. From 175 to 200 cars were canned goods packed in Ontario. The rest of the shipment amounted to from 1000 to 1500 tons of hays and grains which filled from 150 to 200 cars and about 5000 or 6000 tons of ripe deciduous fruits.

Bearing in mind that this was an off year in the citrus crop and that the amount of production was away below the average, these figures are most severely conservative.

To give the reader some idea what amount of money the citrus product returns to the grower and to show also how the industry has grown, we quote the following shipping statistics for the last five years and compare them with a shipment of 1897-1898, when the producing farms were then in their infancy. These figures represent about 80 per cent. of all the citrus product grown in the district:

Year.	Cars.	Value.
1905-6	1,577	1,318,074
1906-7	2,204	1,537,990
1907-8	2,390	1,634,571
1908-9	3,112	1,759,117
1909-10	2,431	1,730 343

The total valuation of all the citrus crops shipped for the past thirteen years is $13,241,394.

The Ontario Cucamonga Fruit Exchange, one of the largest packing houses in the State, shipped 2431 cars, or 904,426 boxes of citrus fruit this year. The average price received for all oranges was $1.68 a box and for all lemons $3.34 a box. Navel oranges averaged $600 per car this year, while Valencias ran about $902 a car. Lemons brought $1641 a car, on an average.

The Citrus Fruit Association of Ontario shipped 201,058 boxes of oranges and grape fruit and 3152 boxes of lemons this year. This shipment filled 534 cars and netted the growers $271,800.

The citrus belt of Ontario lies principally in the highlands north of the town and comprises an area of approximately 5000 acres. Lying immediately south are some 3000 acres planted to deciduous fruit trees, principally peaches and apricots. These trees require no irrigation, and the soil of this location is well adapted for their growth. The deciduous farms are netting the ranchers from $75 to $200 an acre annually. Most of the fruit is consumed by the local cannery. A new and what will be one of the largest canneries on the coast is at present under course of construction a mile east of Ontario. This concern will give employment for several hundred men and women and will be an incentive for the local ranchers to increase the deciduous fruit industry.

To the south and west of the deciduous belt are large alfalfa fields, from which seven to eight crops a year are harvested, averaging one and one-half tons to the acre. The alfalfa crop in this section has always paid well.

IRRIGATION.

The irrigation of the Ontario district is largely controlled by the San Antonio Water Company. This is a mutual company of the land owners in the community. Each acre of land is sold with shares of water stock. The company claims to have one of the safest water systems in this part of the State and has never had occasion to use all the water it could provide since its organization, which was in 1882. It obtains its water partly from the San Antonio canyon and party from a number of wells. During the annual irrigation season, which runs from May 1 to November 1 of each year, this company supplies about 1000 miner's inches of water continuously, which is conducted through underground pipes over an area of about 5000 acres.

NEEDS OF THE DISTRICT.

The needs of Ontario are the golden opportunities of the newcomer. What the town wants for its own development could be brought in by a stranger who can realize a good interest on his capital by investing it in the town and at the same time can assist the growth of the community.

The first and most important enterprise in the eyes of the business men is the construction of a first-class hotel to accommodate the tourist trade. So great is the interest in this matter that a number of the prominent residents have purchased an excellent site of five acres and are holding it until outside capital can be interested in the proposition. This transaction took place November 23 of this year.

The Ontario Daily Republican of that date outlined the situation as follows: "The men purchasing the property have formed a company to be known as the Ontario Promotion Company. They will hold the property open for a period of four months and during that time will dispose of it at exactly what it cost them, provided it will be used for modern hotel purposes.

"This company could doubtless make several thousand dollars on their investment by holding the property, but their aim is to secure the city a thoroughly modern and high-class hotel.

"Ontario's present hotels are absolutely unable to handle the tourist trade, such as the city desires to attract, and each year that Ontario puts off erecting a first-class hostelry she is losing thousands of dollars

"Ontario as a winter resort is admitted ideal by all who visit it, but tourists cannot be induced to stay in a place where they cannot get what they want in the way of hotel accommodations."

With the hotel to take care of the tourists, the floating population of Ontario should be provided for. Every day families are turned away by the local real estate men on account of a lack of proper houses. Many people visit the town, desiring to rent a house for a time to acquaint themselves with the climate and the district before they locate permanently. A first-class apartment house and five or six-room cottages and bungalows are needed for these people to rent at from $18 to $25 a month. From ten to twenty of these would find immediate tenants. This proposition, properly managed, should net the investor from 10 to 15 per cent.

With the large amount of cheap electric power to be had in the district and the adequate shipping facilities afforded by the three different railroad companies, the opportunities for small factories are almost unlimited and should appeal to investors looking for a location for such enterprise. There is at present one large manufacturing concern established, employing 250 persons. The success of this company could be duplicated by others.

Soap as an Advertisement.

When Fairmount Inn was opened, among its first patrons was Capt. Stringer of Marshby. He had long been a friend of Capt. Larrabee, the father of the young proprietor of the new inn, and he wished to "see for himself what kind of a tavern Eddy would keep."

He was taken to one of the prettiest rooms where the proprietor's wife awaited his opinion. He looked silently at all the modern innovations, but when he was at last asked to admire the pretty bathroom adjoining his bedroom, he spoke his word.

"Is that little square cake of soap all that goes with this fit-out?" he inquired, indicating the cake in its nickel holder.

"Why, yes," said the young woman. "One cake for each room, new for each guest, of course."

"Well, now, see here," said the captain confidentially. "You and Eddy have got used to city ways, where it's all style, and save in what don't show, but let me tell you one thing, you're liable to have a good many folks from Marshby and all around that knew the cap'n and wish his young folks well. Now you furnish up a few rooms with some good liberal bars o' soap, such as we're used to.

"It'll cost ye a little more, but twill come to more'n it costs in advertising. You wouldn't want your father's old friends to tell that they had to hire three rooms at Fairmount Inn to get them a good face-and-hands wash, now would ye?"—[Youth's Companion.

Must Stand Together.

Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont at a luncheon at the Colony Club urged on women the necessity for union.

"If we are to get the vote," she said, "we must stand together. Too many women face this question as they face all others—like the elderly belles at the charity ball:

"'What a flatterer Wooten von Twiller is! said the first belle.

"'Why, did he tell you you looked nice?' said the second.

"'No, was the reply. 'He told me you did!'"—[Washington Star.

EXPENSIVENESS OF LABOR STRIKES.

BABIES AND MANUFACTURERS ARE BOTH SUFFERERS.

Insurance Companies Crippled in Some Instances, While Small Farmers, Fishermen and Many Other Producers and Dealers Find Their Business Interrupted.

Strikes are costly things. Workmen glibly enter upon them at the order of some union boss without counting the cost either to themselves, their families, or the public whose business affairs may be interrupted. When the garment workers' strike in Chicago was entered upon, who thought of the possibility that 5000 babies would be placed in a starving condition as a result of the labor war. Yet this is the recent report from Hull House, in that city, and a special babies' milk fund has been started that the lives of the innocents may be saved. A hundred dollars a day is gathered from the charitable people of the city to provide milk for the babies in actual need.

The figures published regarding the losses that resulted from the recent railroad strike in France are eloquent testimony regarding the expensiveness of such interruptions of business. The strike lasted only one week, but during that time the railroads lost $2,100,000 in passenger fares and $3,500,000 in freights. The strikers and other railway men lost $2,500,000 in wages. The losses suffered by manufacturing firms through the interruption of sales, and by retail business men who lost trade because their stocks were low and they were unable to replenish them, are, of course, much more difficult to compute, but were nevertheless large. As a small instance, the women of the flower kiosks on the boulevards, whose takings average $5 a day, only sold about $1 worth, as good flowers were not to be had. The foodstuffs received in the Paris markets were reduced one-half during the strike, causing a widely distributed loss to the small farmers and tradesmen all over France. The fishing villages lost $1,250,000 a day, one village alone losing sales amounting to $45,000 in one day.

The central fact is, says the New York Sun, that the people themselves, in their commerce, in their personal convenience, in their daily dependence upon the agencis of civilizd life; they and not the corporations immediately involved are the real subjects of the attempted coercion when there is a or manufacturer who has never given thought or attention to export, but rather to the man who, girded for the fight, has but waited for the proper moment to strike. To him I would say—if I may borrow the catch phrase of the professional "ad" writer—"do it now." To the others, the ungirt, the unprepared, those who might not be able to follow up the advantage incident to having chosen a favorable moment of attack, just as decisively would I say, "Stand aside and leave the field clear for those who can fight;" for in the battle for Chinese trade it is written large enough for even he who runs through that country with the speed of a commercial commissioner, to read that survival is only for the seasoned warrior, the one who can give and take, the one who has the reserve to steady him in a losing fight, the force to carry him onward in a winning one. But the lodgment, the footing, is the point at which most battles are won or lost, and that the opportunity now offered for Americans to establish such a lodgment is incomparably more favorable than that which any other nation has, or is likely ever to have, it is the purpose of this letter to show, and it occurs to me that the simplest way to do this will be by the setting down of a brief resume of the remarkable reception of the commission during the tour which has just been brought to a close in a four-day demonstration at Canton—the capital of the province hardest hit by the exclusion of the Chinese from the United States, and the home of the late anti-American boycott—a reception which even the staid British papers of Hongkong have characterized as quite without parallel in Chinese history.

THE CAMPAIGN.

The commission was exeremely fortunate in including among its members several men who had been on a similar mission to Japan two years previously, or were with the Japanese party which toured America in 1909. To these men was largely due the credit for the elaboration of a plan of organization of the party for the work in hand which, although it had to be altered somewhat to meet the unique and unexpected conditions afterward encountered, proved a weighty factor in placing the crown of success upon the commission's endeavors, a fact that will be apparent when the complete report of the visit is given to the public. The commission was divided into a number of committees whose spheres of activity ranged from a practical supervision of the traveling details and the business affairs of the party to special investigation into the various commercial, industrial, social, educational and economic manifestations that it was its fortune to observe. The reports of these committees will prove interesting and valuable commentaries upon conditions in China down to the fall of 1910, and it is not my purpose here to anticipate them.

A valuable feature of the provisionary campaign that was instituted the day after the steamer left San Francisco was the allotment to, and the preparation by, each member of one or more speeches, the aggregate of which covered, as far as could be seen at that time, practically every subject of mutual interest between China and America. Several of these it later became expedient to withhold from delivery, numerous others were prepared while en route through China to meet the exigencies of local situations as they arose, while on several occasions orators of the party came through in masterly manner with extemporaneous replies to questions which developed with the suddenness of bolts from the blue. In this way questions which had stood for years as obstacles to a complete amity between China and America were threshed out in a conciliatory spirit by both parties, an endless lot of information of all kinds was given and received, while all the time, in our constant intercourse with the brightest, the most forceful and the most progressive men of the Empire, the seeds were sown for an international friendship that must be a most potent and propitious influence in all future dealings between the two countries.

THOSE QUIZZES.

The Commercial "quizzes" which were instituted early in the trip at the suggestion of Capt. Dollar, will also be found to have proved of great value in collecting and disseminating information on trade matters and bringing the Chinese merchants to a better understanding of the aims and desires of the Commission. A morning or afternoon was set aside in each city visited in which our "Trade and Commerce" Committee could meet with a similar body from the local Chamber of Commerce. These gatherings were held at the point best calculated to suit the convenience of the Commission and our hosts in relation to the formal functions immediately preceding and following the conference, and it is my impression that more than half of them were held on house-boats or in Temples. Any one present was at liberty to ask or answer questions, and a vast amount of ground was thus covered in a comparatively short space of time, while the informal intermingling of the parties to these conferences went far toward swelling the tide of good feeling between the members of the Commission and the Chinese.

During the week in Shanghai visits were made to the prominent industrial plants of this, China's pricipal factory district, and a full opportunity was given us to note the astonishing strides that the Chinese have made in a short decade in adopting foreign methods of manufacture. Cotton, woolen, paper and flour mills, employing from one to six thousand hands and, in most instances, as up-to-date as the best in the States were seen, and in the success of these first tentative efforts we read clear the message of the future. There was found in every factory, foundry or shop from two to three times the required for a similar institution in required for a similar institution in America, but those of us who have seen the Chinaman at work where he has a chance to show his capacity, and know him to be the superior in intelligence and the equal in physical stamnia to any laborer whatever, saw in this only an added sign of the underlying potentialities of an overcrowded country, and could therefore forecast the more certainly what it will mean to the world when China pulls herself together and commences to manufacture and export in real earnest. Wages are from one-tenth to one-twentieth of those paid for similar labor in the United States.

CONCLUSIONS.

As a result of our investigations in the mills, factories and foundries of Shanghai, and the mines, mills and steel works of the Hankow and Tongshan districts, I have come to these conclusions regarding the ultimate trend of trade between China and America: That the days of the profitable exportation of raw products such as lumber and wheat and of slightly elaborated ones, such as flour, are numbered, through the fact that their steadily increasing price in American is already putting them beyond the reach of the Chinese consumer who must find, and is finding, local substitutes for them; that a great trade cannot be built up in the cruder manufactures from raw materials of which China herself has a practically limitless supply (rails, steel and the like come under this head); that the market for such commodities as oil and tobacco, that are manufactured, handled and controlled by monopolies, will grow increasingly better; and finally, that the greatest opportunity exists for the introduction of such lines as factory, mining and electrical machinery, electric car line equipment, locomotives and the higher classes of other rolling stock, many kinds of light agricultural machinery, and the endless list of other things, such as typewriters, cash registers, balances, sewing machines and the like, in which occur the fullest expression of American ingenuity and which, therefore, will always keep ahead of imitators and ahead of competitors. These conclusions are put forward as entirely personal and with no idea of advancing them as the mind of the commission on the subject, though I shall be surprised if the latter's report varies from them in any salient particulars.

In the original invitation which was extended by the Chinese Chamber of Commerce it was stated that a visit from a representative body of Pacific Coast business men was desired for two reasons; first, to further the friendly relations already existing between the two countries and, second, to stimulate trade relations between them.

Before our first week in Shanghai was over it was plain that, if the other points to be visited were going to take their cues from China's greatest port, the first object of the visit would be fully accomplished, and now, with our party disbanding in Hongkong, I am at liberty to quote a high American official in Peking as saying that the coming of the commission to China, and the carrying out of its programme according to the plans laid out by President Willis H. Booth and his able assistants, will prove of greater benefit to American prestige in the Orient, and serve her better, both politically and commercially, than any other one event that has ever happened in the East. That the second object of the visit, the stimulation of trade, may come to pass, it will be necessary for the American merchants and manufacturer to follow up the advantage offered him by getting in personal touch with the situation in China as soon as possible.

OUR GOODS WANTED.

There were a few days in the first breathless rush of our welcome in Shanghai when the most of us were quite at a loss to understand the import of the remarkable demonstrations with which the commiss was greeted; but when Nanking owed Shanghai's lead, and Hankow at of Nanking, when deputations with gifts and kindly protestations met our train at every important city along our route, and when even stations where our train could not stop were lavishly decorated and crowded with people, it did not take many days to make us realize that our visit meant something more to our hosts than the coming of a party of business men, that it was not ourselves but what we stood for that was being saluted; that, in short, a nation was speaking to a nation; that China was voicing her appreciation to America for the way we had stood by her in the past, for the way she hoped we are to sand by her in the future.

And it is now, when for the last six weeks in addition to these unprecedented demonstrations of friendship we have had repeated assurance from the Chinese that they desire our goods as well as our sympathy, that I feel justified in passing the word to American merchants and manufacturers that the time is ripe for a forward move. A single instance in point will illustrate the feeling here.

We had spent an hour threading the mazes of the Yangste Engineering Works near Hankow, marveling at the wonders that had been wrought in the short two years since the plant was established. We had seen boilers and barges and marine engines and railroad cars being built from Chinese steel, by Chinese workmen, under Chinese supervision and according to Chinese designs. We had seen what had been done and listened to enthusiastic outlines by the young Chinese engineers who accompanied us of what was going to be done, and finally had been led to a prettily flag-draped pavilion to rub the cinders from our eyes and partake of the inevitable cup of tea—in this case, as it usually chanced, a ten course tiffin at ten in the morning. The thunder of the overhead cranes, the clang of the anvils, the sharp staccato of the trip hammers were blended into a heavy drone by distance, and for the first time voices made themselves heard without being raised.

WONG KWONG'S SPEECH.

After the usual toasts of amity had been drunk Mr. Wong Kwong, the manager of the works, British educated and British trained and with a good two inches of British degrees trailing his name across his card, arose and said: "Gentlemen, I am flattered at your interest in our works here, but I could not help but notice your disappointment that, with one or two unimportant exceptions, all of the machinery we are using is of British or German manufacture. There are a number of reasons for this, not the least of which is the fact that, generally speaking, American manufacturers have made no effort to sell to us. Even the small amount of American machinery which you have seen here came to us by way of Germany, while a bolt and nut machine for which I sent to America a few days ago, had to be ordered through a British firm. We realize as well as you do the superiority of your manufactures of this class, and while British and German machinery is all right for our "schooling" period—we have only been learning this business you know—now that we are ready to get to work in earnest we must have American equipment, even if we have to buy it through Europe. But, gentlemen, I trust that you will endeavor to impress upon your manufacturers the advantage not only to us but to themselves as well, of meeting us to the extent of establishing American agencies here; for as long as your goods are sold through foreign houses, not only we as buyers, but you as sellers, will be discriminated against."

After the applause which naturally greeted such declarations from so unexpected a source had subsided, President Booth leaned across the table and laughingly remarked:

"You've just made some pretty strong statements, Mr. Wong, and you may be sure that you are going to be reminded of them later; I wonder if you would mind giving us a copy of that speech for our records."

"One was dispatched to your secretary this morning," was the imperturbable answer; "and another copy was sent to the newspaper."

In a continuation of this letter I shall outline briefly a few other features of the trip which have bearing on the trade situation.

CORPORATIONS IN COURT.

Decision That Such Incorporations Have No Color and Cannot Be Imprisoned for Crimes.

In a case decided recently in West Virginia, the defendant had sold the plaintiff a small building lot, one of a group which he owned. The sale had been made with a stipulation that no land in the division should be sold to a colored person, so the buyer was highly incensed when shortly afterward the remaining lots were all sold to a corporation made up entirely of nefroes, says the American Home Monthly.

A suit for breach of condition was brought immediately, but the defendant justified his action on the ground that the land had not been sold to a colored person, but to a corporation. His opponent, however, replied with the remarkable assertion that since a corporation is a person, then if its members were all negroes, it could with great propriety be called a colored person.

It looked for a while as if this argument might win the day, until the defendant presented the following hypothetical case for the consideration of the court: "If the corporation had been composed half of white men and half of negroes, could it then have been considered a mulatto?"

The plaintiff lost his case.

How he could imprison a corporation was a question which, according to the Sun, recently confronted Judge Pritchard in the Criminal Court at Indianapolis, during and after an argument on a motion to quash in a case against the English Woolen Company, charged with having used the uion label on its goods without the right to do so.

The motion to quash set out that no corporation has ever been imprisoned in this or any other State, and that it would be impossible to imprison such an intangible thing.

Attorney C. C. Pettijohn, for the defendant, also raised the question that the Sheriff of Marion county could not colect per diem for the "feed and keep of a corporation."

Judge Pritichard said he considered the statute as not applying to a corporation, inasmuch as it seemed mandatory to him that the defendant, if convicted, must be imprisoned in the penitentiary, or, if fined, imprisonment in the jail or workhouse must be added.

THE SILENT TRAPPIST MONKS.

Are Under a Vow Never to Speak and Never Read Anything But Literary Books.

The expulsion of the religious orders from Portugal and their imminent expulsion from Spain will drive many monks and nuns to this country, where they will seek refuge in the various monasteries and convents in the United States. The expulsion of the religious orders from France, years ago, led to the founding of the first places of refuge in this country, and among these was the monastery of Gethsemane, the Order of the Silent Brotherhood, twelve miles from Bardstown, Ky. It was established in 1848, and is to this day one of the most visited religious resorts on the continent. The only other monastery of the kind in America is at Oka, a few miles from Montreal, Canada, says the Pennsylvania Grit.

The trappist order was founded in the twentieth century and is today the least known of the religious orders of America, possibly because few people would care to enter the ranks of the order and subscribe to their rules. A trappist never speaks. He is under a vow of absolute silence. He never reads anything but the books in the library at the monastery. It is doubtful if any one of the ninety odd men in the Kentucky monastery knows who is the President of the United States or the Governor of Kentucky. Forgotten by the world, they themselves forget the world.

They eat no meat, fish or eggs at any time and drink no wine. One meal a day must satisfy their hunger, and that consists of vegetable soup, boiled bread and rice. They pray six hours a day, the first session being at 2 a.m. They arise at 4 a.m., summer and winter, and work ten hours out of every twenty-four. They retire at sundown and sleep on a plank with a hard pillow. Such are some of the many rules of the order, all of which tend to place the physical in the background to enable the monks to develop the spiritual side of their being.

To enter the trappist monastery is to take a step backward 1000 years, for the spade and the hoe and the scythe and the cradle are still used in tilling the soil, which is rich and productive. But the trappists are good farmers and the products from their dairy are much sought on southern markets. Under vows of perpetual silence, extreme poverty, chastity, separation, patience and submission, some of the noblemen of Europe are living as monks with the trappists in Kentucky, and it is safely predicted that if events take more unfavorable turns against religious orders in Europe, hundreds of devout men and women will seek refuge in America, where there is real freedom for all sorts and conditions of men to worship as they will.

Our Ape Ancestors.

A striking development of the Darwinian theory is supplied by Dr. F. Melchers, the German biologist, in "The Zeitgeist." Instead of descent from a single ape, Dr. Melchers propounds the theory that mankind is really divided into four great race groups, each of which is descended from one of the four race groups of anthropoid apes. Representatives of these four are to be found in the existing gorilla, chimpanzee, orang and gibbon.

From a gorilla type of ape are descended the race which the writer calls West-Congo-Guinea-Soudan Negro, the Bantus and Zulus, and also the fair-haired and red-haired northern races, including the Finns.

From the chimpanzee ape descend Bushmen, Lapps, Berbers and Southern Europeans.

The ourang-outang is ancestor of Tasmanians, Australians and short-headed Southern Germans, while Mongolians, Malays, Polynesians and Siberians come from the gibbon ape.—[London Chronicle.]

BEVERLY HILLS

Note These "Worth-While" Features of Beautiful Beverly Hills

Big spacious villa sites—not little cramped-up 50-foot lots—but instead generous sized "plots," all the way from 80x165 to 135x228.

These handsome sites are purchasable right now at only $1100 to $2200.

A fortune has been expended in laying out Beverly Hills, and no where else can lots of these sizes combining so many splendid advantages, be obtained for so little money. Even 50-foot lots in equally aristocratic suburbs are held at double the price of Beverly property, and these lots (many of them) are without sewer service and do not possess one-half the picturesque features of Beverly.

If you have in mind the purchase of a homesite combining the Beverly type of residential advantages, now's the time for action. Beverly lots simply cannot remain underpriced but a comparatively short time.

Beverly Hills represents an honest investment of over a million and a half dollars.

A half million dollars' worth of the highest type of improvements are installed already.

Living at Beverly Hills is simply residing in a natural park, flanked by gently rolling, multicolored foothills—a park, the natural beauty of which has been enhanced by many miles of splendid petrolithic boulevards, cement walks and curbs, parks, shrubbery, a real water garden and every desirable public utility.

Beverly Hills is the very last word in semi-tropic picturesqueness. If this description of Beverly sounds over-enthusiastic to you, go out with us tomorrow and you'll realize that we've not told half the story. High grade building restrictions will protect the beauty of Beverly forever—this guarantee of protection is incorporated in every deed. Liberal terms of payment—25 per cent discount to immediate builders.

GAS Contracts

For Beverly Hills are now being made. Entire property will have independent system. Beverly now has all public utilities.

Sewers, parks, water garden, shrubbery, electricity, telephones, excellent car service, protective building restrictions.

The new gas system will be owned and controlled by the owners of Beverly Hills.

HOT WINDS CEASE TO BLOW UNDER MAGIC OF THE PLOW.

Roswell Miller, Railroad Wizard, and How He Battled to Save the Roasted Prairies of Dakota and Fifteen Hundred Miles of Track.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Burned into poverty by the hot winds of summer—mysteries and monsters suddenly loosened from nowhere—and brought to the dull borderland of death by the narcotic cold of winter, the villagers and farmers of South Dakota fought to save themselves, and in so fighting saved their State. Literature as yet has failed to describe their heroic struggle.

The years were filled with strange and isolated tragedies, far out upon the seared and windswept prairies—with hunger and rags and a sluggish rage against an unmerciful destiny. In the morning the wheat or corn was was green with life and glisten[illegible] the sunlight. Before night it was shriveled and yellow, and despair came to the toilers who had planted but were not to reap.

But the winds of mystery blow no more. South Dakota, seemingly condemned to be a desert, is a happy land of sound content, and the cattle feed knee deep among its grasses. The soldiers who were scarred by the war, now live in peace and plenty.

The delivery of a State, equal in area to Ohio and Indiana, from the tortures of heat and the blight of famine—obscured at the time by other great events—was one of the unnoticed victories of the American people. While the farmers and villagers did the hand-to-hand fighting and endured the physical suffering, men from the outside, having millions invested, gave them spirit and assistance. So blood and money conquered.

BATTLED IN THE TRENCHES.

In the larger and less human matters that have made him famous Roswell Miller's part in the liberation of South Dakota from the tyranny of starvation has had but scant recognition. Yet he battled in the trenches with the natives. President of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway Company, his object was to save 1500 miles of trackage that laced the State north and south and penetrated the West as far as the Black Hills and Missouri River.

The fight with the Tartars, modernized and in miniature, was imitated by gaunt men and women on the American continent. Millions of money would have been lost in the exodus. Roswell Miller is not a philanthropist. He has built no hospitals. I dare say he is but vaguely interested in slums and settlements. However, his net results have counted tremendously for humanity, even though he is a business man—a silent factor in the practical political economy that gives honest credit to the employers of labor and the administrators of property. The farmers stood their ground. The merchants did not turn away. A new generation finds South Dakota filled with the grapes of Calab and Joshua.

In the building of the West, as the phrase goes, Roswell Miller—a voiceless man in the riotous noise of self-glorification—has wrought with energy, intelligence and vision. He and Marvin Hughitt and James J. Hill have helped to shape a wilderness into the beauty and utility of civilization. His biography, never to be written—it would have been were he a politician—is contained in the history of the Northwest during twenty-seven years of marvelous development.

BORROWED $50,000,000 IN FRANCE.

The St. Paul road—the Granger road it is called in Wall street—was 275 miles long in 1865. Today it has 7296 miles of main track. Its revenues amount to $65,000,000 annually. For many years Mr. Miller had the honor of being president of the largest railway in the world. His lines entered or crossed eight States, running west from Lake Michigan to the Black Hills, and south from Lake Superior to Kansas City.

Mr. Miller has ceased personally to direct the operation of trains, the getting of freight, and the repair of bridges and tracks. He is chairman of the board of directors and the financier of the Chicago, Milwaukee and Puget Sound Railway, an extension of the St. Paul road, that is being built from South Dakota through North Dakota and Montana, over the Rocky Mountains and across Idaho and Washington to the Pacific Ocean. Recently he borrowed $50,000,000 in France with which to carry on the work of construction.

In the past he has been associated with the Drexels and the Morgans. The original Drexel was a painter of portraits. He worked at that business in South America, Mexico and Philadelphia. J. Pierpont Morgan's grandfather was a poet. Roswell Miller was a drug clerk. Out of portraits in oil came the greatest bank in the United States, with a branch in France. The poet gave the world its most eminent organizer and financier. From drugs, Miller went to hides, and then under the instruction of Gen. Ambrose E. Burnside, the former commander of the Army of the Potomac, took his first lessons of transportation. A queer medley of vocations in the beginning for the drafts of big business.

Experimenting with an elementary question, not knowing my man except through hearsay, I asked Mr. Miller about his birthplace and his parents. He is a military looking person and wears the button of the Loyal Legion. After some cross-examination with me as the witness, he answered:

"I lived in Hartford, in Pennsylvania, until I was 16 years old. My father was a Presbyterian minister and preached in that little village for half a century."

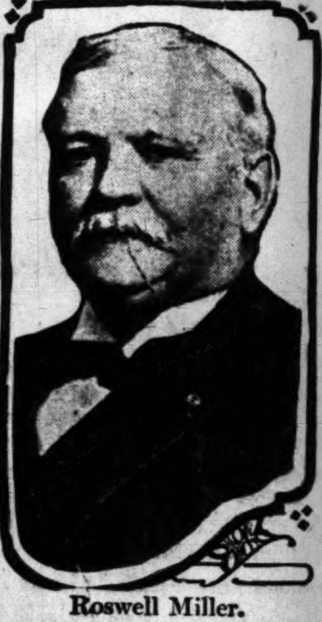
NO DESIRE TO PREACH.

"Had you any youthful ambition in that direction?" I asked somewhat innocently.

"Never. I had seen more than enough of the hardships of preaching. There were twelve or fourteen children in our family. The lives of all of us were full of pinch and self-sacrifice. My father was promised $500 a year. It was promised very willingly, but never paid. About $18,000 came to him from the estate of his parents. But for his inheritance he would have been compelled to move from Hartford.

"When I was sixteen my father thought—and I agreed with him—that I ought to go to work. He found a place for me at Auburn, N. Y., with a distant relative, who was in the drug business. My pay was $5 a month, board and lodging included. In a month or two, I was compounding prescriptions. My predecessor had gone off to war. I got patriotic at the end of two years and followed him, enlisting in his regiment, the Third New York Artillery. After service as a private I was made a corporal, then a sergeant, and then a lieutenant. I was in the siege of Petersburg and entered Richmond as the Confederates hurriedly moved out of the city.

"Having saved some money as a soldier, I entered Hamilton College, where I remained a year. I was employed by a wholesale drug company in this city for sometime, but I went with Hoyt Brothers, brokers in hides, to better my position. The move was a blunder on my part. Next I found employment in the office of Gen. Burnside, who had left the army and engaged in railway construction. He was liked by everybody but didn't know much about the business.



Roswell Miller.

"Before long I was sent to Indiana to look after a road thirty-nine miles long that he built and represented. Later I went to the Cairo and Vincennes, now a part of the Big Four system, which he had projected, and in which J. Pierpont Morgan's father was interested. When the road was sold. I became second vice-president and treasurer of the Chicago and Western Indiana, a short line, but a valuable property because its tracks into Chicago were used by several other companies. It was owned in part by the Drexels in Philadelphia.

SUCCEEDED MITCHELL.

"In 1883 D. D. Merrill, general manager of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway, sent for me. I became his assistant. He came from Scotland in 1839 to be secretary of George Smith's Wisconsin Marine and Fire Insurance Company. He and Smith were bankers and put out $1,000,000 of paper currency. which they redeemed in gold over their counter without loss to anybody. Mitchell consolidated some of the little roads in Wisconsin, forming first the Milwauke and St. Paul, and later the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul system."

"And in seven years after Merrill sent for you," I said, "you became Mitchell's successor in the presidency. Your quick advancement was remarkable."

"Well, I was fortunate," Mr. Miller replied. "Mr. Merrill suffered from paralysis soon after I became his assistant and I did his work. That gave me a start."

"You have lived through the most active period of railway development in the United States," I said, "and had experiences that no man can have hereafter."

"That is so," Mr. Miller answered. "I remember when there was plenty of free land and land that wasn't free was given away almost. The country through which our road did business was poor and thinly settled. Now it is rich and populous. South Dakota especially, had a desperate struggle with adversity. Hot winds destroyed the crops of wheat, corn and oats. As the country came under the plow, the hot winds ceased. Tillage, I think, stopped them. Even when wheat could be harvested, it had to be sold at a price that was below the cost of production. The farmers had no money. Most of them were burdened with debt."

"And everything they bought," I said, "was dear."

"Prices were not so high as they are today." Mr. Miller replied. "Living costs more now than ever before. The reasons to me are very plain. Massachusetts has just made an inquiry into the subject. The work was well done. All work is well done in that State. The people there get at the facts and then by a process of straight thinking reach sound conclusions. It was found that the cost of producing a steer in the West in 1880 was $25.87. In 1890 the cost had risen to $36.25, in 1900 to $47.50, and in 1910 $63.50. Ten years ago good grazing land in Oklahoma could be leased for ten cents an acre, as against $1 an acre in 1909. So much for beef. Other meats are dear for the same reasons.

"Were the people bitterly antagonistic to railroads in the early days of your business life in the West?"

"Oh no; they wanted railways. Surveyors running new lines were hospitably received, and the whistle of the first locomotive was music in the eager and delighted ears. The people then were friendly and appreciative. But the politicians began to agitate. Prejudice was gradually created, and the time came when the public demanded all kinds of disturbing and restrictive legislation. Having started it the politicians kept abreast of the growing feeling of hostility until it can be said, rationally and absolutely within the truth, that practically every member in the State legislature or of Congress began immediately he was elected to think up measures making the operation of railways unprofitable and difficult.

BEGAN TO AGITATE.

"The people and railroads in Wisconsin, let me say by way of illustration, were on the best of terms. When a railway did anything wrong the evil was small and easily corrected. And it was corrected. Then La Follette appeared and began to stir up the people. His motives were entirely political. After he was nominated the first time for Governor, men charged with the management of his campaign came to us for money. They went to other roads as well. We told them that we would contribute if assured that we should be treated decently. We asked for no favors—simply for our rights, but nothing less. The men went away. When they returned they said that we had nothing to fear, the St. Paul road would not be harassed for political purposes. We gave them $5000. Let me add that the contribution was never duplicated.

"The public was stirred into animosity against us. The pleasant relations we had with the people were broken. Some men seemed to think, finally, that we ought to carry their freight for nothing. The same sort of conduct on the part of politicians became common in other sections of the western country. Baiting the railroads appeared to be the easiest and surest way of getting into public office. But when a panic in business comes again—a wide panic that effects the entire country—the people will reflect in their leisure and measure their politicians and arrive at just conclusions. And their opinions then, I believe will be permanent. However, there is no sign of a panic now, with a crop of 3,000,000,000 bushels of corn coming in and big crops of everything else."

"Do you claim," I asked, "that the railways have always been fair in their dealings with the people?"

HAD TO MAKE BUSINESS.

"I know it is said that they have not been fair with the public. A railroad, but in a larger way of course—is like a village merchant. The merchant cannot prosper unless his customers are making money. The big roads of the West laid their tracks over uninhabited prairies and through virgin forests. When the tracks were down the officers of the road began to make business—to make it, and not to look for it, you must remember, because there wasn't any business at the time. They first attempted to persuade people to move upon the vacant land.

"The reasoning was simple. If a farmer raised wheat and cattle, he would buy machinery, groceries and clothing. He was the only possible unit in the plans of the transportation managers. His freight, grain and live stock would be sent to market, and his purchases would be brought back on the same cars. The engine that took his wheat and steers would bring sugar, cloth, plows and hardware. His robbery, simply as a business proposition, would have been idiotic and monstrous. Nobody but a fool would have thought of it or given it countenance. Wrongs were done occasionally, as wrongs were done in every business under heaven, but they were righted as they became manifest.

"I have spoken of South Dakota. It is a cold country. The hot winds you know about. People had moved in. It was vital that they should stay in. If they hadn't any money, we hauled their coal for nothing. We organized a system of fuel relief. When a town was snowed in up to the roofs, we dug it out. We were not benefactors, but business men. Our purpose was to save South Dakota, to fill it with freight producers and freight consumers, and we accomplished our object.

"Presently we were accused of giving rebates. President Taft said not long ago that certain kinds of business men were built up into monopolies with the help of rebates. He is mistaken. I make no defense of the practice, once common, of privately cutting freight rates to shippers. But the results of rebating were not what has been claimed for them. So our political economy is fallacious in that respect.

EVERYBODY GOT REBATES.

"No man was denied a rebate. Shippers came, asked and received—all shippers. The Standard Oil Company is said to have grown rich and powerful because of favors secretly given by railroad corporations—favors denied its competitors. Now we should be precise in our thinking and talking. We should not rear a structure of philosophy on a foundation of error or exaggeration. As a matter of fact, the Standard would have dominated the oil industry even if it had never been given a penny by the railroads. It had the idea—refineries, pipe lines, ships, keeping all the profits itself—and the men to carry the idea into execution. Rebates were destructive to the railways—but no industry was built on them. The feat would have been impossible. If a man didn't get rebates, it was his own fault, in that he was so slow and stupid that he failed to see how his competitors were beating him. A man of that sort would not have succeeded anywhere or at anything. Rebating had nothing to do with his failure, which of course, was inevitable.

"Besides, there was the hardest kind of competition among railroads themselves during the days when the country was new and business was building. No road was getting rich. All roads needed money. Traffic men were fiercely battling for freight. Conditions, themselves, governed rates, as anyone can know who studies the situation. But whether there was one railroad or whether there were two in a given territory, the effort of transportation men was to create business. As the country was settled, moreover, the price of hauling grain and live stock was gradually reduced. The Northwest was competing, you understand, in the eastern markets with the Southwest. Big roads in each part of the country were fighting one another for freight, and so the competition between States was also regulatory as respect to rates. The whole situation, therefore, was balanced so completely that transportation companies—answering your question in a word—had to be fair in their dealings with the public."

CENTER IN POLITICS.

"What is your greatest trouble at present?" I asked.

"Politics," Mr. Miller replied. "It is fundamental and has led to all our other problems and preplexities. We sold $50,000,000 of bonds in France early this year for our Pacific extension. It was the last large sale of American securities abroad. Capitalists here and in Europe are no longer willing to invest their money in our railroads. We should spend $500,000,000 a year for sometime to come on new trackage and improvements. Most of the money would be paid out for labor. We cannot get the money. Labor, consequently, is losing in wages that political demagogues may have the pleasure of hearing their own voices, seeing their names in newspapers, and getting into office."

Imprisonment Does Not Reform.

The failure of present methods of dealing with drunkards is well shown by some specific cases mentioned in The Survey. "In one case a man now sixty-one years of age has been in the workhouse at least sixty-two separate times and he has spent 3165 days in that institution at a total cost for maintenance alone of $1858.53. Another case was found to have been in the workhouse thirty-four times, in the alcoholic wards of one of the city hospitals thirty-one times, in the Municipal Lodging House twice, in the almshouse once and in two other hospitals two times each. He had spent a total of 1943 days in these various institutions at a total cost of $1,323.12. Still another case, a man about fifty-five years of age, has been in the workhouse thirty-four times, in the almshouse thirty-five, in Metropolitan Hospital once, and in Bellevue Hospital once. He has spent 5884 days in those institutions at a total cost to the city of $2492.37. This man is blind and has a blind companion who has a record almost equally as long. Records from Cleveland, O., and Boston, Mass., show that it is not infrequent for persons to appear in the penal institutions of those cities from fifty to 100 times, and one record recently obtained from the city of Utica shows that a single individual has appeared before the Police Courts of that city at least 160 times for public intoxication."

URUGUAY, PRESENT STORM-CENTER

By WALTER J. BALLARD.

REBELS are massing by the thousands in Uruguay, and all signs, telegraphic and otherwise, indicate an early, if not immediate, political upheaval in that country, in which American interest is strong.

Uruguay (Republica Oriental del Uruguay,) pronounced "oo-roo-gwi," the smallest of the South American republics, is bounded on the north and northeast by Brazil, on the east by the Atlantic Ocean, on the south and southeast by the Atlantic Ocean and the estuary of the Rio de la Plata, and on the west by the Argentine Republic. The total area of the country is 72,172 square miles. The location of its principal city (or, more precisely, of the cathedral at Montevideo) is given as lat. 34 deg. 54 min. 33 sec. S. and lon. 58 deg. 32 min. 32 sec. W.

TOPOGRAPHY.

The most elevated point in the republic is somewhat less than 2000 feet above sea level; the so-called mountains, therefore, being really hills, which sometimes form chains, extending across the country, but elsewhere give to the region, especially the northern districts, an irregular, rolling or undulating surface. Forests or groves cover the hills in the north and generally extend along the banks of the numerous small streams (arroyos) and the larger water courses. The soil in the southwest is of uncommon fertility, being composed, it is said, of detritus of great depth and rich alluvial deposits; the southeast and south have grassy slopes and good pasture lands, the hills here forming a bold line along the shore of the Rio de la Plata, but not extending to the Atlantic Coast.

Important rivers, beside the great southern estuary, are: The Uruguay, which rises in the Brazilian State of Santa Catharina, and has a course of about 1000 miles; and the Rio Negro, which also rises in Brazil, and empties into the Uruguay, after flowing toward the southwest for about 350 miles. The latter passes through the center of the republic; the former marks the boundary with Argentina; both are navigable for vessels of light draught (Rio Negro fifty-five miles, Uruguay 200 miles), and even large steamships navigate the Uruguay up to Paysandis. There are several shallow lakes, or lagunas, near the coast.

MINERAL RESOURCES.

The hills and hillsides are believed to be rich in minerals, and among the metals found are gold, silver, copper, iron, tin and cinnabar. In the department of Minas, topazes and diamonds have been discovered; amethysts and agates have been exported to Europe. Deposits of coal exist, but the quality has yet to be ascertained. The silver ores yield 87 per cent. of metal; copper ores, 56 per cent., and magnetic ores, 72 per cent.

FLORA AND FAUNA.

Hard and durable woods are the handubay (which, instead of decaying when buried in the earth, becomes petrified,) araza, algarroba, coronilla, espinella, quebracho (used in tanning processes,) urunday, lapacho, and lignum vitae. Among the softer woods are the willow and acacia. Palms abound, and the poplar, pine, oak, cypress, eucalyptus, cedar, magnolia and mulberry have been successfully acclimated. Yerba mate is indigenous and 430 species of medicinal plants have been classified. In animal life the most interesting are the seals, large numbers of which breed on the islands near the coast, especially Lobos and the Castillos group. Three-fifths of the seals are of the fur-bearing variety. The mainland fauna includes the deer, otter, wild hog, carpincho, fox, ounce, wild cat, ant-eater, etc. There are over 500 species of avifauna, including the crane, stork, swan and wild turkey.

AGRICULTURE.

A marked increase is reported in the chief crops—wheat, oats, barley, flax and corn. The cultivation of sugar beets is in progress, and refineries have been established. The largest sugar factory has been built by Belgian capitalists in the department of Maldonado. About 30,000 farmers and tenants are engaged in agriculture and 3000 in the vineyards. The live stock number about 30,000,000 head, principally sheep and cattle.

COMMERCE.

Uruguay has a foreign trade of about $70,000,000 a year, about 40 per cent. imports and 60 per cent. exports. Stock products and live stock form about 85 per cent. of the exports.

THREE YEARS' AMERICAN TRADE—GREAT GROWTH.

The trade of Uruguay with the United States in the past ten fiscal years has been (Bureau of Statistics:)

	Exports to Uruguay.	Imports from Uruguay.
1901	$1,637,074	$1,882,904
1902	1,586,459	2,520,579
1903	1,505,089	2,981,682
1904	2,135,321	1,644,413
1905	1,890,694	3,158,858
1906	2,806,373	2,711,579
1907	3,412,755	2,160,801
1908	3,868,661	1,384,796
1909	2,380,313	3,728,796
1910	4,272,145	7,412,894

These figures show that in only nine years trade between the United States and Uruguay has trebled and $1,100,000 in excess. Therein, to say nothing of the American capital invested in this wealthy but largely-undeveloped country, lies the American interest in the present disturbed state of affairs and in the future of the republic.

SHIPPING, ROADS, TELEGRAPH.

Vessels owned in Uruguay and engaged in freight and passenger service number about 100. The chief port is Montevideo, the capital. There are some steam railways, but the need for more is great. The total length of the national and departmental roads and highways is given at 5340 miles; of telephone wires, 10,250 miles; of telegraph lines, 4604 miles; of street railways, 103 miles. English, German, and French capital controls the large importing houses, and has also nearly complete control of the steam railways, telephones and street railways.

GOVERNMENT.

The legislative branch is composed of the Senate and Chamber of Deputies, the former have nineteen members—one for each department, and the latter one for each 3000 voters. The term of a Senator is six years and that of a Deputy is three. In most respects the powers of both Houses are similar to those of the Congress of the United States, but they go further in some directions, such as granting of pardons and armistices and the election of the President of the Republic. In judicial power there are Courts of First Instance, Courts of Appeal, and a High Court of Justice. The Presidential term is four years, but not two successive terms. He has a cabinet of five—the heads of each departmental ministry. Each province, or department, has an administrative council, elected by popular vote, and a Governor appointed by the President.

POPULATION.

The population of Uruguay on December 31, 1901, was 964,500, and is about 1,300,000 now.

In addition to the several establishments for higher education in Montevideo, there are in the republic about 650 elementary schools, with about 65,000 pupils and 1300 teachers; 360 private schools, with 1000 teachers; also many religious seminaries. The religion established by the Constitution is the Apostolic Roman Catholic, but all other forms are tolerated, and the financial aid given by the [illegible] church is small.

sible extent of the use of radium rays cannot be definitely stated. More study and experiment are necessary to give a conclusive opinion. At present great caution must be observed. It may be said, however, that radium therapeutics have a great, future, especially as it may be applied easily both externally and internally and the effect is constant."

MAY BE CANCER REMEDY.

Physicians here and in Vienna are convinced that a remedy for cancer has at last been found in this radismus, which may be applied in the form of baths and in radium, which may be applied directly to burn out the diseased tissue. There is a great deal of discussion on the subject by medical authorities. It was the principal topic at the international medical convention in London. Several American specialists have been here making investigations, and Dr. Louis Wickham of Paris, chief of the department of therapeutical researches in the university and director of the hospital where tumors and cancer are treated, delivered an address on the subject which has created a profound sensation among the medical profession. I believe also that Dr. Wickham has visited the United States and has arranged for experimental researches in the cancer hospitals of our country. Prof. Step has been keeping in close touch with him and other authorities and tells me that remarkable cures have been effected, although it is necessary to reserve the final verdict until the cancers that have apparently been cured can have a chance to re-develop. He believes, however, that time will demonstrate that the patients to whom radium and radismus have been applied are completely cured.

Dr. Wickham has reports of the treatment in more than two thousand cases, many of them so malignant that they could not be operated upon, and in every case thus far the application of radium has been followed by the most favorable symptoms and apparent cure. "Of course," he says, "no one can tell whether the regression is only local and whether the tumor may not become active again after a long time, but I believe that the cure is permanent, and every year the tumor remains inactive the probability of the cure is greater, and of course, so much is added to the life of the patient.

In his address before the medical association in London, Dr. Wickham said: "In internal tumors, radium can be so employed as to go straight to the seat of the trouble. The tube is about an inch long and one-eighth of an inch thick. Of course other receptacles for the metal are used. For external treatment the vessel containing the radium may be a flat circular case large enough to cover the diseased part.

GET TO SEAT OF DISEASE.

"The rays are somewhat similar to the X-ray, but much more powerful, and of course, more easily accessible to the tumor.

"In cases where the tumor cannot be reached through the natural orifices a surgical operation of a comparatively harmless character can conduct the radium to the seat of the disease.

"In this way I have successfuly operated on cancers of the breast, the neck, the esophagus, the stomach, the neck of the bladder and the uterus. The actual results not only comprise the regression of the tumor, but also the diminution of pain and the relief of the patient, and often the prolongation of life. Yet even thus limited to a local action, radium appears as a precious weapon in the unequal fight against cancer."

During the last ten or twelve years large sums of money have been expended seeking a remedy for cancer. I understand that a reward of £20,000 has been offered by some British humanitarian for a sure cure; half a million dollars was bequeathed to the cancer hospital in London not long ago for research in this subject; an American manufacturing chemist in London has expended a hundred thousand dollars already in his laboratories in this single inquiry. Somebody at Carlsbad remembered that he had heard of an American miner whose wife had died of cancer, offering a million dollars to pay the expense of finding a remedy that would prevent other men from losing their wives from the same disease.

The scarcity of radium is, of course, a serious handicap. There is only a very small quantity of the mineral in existence, and, while the newspapers have estimated its value at a quarter of a million dollars a gram, that is merely another way of saying that it is priceless. There is no fixed value and can be none for an article that is so precious and so scarce, but if there is virtue in the water from the mine in which radium is found there is plenty of it—enough to bathe all the cancer patients in the world every day; and it is now going to waste without the slightest realization of its importance. The people of St. Joachimsthal look upon it from an economic as well as a humane point of view, and if it should be decided that the water of the little brook that bisects their village is a sure cure for cancer they will prepare accammodations for all the afflicted that come.

GRAVE DIGGERS' UNION.

San Francisco Has the Newest Kind of a Unionite Disagreement Regarding Driving of Nails.

How sweetly the unions get along together. For months the grave diggers and the carpenters have been at it, spades and hammers, as to which had the right to make the redwood boxes used to protect coffins, says the San Francisco News Letter. The Labor Council, having decided first in favor of the carpenters, reversed its decision, and in consequence the grave diggers have recovered their customary jollity. On the other hand, the carpenters, having more work than they can do, have no reason to be sad. They simply wanted to hog on the grave diggers, that was all, and the redwood boxes requiring a few nails to keep them together furnished an excuse. What right had the grave diggers to drive nails? Momentous question! Labor Council unable to settle it in all its difficulties and bearings, switches its verdict and perhaps again. Were Adam's toenails psychic or square, and when he beheld Eve, didn't he feel like sin. All records go to show that he swallowed the rest of the apple whole right there, so that it stuck in his throat, and the result is that he is sometimes a grave digger or a carpenter. But we must not get the two mixed, or all a grave digger cares, a carpenters can to go—well, New Orleans —if he likes, and vice versa. No carpenter will die if it is going to give work to a grave digger, and no grave digger will live and behold a carpenter cheat him out of his task. The cemetery managers, be hanged—they do not figure at all in the matter. The fraternality of this is at once beautiful, touching and sincere—a lesson to the world. Driving a few nails in your home or turning the sod over a faithful pet parrot or poodle, be careful lest you encroach on the rights of a union.

Reform in Des Moines.

"Des Moines drunkards are falling off," said Police Judge Van Liew. "Not off the water wagon, but 'off' the habit. I have gone through the records of police court for the past two years and I found that during May, June and July this year we had 43 per cent. fewer cases than during the same months last year. I believe it is due to the policy of reformation we have adopted. In the trial of Chief Yeager before the council, the prosecution is using the decrease in the number of arrests. I find we had 249, or eighty-three cases per month, during the three months last year more than we had this year; all for intoxication, which accounts for the figures which baffle the council."

A Calendar of Pioneer Princes.

NAMES FOR CALIFORNIA'S STATELY HALL OF FAME.

VII—WILLIAM TELL COLEMAN.

Born February 29, 1824; died November 22, 1893.

BY ROCKWELL D. HUNT, PH.D.

IN a calendar of great California pioneers the name of William Tell Coleman must be accorded a conspicuous place of honor. By some he has been pronounced as unquestionably the most heroic figure in California history. If it is true, as Prof. Josiah Royce avers, that San Francisco has been socially and morally tried as has no other American community, it is signally true that she has not failed to bring forth, in hours of crisis, leaders of broad vision and incisive action fitted to cope victoriously with every adversary of the public weal. As a champion of civic right and social cleansing in the midst of evil days, Coleman is par excellence the historic type.

William T. Coleman was born February 29, 1824, in Harrison county, Ky. In that State and in Virginia his family held a high position, although his first American ancestor, William Coleman, had made his home in New England as early as 1671. When the boy was 9 years old, his father died, and William went to live with an uncle. He received the rudiments of an education, and at the age of 18 entered the St. Louis University, where, by severe application, he was able in two years to complete the four years' course in the commercial department.

He was ambitious to complete a classical education, but ill health prevented. So he removed to New Orleans; but, not receiving the desired benefit, he set out for the wilds of Wisconsin. Stories of California tugged at his rugged spirit, and, after his initial failure to organize an overland train, he determined the second time to seek the land of gold. This determination brought success. He covered the distance from Salt Lake to Sutter's Fort in the then unprecedented time of twenty-one days.

The actual mining experience of Coleman was not extensive, nor was it exceptionally successful. He early turned his attention to business enterprise. He accumulated several thousand dollars by buying and selling cattle; for a time he played the merchant at Placerville, one of the chief centers of the mining district. His merchandizing business in San Francisco was established in 1851, just in time for him to see three-fourths of his possessions destroyed by one of the disastrous fires of that year. Undismayed, he erected a large brick building on Front and California streets, occupied it the following year, and began at once to recoup his losses. Later, a branch house was established in New York; and it was not long till he had the satisfaction of seeing the house of W. T. Coleman & Co. at the head of the business firms of California.

In 1852 he married Miss Carrie Page of St. Louis. Their two sons reached manhood's estate before the death of Mr. Coleman in 1893.

All this seems little more than commonplace; what then constituted Coleman's peculiar claim to greatness? To answer adequately this simple query it is essential to recall the political and social conditions surrounding him in the days that made him great. California's sore need for civil government immediately following the American conquest in 1846 was indefinitely increased by Marshall's momentous discovery of gold in 1848. The immigrants of the interregnum were honest, sturdy, resourceful American pioneers; but among the Argonauts of '49 and '50 came hundreds of "loose fish" and "bad whites" from many lands, and of these not one-tenth expected to reside permanently in California. Such an element in the frontier population is certain to exploit the labors of other men and to strive to reap where they sow not. Bold aggressions of organized bands of ruffians are a natural consequence of the conditions then existing in San Francisco. The rapturous delirium of wild speculation became a consuming fire. The good men, always in the majority, forgot the duties of citizenship, so completely absorbed were they in their private affairs.

Meanwhile the failure of justice was evidenced by the scores of robbers and murderers that went scot free. Not one murder had been expiated on the gallows; "the very courts had become a gogues, office itself was commonly gogues, office itself was commonly prostituted to the spirit of lawlessness. While good men slept, colossal Wrong lifted up his head and stalked abroad; the very government seemed wrenched into the tool of outlawry.

Given such conditions,—a corrupt officiary, an aggressive criminal class, and at length an awakened civic conscience,—and the great Vigilance Committee of 1851 was the logical outcome, "the inevitable response to the general cry for retribution and protection."

William Tell Coleman was the man of the hour. He it was who prevented mob rule by diverting the inflamed popular mind; he who prevented lynch law by his personal courage, his abhorrence of anarchy, and his genius for leadership. The four executions do not at all exhaust the activities of the Committee of Vigilance of 1851. Thirty bad characters were banished from California, and many more than that number advisedly took sudden leave for various points in the interior. The committee used with calmness and moderation its well-nigh unlimited power and prestige.

San Francisco was purged. Who can doubt that a work of magnitude and splendor had been accomplished? But the gay city took the lesson too little to heart and soon gave tokens of a return to former excesses, perhaps in more refined form. The grim warnings of the hangman's noose began to fade from memory, and vigilance began to be relaxed, while other human vultures swept down upon the city. The forces of corruption wrought incessantly while the virtuous slept. The voice of the honest voter was smothered by midnight frauds; the majesty of the law was struck down by the slungshot of a debased officiary.

Then comes Casey's deadly attack on James King of William. Sharp taps are again sounded on the great fire bell, instantly civic conscience shakes off all lethargy and stands forth erect and militant.

Who should head the new movement? Who dared undertake the herculean task? Who was willing to accept the awful responsibility? None other than William T. Coleman. With the assurance of absolute obedience and absolute secrecy, he accepted the virtual dictatorship of the great Committee of Vigilance of 1856, numbering by July 6000 men under arms, well equipped and fully organized.

Thenceforth the eye of Vigilance seemed omniscient. For the continuance of their solemn work "Old Vigilante" and his devoted men pledged "their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor." This time the fruits of Vigilance continued to abide. Officers and men dropped quietly back to their respective callings, and the inherent capacity of the American people for self-government had once more been openly vindicated.

William Tell Coleman had won imperishable fame. His supreme courage, his consummate ability in generalship, his absolute personal honesty and the poise of his judgment, and withal his self-sacrificing devotion to public duty mark him as one of the truly great, whether we view these as qualities of the man himself or as measured by their beneficent results.

What boots it to rehearse the deeds of later years,—his aid in suppressing the Draft Riots in New York, his liberal benefactions to the cause of patriotism, his leadership of the Committee of Safety in the fight against the Sand Lot mobs in 1877-78, how he exceeded the full legal demands upon him after his staggering financial losses by personally paying off every indebtedness, with interest,—why rehearse the several deeds of a career which alike proclaim him an imperial man? When "Old Vigilante" died the venerable editor of the New York Sun, who was a life-long friend, wrote these simple words: "Surely, if there are great men nowadays, Coleman was one, and they who knew him truly as he was, may well be grateful to Heaven for the privilege."

MAGNATE VAIL.

ber of shareholders in 1909 being 35,823.

A year ago the Mackay companies, engaged principally in handling cable messages, owned the whole or part of the capital stock of no less than 102 cable, telephone and telegraph companies operating in North America and Europe, and was at that time the largest single stockholder in the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. At the same time the Western Union was encroaching on the Mackay companies' cable territory. Since then an understanding has been arrived at, the telephone company has taken over all the stock then held by the Mackay companies, and the Western Union is confining its attention to land lines.

In September last the great telephone company purchased an interest in the Western Union Telegraph Company amounting to $50,000,000. It thus obtained control of a substantial minority of the Western Union stock, and some of its directors were promptly placed upon the Western Union board. And now, upon the death of the Western Union's president, Col. Clowry, the head of the telephone company has been made the head of the telegraph company, thus completing the practical unification of the two companies.

STRONG BOARD.

Among the present directors of the Western Union are Vice-Presidents George J. Gould, long its master spirit, George F. Baker, one of New York's wealthiest bankers, and Edward J. Hall and U. N. Bethell—the last two at the head of large subsidiary telephone companies. Then there are John P. Morgan, always in every sure enterprise of great magnitude, James Stillman, former president of the National City Bank, Paul Morton, at the head of the Equitable Insurance Company with big surplus earnings to lend, Jacob H. Schiff, head of the great banking firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Company, John Jacob Astor, Senator Chauncey M. Depew, Henry M. Flagler, Thomas H. Hubbard, another New York banker, John J. Mitchell, leading banker of Chicago, Robert S. Lovett, Harriman's successor in the Pacific railroads, and other big capitalists.

Those who know Mr. Vail, the new head of the merged systems, and are acquainted with his methods, anticipate that he will accomplish a number of innovations in the telephone and telegraph service of the country. It will be possible to combine the two branches of service so that both telegraph and telephone messages may be transmitted over the same wires and from the same station at the same time.

Thus the merging of the companies will result in economy of operation, facilitate the handling of business, and increase the usefulness and convenience of the methods adopted for everybody.

The ultimate mergance of all the telephone companies of the country into one gigantic corporation, representing a present nominal capitalization of $970,000,000, is believed to be foreshadowed in the recent action taken by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. That all public utilities of this class tend naturally toward a practical monopoly is undeniable. This is a general economic tendency that must be recognized. Although the country has seen so much of private initiative and of competitive enterprise, and has so often proved its value in bettered service, yet it may not look complacently upon the absorption of all the electric lines into one great trust. Yet those who look beyond the strife and turmoil incident to the adjustment of present conditions on a broader basis, will realize that just such a merger would probably give an impulse toward government control and then—government ownership.

If, then, the general government should, at some propitious time in the future, deem it best for the public welfare to take over the telephone and telegraph utilities, now so thoroughly systematized and unified under competent management, it would have at hand a fully organized machinery in complete working order, and the transfer from private to public ownership could be made almost unconsciously on the part of users of the system.

Alexander Graham Bell, now 65 years old, first exhibited his new invention of the telephone at the Philadelphia Exhibition in 1876. This year the people of the United States will pay about $270,000,000 for the privilege of using Bell's invention.

It is less than eighty years ago that Samuel F. B. Morse first demonstrated the possibility of communicating by telegraph. This year nearly 100,000 men received over $60,000,000 for operating the telegraph systems of the United States.

LAWNDALE ADDED TO.

The Guy M. Rush Company has secured a body of land adjacent to Lawndale. This is the second large area that has been added to this thriving suburb in the last four months. The company is erecting another steel water tank to supply water for the new tract. This is the third tower furnishing water for Lawndale. The Lawndale Improvement Association is estimating the cost of a large fire hydrant to protect the $6000 schoolhouse, the church and stores, which are located close enough together to come under the protection of one hydrant.

Chalcedony Geode.

CERES (Cal.) Nov. 4.—[To The Editor of The Times:] A miner sent me two halves of a circular rock found in Trinity county, California. One of the halves I am mailing you with this Please name and describe it in your "In The Earth" column. Is it made up of precious stones? Yours truly. G. O'C.

ANSWER: The sample originally was a geode with a beautiful, white-blue "innards" of chalcedony. Chalcedony is a variety of quartz with probably some opal silica present. French lapidaries would term the sample "Sapphirine," a valuable, rare, and much esteemed grade of chalcedony.

THE HIGH FINANCIAL ADVENTURES OF SIR JOHN KYNNERSLEY.

By A. C. FOX-DAVIES.

IV.—How Sir John Got A Little Revenge.

"NOW Sir John, I presume you are an ordinarily prudent man. What steps did you take to satisfy yourself of the solvency of this company?"

"Mr. Koodorian, who got me to invest all my money in it, told me it was a good investment."

"Oh, you did take advice, then? What dividend did you expect to receive on your money?"

"I was told they had been paying ten per cent."

"Yes; and then there were your directors fees? Let me see," said Mr. Keighley Watson, the eminent counsel, as he turned over the sheets of his brief.

"Oh, yes—I see, you were to receive £200 a year," and the barrister straightened his shoulders and pulled his silken gown around his portly figure as his hands fell to their accustomed grip on his coat lapels.

"Now, I should like to ask you, Sir John, what you profess to know of the various processes comprised in the manufacture of boot-blacking?"

The baronet remained silent.

"I am afraid I must trouble you to answer my question."

"I know nothing," Sor John sulkily replied.

"You surprise me. I understand you were a director for nearly a quarter of a year. Surely you inspected the factory, and watched the processes of manufacture?"

"No, I never went near them. The directors' meetings were held at the secretary's office in Queen Victoria street."

"Then perhaps you were accustomed to these matters of high finance, in which this boot-polish-making concern seems most unwarrantably to have been taking part?"

"No, I knew nothing of such matters.

"Well, then, was it your great business experience the directors were so anxious to secure? Had you been connected with any commercial enterprise previously?"

"No, I had not."

"Well, gentlemen," said Mr. Watson, turning to the jury, "we have this remarkable discovery. We have one of the directors of a boot-blacking manufactory—who doesn't even know what blacking is made of—who never even troubled to go near the works—who knows nothing of finance and less of ordinary commercial business. Yet he has the audacity, the amazing audacity, to swindle the poor shareholders of the company out of £200 a year in director's fees for services of not the slightest value to anybody. Two hundred pounds a year, gentlemen—rank imposture, it seems to me!"

"You dirty cad! I never got a cent, and you know it; they got my £10,000."

The baronet had been kept on the rack for hours by the barrister.

"Sir John Kynnersley, I cannot permit language of that kind," thundered the judge.

The eminent counsel blandly smiling, bowed to the judge as if he would deprecate any notice being taken of the little outburst, and continued:

"Well, then, Sir John, if you wish to pose as the innocent imbecile who has himself been defrauded, I think, if his lordship will pardon my use of the expression, that we can best sum up the curious situation which has been disclosed by saying that you occupied the front-page position of the 'titled nonentity.' Thank you, Sir John, I have no further questions to ask."

And the baronet, seething with rage and indignation, was bowed out of the witness box.

When the court adjourned for lunch, Sir John waylaid the eminent counsel in the central hall, which was full of lounging idlers.

"Mr. Watson," he said in a ringing voice, "all things come to those who do but wait, and so sure as my name is what it is, I will make you look twenty times as big a fool as you have made me today. For the present that will be sufficient." And a stinging blow was planted on the barrister's face.

Several policemen immediately rushed up, and were proceeding to take the baronet into custody.

"Oh," he laughed, "that man won't prosecute. I know too much of his family history. He just forgot my grandfather had changed his name since his father was butler, robbing the old man right and left."

Sir John was right. Mr. Watson declined any further proceedings, but he never forgave the stinging repayment he had received for his insult. He had taken advantage of his position, and even a rat driven into a corner will bite back.

"Kynnersley, you've just missed the very deuce of a lark here," said a friend of his, as he sat over his tea and toast one afternoon at his club.

"That's a pity. What was it?"

"Do you know Keighley Watson?"

"Know the beast, I should think I do; but I didn't know he was a member here."

"Well, it was news to me as well. I don't think he is. I expect somebody must have brought him in, only nobody would own him as a guest after the row. Well, he was sitting over there by the fire, and a chap—young Charlesworth they say he is—came in, and called Watson all the names he could lay his tongue to for not paying up some money he'd lost to him at cards. I didn't hear all the boy said; but, as far as I could make it out, Watson had won a lot of money off the young 'un at different times, and had it; but when he lost he never paid. I distinctly heard Charlesworth say, 'It's the third time; I let the first two slide, but I want some money myself now, and you've got to pay this time. I'm sick of your excuses. It's ridiculous to pretend you haven't got £20.' Watson said he hadn't got it about him, and began to bluster. The boy said a check would do. Watson hadn't got his check book. The boy simply rang for a blank club check form. Watson filled it up; but the boy, when he had looked at it, called him a dirty thief, and said he hadn't asked for a post-dated check. And then the real slanging match began, and finally Watson had to own up that he had been speculating heavily for some time past and hadn't any money at his bank, and was broke to the world."

"Well, I'm glad to hear it. I owe him a fair-sized grudge myself," said Kynnersley.

Sir John finished his tea and toast, but the conversation with his neighbor flagged, for the baronet was evidently deep in a brown study. At eight he dined; but he was absent-minded, and never noticed that the waiter brought the fish a second time in lieu of the entree. He played a game of billiards, and looked surprised when he was remonstrated with for playing with the red ball. The truth was, Sir John's clever brain was busy hatching out a little plan, and he had but scant attention to spare for other matters. Finally, he put down his cue, and returned to the smoking-room, and hour after hour he lay back in a comfortable armchair gazing into vacancy, puffing up rings of smoke to the ceiling, and thinking hard. Sir John felt he must verify his recollections about the facts relating to the inmates of a certain house. As yet his information was only second-hand.

A few days later, Mr. Keighley Watson descended from his bedroom in a very bad temper to the unappetizing breakfast of eggs and bacon which awaited him in the self-styled fashionable boarding-house in Inverness Terrace, Bayswater, which he made his home. Several letters—chiefly bills—but none of them of a pleasing nature—were lying by the side of his plate when he came downstairs, and a hurried perusal of them only served to make his temper a little more irritable than it had been previously. The sole occupant of the room when he entered it was Miss Janet MacTavish, one of the pathetically would-be youthful spinsters for whose especial benefit the boarding-house seems to have been ceated.

Miss MacTavish was 50, and the daughter of a pork butcher, and her life was passed in endeavoring to conceal both facts. For many months she had looked on Mr. Watson; with a favoring eye had her little ingratiating smiles been directed toward him. She it was who, if Mr. Watson came late to breakfast, had kept his bacon and coffee hot.

Once, when the other boarders had greedily finished all the toast, Miss MacTavish had, with great difficulty and much struggling with a short fork and a tiresome fire, made him some fresh toast. "Hope springs eternal in the female breast," and in spite of scant thanks and sometimes severe snubs from the ungrateful barrister, Miss MacTavish believed that his sentiments toward her were, at least, not unkindly. She greeted him this morning eagerly.

"Oh, Mr. Watson, I thought you were never coming. See, I've kept your bacon under this plate, and your coffee is here."

Watson scowled. "Oh, I do wish you wouldn't bother. Don't want any."

The poor lady's face fell. "But you must," she faltered, and took the plate off the unfortunate rashers of bacon. "It really isn't cold. Do try it."

Watson sat down. "Oh, all right," he said, ungraciously. "Hand it over here. Beastly stuff they do give one here. I shan't stay much longer."

"You wouldn't leave, surely, Mr. Watson? Oh, how we should all miss you! You know it wouldn't be the same place without you."

Poor Miss MacTavish! Her face was not intended by nature to pour forth these sweet nothings. Watson looked at her, at the features of the plainest and hardest Scottish type, the ugly gray hair strained back from the high narrow forehead, and scowled again. There was something about Miss MacTavish that was physically repellant to him.

"Don't see what it matters to you," he grunted. "I don't want to be rude, Miss MacTavish, but for goodness' sake let me go on with my breakfast."

"Well, you might have thanked me for keeping it warm," plaintively said the fair Janet, almost in tears.

"I don't thank you," said Watson, savagely; his last remnant of politeness going. "I don't want it kept warm; I don't care a curse if it's cold. I hate being fussed over and bothered, so there!"

And with that he jumped up and banged the door after him, leaving the unfortunate lady dissolved in tears.

In an added temper Watson went on to his chambers in the Temple. During the course of the morning a draft will was delivered, marked with a fee of twenty guineas, for his opinion whether certain bequests therein of a charitable nature would be held valid. The work was not of the particular kind the barrister was usually concerned in, and Watson was surprised that it had been sent to his chambers. But twenty guineas was too large a sum to be thrown away, and he began to peruse it carefully, with a view of writing his opinion.

To his utter amazement he found the draft was of the will of Miss Janet MacTavish, spinister, of Tilquihillie, Co. Perth, presently residing at No. —, Inverness Terrace, Bayswater. There were no legacies to near relatives such as brothers or sisters or nephews, but two legacies, each of £5000, were left to others of the name under the description of "kinsmen."

Watson was surprised. He would have guessed, had he thought, that Miss MacTavish might possibly possess £120 to £150 per anum, and his astonishment increased as, adding up the amount of the legacies, he saw that apart from what the residuary legatee might receive, no less a sum than £63,000 had been disposed of, the bulk being left to various charities, chiefly Scottish.

"Needs must, when the devil drives," and there is no more stinging lash than the imperative need of money to silence pressing creditors. He thought for some time, and finally putting all the papers in his pocket, he went at once to the office of Aaron Koodoorian, the money lender, who had induced Sir John Kynnersley to invest all his fortune in the ill-fated boot blacking manufactory. When he was admitted he made no scruple about the matter, but passed over all the papers to the Armenian to read, including the letter which had come with the draft. The money lender read them carefully.

"Well," he said, "what do you want me to do?"

"I know that woman. She lives in the same boarding house that I do. I had no idea she had more than the usual few hundreds, but her father was a pork-butcher, so it quite likely. I can marry her any day I like to ask her, and I propose to ask her without delay; and I want to know if you will lend me £500 till I get married?"

"How do you know she's got this money?"

"Well, test it. You see she mentions different shares. She leaves her shares in the Aerated Bread Company to the Pension and Depot Fund of that company. Now, you can easily find out if she has shares."(

As it turned out later, when Koodoorian did inquire, Miss MacTavish was the registered proprietor of some £200 in shares.

The money lender read the will again, and said: "If the lady is smitten with your agreeable charms, Mr. Watson, as you say she is, perhaps this has been sent to you for the mere purpose of what is vulgarly called 'bringing you up to scratch.' Do you know the solicitor?"

"No, I don't. If I did, he'd probably know my usual line is company work."

Koodoorian picked up a law list, and consulted it.

"There is a solicitor of that name," he said, "only qualified a couple of years ago; but there's no address given here. I expect that's the man."

Finally, the money lender ended the interview by saying:

"No, I won't lend you a penny now, but one of my young women shall take rooms at the boarding house you are at, and if she reports favorably, I don't mind, when you are engaged, advancing you £500."

"What shall you want for it?"

"£2000 within a month of your wedding day."

"That's stiff," replied the barrister.

"I know it, but the security's rotten, Mr. Watson."

Watson returned to his familiar boarding house that evening resolved not to let the grass grow under his feet. His first care must be to remove the unfortunate impression made by his bad temper of the morning. He had armed himself with a large bunch of roses, which he thought might go far towards soothing Miss MacTavish's feelings.

That lady, gloomily attiring herself in the black skirt and silk blouse which are de riguer in all boarding houses for dinner, was sent into the seventh heaven of delight by the appearance of the overworked servant of the establishment bearing the roses. "With Mr. Watson's compliments, and would Miss MacTavish accept these flowers?"

"Oh, Mary!" gushed Miss MacTavish; "but are you quite sure he sent them—and for me?"

"Yes, miss," said Mary, with great appreciation of the situation. "Aren't they lovely, miss? And he was so particular I should bring them at once, miss. Surely you'll wear one, miss? Oh, he would be so pleased if you'd wear one!"

Janet blushed and smiled, and finally chose with great care a rose, which was fastened into her dress by Mary. She felt so nervous she hardly dared descend to the dining-room to meet the astonished eyes of the other boarders, but with Mary's encouragement the deed was done. Watson, looking up on her late entrance, felt he could have screamed with mingled rage and amusement at the air of coy bashfulness with which Miss MacTavish sidled into her seat. But he thought of the £60,000! It was worth it!

After dinner, he went up to the drawing-room, where Miss MacTavish was sitting playing her accustomed game of Patience.

"I have been wanting to talk to you all day, to ask your forgiveness for my brusquerie to you this morning, dear Miss MacTavish. But if you knew what agonies of neuralgia I had suffered all night, you would really forgive me. I could not sleep at all, and hardly knew what I was saying. To think that I could have spoken unkindly to you has worried me all day."

Miss MacTavish was all smiles and blushes at once.

"Oh, Mr. Watson, you mustn't think of it; it was nothing. I am so sorry. Are you better now? I do hope so. And how can I thank you for these lovely flowers?"

"You have thanked me—by wearing one," said Watson, with his most fascinating smile.

"Oh, how sweet of you to say that! They are my favorite flowers. But how good of you to ever think of me, Mr. Watson."

"I should not like to say how often I do think of you, Miss MacTavish. Indeed, you would say it was presumption."

The flattered spinster felt as though the heavens were opening. In all her life no one had ever spoken words of admiration to her, no man had ever lowered his voice to whisper in her ear, and now this man whom she for long looked upon with timid admiration, was singling her out and "making love." Yes, this certainly must be making love. Her poor scarlet cheeks burned more and more, and her fingers trembled as she strove to answer him carelessly.

"Indeed, I shouldn't, Mr. Watson. You couldn't be presuming. But I do hope you won't think any more about leaving us all, as you said this morning."

Watson smiled reassuringly. "Did I say so? Well, I shall not yet, certainly; though I have been thinking lately that a boarding house is not all there is to be desired, comfortable as we are. Well, perhaps it is too soon now; but to confess the truth, Miss MacTavish, I have been thinking that a home of my own would be so much nicer. I have been making all sorts of delightful plans—but perhaps I ought not to say all this to you yet.

"Why not yet?" faltered Miss MacTavish, who hardly knew if she were standing on her head or her heels.

Watson hesitated. Well, why? he thought. No time like the present. May as well get it over.

"If I may tell you?" he whispered.

"Oh, do," said Miss MacTavish. "You—you don't mean that you are going to get married?" she added fearfully.

Watson looked at her roguishly. "That depends," he said. "Oh, Miss MacTavish, if I may venture to hope."

"Oh, Mr. Watson!" The poor spinster clasped her thin hands. Surely, surely, this could not be true. But Watson put his hands on them.

"Janet—may I say Janet?" he murmured—"will you be my wife?"

Miss MacTavish rose like a frightened girl, and looked at him. Then she burst into tears.

"Oh, Mr. Watson, if you knew how I have longed for this moment!" and she flung her arms round his neck, which Watson managed to endure with equanimity by concentrating his thoughts on the £60,000.

• • • • •

A week later, and as a matter of fact before any engagement was made public, Koodoorian had advanced the £500. The report of the lady boarder, whom he had paid to pump Miss MacTavish, was delivered very promptly, and left no doubt as to the issue if Mr Watson should decide to propose. But there was one thing that the lady detective could glean no details about. Miss MacTavish was as close as wax over her money matters. As the report said, much of her jewelry was undoubtedly of value, though all of it hopelessly old-fashioned. She never owed money; but she spent little; and she could not be induced to talk upon the subject. She undoubtedly spoke of Tilquihillie as her home, and on this report Koodoorian had lent the money.

Watson was tempted to suggest a marriage settlement for the purpose of making certain that the lady possessed the wealth he had seen written down; but careful consideration of the point reminded him that settled money is not easy to deal with, and Watson wanted money badly, and that in cash, and not in expectations.

Watson pleaded hard for a quiet ceremony; but Miss MacTavish would not be denied the reaping of the pleasure she had planned all her life, and as a result the boarding-house laid itself out to do honor to the occasion. The proprietress had insisted on the wedding taking place from that address, and on the auspicious day, punctual to the moment, Miss MacTavish was handed down the steps resplendent in white satin, a lengthy train, and orange blossoms, to the waiting automobile.

The reception passed as do most other similar occasions, and finally the bride and bridegroom departed amid showers of rice, confetti, and old slippers, to Victoria station en route for Dover, Calais and Paris, where they proposed to spend the honeymoon.

For three days after the wedding ceremony all was sunshine. Then the storm burst.

Mrs. Watson sought her husband with a deprecating look on her face.

"Keighley, dear," she said, "I am so sorry to trouble you. But do you know that I've been so very foolish as to buy myself a new hat; it is coming this afternoon, and I find I have not enough money to pay for it. Could you give me some?"

The husband looked up with an indulgent smile.

"What extravagance, my dear[But really, my love, I am awfully sorry; but I am very short myself. Can you give a check on your own account? I could get it cashed here easily enough."

Mrs. Watson hesitated, blushed. "Well," the fact is, dear, that you see, I have unfortunately overdrawn my little account. So many expenses, you see. I am so sorry."

Watson turned round to look at her. "Overdrawn your account, dear! But, you can't have spent £300 this year! Haven't you a large deposit at the bank?"

His wife stared at him aghast. Had her Keighley lost his reason?

"No, dear. Deposit? Why, I never had enough to save anything out of."

Watson sprang to his feet with a shout.

"Have you or have you not got £60,000? Don't stop, you fool, you must know. Answer me at once. Go on, don't I tell you!"

He had seized her shoulder, and was shaking it violently.

The poor woman in terror could say nothing.

"Answer me!" he shook her again.

"No, of course, I haven't; you know I haven't, Keighley," she stammered.

Watson left his hold of her, and stood still, suddenly calm with despair.

"Would you mind telling me," he asked icily, "if you have any money at all, and if so, how much?"

Poor, poor Janet! She still did not quite understand, but she managed somehow to convey the intelligence of her 150 per annum to the raging, desperate, disappointed man, balked of a lifetime's end and aim and goal. To his credit be it spoken, Watson was no fool, and realized at once that the mistake was not of her making. Her manner was transparent. Like a flash it came to him that some one had done him, and done him badly. Then and there he registered a vow that he would never rest till he had found out who it was who landed him in his present situation.

Two days later the newly-married pair returned from Paris. Neither had the money to prolong their visit to greater length. They had postponed taking a house or furnishing until their return, which as Watson afterward remarked, was a special interposition of Providence. He simply took his wife to live with him in his law chambers.

Koodoorian was promptly on the scene with a demand for the payment of 2000 pounds, and Watson had no alternative but to file his petition in bankruptcy.

Mr. and Mrs. Watson are now vainly trying to exist in an out-of-the-way village in Holland upon her income. Luckily they have no others save themselves to provide for.

"Now look here, Mason," said Sir John to his solicitor, when their greetings had been accomplished, and the baronet had sunk luxuriously into the "client's chair." "This is professional, of course, and I want to know how I stand."

And then into the astounded ears of the man of law he poured the whole tale with the bare nakedness of fact, ending: "I've had my revenge on the swine and he's getting compound Gehenna back in return for what he gave me. It ought to be enough, of course, but it isn't. I hate the man, and I've waited nearly ten years to pay him out, and I've done it, but I want him to know that it was I who did it, and I want the beggar to know why I went to the trouble. Now if I write and tell him, will any action lie against me? I myself don't see that he can get at me, but I want to be certain."

"The only risk I see is your posing as a solicitor. They can imprison you for that."

"Well, I thought of all that. I never professed or pretended to be a solicitor; I was particularly careful on that point."

"Are you sure? What had you got on your notepaper?"

"Simply the name, without any occupation, and my address. On the outside of my door is a brass plate which I had specially made for the purpose. It's got the name up, and underneath 'Estate Agent.' Now, the beggar never troubled to come himself to the office, or send his clerk, else he would have known at once. Not being a barrister or a solicitor, I'm not supposed to know the etiquette of the bar. I want counsels' opinion, and I send to a barrister for it. It's his place, not mine, to look after the etiquette of the bar and refuse his opinion save through a solicitor."

"Yes, I think you are right," and Sir John Kynnersley went home and wrote an unvarnished letter to Mr. Keighley Watson.

And Mr. Keighley Watson read it, and for the two following days exclusively devoted himself alternately and impartially to cursing Sir John and abusing his wife. A week later Mrs. Keighley Watson finally decided and announced to her bosom friends that she bitterly rued the day she had ever seen or spoken to her husband.

Her husband, hearing of it, asserted that her regret was trivial in comparison with his own.

But Sir John Kynnersley had that righteous sense of relief which comes from the successful completion of a carefully planned and long anticipated deal.

RAILWAY WORLD.

Steel rails weighing 100 pounds to the yard, the heaviest in the market, are being used in replacing the old steel in the main line of the Jersey Central. The former practice of tracklayers bending the rails around sharp curves has been abandoned and they are being produced at the mills in curved form to fit the places in which they are to be put in. It is the judgment of engineers that these shapers give better results, are free from kinks and minimize the shaking and jamming that either hand or machine bent rails will cause.

Among the orders already placed or soon to be given out for new locomotives, are 323 for the New York Central, 137 for the Boston and Albany, 51 for the Michigan Central, 75 for the Lake Shore, 25 for the Chicago, Indiana and Southern, and 35 for the Big Four.

Among the steel rail orders it is expected the New York Central and Pennsylvania will require 240,000 tons, but the orders have been delayed owing to changes in the specifications.

The life insurance companies are among the heaviest owners of railroad bonds and they are becoming interested in the results of the policy being pursued by the Interstate Commerce Commission. Anything that affect the value of railroad bonds as safe securities for the investment of policyholders' money, will cause the insurance companies to look with less favor upon them than heretofore. The matter has been brought to the attention of the commission in the interest of the 20,000,000 policyholders of the country.

Following out its policy adopted a year ago of sharing the benefits of increased business with employees, the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company has voluntarily increased the wages of all motormen, conductors and guards employed on its elevated and surface lines, by sums equal to 5 per cent. The increase becomes effective January 1, and will add about $300,000 to the year's payroll. The higher wages will be 10 per cent. above the level of January 1, 1910, a general increase having been made on April 1st last. The new scale is based in part on the employees' period of continuous service with the company. This system has been found to be very successful in securing loyalty to the company. The increase affects more than 4000 men, most of whom received advances last year. The general manager says that the increases were made without any demands from the men, and that there was no hint of dissatisfaction with the old scale. There is no union among these employees, and the company has followed the policy of giving its men higher wages as rapidly as increased travel justified them. Futile efforts have been made at various times by special organizers to build up a union in Brooklyn, but the men have steadfastly refused to be organized.

There are in use in this country today close to 45,000,000 tons of steel rails. This includes steam roads, traction companies, subways, elevated lines, etc. It is difficult to arrive at any definite conclusion as to the average life of a steel rail, but the period of duration ranges between ten and twenty years. In sections of the country where traffic on main lines is not heavy the average life ranges form fifteen to twenty years. Rails for side tracks and unimportant branches are credited with much longer lives.

Assuming that the average life of a steel rail is even twenty years, renewals on 45,000,000 tons now in use in this country would alone amount to approximately 2,250,000 tons a year.

For 1909 the output of the rail mills was 3,062,582 tons, compared with 1,926,611 tons for 1908; 3,622,654 tons for 1907 and 3,977,889 tons for 1906.

While no record breaking orders for steel rails for 1911 delivery are expected, it is believed that the railroads will use an average tonnage, which would mean consumption of 3,000,000 tons, which was the yearly average over the last ten years.

The Illinois Central is now running trains by telephone on more than 2000 miles of its system. In addition to twenty-one regular telephone stations on this stretch of track, sixteen waystation telephones have been placed along the line in booths or buildings located at sidings or points where it is not necessary to station regular operators. Some of the stations previously were used as block telegraph offices.

"Pay as you enter" cars are not popular at Toronto, Canada. Their introduction was followed by a riot. It was claimed that the cars were not adapted to the service, and when protests were found unavailing a public meeting was held at which the matter was discussed with representatives of the street railroad company. The meeting broke up in disorder and the audience on reaching the street attacked car after car and reduced them to a scrap heap.

COUNTING THE SANDS.

The Manner in Which an Estimate Can Be Made of the Seashore Supply.

Did you ever try to count the sands of the seashore? Really it is not such a formidable task if you go about it in the right way.

Choose a smooth, dry spot some sunny day this summer, says St. Nicholas, and, with ample paper and pencil and a botanist's magnifying glass, get down to work. Stretch yourself out at length and level off smoothly a space about an inch square. Lay two pins, black sand grains, or other small objects, exactly an eighth of an inch apart, then apply your glass with great precision and care. Count the number of grains that lie in a straight line between the two objects. This is the most difficult, as well as the most important, part of the proceeding, and too much pains cannot be taken. A difference of one grain will make a difference of millions in the later calculations. It would be more accurate to count the grains in a quarter or half inch, but there is danger of losing one's place and omitting or duplicating some.

Having obtained the count of grains in a line one-eighth of an inch long, the rest of the work is multiplication. Let us say in the present instance that twenty grains were found in the eighth of an inch. Of course sand varies greatly, but this number represents good fine sand. Multiplying by eight gives 160, the number of grains in a line a whole inch long; and squaring this (that is, 160 multiplied by 160), we have 15,600 in a single layer one inch square. In order to get an inch cube we must again multiply by 160, and this gives 2,496,000. Just think! A very small quantity in the hollow of the hand contains nearly 2,500,000 grains. One's admiration for the wonders of nature grows tremendously, yet we have made out but the beginning.

A cubic foot contains 1728 inches, so this is the next multiplier, and the product gives the astounding figures 4,313,088,000. Four billion is less than a peck. Let us now imagine a stretch of sandy beach a mile long and a foot wide and deep. In this rod of sand not much larger than a sewer pipe we find there are no less than 22,773,104,640,000 grains. But our beach has width, let us say, a quarter mile, and depth, say, fifty feet, and we find in this chance stretch a total of 1,503,024,006,240,000,000 particles. Over one and a half quintillion grains! The mind has ceased to comprehend such figures, and were we to add a dozen or two ciphers they would mean no more to us than this tremendous sum.

Anyone with a calculating bent may expand these figures as he pleases. One might compute the sandy coasts of the United States, the North American continent, and so on, or might compute the number of grains in the Desert of Sahara. There is really no limit when once a basic number has been determined.

DISUNIONIZED SHOPS MAKE FOR INDUSTRIAL PEACE.

[Editorial.]

Glancing back over the year now fast drawing to its close, and remembering the terrible crime committed against The Times and this whole community, we yet find it possible to discover cheering proof that disunionizing shops makes for industrial peace everywhere. In Los Angeles there is at the present moment no noticeable trouble in the ranks of the workers. The strikes which caused the disorders that led up to the dynamiting of The Times building on October 1, have evaporated. Of course in Labor Temple it is still believed that several strikes are in progress, but the real workers of Los Angeles, the men and women who are content to do their tasks properly and to let others live without attacking them merely because they work, know well enough that the horizon is cleared here, that the labor trust has been signally defeated, and that the open shop has obtained another great victory in this, its citadel.

Another wonderful achievement for which the greater part of the Los Angeles public is thankful is the rehabilitation of The Times, the chief spokesman in the country for industrial freedom and the only daily on the Pacific Coast valiant enough to openly criticise the actions and writings of the unionite leaders who would hold the whole country in thralldom and make every section contribute to their support. The year 1910, marred as it has been by the atrocious crime of the unionite sympathizers who blew up The Times building and killed many employees of this paper, yet has been marked by no more notable achievement in industrial quarters than the restoration of this great newspaper to its leading place. In point of fact it really never lost that position. Not for a day did it cease publication. Although its whole plant was destroyed just as an edition was about to come off the giant presses, it appeared on the streets within an hour or two of the ordinary time and was distributed by carriers as usual. Save that for a few days it published smaller papers than usual The Times proceeded as if nothing had happened. This was, perhaps, the strongest blow the labor trust suffered this year. No possible doubt exists that its leaders have long wished to see this newspaper "wiped off the face of the earth." They have supplied money year in and year out to "down The Times," and they are still at it. Don't forget that. Although local representatives of the trust shed crocodile tears at the time of the crime and said: "Please don't blame us; some wretched anarchist over whom we have no control did it," and although these same men ostentatiously came forward "to offer what assistance is in our power," yet they are still engaged in the task which led up to that awful crime—they still are working "to put The Times out of business." Therefore we say that the fact that this newspaper has risen superior to devils in human form who dynamited its building and to those who are animated by unquenchable and murderous hostility, is the greatest victory won for industrial freedom in 1910. The mouthpiece of freedom for labor remains and will continue its work for the great cause with unimpaired vigor.

Next to the rehabilitation of The Times the most satisfactory work done this year has been that looking to the disunionizing of San Francisco. This is carrying the war into the enemy's camp with a vengeance, but the attempt is well worth the expenditure of the utmost endeavor because if San Francisco is freed from the grasp of the labor trust that octopus will suffer, not only in prestige, but (what will hurt it far more) in its pocket. Your unionite hates nothing so much as to find the dues coming in slowly. San Francisco has been "great picking" for the officials, walking delegates and other barnacles which have attached themselves to unionized labor throughout the United States and which are causing the unions to rot. With San Francisco a free city industrially it will be able to join Los Angeles in carrying the true gospel of freedom in the industries up and down the Pacific Coast till at length the labor trust will be robbed of its unworthy power from San Diego to the land of the Midnight Sun. This is a consummation devoutly to be wished. That it will come in time is as certain as that the sun rises every morning. Already we find the public opinion at the Golden Gate turning that way. Time was when not a newspaper in that city dared to say anything derogatory of the unionites. Now we find the Wasp administering weekly stings upon the fat body of the trust, while the News Letter is equally outspoken in its comments upon labor atrocities. Perhaps one of these days one of the morning papers up north will muster up enough courage to defy the unions and speak out its real mind.

If the truth were told every daily paper in San Francisco would gladly welcome the disunionizing of the Golden Gate because by that means industrial peace would be secured to the city. The newspapers there, like most of the people, are utterly sick of the constant strife and bickering which make life so unpleasant in McCarthy's "Paris of America." San Francisco is like the French city in that it has a lot of unionite sympathizers who have adopted the habits of the "Apaches." They carry gas pipes and other instruments with which they wreak their vengeance on more manly men who are bold enough to defy the rulings of the unions and go to work in open shops where merit counts and not the ticket-of-leave-to-work issued by the labor trust. Any man who carries that ticket-of-leave writes himself down a slave to as abominable a combine as ever cursed this or any country.

One feature of 1910 which also must prove satisfactory to lovers of liberty is the fact that Los Angeles legislated against boycott and picketing, two kinds of unionite tactics which, to use their own words, in another sense, are conspicuously unfair. They were borrowed from foreign countries but are so palpably un-American that they find absolutely no favor except in the ranks of the unionites. The well directed efforts made here to combat the evil nipped it in the bud in Southern California, but San Francisco is suffering from it at the present moment. A correspondent of The Times in the northern city said the other day that among the pickets are "the low-down scum of the earth." He is right, for only a man with some mental deformity, some twist in his make-up, would sink to so low an employment. At the Midway in Chicago at the time of the world's fair a man was found who, for a pittance, hobnobbed with doped snakes, pretended to be a wild woman from Borneo and lived amid filth so that he might entice dimes from the pockets of visitors. One tourist to the Windy City stated that he could conceive of no more debasing occupation, but he forgot picketing. It is about as low a job as any man can accept, even if it does command $3 a day, which is said to be the rate in San Francisco. Of course with a unionite Mayor in control of San Francisco civic politics it is useless to look for the passage by the City Council there of an ordinance similar to the one adopted by Los Angeles as an emergency measure. When, however, the reign of McCarthy comes to an end it is to be hoped that the new Mayor will be courageous enough to have such an ordinance introduced and capable enough to see that it is carried. The News Letter is conducting a campaign with the object of opening the eyes of everybody not only to the unjust nature of picketing, but to the fact that it always leads to violence. It knows, however, that this latter is the intent of the labor trust, which delights in causing agony, in disturbing cities and in seeing brickbats fly. The northern paper remarks: "This violence is condoned by the labor leaders if they do not actually foster it by resolutions of the union body." It also points out that picketing doesn't do any good, as far as the unions are concerned, except to wear out shoe leather. A concrete example is given. As readers of the Workers' Page are aware, a disgraceful boycott was maintained for months against one of the largest shoe factories in San Francisco. Pickets were placed all around it. What is the result? That factory is among the disunionized ones of San Francisco and the owners have announced that they will conduct the open shop from now on. The News Letter gives other examples of the failure of the boycott and picketing. It remarks: "A boycott was placed on two uptown restaurants and cafeterias. All these establishments continue in business and are crowded to the doors. One little lunch place down on Commercial street had an active boycott placed on it three months ago. It is turning away customers. The day of the thug in unionism is ended." At the same time, while the establishments mentioned have won out against pickets and boycotters, the latter continue to indulge in acts of violence. San Francisco merchants should insist on these being stopped. It can be done. It was accomplished here; it can be performed in San Francisco if Mayor McCarthy is true to his oath of office and if the Federated Trades and Labor Council acts up to its public utterances that it "is opposed to violence." But will the Mayor and the Labor Council act? Can the leopard change its spots?

While on the subject of boycotting it is satisfactory to be able to point out that the American Anti-Boycott Association has been able to accomplish work in 1910. Daniel Davenport, general counsel for the organization, recently attended a dinner given by Detroit merchants and showed that the manufacturers throughout the country are fully alive to the importance of combating this unlawful weapon of unionism and intend to keep at it. He told of the tyrannical attitude of the labor trust on this matter and also showed that Gompers and others of that ilk consider themselves above the law. As an illustration of this he referred to the fact that "Sam," as president of the American Federation of Labor and editor of a paper, has for years taught men that the boycott is a "sacred right," and, furthermore, "if the courts should resort to injunction it is the right of every citizen to disregard it." This, of course, is only in line with the usual Gompers tactics. The man thinks he is not amenable to the everyday ordinances which govern the rank and file of citizens. He counsels resistance to the laws and if his advice were carried out nothing but anarchy could result. This is the kind of person who leads unionites throughout the country, in California, as elsewhere, by the nose.

Turning attention to the East we find that New York and New Jersey suffered as much as any city in 1910 from strikes accompanied by violence, but that a notable victory for the open shop was won there. The drivers of express company wagons were forced out, many of them much against their will. After days of strenuous battling, during which a call for the militia was made and denied by a supine Governor of New Jersey, the men all went back to work on the terms of the companies, which absolutely declined to recognize the union and will have nothing to do with it hereafter.

Strikes which are followed by disunionization cannot be said to be without their compensations. Settlement on such terms only serves to strengthen our view that industrial freedom means industrial peace. When employers and men can get together and conduct their own negotiations without the interference of the walking delegates or other hand-me-out agents of the labor trust strikes and troubles of like character are sure to be fewer. Moreover there will be greater civic peace because violence will be eliminated. The newspaper which opposes the plug-ugly methods of the labor trust, such as brickbat throwing, the boycott, picketing and other dangerous means, is the true friend of labor and of the whole people. It helps to keep the community peaceful, to maintain good relations in all lines of industry between employers and employees and to banish bullies and dynamiters.

Lawless Leader.

GOMPERS' ATTACK UNPATRIOTIC.

CRITICISES PRESIDENT IN HIS ANNUAL REPORT.

Held Taft Responsible for Congressional Inaction Upon Proposition to Enact Law Allowing Labor Organizations to Be Superior to Laws for Every One Else.

There is a remarkable passage in Mr. Gompers's annual report to the American Federation of Labor in which he assists President Taft for having prevented the enactment last June of what was known as the Hughes Amendment to the Sunrdy Civil Appropriation Bill, says the New York Sun.

This bill provided an appropriation of $100,000 for the enforcement of anti-trust laws and acts to regulate commerce. In the committee of the whole Representative Hughes of New Jersey, described by Mr. Gompers as "our friend Mr. Hughes," introduced an amendment, as follows:

"Provided, That no part of this money shall be spent in the prosecution of any organization or individual for entering into any combination or agreement having in view the increase of wages, shortening of hours or bettering the condition of labor, or for any act done in furtherance thereof not in itself unlawful."

If this amendment meant anything it meant the deliberate exception of one class of trusts and one class of individual citizens from the equal operation of laws of the United States. It was so understood by its author, Mr. Hughes, of New Jersey, for he explained that the proposed amendment "simply says to the Attorney-General that he shall not engage himself, at least he shall not expend this particular sum appropriated for the specific purpose of enforcing the Sherman Anti-Trust Act, against organizations of labor."

Mr. Hughes further announced the doctrine "that there is a good and sufficient reason recognized in every civilized country of the world except ours why organizations of labor should be differentiated from other organizations." He did not proceed to announce the existence of a good and sufficient reason why individual citizens engaged in enterprises in restraint of trade in the name of organized labor should be exempted from the operation of laws applicable to all other citizens.

The labor exemption amendment passed the Committee of the Whole on June 2 by a vote of 82 to 52, 166 members of the House being recorded as "absentees." The Senate rejected the amendment. The bill went to conference and the House at first insisted. Mr. Gompers in his deliverance of Monday last gives this picture of Mr. Taft's activities:

"The situation evidently angered the President, as he immediately took the matter into his own hands. He suspended other public business and swept aside every engagement. He called 'wavering' Representatives to the White House and insisted upon their active opposition, even going so far as to say that if it cost him the support of every laboring man in the country he would not approve of such a proviso in the law. It is reported that when he learned that the House had receded from its insistence upon the proviso by the close vote of 138 to 130 he made no effort to conceal his great gratification because he had succeeded in defeating labor to this extent."

If that is accurate history of the part which the President took in defeating the Hughes's amendment, no incident of his career stands more conspicuously to the credit of his courage, his impartiality and his solicitude for the preservation of the fundamental principle of equality before the law. Mr. Gompers's attack on this ground is a tribute of the most impressive sort. Labor and the rights of labor have no better friend than Mr. Taft. Organized labor in its legitimate efforts to improve conditions has no more willing or sympathetic supporter, we venture to say. What sort of service to the cause of labor is rendered by agitations and schemers and orators when they attempt to delude their fellow-citizens into the belief that he is an enemy who perceives danger to the republic of equal laws in Mr. Hughes's process of "differentiation" and exemption?"

THE OPEN SHOP ON THE COAST.

DISCUSSION OF PROBLEM AT A PORTLAND DINNER.

Gen. Harrison Gray Otis and John Kirby, President of the National Association of Manufacturers, the Speakers—Rights of the Non-Union Man.

PORTLAND, (Or.) Dec. 13.—The "open shop" problem as it confronts the employers of the Pacific Coast was the means last night of bringing 500 members of the Employers' Association of Oregon together at a dinner in the rooms of the Commercial Club.

Addresses on labor topics were delivered by John Kirby, Jr., president of the National Association of Manufacturers; Gen. Harrison Gray Otis, editor of the Los Angeles Times, and others.

Mr. Kirby spoke at considerable length on the "open shop" and talked of the tactics of the unions throughout the country. As a means of curbing the alleged aggressions of unions on the Pacific Coast, Mr. Kirby advocated the organization of employers' associations in every city on the Coast with a central association, and a fixed line of action.

Gen. Otis, in a measure, took issue with Mr. Kirby in the matter of the "open shop" and declared there was peril in such a method of overcoming the growth and activities of the unions, because, he said, "where both union and non-union men are employed danger lies in the secret work of the union employees or the non-union men, and some day the employer will be confronted with a demand for "union shop."

Gen. Otis declared he had never opposed the organization of unions, but questioned the wisdom of such organization as not in the end being for the best interests of the union members. He declared true economical conditions required the employment "of 100 per cent. of labor all the year," a condition which he said was impossible in the present day of union activities.

Gen. Otis declared the non-union man "entitled to the protection of the government, if he is doing the honest and lawful thing, even to the extent of using the forces of the army and navy."

"Unorganized labor," he said, "is entitled to all the rights demanded by organized labor."

Max Schmidt, proprietor of one of the large lithographing and printing establishments of San Francisco, told of the operation of the "open shop" principle in his establishment.

OBSTINACY OF UNIONITES.

One Man's Action Caused the Idleness of a Hundred and Thirty Thousand Working People.

That is an ingenious and doubtless benevolent offer which an American has made, as reported recently by our London correspondent, to end the trouble in the British cotton trade by bringing to this country the one workman over whom the trouble ostensibly arose, but its efficiency seems dubious, says the New York Tribune. For this one man was, as we understand it, not unique, but a representative of many who all had the same difference with their employers. The trouble began when workmen were directed by the foreman to keep their machinery clean. One man, to make a test case, refused, saying that that was not his work. Thereupon the manager of the mill dismissed 'im at a week's notice. The man's trade union demanded his reinstatement, insisting that the famous Brooklands agreement between the employers' and the workmen's association, which had been in force for years, did not specify that as work to be done by the men. The manager then proposed that the mill should be reopened as usual and that all hands should return to work, but that this one man should be employed at some other job about the mill until the question he had raised could be settled by negotiation or by arbitration. The trade union rejected that proposal and insisted that the dispute should be settled before the men returned to work or else that the dismissed man should be put back in his old place pending such settlement. The manager demurred, and the employers' association ordered the general lock-out which has now gone into effect.

It seems as though a more rational course might have been pursued for the avoidance of so costly and damaging an interference with business without any sacrifice of essential principle. It has the appearance of unwarrantable obstinacy to insist that hundreds of men shall remain idle and a great industry shall be at a standstill until a purely technical point, on which men may honestly differ, can be decided, or to object to a man's being temporarily assigned to some other work than that at which he is regularly engaged, though at the same pay until a legitimate difference of opinion concerning his regular work can be disposed of. There would not have been the slightest hardship for that one man in compliance with the manager's proposal, while great hardships for hundreds of his fellows would have been avoided. Uncond tional surrender is an admirable d
mand to make in some cases, but th really does not seem to have been fitting case for it.

As a result of that obstinacy, wh do we see? More than 130,000 men a idle. One of England's greatest i dustries is paralyzed. A million more people are put to want. A ben ficent agreement between labor a

The Investment

The investment yields 8 per cent. and better, paid in quarterly installments, advances of the rate of dividend being made from time to time, as fast as developments and earnings warrant. Thus the yield to early investors becomes considerable as time goes on. Then the selling price is also advancing, but only in keeping with the growing value of the assets, the rapid growth of Los Angeles and the rate of dividend. Shares now selling at $1.30 will advance to $1.40 a share January 2, 1911, and perhaps a year hence your investment will readily sell at $2.00 a share because of the improvements and the many homes that will be completed in the interval. BUSINESS GOOD FOR HOLIDAYS.

Crown City Owner Closing Out His Holdings.

Gothamite Buys Fine Home on North Marengo.

Wealthy Chicagoan to Sell Off Acreage Tract.

PASADENA, Dec. 17.—Realty transactions of the past week have been exceptionally good for the early Christmas season. H. T. Kendall, who has been one of the heavy property owners in the city, closed out considerable of his holdings and will reside on his beautiful orange grove in Riverside.

Kendall traded his residence at No. 1199 South Orange Grove avenue to Dr. W. K. Funderburg of Riverside for the Funderburg orange grove which is one of the best groves of that district. The consideration in the transaction was $150,000. In the trade Kendall also disposed of his one-fourth interest in Hotel Potter of Santa Barbara.

Kendall also sold seven and one-half acres of his orange grove at the corner of San Pasqual street and Allin avenue to D. S. Merwin for a cash consideration of $25,000. Merwin's purchase adjoins his twelve and one-half acres of ground and gives him a total of twenty acres, all of which fronts on San Pasqual street. Kendall's orange grove consisted of twenty-three acres, and therefore he still holds fifteen and one-half acres.

During the fore part of the week Marcus A. Hall sold his home place at No. 165 North Marengo avenue to George H. Hill of New York City. The consideration has been reported at $15,000. Mr. Hill has recently moved to Pasadena with his family and will occupy the property as a home. Mr. and Mrs. Hall will travel for a year in the Orient and on their return will live at "Rose Villa," which formerly belonged to L. V. Harkness and was known as the Harkness ranch.

Announcement has been made that M. Cochran Armour, an iron manufacturer of Evanston, Ill., will subdivide twenty acres of his holdings on the hills across the Arroyo Seco and place it on the market in one and two-acre tracts. The entire Armour property consists of seventy acres and he will retain fifty acres in his beautiful estate which he expects to improve as one of the show places of the Crown City. The Armours have spent several winters here and they are expected soon for the winter at which time it is believed he will get ready to start building operations. He has had plans made for a beautiful country home on the hills just west of Linda Vista bridge.

The announcement that Armour had made up his mind to subdivide twenty acres of his holdings came as a surprise because it was understood he intended to occupy the entire seventy acres, all of which would be highly improved with lawns and shrubbery.

The Frank C. Platt Company made a number of small sales of city property. They sold for W. L. Harkey the southeast corner of El Molino avenue and Elizabeth to J. T. Pike, consideration $800; for Ernest L. Vick, a lot at No. 1163 Evelyn place to E. C. Platt, consideration $700; two lots in Pasadena Heights from the Pasadena Heights Improvement Company to Matilda Freytag, consideration $2000; six-room cottage at No. 230 Garden street from C. H. Chell to F. C. Platt, consideration $2500.

Building permits for the first half of December totalled a little over $50,000, which is considered exceptionally good for this season of the year. Most of the permits taken out have been for moderate priced bungalows and cottages. A number of fine homes are being planned with a view of starting building operations during the winter, following the first of the new year.

MARKET IS STRONGER.

CONGREGATIONALISTS BUY SITE.

SOUTH PASADENA, Dec. 17.—Realty sales during the past week indicate a better market than has prevailed during the past several weeks. In addition to the sales actually closed, there are a number of excellent prospects in view which leads dealers to the belief that the coming winter will be a busy one. There is also a good demand for investment property.

The following sales have been reported: P. J. Dolan to J. W. Greene, 62x150 feet, improved with a ten-room house, large lawn and many fruit trees on Fremont avenue, between Hope and Magnolia, consideration $4500.

Mrs. Mary Stringfellow to J. Council of Chicago, 100x150 feet on Laurel street, between Fair Oaks avenue and Marengo, improved with a new, eight-room house, consideration not named. This property was purchased for a home.

Mrs. Fortuna Dazell of Highland Park, has purchased two sightly lots on Pasadena avenue near El Centro and will have a residence constructed to cost about $4000. George W. Witherell of Pasadena, has bought five lots and a residence on La France avenue, and will improve them.

H. Howry to Rev. Curtis Meserve, 50x155 feet, Fletcher avenue near Oak street, improved with seven-room bungalow, consideration $5500. Rev. Meserve bought this property for a home, also buying the lot adjoining.

Mrs. A. McFarland, to Oneonta Congregational Church, 165x200 feet on the corner of Oak and Fletcher avenues, consideration $6000. This site was bought for the building of a church at some future time.

M. H. Beard has let the contract for the construction of a five-room frame residence in the Hunt tract in the southwestern part of the city, the building to cost about $2000.

WHITTIER REALTY ACTIVE.

LEMON ACREAGE TRANSFERRED.

WHITTIER, Dec. 17.—Whittier real estate is changing hands rapidly this week. Many important sales have been made by the local real estate agents, and several are pending.

The firm of Baldwin & Bell report the following deals: Four lots of the Orchard Dale tract, consisting of twenty-one acres, set to 4-year walnuts, to C. A. Landreth, consideration, $16,800; 5¼ acres, to be planted to lemons, sold to W. B. Mallett; 4* acres, to be set to lemons, purchased by Baldwin & Bell.

J. Howard Johnson reports the sale of five acres of unimproved land in East Whittier, for C. F. Moore to the Murphy Oil Company, the consideration being $3600.

GETS VENTURA CONTRACT.

Plans for the proposed Polytechnic High School at Ventura are being prepared by Norman F. Marsh of this city. It is probable that the buildings, three in number, will be of reinforced concrete construction and of classic design. The structures provided for are a domestic science hall, administration building and science hall. About $90,000 will be expended for the buildings and equipment.

Beautiful Italian Villa at Foot of Sierras.

ITALIAN VILLA CHARMS VISITORS.

BEAUTIFUL FOOTHILL HOME HAS PICTURESQUE SETTING.

New Sierra Madre Mansion One of the "Show Places" of the Pacific Coast—House is Practically Fireproof—View From the Terraces Is Unsurpassed.

SIERRA MADRE, Dec. 17.—The landscape artist is engaged in putting the finishing touches to the formal ground setting of the beautiful new home of Miss T. H. Graham on Lima street. Many recent visitors to this town have proclaimed the place to be one of the most strikingly attractive on the Pacific Coast.

The house was planned by Robert D. Farquhar of Los Angeles. It is designed in the spirit of the Italian villa with certain ideas which seemed to the architect to suggest themselves as particularly in keeping with its picturesque setting and the demands of the Southland climate and traditions. The building is practically fireproof, the walls being of hollow tile and the floors of reinforced concrete. The roof is of red Spanish tile. The structure contains fourteen rooms.

A feature of the exterior treatment is an outside stairway leading to a second-story terrace, which extends across the entire front of the house. From this upstairs porch a magnificent view is obtainable of the entire San Gabriel Valley, the city of Pasadena and, on a clear day, of Santa Catalina Island.

The site of the place is admirably chosen, the house being set against the mountain side with a background of big eucalyptus trees. The grounds are 500 feet deep by 160 feet wide and are enclosed by a stone wall with an iron grill fence above it. The gates are in stone and ornamental iron work. A garage and stables in keeping with the house have been erected.

HOME BUILDERS ACTIVE.

New Homes on Boards and Local Architects Have Many Fine Draughtsmen are Busy.

Among the new residence projects of the first half of December may be mentioned the following, which are on the boards of local architectural offices: Architect B. Cooper Corbett is drawing plans for a three-story addition to the residence of M. S. Kornblum at Shatto place and Wilshire boulevard. The improvement will add about $6000 to the original cost of the place. The same architect has plans for a large frame house to be erected in Berkeley Square for O. A. Vickrey. The cost of the dwelling will be $12,000.

At Sixth street and Manhattan place N. J. Newton will build a nine-room house from plans drawn by F. M. Tyler. The same architect is preparing designs for a large frame residence to be erected on St. Andrews place, near Sixth. The structure will be of rustic exterior.

A contract has been let for the construction of a ten-room house for Mrs. I. L. Goodrich on Westmoreland, near Tenth. W. F. Thompson is the architect. Plans are being drawn by B. M. Morris for a two-story frame house to be erected by B. C. Kingsley on Wilton, near Second.

Needham & Geatherstonhaugh have plans for a six-room bungalow to be built for the California Bungalow Company. E. O. Blattner is having plans drawn by Scott Quintin for a bungalow on Vermont, near Jefferson. Palmer & McBurney have had designs prepared for an eight-room residence to be erected on Lomona avenue, near Hollywood avenue. H. M. Patterson is drawing plans for a seven-room house to be erected by J. W. Powell on Wilton drive, between Second and Third.

The contract has been awarded for the erection of a ten-room bungalow for the Hogan Company of Pasadena, at Pinehurst and El Molino avenues, Oak Knoll. The bungalow, plans for which were drawn by A. S. Heineman, will be 90x70 feet in size, of rustic exterior and beautifully finished inside.

YUCAIPA VALLEY SALES.

Representatives of the Redlands and Yucaipa Land Company report the following sales: R. J. Pendleton, $15,000; J. W. Howley, $1425; Mrs. F. Brazier, $2500; J. C. Baird, $1125; Grant Jenkins, $1428; William Baird, $1425; J. and H. Mathews, $2500; Alfred Redding, $3750; S. B. Clark, $2300, and William Kitto, $1250. Mr. Pendleton bought sixty acres just north of the townsite. He will plant his entire holdings to apples, reserving about five acres upon which he will at once begin the construction of a home. Mr. Redding will plant twenty-five acres to apples and potatoes.

IN THE EARTH.

Rare Minerals, Metallurgy and Chemistry.

To Correspondents.

This department is not conducted for pay. Its object is to convey reliable information of interest and value to the public, and it is not for the private benefit of any miner, collector, speculator or prospector. Correspondents are particularly cautioned to take careful note of the statements and investigations contained in the paragraphs below:

(1.) Specimens must be small and bear a tag giving name and address of sender and the general—not the exact—locality from whence the specimen was taken, also the name of it as nearly as the sender knows. Send, also, with the specimen a clearly-written letter briefly describing the find and what the finder wishes done with it. The letter must be properly dated and plainly signed.

Letter and specimen must be in one package, not in separate inclosure.

(2.)—No attention will be paid to anonymous letters or to letters signed merely with initials.

(3.) No examinations of samples or specimens will be made in cases where The Times may decide that the specimen and inquiry are not of public interest. This office does not undertake to perform the work of an assay office.

(4.) Inquiries relative to matters of purely personal interest will not be answered.

(5.) When no response to an inquiry made or specimens sent appears in these columns, the inquirer will understand that his inquiry does not come within the purview of this department.

(6.) It is impossible to return specimens, as they must necessarily be destroyed or impaired in the process of analysis.

Essonite.

NEWHALL, Nov. 1.—[To the Editor of The Times.] This sample was found by me in a pocket formation of about ten pounds of scattered crystals (like the samples) in a wash some nine miles east of Newhall. It looks like a zinc crystallization of some kind to me. Please inform me in the "In the Earth" column what the mineral is. Will you kindly give a short description of it? Has it any value?

Yours very truly,

G. S.

ANSWER: Essonite, the mineral represented by the sample, is known also as cinnamon stone.

It is a variety of lime-garnet of a handsome cinnamon brown color, and usually occurs in masses which are full of fissures.

Cinnamon stone is seldom transparent (the sample is transparent); of vitreous resinous luster; flat conchoidal fracture; hardness slightly over 7 and scratches quartz slightly. Specific gravity 3.7. Before the blowpipe sputters and fuses to a greenish-black glass; a transparent glass (slightly colored with iron) is readily obtained in the blow-pipe flame when some of the powdered gem is fused with borax.

Most of the "hyacinths" obtained from jewelers are transparent essonite. The sample is of value in the jewelry trade, and is always in demand for mineralogical collections.

Morganite.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 1.—[To the Editor of The Times.] I am sending you some crystals from the Tin Pan claims fifteen miles from Beaumont. My guess is quartz crystals. Am I right? Thanking you for an answer in "In the Earth."

Yours truly,

J. E. T.

ANSWER: The samples scratch quartz easily; they are 8 in the scale of hardness, and of specific gravity 2.68. Beryl is a variety of emerald. Your samples represent a fine base for abrasive powders and a source of the element glucinum.

"Pebbles of quartz are sometimes taken for beryls and vice versa. The two may be distinguished by observing that the crystals of beryl are striated longitudinally, while those of quartz are striated transversely, or at right angles to the axis of the prism. Moreover, the fracture of the two minerals is widely different, for the beryl breaks in smooth plains, the faces of which are at right angles to the axis of the crystals, whereas the fractured surface of quartz is invariably concloidal."

One of the latest—and at the same time newest—of minerals is Morganite, discovered some ten months ago near Mount Bitz, Madagascar. It is a variety of beryl that differs from other beryls in that it glows an intense cherry-red when exposed to the X- (Roentgen) rays. Morganite is found in perfectly flawless gems "weighing from one to more than one hundred carets each."

The mineral is named after the great New York financier, Mr. J. P. Morgan. "Mr. Morgan has been of great benefit to the arts and sciences, and especially so when in 1893, 1900 and 1902 he presented to the American Museum of Natural History, and to the Museum of Natural History in Paris, magificent collections of precious stones and minerals."

The New York Academy of Sciences on Monday evening, December 5, voted to name this variety of beryl after Mr. Morgan; the name was proposed by Dr. George F. Kunz, chairman of the Academy's geological section.

Beryl, such as Morganite, will probably be obtained from near Pala, California.

Variolite.

ZACATECAS (Mex.) Nov. 2. [To the Editor of The Times:] In this capsule-box please find a dark-green rock which I take to be a species of feldspathic rock.

It occurs, in more or less quantity, on some rock formations located about seven miles east of Zacatecas, Mex.

Has this mineral a mineralogical name? If so, please describe it in your columns.

Yours fraternally, "M. D."

Answer: Glad to hear from you. The mineral is named at the subheading, and "It is a dark-green variety of feldspar, containing disseminated spherules or globular particles of a paler color."

Variolite is orbicular rock speckled with varying degrees of gray colors, "the brilliancy of variolite is increased by giving it a hard polish . . . The most remarkable circumstance attending this stone (whence probably it derives its name) is, that in weathered specimens the spots, which consist of a black point surrounded by a brown ring, stand out from the surface of the stone, showing that the influences which had produced the erosion of the base of the rock, had not been able to produce an equal effect on the harder portions of it."

The dark-green variety of Variolite is the most usually found, and yet, it occurs in white, blue and other colors of intermediate tints; the spherules also vary in color.

"In some varieties the black points are surrounded with a white ring, while in others they have, in addition, a second whitish circle, which gives it exactly the appearance of a small onyx. These singularities, coupled with the remarkable appearance of the stone, caused it to be believed by the vulgar, in times of greater ignorance than the present, to be an effectual remedy for small-pox, whence the name, perhaps(variola, small-pox).

Anhydrite and Topaz.

CALIENTE (Nev.) Nov. 2.—[To the Editor of The Times.] Is sample No. 1 dolomite? Please name No. 2 crystal and rock. No. 1 from near St. George, Utah. No. 2 from near Cedar City, Utah. Thanking you in advance for some information on the samples.

Yours respectfully,

T. D. F.

ANSWER. Sample No. 1 is not dolomite; it is a variety of gypsum (anhydrite) lacking the water of crystallization content found in ordinary gypsum. No. 2 is a matrix, or rock trachyte, carrying topaz crystals.

Yellow Scheelite.

TUCSON (Ariz.) Nov. 3.—[To the Editor of The Times.] I am unable to tell whether the samples in tobacco sack are ores of tungsten or lead carbonate ore. Please name the samples in your "In The Earth." Sample from a claim in the "Old Hat" district of Arizona.

Yours truly, E. L. (Prospector.)

ANSWER. The samples are made up of a low grade scheelite (calcium tungstate.)

Not Kaolin.

RIVERSIDE, Nov. 3.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Taking a three days' trip some twenty-two miles east of Riverside I located ledges of material such as you will find in tin box with this. No. 1 I take to be a high grade kaolin, judging from its color and "pearly scales." No. 2. Are the black particles in this rock tin ore? No. 3 sample is I do not know what. Please refer the samples for tests, etc., to your "In The Earth" column, and oblige me with a reply. Yours gratefully,

D. B. A.

ANSWER. Glad to hear from you. No. 1 is tremolite, a variety of hornblende, and in formula silicate of lime and magnesia, chiefly. The blackish particles in No. 2 are magnetic iron ore, with absolutely no tin present. No. 3 is the so-called "Pagoda stone" of the Chinese, a dark brown limestone, containing orthoceratites. "These when polished and framed are held in great estimation in China as ornaments for state apartments. They are said to be common at Yunnan. The Chinese name of 'Pagoda stone' owes its origin to the belief that the orthoveratites (which show, in their alveoles and in the septa passing through them, a certain resemblance to a pagoda) have formed underground in places where the towers of the buildings in question have cast their shadows on the surface of the ground."

Aventurine Quartz.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 3.—[To the Editor of The Times.] This rock I believed to be free gold in quartz, but I know better now. It comes from a mall lead near Elizabeth Lake, California, and near a deposit of gypsum. Not only for me, but for others who may run across such rock please describe it in "In the Earth" column. I had it assayed for gold. Results, "No gold present." Yours respectfully,

H. C. T.

ANSWER. Do not be too hard on one of the prettiest minerals in existance. If you had used the point of your pocketknife on one of the many "gold-looking" specks, you would have observed bright, yellow mica, and the assay for gold would probably have been abandoned.

The sample is a vitreous variety of quartz, translucent and carrying minute bright yellow spangles of mica. There is a variety of quartz containing metallic copper crystallized in the form of flat segments of a regular octahedron, known as aventurine."

We would rather confine the term aventurine to two rocks: (1) Quartz, carrying yellow-mica inclusions and (2) feldspar with yellow spangled mica interspersed throughout the mass.

So-called "artificial aventurine" may be obtained as follows: "Heat together for twelve hours a mixture of 300 parts of pounded glass, forty parts of protoxide of copper and eighty parts of oxide of iron and afterwards allow the mixture to cool very slowly. In fact the name for the natural substance has been borrowed from that of the artificial gold spangled glass, which in its turn originated in the circumstance of a workman having accidentally (par adventure) let fall some brass filings into a pot of melted glass, which he thereupon called Aventurine; and mineralogists subsequently adopted the term, and applied it to the natural substance, an imitation of which had been thus obtained by accident."

It is well to note, however, that brass filings are in part zinc, and brass filings are not called for in the above formula, probably, however, the zinc contents might be greatly volatized in the twelve-hour heat, especially so, if the heat were high enough.

Siderite and Quartz.

MARICOPA (Ariz.) Nov. 3.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The samples of minerals, wrapped and numbered, herein, all come from within thirty miles of Maricopa, and the claims are open for location on government land. Sample No. 1 comes from a lead about two feet wide and at eight-foot depth. No. 2 was taken from a stringer at ten feet deep. I believe No. 2 is wolframite. No. 3 is from a parallel lead 55 feet east of the locality where 1 and 2 come from; is the red stuff in this sample cinnabar? No. 4, what is this please? No. 5 I claim is topaz and comes in small bunches near sample No. 2. Thanking you for your trouble in helping me out in the past and expecting an answer in "In the Earth." Yours truly,

MRS. B. T."

ANSWER: Glad to hear from you. No. 1 is siderite (impure carbonate of iron.) No. 2 carries no tungstic acid whatsoever, it is bothryoidal limonite (an oxide of iron.) No. 3 is impure feldspar (variety orthoclase) with Indian war paint) interspersed throughout the mass with no cinnabar present. Sample No. 4 is crystalized calcite (carbonate of lime,) and No. 5 is a clear, pellucid quartz crystal.

Fluorite.

SAN BERNARDINO, Nov. 3.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Please give me the mineralogical name of this blue-white rock from near San Bernardino. Oblige.

D. S.

Realgar and Olivin.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 4.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I am mailing you today three samples of ore from three claims owned by me in Southern Utah. Sample No. 1 is found with gouge matter I am at a loss to know what this red oxide is; is it quicksilver ore? It is from a depth of eighty-six feet in a shaft fourteen miles from Milford, Utah. What is the yellow-green rock? It comes from near the Old Hickory mine, about six miles from Milford, this sample I mark on its wrapper No. 2 and it may be vanadium. No. 3 is from a claim four miles east of Beaver, Utah, from a narrow gouge at breast of tunnel, and in forty feet from the mouth.

Thanking you in advance for such information as you see fit to give me in your valued columns. Yours respectfully,

J. L. F.

ANSWER: Sample No. 1 is not quicksilver ore. It belongs to the arsenicum group, and is known, in mineralogy as realgar: Of prismatic crystal; "streaked longitudinally and

SNOW-CAPPED PEAKS GRACE MOTOR SALON.

Mighty Cascade of Rocks Towers Above Limpid Stream Which Is to Flow Through Heart of Wonderland Where Two Hundred Licensed Motor Cars, Gems of the Trade, Are Exhibited.

SURPASSING in scenic beauty anything of the kind ever held in the West, the automobile show at Fiesta Park, to be given under the auspices of the Licensed Automobile Dealers' Association, of Los Angeles promises to be the event of motordom. The opening on Saturday night, Christmas Eve, is to be memorable. The snow storm at the entrance will be only a taste of the grandeur reserved for the interior.

Already a snug fortune has been spent on the display under the mammoth tent at Fiesta Park. It has cost $25,000 thus far to make the exhibit a record breaker. The cascades and waterfalls, with the pool and water lilies are to be surrounded by ferns and potted plants, which will resemble a wonderland of beauty.

More than 100,000 square feet of canvas has been stretched over the 90,000 feet of floor space where the elite of the auto world are to be housed for a week. These cars to cost more than a million dollars, are to be set in a gem which should outshine all others. The late model motor cars are to be the pearls of great and low price to be shown to enthusiastic throngs.

The licensed automobile show, which will culminate motordom's social gayety in crowning brilliancy during Christmas week, already is assured a record-breaking attendance. A charming bit of the marvelous scenery of the California sierras is being reconstructed in nature's own tints.

FROSTY PEAKS.

From snow-capped peaks in the dim distance a rollicking mountain stream will wend its way tortuously down a barranca of rainbow-tinted rocks. Concealed by a projecting crag, the stream suddenly will burst into the redwood flat in which the spectator is standing, and then will plunge riotously down a great cascade of natural rock to a deep and glistening pool; checking its mad descent momentarily, it will flow merrily on between ferngrown, mossy banks under the canopy of the great conifers and past the spectator's feet to a miniature lake at the entrance.

The cascade, over which the stream enters the tent, will be faced in natural canyon rock and will rise twelve feet high at the Twelfth-street end of the park in full view of the spectator entering. Dripping veils of real moss will cling to the rocks, which will be surrounded by banks of real ferns. From nooks in the rocks and the banks, tiny shrubs and coniferous trees will rise. As the stream, which will flow 1800 gallons of water a minute, makes its twelve-foot plunge over the cascade, it will be caught in a deep pool in such a manner as to prevent the spray from showering over spectators who might come to near. The stream will leave the pool over a tiny cataract to bubble merrily among the trees.

In its length of 400 feet, the stream will be crossed by six rustic bridges. More than two carloads of natural rock will be used in constructing the cascade and laying the bed of the stream, which will be based in cement. The water will be raised to the brink of the cascade by a giant electric centrifugal pump, and will flow by gravity to the lake at the entrance.

In its route among the trees, whose branches will overhang the shiny motor cars, the streams will pass through dells of rock and greenery. Fifteen hundred growing ferns and a vast number of small trees and plants will be utilized in the display.

REAL FROGS.

Yucca lilies are to float on the lake at the entrance, which also will be fringed with ferns and grasses. The woodland scene in which the cars will be displayed will be exactly natural in every way. No detail of a mountain river even to the tiny frogs, which will pipe a welcome to the visitors, has been overlooked. And it will be a contented piping, too, as you will say when you see our finished work.

Every inch of available space for exhibits has been sold and more readily could be disposed of by the dealers if it was to be had. The 200 models of cars entered will include all of the popular models of the 1911 season, the motor cars licensed under the Selden patent.

Cars that have attained pre-eminence through road performance or in stock speed trials will be found at the license show. The latest words in motor fittings and accessories also will be found at the show, including all the motor-car findings that fashion had decreed proper in the coming season.

For the first time, opportunity will be afforded business men to compare competitively the newest types of motor commercial vehicles in the commercial annex to the show, which in itself will be a feature display. For months the exhibitors have been busy selecting and making ready their displays for the licensed show. Many novel features have been prepared by individual dealers, announcement of which will be made later.

The display of pleasure cars requires 90,000 feet of floor space and the commercial annex, where the motor trucks are to be shown, an additional 10,000 square feet. The floor is the largest in area built in Southern California. This vast floor is to be carpeted with burlap and canvas. The exhibits will be carpeted to represent greensward and the aisles will be white.

Opening at the height of the holiday season, the show will afford rare entertainment and instruction to winter visitors from the East in the city and nearby towns as well. In the giant sequoias which will canopy the glistening motor cars, nature will provide a Yuletide atmosphere and setting that cannot be excelled.

A marvelous Christmas tree, rising fifty-two feet from an island in the mountain stream, will furnish a fitting centerpiece for the holiday display of the elite of motor vehicles.

The following well-known makes of motors, each in a variety of models aggregating more than 200 cars, will be exhibited only at the show of li-

SANTA PAULA ROAD RACE.

Main Streets Given Over to Automobile Contest Which Claims Interest of Many Motorists.

SANTA PAULA, Dec. 17.—This city enjoyed the thrills of a road race yesterday, cars rushed right through its main street a distance of a mile and a tenth. The town is simply automobile mad and everybody is talking about it. The trustees at their last meeting gave permission for the race to be held and it was pulled off along the business thoroughfare between 2:30 and 4 p. m.

The street was closed to traffic and remained so until the races were finished. The main race was an event for big machines, free for all, in which twelve cars entered, the prize was a loving cup donated by a prominent jeweler. There was a Baby Reo race in which four machines participated and a Buick special race.

The Mayor of the town participated in the big race and gave a prize of fifty gallons of gasoline to the winner. Another interesting race came at the close, when the big machines entered in a handicap with the winner in the small machine races.

One of the larger machines is a fifty-horse-power affair which was barred unless a proper competitor could be found and the sports of Santa Paula scoured the county for a machine to pit against this monster. Santa Paula has been talking of nothing else for days but this race.

CHRISTMAS WEEK TENNIS.

Tourney on Mt. Washington Is to Consist of Singles So Contests Can Be Finished.

The work of putting the courts in shape for the tennis tournament to be held on Mt. Washington December 29, 30 and 31 is finished and the racquet wielders who contemplate entering the tourney are invited to try them out any day this week.

It was the intention of the management to limit the entries to high school and college players, but because of the number of others who wish to enter the contest, a free-for-all class will be arranged, in which a few of the students intend also to play.

The promoters are making special preparations for the affair and claim they are going to do all that is possible for the comfort of the players and the spectators during the tourney. The schedule of the cars on the inclined railway that connects the courts with the city line will be changed so that the patrons will have no disagreeable delays.

Singles only will be played, so as to allow a large number of entrants and give all the time that is required. In some of the three-day tourneys held in the South, in which both singles and doubles are played, the contestants have been forced to rush their matches in order to get through on time.

The entries are to close December 20, after which time the courts will be open only to those who have definitely decided to participate in the tournament. Pomona, U.S.C., Polytechnic High School, Throop and the Thacher Preparatory School have informed the management that they will be represented in the tourney.

TRUCKS SAVE MONEY.

A large percentage of the added cost of living is due to the unnecessary cost of trucking with horses. Charles E. Stone, sales manager of the Alden Sampson Manufacturing Company, makers of the Sampson motor trucks, says that $156,000,000 is expended annually in New York on trucking alone, to say nothing of the wear and tear on pavements and the expense of keeping them clean. New York has 130,000 horses and over half of them are hauling merchandise. Mr. Stone says that the substitution of a large number of these horses with motor trucks will save $18,000,000 to $20,000,000 a year.

"Pat" Wheelan claims to have all of the teams signed up which are to participate in the football carnival December 26. The merits of Rugby are to be displayed by a picked team from the L. A. High School and a fifteen from Polytechnic; the soccer contest is to be between the Rangers and the Thistles; the old-style intercollegiate game will be exhibited by ex-St. Vincent players and an Indian team composed of former players of the Sherman Institute, while the modern American game is to be played by the Throop prep team and an eleven from the Southern California Athletic Club.

The soccer enthusiasts are eager to see the clash between the Rangers and the Thistles, as there is much bad blood on both sides. The last time the teams met there were two fights between the opposing players and several conflicts were narrowly averted. The players of the teams are mostly Scotch and English and they seem to possess very fiery tempers. If a player does anything contrary to the rules there is generally some one on the opposing side that takes it upon himself to call the offender to time and if the latter happens not to be in the right mood he is not slow in swinging on the self-appointed referee.

There are many former British subjects in the city that are anxious that soccer shall become popular here and some of them are doing all that is possible to get the players to be in the best shape possible for the coming game. The men, themselves, realize that their style of football is on trial and intend to make the best showing of which they are capable. Both the teams are anxious to display the fine points of their game and it is likely those who have seen soccer played in Europe will have an opportunity to see a contest that will compare well with the game as it is played abroad.

INDIANS CONFIDENT.

The Sherman Indians have not played football for two years. When in the game they were the most formidable aggregation that appeared on the gridirons of Southern California and composed the most popular team in this end of the State. The old-style American game, in which they are to meet an eleven of former St. Vincent players, is just to their liking. The revised game does not seem to fit the Indian frame of mind. The Carlisle braves or the Haskell Institute red

NEW PLAN IN VIEW.

Director of Y.M.C.A. Will Give All Handball Players a Chance to Perform.

Physical Director Reynolds at the local Y. M. C. A. has adopted a new method for making up his basketball schedule this year. In the past the Spartans and Wasps and teams which have been playing together have entered the league and the large number of gym men and mediocre players who desire to play the game have had no chance to compete successfully.

This year all of the players will be divided up into fives, regardless of their affiliation with previous teams, in an effort to get them all well matched. After the regular series of games the old teams can get together and organize their championship teams. There was some objection to this method on the part of old players as they felt that they would be at a handicap latter in the season when they went up against outside teams, but according to the policy of the department that is not so important as the developing of a large number of men in that form of exercise.

Ohio Uni Ambitious.

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—The Ohio State University has opened negotiations to join the "Big Eight" conference and take the place of Michigan, if the latter continues to refuse to re-enter the western body, and once more restore the name to the "Big Nine." Dr. Evans, of the athletic board of Ohio State, has communicated with the conference faculty members and it is said the application of Ohio will be considered.

Taps.

BRIGHT LIGHTS OF SHRINE DIMMED AND LUSTERLESS.

Chime of a Hundred Horns Announces Finish of Classic Which Has Attracted Thousands to the Mecca of Motordom—Signals Sound Across Wide Hall and the Automobile Exhibit Goes Down Into History.

TAPS were sounded last night and the bright lights of the Shrine Auditorium were dimmed. The chime of a hundred different horns, and the blatant notes of the truck signals sounded across the wide hall as the automobile show, under the auspices of the Los Angeles Motor Car Dealers' Association, came to a close. It was a fitting finish to one of the most successful exhibits of motor cars ever held in this city.

The final day of the Shrine show was a hummer. The attendance records were broken again and the management, when totaling its receipts for the week, celebrated the occasion with a cheer. Every bill was paid and there was something left over to be divided among the exhibitors. There is not a dealer who took part in the show who did not make at least one sale.

From early morning until late last night the crowd enjoyed itself with the last look at the tinted beauties. Comparisons were made, but no criticisms were heard. The show was conducted along lines that pleased the crowds and the Shrine exhibit will go down into history as one of the most successful ever held in this city.

One million dollars' worth of automobiles were grouped for a week beneath the brightest of lights. Dealers showed their confidence in the late models by subjecting them to the scrutiny of those who are critical. This desire on the part of the exhibitors to allow the cars to be carefully gone over made a hit with the crowd.

There was nothing during the entire week to mar the harmony of the exhibit. The high and the low-priced cars all received a share in the homage paid by a throng which has smashed all attendance marks since the first show was given.

This was not all. The sales record was broken last night. The cars that have been sold will total thousands of dollars and business is better now than it has ever been before. The dealers closed the show with all expenses paid and with a large number of sales to be marked down on the cash balance.

Situation to Date.

AUTO RACING HAS THRILLS.

Sentiment Favors Sport on Roads and Tracks.

A.A.A. Sanction Question Must Soon Be Settled.

Speed Events Must Be Governed by Competent Board.

BY BERT C. SMITH.

Sentiment in favor of automobile road racing has been expressed. Thousands of people saw the meet at Ascot Park and tens of thousands saw the road race at Santa Monica. The future of motor car racing is assured. The question of the sanction of the Automobile Association of America for the many meets has not been settled.

Barney Oldfield held the first outlaw meet at Ascot Park Sunday. Not one-tenth of the spectators who saw the speed king smash the Pacific Coast record realized that history was being made at the first big unsanctioned meet ever held in the West since the A.A.A. has been a governing body.

The crowd was with Oldfield, but every autoist realizes that racing must be controlled. Whether the A.A.A., or some other association chosen by those who take part in the sport, has the making of the rules, it matters little. Now that the public has shown a desire to attend the auto races, however, the question of a sanction must soon be settled, as outlaw meets may be held all over the West.

Eastern autoists, at least, realize what an important place the West is occupying. Since the Santa Monica road race, when all American records were smashed, the East has paused long enough to take note of events in and near Los Angeles. As a result, every meet which is pulled off this side of the Rocky Mountains is to be watched carefully by the men in the East.

SPEED PILOTS.

The factories are taking keener interest in the sport out here. The great racing pilots are tuning their cars for possible conquests on the Pacific Coast. When the A.A.A. arranges its racing circuit this city will be one of the important points which is to be given consideration. Los Angeles has taken its merited place.

The outlaw question is an aggravated one. Every man who raced with Oldfield Sunday loses his A.A.A. card. Every man who takes part in a meet with Barney risks, not only his standing with the governing body, but his chances of reinstatement.

Racing drivers are asking the question as to which is best, to become outlaws or to continue as registered drivers. An enjoyable duck hunt kept one man off the track Sunday and saved him a term of suspension from the A.A.A.

Joe Nikrent, the man who drove the Knox into world honors and who has become a factor in the racing situation, decided to race with Oldfield Sunday. Rain the first day of the meet sent Nikrent away with his gun ready to kill on the duck ponds. Had the sun shone brightly, he would have remained and would have taken part in a race with Oldfield that would have proved interesting and would have lost him his A. A. A. card.

Another who became an outlaw that day is Ben Kerscher, who has worshipped Oldfield for years and who has driven against Barney in many races. Kerscher is an outlaw and may never be reinstated. He drives the 100-horse-power Darracq and is always a sensation. Benny did not drive as fast as usual on Sunday. He may have lost some of his nerve when the Apperson "Jackrabbit" rolled over him at Santa Monica.

Should Oldfield go to Australia, every man who meets him there and then comes back to race must settle matters with the Contest Board, of which Samuel Butler is chairman. Just what it means to be suspended indefinitely Oldfield has shown to his many admirers. He can draw thousands with or without a sanction. How about the lesser lights?

Drivers who do not hold the position that Oldfield occupies must be more careful. There is every reason to believe the speed king will be reinstated ere long, though Bill Pickens says no. In fact, statements from three members of the Contest Board can be used to prove that possibly at the next meeting Barney will be brought back into the fold.

William E. Metzger, one of the members of the board, is a close friend of Oldfield's. He wanted to see Barney while he was out here. He stated that if Barney shows the fair spirit which the speed champion has shown in the past, Oldfield will be reinstated.

This statement is backed up by Fred Wagner, official starter of the A.A.A. and Samuel Stevens, referee. Both are members of the Contest Board and both are friends of Oldfield. This should be sufficient, it seems, to assure Oldfield his reinstatement in the near future.

In the meantime what must Barney do? He can enter race meets, drive against records and show his skill to the public without jeopardizing his chances with the A.A.A. That concern is not to be baited, however. If Oldfield should refuse to listen to the luring of his friends who wish him to be reinstated, he may remain an outlaw.

Should Barney remain outside the ranks there are others who will join him. James Ryall, who figured in the last Santa Monica road race, has decided. He wishes to drive against Oldfield in a meet in this city. Unless Barney is reinstated soon, Jimmy may become an outlaw. Ryall is fair and square, has a card with Sam Butler's name on it, but he delights to take part in a fast race. He wants to meet Oldfield.

There are others. Bert Dingley is one of the greatest drawing cards in the country. Bert wants to race Oldfield. If Barney remains outside the bars much longer Dingley will consent to race him. Already the matter has been taken up and Bert has decided what course to pursue. It would not be surprising to see Oldfield and Dingley sign for a circuit of races in the West that would draw large crowds.

With his Pope-Hartford stripped for speed Dingley would like to try his chances against the Knox or perhaps even against the Benz. If he should race without a change in the attitude of the Contest Board he becomes an outlaw.

Harris Hanshue, who won the Santa Monica road race two years ago, is tuning up the Apperson "Jackrabbit." He would be a great drawing card in an outlaw meet. "Han" is undecided as to what he is to do in the future. He is well again.

HEMPEL'S OFFER.

With the public ready to attend fast road and track meets the problem of the A.A.A. sanction must be settled by other drivers than Oldfield. Unsanctioned meets may be held, but the public, it is believed, would rather see the races governed by a competent racing board.

Walter Hempel, who is a promotor favored by the A.A.A., has already been approached on an interesting proposition. He is manager for the Motordrome, the fastest circular track in the world, and he has been asked if an outlaw meet could be held on the boards. The proposition is to match Oldfield and De Palma, the two greatest racing drivers now before the public. Hempel has not given his answer.

Though he is a friend of Oldfield, Hempel must hesitate before he steps outside the ranks. Should he decide to hold an outlaw meet he could have, it is stated, such men as Lewis Strang, Ralph de Palma, and at least four local drivers who have figured before the public, with Barney Oldfield as the bright star of the meet.

When fourth-rate Johnny Thompson can draw 15,000 fight bugs in Australia, one is inclined to think that the fellows over there would not know a fight if they should see one. If you know anything about geometrical progression, Langford and Kaufman should draw 7,000,000 persons over there. Cyclone would have to pay 1500 persons to get them to watch him fight here.

GLIDDEN TROPHY.

For the first time in the history of the motor car industry, the much-coveted Glidden Tour trophy is being exhibited in the West. The Glidden trophy, which has been competed for by the foremost cars of America during the past five years, and which is won this year by the Chalmers, has been sent to Los Angeles and is now on exhibition in the window of the Western Motor Car Company.

This contest emblem has been sought by all the automobile shows held in the United States. Realizing the importance of the first licensed show of the 1911 season, the Chalmers holders of the trophy expressed it to Los Angeles for exhibition at the license exhibit.

The trophy stands three feet high, is solid silver and the design is two winged figures supporting on their shoulders a large enameled silver globe.

Never before has this been won by a low-priced car. This trophy will be returned Saturday, at the close of the show, by express direct to New York where the exhibitors of the Madison Square Garden are anxiously awaiting its appearance.

The commercial exhibit will be one of the most popular features of the show. The cars to be exhibited are the very latest types and will cover a wide range of vehicles designed for special purposes in every branch of the commercial world. The machines are all licensed under the Selden patent, the motor cars which have stood highest in economy and efficiency tests all over the country.

The commercial annex will be located on the Grand avenue side of the park and will be reached by a tunnel from the main show in the stadium. Almost ten thousand square feet has been set aside for the display of commercial cars. All the leading types of cars, from the giant six-ton trucks, which move 12,000-pound loads, to the smallest of motor delivery wagons, will be seen.

Among the entries are the Packard trucks, the Western Motor Car Company; Alden Sampson, United Motor Los Angeles Company; Studebaker, Lord Motor Car Company; Autocar, M. S. Bulkley; Detroit Electric, California Electric Garage Company; Jackson, Charles H. Thompson; Buick, Howard Auto Company; Knox, Doerr-Brown Company, and the Mack, Mack Brothers Motorcar Company.

FLANDERS TWENTIES MOVING.

Coupes Attracting Attention All Over the Country, as These Cars Appeal to the Women.

Deliveries of the first Flanders "20" coupes have been made to dealers in the large cities of the country during the past week by the E.-M.-F. Company of Detroit. The cars are now coming through at a rapid rate in characteristic E.-M.-F. Company style.

The most recent addition to the department of inclosed-body motor cars is extremely natty in appearance. The interior and exterior electric lights, nickeled hardware, leather and broadcloth upholstery, wide doors and adjustable plate-glass windows, combine to make the Flanders "20" coupe desirable, particularly to physicians, business men who make a point of driving daily, and society women to whom the problem of attire frequently makes winter motoring a matter of difficulty.

The coupe is mounted on the standard Flanders "20" chassis, and costs, complete, $975.

The first car of the model was delivered to the E.-M.-F. Company's New York representative—Studebaker Bros. —and was almost immediately sold to Miss Lulu Glaser, the star of "The Girl and the Kaiser" company, who is using it daily in her trips between her home and the theater.

SPEEDS HIS LOZIER.

Youth Who Admires Teddy Tetzlaff Skims Over the Roads Near the Soldiers' Home.

SANTA MONICA, Dec. 17.—Jesse Lankston, the fifteen-year-old grandson of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Lankston of this city, is a boy of inventive ideas, and a great admirer of Teddy Tetzlaff and the Lozier. He has christened his last invention, a perfect miniature automobile which has taken him two years to perfect, the "Lozier."

In this auto Jesse may be seen almost any day, to the admiration of the youngsters as well as older persons, riding down the long road from the Soldiers' Home or giving his veteran grandfather a ride.

He expects to graduate from the Academy of the Holy Names this year, and will devote all his energies to becoming a civil engineer.

PRETTY WOMAN AT WHEEL.

Bride Drives the Ford at Terrific Speed and Wins Escondido-San Diego Automobile Record.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ESCONDIDO, Dec. 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.]—Mrs. Earl Schnack, weighing 117 pounds, a twenty-one year old bride of a couple of years, is the most expert woman automobilist in the Escondido country. Her husband is in the garage business and is the local agent for the Ford machines. In this work Mrs. Schnack is his first assistant, both in the demonstrating of machines and in the livery business. She takes to the automobile business like a duck takes to water.

This dainty bride is not afraid to tackle any stretch of road in the county. Although she has been driving for several months she has never met with an accident. At present she holds the local automobile record to San Diego—one hour and twenty-three minutes. She makes trips to Oceanside with three passengers in the car in one hour and five minutes, twenty-two miles, over a rough road. Her ambition now is to go to Los Angeles alone and bring down a new car, the run being 160 miles.

MOVES ENTIRE FAMILY.

An interesting example of economy in applying the use of motor trucks to domestic service is furnished by the Alden Sampson Manufacturing Company, of Detroit, Mich. A four ton Sampson recently moved the furniture and belongings of a family in Ypsilanti, Mich., to Detroit, a distance of thirty-two miles, over sandy roads, in darkness, requiring only three hours and five minutes for the run. The costs were: driver's salary $2.75; helper's $2; fuel $1.15; allowing $1.50 as pro rata for depreciation, insurance and rent, the total would be $7.50. Freight would have been twice as much, and the horse cost three times as much. The furniture arrived

MANY HUDSONS BEING SOLD.

Great Market in West for This Popular Type of Car Says Factory Man Who Pays Us Visit.

After an 8000-mile trip through the far West, Sales Manager E. C. Morse of the Hudson Motor Car Company has reported to the officers of that concern that westerners have taken up the automobile as the most useful and beneficial factor in their daily lives. Morse gives it as his opinion that the motor car's future in the West, judging from the increase in sales of Hudson cars over last year, is one of the most promising conditions in the automobile industry.

"It is going to be a lot easier to sell Hudson cars this coming year than to deliver them," said Morse in speaking of the enthusiasm the West is showing over Howard E. Coffin's latest design, the "33."

"There are already more cars in the Pacific Coast territory than any other part of the United States in proportion to the population. But they are going to take 1100 Hudsons on the Coast if we can give them that many.

"All through the West the automobile is regarded as the most useful agency in frontier life. It is a necessity in a land of such great distance as the West and that is exactly how the people out there regard it. Every ranch has its motor car if the ranch is up-to-date and the manifold uses to which they put it are exceedingly interesting. The auto does half the work on those immense ranches.

"By devouring space, the automobile has turned ranches from places of desolation into most agreeable abodes for living. Loneliness was ever the drawback to ranch life. The automobile brought a change. Week-end parties, made possible by the motor car, are the most charming feature of ranch life now."

DEMAND FOR CARS GREAT.

Manager of Studebaker Local Branch Tells Some Interesting News of the E.M.F. and Flanders.

L. J. Ollier, manager for Studebaker Bros. Company of Los Angeles, has just received advice from Detroit that the factory will work day and night. Owing to the increased demand for the $100 E-M-F "Thirty" cars, the directors decided to increase the output for December, January, February and March, by 3000 cars, bringing it up to 7000 cars for these four months. In order to accomplish this, the various plants in Detroit, Pontiac and Port Huron will be worked day and night, and the manufacturing forces will be increased by 1000 men, which is a gratifying state of affairs at this time of the year.

The E-M-F company has 1500 direct agents in the United States, not including subsidiary dealers, and the reports from them indicate that in part the increased demand for the cars is due to the "Thirty" roadster, with which Frank Witt has been doing sensational performances through the South, and to the demi-tonneau, which has attracted much attention. Both these models will be ready for delivery the latter part of December. The annual inventory will be taken from December 15 to 25, and after the latter date the force at plant No. 3, where the Flanders "Twenty" is manufactured, will also be increased.

"The status of the automobile industry from our viewpoint is gratifying," writes President Flanders. "We had prepared for a delivery output of 1000 cars a month for the next four months, which in itself is unusual for the winter months, but the orders for cars have forced us to increase the output. With our equipment this is not a difficult matter. It simply means more work and more labor.

"The demand has been created by the 1911 "Thirty" model at the $1000 price, which, in my judgment, cannot be approached, and which sets a standard in automobile construction."

SPINS AROUND IN FORD.

Lederer Makes One Hundred and Eighty Mile Drive in Day with Neat Little Twenty Horse Power.

George C. Lederer of the Standard Motor Car Company, gave his family a typical Ford outing Sunday, making a tour of the orange belt. He left Los Angeles at 9 a. m. and headed for San Bernardino by way of Pasadena, Azusa and Uplands, reaching San Bernardino at noon. A side trip to Arrowhead Hot Springs and Patton was made when returning to San Bernardino. From there he drove to Colton, Riverside, Pomona and El Monte, arriving in Los Angeles at 9 p. m. In the day's run without any motor or tire troubles, 180 miles was covered.

Mrs. W. T. Lovell of Portland, who is visiting with her mother, Mrs. Lederer, stated that this trip alone repaid her for her journey from Portland. Mrs. Lovell is now an enthusiastic Ford booster and there is trouble ahead for Lovell as she means to have a Ford as soon as she returns to Portland.

BRIGHT LIGHTS.

There is no one model which stands out any more sharply than another. The cars in their new dress look good and show the finish which the factories have given them to be superior to that of any previous year. Refinement and class marks every machine displayed at the Shrine.

This show proved how close the designers have come to perfection in motor car building. Years of time and expense has worked wonders. As a result the motor industry has earned a reputation for stability which is brought out more forcibly than ever at a successful show.

Visitors who strolled through the aisles were attracted first by a yellow car, then by a red roadster, later by a red truck, then by an electric coupe and again by a stripped chassis. There was something to claim the attention at every step. The exhibit was first-class and the association struck the keynote when it displayed the late factory creations in such a way that the throng would be captured and held to the motor cars rather than to anything else at the show.

Though the decorations were immense, the music entrancing, the hall furniture grand and the color design pleasing, the most important feature of the show was the motor car. When the auto lover had glanced at the thousands of lights, had heard the strains of the band and orchestra and had looked at the green and red effect, he paused for hours to study the cars. As a result the automobile is impressed more firmly on the minds of the people of Los Angeles who saw the exhibit at the Shrine.

One of the remarkable features of any automobile show is the fact that a crowd is willing to spend a week looking over the choice beauties. Almost any other kind of exhibit would be hard to stage. All there is to an auto display is the automobile. The crowd wants nothing else. The public takes it as a matter of course that the cars are ready for the dress parade that follows.

When the Shrine was opened thousands flocked to the mecca of motordom expecting just what happened, the elite of the motor industry on display. The last night of the final day saw many who had appeared so eagerly the first night. These were still studying the classics on the floor.

What has been the result of this show? The people who took special pains to study have learned more about the motor car. The problem of self-propulsion is more simple to thousands than it was a week ago. The system of applying power to the rear wheel of a self-moving vehicle is simpler to a great many than it was before the Shrine show opened.

Now that taps have been sounded and the doors are to be closed on the show for a year, the dealers are ready for increased business, realizing that this exhibit has been most important. The thousands who showed such interest in the motor cars are ready to visit the machines along automobile row and many are about ready to purchase.

George R. Whitcomb, president of the Dealers' Association and chief of the Halladay Motor Company, is one of the most enthusiastic of the show committee. He was sure the show would be a success the first day. His list of sales and the prospects Warren Vance holds satisfied Whitcomb, and the firm is contented.

H. K. Butterfield worked hard. He came out of the show wit lithe prospect of increased business and succeeded in exhibiting his Kissel Kar winner of the Phoenix race, to a large crowd of enthusiasts. Clyde Leppo has a large number of slips which look good.

Volney S. Beardsley had a number of sales to report but was also kept busy by the Warren, which rolled past the Shrine door with its motor humming. Beardsley is pulling off a non-stop run on his own account.

W. J. Burt and E. Roger Stearns, the other committeemen held conferences each day and compared notes. They helped the show and have a large number of sales to record.

The California Electric Garage Company of Los Angeles and Pasadena, who secured one of the largest spaces at the licensed dealers show, will probably have the largest and most complete exhibit of electric cars ever shown in America, not excepting New York and Chicago, for it is next to impossible for even a manufacturer to secure as large a space in which to show their cars, and consequently the number of their models shown must be limited.

The California company has twenty-five hundred square feet of space in which to show nine complete and entirely different models of Detroit Electrics, including also a working chassis of their new chainless direct shaft drive, and one of the new light delivery truck chassis, both of which will be equipped with the new Edison batteries.

The company has two carloads now on the way, to arrive in time for the show. One machine, the gentleman's underslung roadster, which is creating such a sensation in the East, was not ready when these carloads were shipped and it will be shipped by express.

Tries Hard.

FLANDERS AFTER WORLD RECORD.

NON-STOP RUN HAS MANY STUNTS THAT ARE HARD.

L. J. Ollier Helps Out in the Task of Piling Up Mileage Which Twenty-Horse-Power Car Has Ground Out—La Casse Eight-hour Record.

Humming along toward the world record, the Flanders "Twenty," which the Lord Motor Car Company has dared to send on what seemed an impossible task, has piled up a mileage which looks good. This mark will be hard to beat and Leon T. Shettler, who held the former record, admits that the task would be trying.

The two-cylinder Reo which held the Pacific Coast record for so long was sent out by Shettler a year ago. The Reo man got what he went after and almost reached the 5000 mile notch. The record for 4992 miles remained unbroken for a number of months.

The expense attached to a record-breaking stunt is large. L. J. Ollier of the Studebaker Bros. Company is helping to share the cost of the run of the Flanders stock car. Ollier has placed two men, E. La Casse and Carey King, on the car as drivers. La Casse has made the largest mileage to date for an eight-hour shift and has proved himself a consistent driver.

The largest run for a single day was 153 miles. This was a mark that seemed too high and the average was chopped down before the other drivers had a chance to break the record of La Casse. There was a limit and the Flanders had been raced too fast.

Ed Addams has proved the most careful driver. He has nursed the Flanders every shift and his mileage, as a result, is smaller than that of any other driver. E. Dilbert is next to Addams. It is a curious fact that the Lord Motor Car Company men have neither of them struck the marks of the Studebaker drivers.

This non-stop record is trying on the nerves. It is a hard task to sit quiet for so long a stretch. The observers watch the speedometer and keep tab on the motor, which is one of the stunts hardest of all to maintain.

Tiresome Jim Corbett, who has recently won the talking and typewriter championship from John Sullivan, is wonderfully impressed by a new hope of the white race that old Joe Choynski has discovered in some jay town. Please keep it there, for all of the "hopes" we have had recently have been licked by dubs.

That Dependable Car

I would not handle a car I did not honestly believe in. I have sold Reo automobiles for six years, and they are all making good yet. People always expect more of a Reo than of any other car. Why? Simply because it has always been a consistent performer, not only in competition with other cars, of all prices, but in everyday use. Reo has always been a known quantity. The purchaser knows he will get his money's worth. There is no better guaranty for a car than the word Reo. Try out the Reo Thirty. Then I'll let you do the talking.

BARNEY TELLS HIS OWN STORY.

Oldfield Divulges Secrets of Racing Game.

Outlaw King Has Risked His Neck for Ten Years.

Glad Public Is With Him; Is Ready to Fight Hard.

BY BARNEY OLDFIELD.

Since I was placed on the blacklist of a certain association popularly supposed to control automobile racing in America, nothing has been told that would give the public an idea of why I have been forced to give up remunerative contracts since last October and have been branded as an "outlaw" in the eyes of sportsmen and automobilists.

For the first time I am giving to the world the true story of my fight against a body of men who are trying to deprive me of a chance to earn my living and render useless the racing cars which I own absolutely, and through being placed on the blacklist with me, are useless to anyone for racing purposes while possessing no value from a commercial standpoint.

Fighting me, not on the common ground of man to man, but adopting despotic and unfair tactics, is a gigantic racing trust.

I am thankful that I live in a free country where the spirit of fair play triumphs over oppression and where public opinion practically governs everything. For ten years I have been earning my living driving racing automobiles. Many are generous enough o say that I am at the top of my proession; a profession which has enolled hundreds of good, game and earless men. For ten years I have isked my neck, sacrificed much blood and a few broken bones, to provide musement or thrills for the public hich pays only to see one man do omething a little more daring or better than the others.

MILLION DOLLARS.

Over a million dollars has been paid n at the box office to witness my exhibitions and racing. That represents he gross sales, as a merchant would igure it. The net profit, that is, the mount I have been able to save out f the gross, amounts to so little that am almost ashamed to let a good merchant look at my balance sheet. n reality, I am no more or less than merchant I must advertise my wares, keep an up-to-date stock; pay big rental for the best locations, mploy the best men to assist me and o carry on my business, the business f risking my life at so much per risk, nd to make the firm name of Barney Oldfield a valuable asset.

Like the merchant, I cannot afford o sell anything but reliable goods, alculated and guaranteed to please my customers. I must drive over racks on which death lurks at every urn, just because there is a crowd in he grand stand which has paid to see e take a chance. I have not the preogative of the merchant who may delare at any time, "we are out of the rticle today, call again." A shower f rain may have rendered the track nfit for fast driving. The authorities will not permit persons in a dangerous r condemned building. But Barney Oldfield must deliver the thrills and reak records or his reputation as a merchant is damaged. It does not matter that I risk my racing car, impossible to replace, as well as my bones and gore. I must do all my zealous managers have promised and advertised.

In New York City an association omposed of twelve members closely ffiliated with the racing trust, boasted hat they controlled the racing game in he metropolis to the extent that no utsider could get a sanction. The offers this association made me from ime to time, represented less than hat my actual expenses would be if raced there.

Last summer I determined to particpate in a meet at the Brighton Beach rack. I sent a representative to the rack owners and offered them so uch more money than the "syndiate" was paying that I got the track. hen an official of the trust bet I ould not get a sanction. The newspapers were threatened by the arroant officials of the racing syndicate. ut when the town was plastered with y billboard paper and the subway nd elevated railway platforms showed y advertising, the trust gave in nd I got my sanction.

The crowd was enormous, far larger han at any previous meet held at New York, including the twenty-four hour contests in which practically all the star drivers in the country participated. And thrill merchant Oldfield was, single handed, the big drawing card.

In Philadelphia, Boston, Hartford, Columbus, Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Milwaukee, and other eastern cities the crowds that turned out to see me were far ahead of any previous attendance at an automobile meet. So I know that the public wants to see Barney Oldfield and the trust's sanction counts for so little that not one per cent. of the spectators know its meaning.

Out of the total of ninety-four track racing sanctions issued by the trust during the past season, at a price of $100 per day, for which nothing is given in return, sixty of the days were race meets of my own, or meets in which I was financially interested. So long as I remained in the West and did not invade "the protected" territory, I had no trouble with the trust. It did not matter much when the sanction for my meets was asked for, before or after the meet, just so the $100 was sent in. The trust did not worry me and I did not worry it—until I got East and wanted to follow my vocation in protected territory. Then they began to scheme to get rid of me.

At Indianapoolis, last May, I refused to ride for the ridiculously small purses on the first and second day of the meet. On the third day, I drove only a one mile exhibition with my big car. The result was that over 60,000 persons, more than ten times the number present on the other two days, turned out. The promoters of the meet were unwilling to admit that the "salesman" was entitled to the same commission one would have received in a commercial line.

"Kill Oldfield Off" seems to be the slogan passed along the line of the trust's officials and the race promoters in the "protected" territory.

VANDERBILT SLAUGHTER.

The Vanderbilt Cup Race is looked on by the automobilists and public generally as a sporting event promoted for the good of the industry. This event, shielded by a respected name, has long been a comercialized sporting proposition, conducted along lines not unlike those of the six-day bicycle race. Of course the race proper is contested between great drivers and cars, but the drivers do not get the money. Out of $22,000 received for entrance fees and about $50,000 gate receipts during the last race, the drivers received the paltry sum of $4000. Yet drivers and spectators were killed and maimed during the race because the parsimonious promoters did not care to pay for protection of guards and police.

Yet so commercial was the proposition that the trust's official who solicited the entries got a big commission on each car. The Vanderbilt Cup race crowd is the nucleus of the racing trust. When I wired my manager to withdraw my entry from the Grand Prize race to be conducted on the same course by the same crowd two weeks later, unless the protection of troops was assured, the papers took up the matter and the race was transferred to Savannah under the pressure of the other entrants and under the contract of the Savannah Automobile Club. Barney Oldfield dared speak out against the racing trust, and the fight was on in earnest. No crowd of ward politicians ever tried harder to "break" an officeholder who dared oppose the boss, than the racing trust went after my scalp.

But I realize that the public and the good sportsmen are with me in my battle and I am in the fight to the death. I will not resort to the courts. Lawyers tell me that I have the best of chances to invoke the anti-trust law against the racing trust. But I am going to win a more decisive victory than the courts would ever award me. I am going to put my case before a jury of the great American public. I am going to race in all the big cities of the country and if the public wants to see me, people will come and I will keep going. Then the racing trust will lose its power. But one thing is sure I will never bend the knee to the racing trust.

I have a lot of money invested in racing. The trust has nothing except a few roll top desks and office furniture and rubber stamps they bought with my sanction money.

No other race driver in the world makes a business of racing. That is, no other driver owns his own racing cars, a traveling railway garage, maintains a complete race promoting force and races on a percentage of the receipts, taking a financial as well as physical chance instead of for prizes. I am the only driver in the world who has no factory affiliations; no axes to grind with sundry manufacturers, and no interest of any sort in the trade.

Consequently, rules that are accepted and followed by other drivers cannot be followed and accepted by me. For eight years I have off and on observed some of the rules of the racing trust and have driven under its sanction most of the time. But I was in the racing game and a record holder, too, long before the racing trust was organized.

KEEP ON TOP.

Any professional athlete who keeps at the top of the ladder for ten years gets more valuable as a crowd drawer each successive year. More people see him each year; he becomes better advertised each year and the fact that he is able to keep going against the younger men springing up naturally makes him more or less of a marvel of endurance and skill.

The past season was the most remunerative of any during my career as a racing driver and as the bonuses I received got larger and larger and my meets drew bigger and bigger, I soon realized that I was stepping on the sensitive spots of somebody's toes.

I realized I was the target for all the scheming and keen politicians of the sport and trade. The other drivers and the cars they hoped to beat my records with must remain in second place so long as I kept going. The high salaried men I had in charge of my business were more resourceful and "put things over" more often than the men the other drivers could employ, so that they also soon began to be made targets of.

The race with Johnson was but an opportunity long sought by the trust crowd to get me on the firing line.

Welcome to Our City.

BILL PICKENS COMES TO TOWN AND BARNEY OLDFIELD IS GLAD.

BILL PICKENS is here. The man who, perhaps, is the most successful manager Barney Oldfield ever had, is in town and Oldfield is happy. Bill is on his way to Australia, but may be persuaded to remain until the middle of spring. He came across the continent because Oldfield needed him. Barney had no other excuse than that he was lonesome. That was enough for Pickens. He packed his satchel and took the train.

When conditions in the racing world are more critical than they ever have been before Pickens comes to steer the career of Oldfield once more. He has a life contract with Barney that can never be broken. Though the A.A.A. has made an outlaw of Pickens the manager can take charge now that Oldfield himself has been suspended and suspended indefinitely.

Ever since Pickens grasped the tiller Oldfield has been the most prominent auto racing man in the world. He is the king of all track men and is as modest as ever. When asked to tell his own story Barney hesitated and had to ask the advice of Pickens. Bill gave his sanction and the story, one of the most interesting ever told, is out for the first time. It is a revelation and contains the inside history of a fight which already has become sensational.

Out at the Shrine Auditorium automobile show Bill made the "Blitzen" Benz his headquarters. He met his friends near the big 200-horse power monster about which he has written so much. The car is the ideal of Pickens, who was not satisfied until Oldfield had purchased the machine with which he has made so many records.

This car may be wafted across the waters to Sydney, Australia. That is the plan of Pickens, but Barney has friends here he is loath to leave, and hopes to keep Pickens here for at least two months. If he follows the plan of his manager he will leave on December 24 for the Antipodes.

One of the stunts which Pickens pulled off, and which caused some criticism, was the Oldfield-Johnson track battle. The people of the South did not relish the idea of Barney driving with a negro. Jack Johnson had an idea that he might defeat Barney. It was a risk that Barney took under the advice of Pickens. Luckily, or at least with the usual good fortune which follows Pickens, the race turned out right for Oldfield, who won. Johnson was relegated to a back seat in the auto game.

Moving pictures are to be taken to Australia by Pickens who knows there is a demand for them there. The sporting fraternity of Melbourne, Sydney and other cities want to see the films which portray the victory of the white racing champion over Jack Johnson. If the pictures go across the water Bill wants to take the "Blitzen" Benz and Barney for a trip.

This combination should be a winner, Bill believes. The dwellers in the Antipodes have never had a chance to see Barney in action. The tracks there have never had a real speed baptism. Barney wants to go and is spending his time trying to persuade Jim Jeffries to accompany him. This would cement the combination as Jeffries and Barney are close friends.

Hunting trips, in which Pickens takes no interest, claim the attention of Jeffries and Oldfield. When the two have shot enough quail Pickens may settle the matters and take them across the sea.

Why Drugs
Cure You

Want to know why drugs haven't cured you?

You are doping your stomach day after day with nauseating medicines, but don't seem to get any better. We'll tell you why.

The stuff that you take is nothing more than poison, and poison never cures anybody.

Instead of giving your body nourishment, something to build up, you take drugs, which tear down.

To cure anything you must help nature. Nature will cure you if she has the power. This power is electricity. You know electricity runs through every part of your body.

Most all the ailments of man can be traced to the failure or breaking down of the nerves, stomach, liver, kidneys, heart or digestive apparatus. The reason any organ fails to do its work properly is because it lacks motive power, electricity. Restore that force where it is needed and pain and disease will disappear. Electra-Vita does that while you sleep.

Electra-Vita saturates the nerves with a soothing stream of electricity and they carry the force to every part of your body, giving strength and energy where it is needed. It removes the cause of disease.

Electra-Vita is an electric body battery, which you wear while you sleep. It makes its own power and is always charged, ready for use.

Electra-Vita is not an electric belt.

of cars built during the last year. The factories that have the brains, capital, reputation back of them, and the factories who are building up the proper organizations among their dealers, are doing and will do a larger business than ever.

As to the local situation, as near as I can find, there are practically 50 per cent. more cars being sold this year than at the same time last year, and I anticipate a large business for the winter, and the balance of the spring.

OXY IS UNSETTLED.

Coach Will Be Engaged to Direct All Branches of Sport, Graduates Not Making Good.

The unsatisfactory conditions of Occidental College as a result of the coaching system which is in vogue there this year have resulted in Dr. Baer, president of the school, making a definite announcement that there would be a good allround coach in charge of all branches of sports at the school next year. The graduate system of coaching football did not prove a big success and so far, there is no coach in sight for the track team so that the outlook for the spring athletics is not very bright.

Dr. Edward Merrill has been engaged to take charge of the baseball squad as soon as the baseball season starts. It is felt that the proposition of bringing in a separate coach for each branch of the school athletics is not conducive to the best spirit of harmony and efficiency and the athletic management will make an attempt to secure the best possible man to take entire charge.

Newell Tennis Champ.

The tennis tryout at the University of Southern California this past week to decide who should represent the school in the Mt. Washington tournament during the vacation resulted in Kenneth Newell winning the college championships. The four men who will play for U. S. C. on the hill top court are Newell, Morrow, Oxman, and Chaffee. The University tennis department has been much strengthened this year by the new men who have registered as three of this team are freshmen, and they expect to give the fast Occidental players a good run for the intercollegiate championship.

HUNTING DOWN AUTO THIEVES.

SPECIAL STRESS LAID ON NEED FOR ADDED PROTECTION.

Complaints Made to Police and Detective Agency Arouse Sleuths, Who Propose to Run Down These Men in Interest of Insurance Companies.

The ownership of an automobile has its responsibilities as well as its pleasures. With the great increase in the output of pleasure and commercial vehicles there has developed in the past year a peculiar condition that has worried both owners and police authorities all over the world. Thefts of automobiles everywhere, from public or private garages, or while the owners or chauffeurs are not personally on guard, have been constantly increasing.

The police reports of these thefts probably do not cover a quarter of the actual cases, and the number of arrests have been comparatively few, owing to the unusual and difficult circumstances surrounding the steals. The crime, in fact, seems to be a novel one, and altogether puzzling to the average sleuth.

It was announced yesterday that at the instance of a large number of insurance companies who have undertaken the protection of automobiles against burglary and fire, the Burns & Sheridan National Detective Agency has assumed the work of hunting down and prosecuting automobile thieves all over this country and in Europe. The entire resources of all the offices and correspondents will be available for this work.

Through F. Herrmann & Co. of No. 37 Wall street, New York, the new move has been made. This firm represents the Mannheim Insurance Company of Mannheim, Germany; the Union Marine Company of Liverpool; Fireman's Fund Insurance Company, San Francisco; Columbia Insurance Company, Jersey City, and many other large insurance companies in this country and Europe.

W. J. Burns, principal of the Burns & Sheridan agency, while in this city a short time ago, said:

"The existence of organized gangs of automobile thieves and of 'fences' dealing in stolen cars, has been known to us for some time. We have an accurate line on them, and I am confident we can stamp out this novel and annoying form of burglary. There are 'fences' in a number of large cities in this country and several in Europe. A fine automobile is a rich prize for the average crook, and heretofore he has realized that the chances of detection have been very small. We will not only recover the stolen machines, but will also make sure that the thief is caught and punished. In many States the penalty for an offense coming under this extremely severe."

"Automobile thefts have increased of late to such an extent that the usual police methods have been ineffective. Offers of rewards for the return of stolen cars have been effective in some cases, but this theory of offering rewards is obviously wrong. We believe we can effectively check this new form of depredation, which has really become serious."

Philadelphia, Cincinnati, Minneapolis, San Francisco and Los Angeles, as well as other cities have been special points of attack during the present year. Such cases will hereafter be run down to a finish

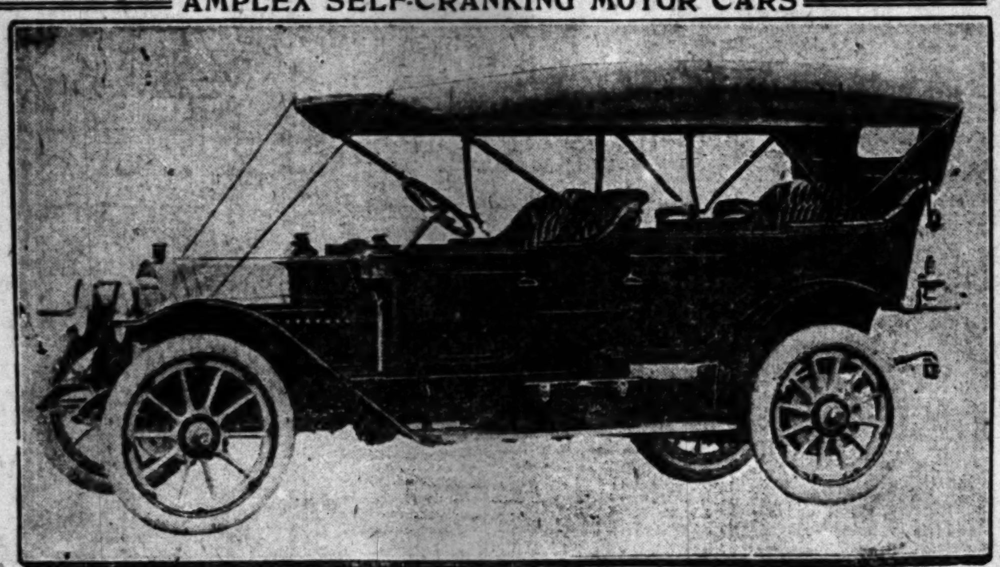
AMPLEX SELF-CRANKING MOTOR CARS



THE KIND OF CAR YOU WANT.

NOTHING MYSTERIOUS ABOUT SELF-CRANKING!
Any car could be equipped with a self-cranking device; but as it adds materially to the expense of building a car, other manufacturers have figured it that as the demand for cars exceeds the capacity of plants, it cuts in just that much on their profits to add to a car what is not demanded. But the makers of Amplex cars figure on how good and how complete they can produce a car, rather than on the number of cars the factory can turn out.

OUR SELF-CRANKING DEVICE NEVER FAILS
The construction of the motor and all the attachments of an Amplex car are mechanically correct. We have made it possible to a reasonable certainty that the engine will start the moment you push the button that controls the device. This is done without leaving the car, or relinquishing control of your wheel. It does away with cranking and gives no opportunity for an accident from backfiring. It makes the driving of a car easy for a lady.

IT APPEALS TO REFINED PEOPLE
Many professional and business men dislike the idea of being jeered at if their motor stalls, and it is necessary to crank the engine in the mud or dust. Nor does it add to evenness of disposition to melt down a collar or spoil the polish on one's shoes when driving to make a professional or business call. Amplex self-cranking cars remove the most disagreeable feature in motoring.

CAN WE TALK IT OVER WITH YOU?
Amplex motor cars are not low priced, but the excellence of their construction makes them worth every dollar of their cost. They have power and speed, but nothing has been sacrificed of their beauty of outline or finish. They are pre-eminently a gentleman's car, with the same luxury of appointment as applied to the equipment that people of refinement demand when traveling by water or rail. Though you may know nothing of motors, we can quickly demonstrate Amplex superiority.

STRICT RULES FOR AUTOISTS.

Attorney Batcheller Works for Auto Club Men.

State Laws May Soon Have Amendments.

Fire Plug Distance Has Been Cut in Half.

Hedged around by laws that are drastic automobile owners are studying the city ordinances before taking motor car rides. It is dangerous to turn a corner too short. It is also foolhardy to drive too fast, as a jail sentence may result and it is wise to watch your gears when crossing the intersections of streets. Do not take on a passenger as you are moving at four miles an hour. The policeman will have something to say if you do break the law.

Charles L. Batcheller, attorney at law, who represents the Automobile Club of Southern California has been doing splendid work in the interests of autoists. He is proud of the fact that not a pedestrian has been killed by an automobile since the speed laws were put into effect about two years ago. By speed laws he means the chopping down of the limit to twenty miles an hour and to twelve miles an hour on the downtown streets, with four miles an hour on the crossings.

"This has had its effect," said Batcheller yesterday, "in protecting the public and I'm glad to say that a large majority of the motorists are pleased with the rules which safeguard the public. I do not know any automobile owner who objects to obeying the ordinance, especially when these ordinances protect.

"Perhaps some of the drivers object to being obliged to watch themselves so carefully, but it will be only a short time before all become acquainted with the laws and ordinances. Passengers on street cars are protected and pedestrians on the streets are guarded. We all have to walk at times and these laws are a help to the motorist as well as to the man who does not own a machine."

The work of this prominent Los Angeles attorney has already made a hit with the members of the Automobile Club of Southern California. They are studying the laws and are becoming better acquainted with the many ordinances.

Machines must not be left over thirty minutes on the main streets and a man must be in charge of them who can operate the car. It is not sufficient to place the office boy in the seat. The man must be a driver who can move the car away when it is necessary.

One of the advantages gained by Attorney Batcheller is the fact that cars can be stopped twenty feet from a fire plug. You can let out a passenger and if the driver is skilled he can remain there until it is necessary to draw away. This cuts down the distance twenty feet and adds to the comfort of the motorist who desires to stop on Main, Spring or Broadway.

Anywhere in the city limits where a street car is passed the motorist must pull the car down to eight miles an hour if passengers are getting on or off the street car. The machine must be kept four feet away from the street car as it is driven along the street. A number of people have been hurt when getting off the cars.

Automobile numbers must he held firmly on the rear of the car. A light must shine on them at night. It is not necessary to purchase an illuminated number as you can allow the tail light to shine in such a way that it illuminates the number. The numbers must be three inches high and ½ inch wide.

This is a law which Batcheller says is important. Autoists who have smashed ordinances before have whisked away with the numbers of their machines bobbing so quickly that they could not be read. One man who was apprehended had a string tied to his sign which was pulled up when the "cop" appeared.

One of the amendments to be proposed to the State law is that numbers need not be painted on the front lamps. This is somewhat of a joke now, as it is hard to read the numbers when they appear on the lamps. The State law is to be amended if possible to require numbers on the front and rear of automobiles. The number to be painted either on the radiator or along the hood.

The congested district from Eighth street to Temple street is being guarded. Machines must be taken from the streets, as they are crowding the traffic off the thoroughfares. The heavy teams have been removed, now it is up to the Council to keep the automobiles moving. With thousands of motor cars passing and repassing the traffic question has become a problem.

The policemen on the street corners agree that it is easier to handle motor cars than any other vehicles. The machines are operated so quickly that they can be rushed along at a good pace. The real question comes when the big oil wagons, delivery carts or horse-drawn vehicles block the thoroughfares.

Now that the public is becoming used to the cars it is an easier question with the officials. The pedestrians are not so angry when an automobile slides along the streets as they once were. One trouble is, however, that the public is not sufficiently alarmed when a motor car approaches. Women and children loiter along and often endanger themselves, especially if the streets are wet and slippery.

GETS LIMIT.

CLUBMAN LUCKY.

Guy Hill, a guest at the Alamitos Gun Club, got one of the very few duck limits that were taken in Southern California during the week. Judge H. H. Rose was also lucky getting twenty-one birds on the same preserve.

The sportsmen claim that unless there is a good storm soon the game is going to be very scarce and it is expected that some of the clubs will be entirely deserted by all of the duck family except the mud hens.

Four members of the Centinella Club, F. K. Eckly, A. L. Jackson, H. L. Corson and J. A. O'Callahan, each got about a half dozen ducks. Thursday morning W. Y. Teetzel, secretary of the club, says that most of the birds on the preserve are recent arrivals from the North and are in the best of condition. The club is feeding barley to the game and the members claim that they are having better shooting than the other clubmen in their vicinity.

WANTS CHANGE IN FOOTBALL.

AUSTRALIAN SEES FAULTS IN AMERICAN GAME.

Says It Gives Opportunities for Brute Force, But Prevents Quick Thinking and Originality—Suggests More Open Game—Hopes to Witness International Contests.

Suggestions from English, Canadian, Australian and Korean football authorities always flood in at the end of the open season for pigskin chasing. Some of these criticisms are valuable, and others are simple. At any rate, they all give the Rules Committee something to ponder on before decreeing next autumn's gridiron modes. Alexander Knox, former president of the New South Wales Rugby Football League, however, has issued an interesting statement on his impressions of American football. He saw the Army-Navy game, itself uninteresting, and blames the rules. In part, he said:

"Recently I had the opportunity of seeing a first-class game of American football. I was greatly impressed with the tremendous enthusiasm and magnetic influence of such an enormous audience; also, with the rival calls, songs and hurrahs of the partisans, and more especially with the quiet and unobstructive demeanor of the Navy goat.

"As the play goes no doubt it is in one sense strenuous, that is, as far as sheer physical force goes. But, as a game where individuality, originality and that faculty to grasp an opportunity and take it is considered, to my mind it is, on account of the code, very deficient.

"Several attempts were made at goal from place kicks. The 'place kicking' was very poor. We have players in Australia that can send the leather oval over the bar five out of six times from midfield. I have seen Mersenger (one of the greatest place kickers in the world) frequently kick a goal at the extreme right wing from midfield. There were several brilliant dashes that brought the vast audience en masse to its feet. This proves my contention. Make the game open, give the players a chance to display their faculty of grasping the opportunity at the right time, and the audience will be better pleased.

"Football is the great winter game in nearly all countries speaking the English language. The German Emperor has quite recently advised his subjects to take up the game. France has adopted the Rugby rule. It is a pity we could not form a football federation with international contests. What a spectacle it would be to see teams from England, Scotland, Ireland, South Africa, Australia, Canada, America and Germany competing for the championship of the world! This affiliation of genuine sporting interests would do more to promote good feeling and peace in the world than all political conventions."

Commercial Vehicles.

HUGE TRUCKS COMMAND PLACE OF HOMAGE AT AUTO SHRINE.

ONE of the most remarkable features of the Shrine Auditorium automobile show is the fact that the motor truck has taken its place of importance among the leaders in the automobile industry and is now commanding a position never occupied before. These mighty trucks are necessary to the business life of a city and have been brought to Los Angeles this year in greater numbers than ever before.

Motors under the hood are all the rage. Motors concealed by the front seats are a great hit. High-powered cars which climb any grade and roll along the streets with any load that may be piled on the car, look good to the purchasers who have visited the Shrine.

One of the largest trucks exhibited is the one purchased by the Cudahy Packing Company, the big Reliance, which has occupied an important place near the orchestra loft. This truck is the largest in the exhibit and has made good on one of the most severe demonstrations.

Again, near the entrance, is the Frayer-Miller truck. This particular freight car was tried out at the Santa Monica road race. Driven by E. Roger Stearns, the big vehicle was sent over the beach roads with about thirty passengers, and the car made as high as twenty-five miles an hour in places.

The commercial department has received its full sare of attention. Never before at any automobile show have visitors been so willing to examine the trucks, delivery wagons and freight coaches as they have at the Shrine. There is a reason for this. The high development of the truck is responsible.

These machines, which have been held in the East in previous years, are now being turned out in such numbers that the West has a chance to study them carefully. This means that more trucks are being shipped to the Pacific Coast this season than ever before.

It is impossible to measure the scope of this business. Every large factory is devoting at least a part of its time to turning out trucks. The big Sampson looks good to many. The Gramm truck is as powerful as any. Various exhibitors are showing commercial vehicles never exhibited before. They are hotel omnibuses, and the chassis of trucks which are to become fire fighters are long, and every conceivable form of vehicle known to the trade.

The Hart-Kraft commercial vehicles are being shown here for the first time. They look particularly good and have made the hit which the Mission Garage people hoped they would. The trucks were surrounded by numbers of people where the Hart-Krafts were, secured numbers of prospects which the sales force is to work on this week.

The Grabowsky monster has a place of its own in the hearts of many. It is a powerful leviathan which occupies a place among the high-powered vehicles which cannot be usurped. The Grabowsky will do anything in reason when the car crank is whirled. Here again is one of the advances shown in commercial cars. It does not take a champion pugilist to crank the motors.

The Bekins Motor Car Company shows their Amplex line. This exhibit contains a truck which has already demonstrated its powers. This motor is flexible, and can be used to advantage on the downtown streets, or will take a car at speed over the hills.

These are only some of the experiments Los Angelenos are to see if they care to wait and watch for them.

The United States is far behind the great powers of Europe in the adoption of the aeroplane for military uses. France leads all others. It is almost as common to see aeroplanes skimming across the country in France as it is to see a railroad train. They are everywhere, and the French aviators are the most expert in the world. The French army has scores of officers trained to operate air craft, and even the French navy has a specially fitted ship for experimenting with the aeroplane at sea. Germany and England, Italy and Austria, all have made provisions for aeroplanes in their armies.

It is not because the people of the United States are less keen to sense the importance of a scientific achievement; it is because a mentally sluggish Congress, or Congresses, either refuse to believe that the aeroplane is more than a toy, or it is too busy appropriating great sums of money for shoveling mud out of some stagnant bayou or trying to make some shifting river "stay put."

"We don't know," said Gen. Allen, head of the Signal Corps, in Washington the other day, "whether we can do anything with aeroplanes or not. We want to, and would, if we had the money; but we haven't got it and it doesn't look as if we would get it." ments. "We know we could accomplish much, but we have no fund. We hope Congress will do something."

That was before Glenn H. Curtiss came along and offered to take the officers down to Los Angeles and train them free of cost to the army and navy. He knew there were no funds they could draw upon, so he tendered his services as a matter of patriotism. He had been abroad and had seen the national interest in the air craft. He deplored our government's apathy on the subject.

Curtiss has done more than any other one man to determone the utility of the aeroplane in warfare. For the past year he has tried to develop his biplane along military lines. He was the first American aviator to make a long cross-country flight, when he flew from Albany to New York City, a distance of 154 miles, following the Hudson River all the way. He had already established a reputation as a daring and skillful operator by winning the first international speed contest at Rheims France, in 1909. He was the first to alight on the water safely, in June, 1910, at Lake Keuka, New York; the first to demonstrate the dropping of bombs from an aeroplane; the first to try sharpshooting in the air, when he took up Lieut. Fickel in June of this year; the first to demonstrate the use of the wireless telegraph, at Sheepshead Bay in August. The latest and greatest achievement of the Curtis biplane which the government has chosen to experiment with was the flight of Ely from the deck of the Birmingham. The Curtiss machine has never had a fatal, or even a serious accident. This is a remarkable record. I

Fifteen Miles to a Gallon of Gasoline in a Mitchell SIX

Anaheim, Cal., Dec. 12, 1910.
Greer-Robbins Co., Los Angeles, Cal.
Gentlemen:—

The 1911 Mitchell "Six" I purchased from you is certainly doing the work better even than I had hoped for. It is the quietest, smoothest running, and, without a doubt, the most economical running machine of its weight and power in this part of the country. I am more pleased with it every time I take it out.

Ten Passengers Over Heavy Roads

I have already run it over 1700 miles over the country roads of Orange county, and they are not good by any means; fully one-half of the time in the mountains, and I have kept a close tab on the gasoline consumption. I have made an average of from 12 to 15 miles per gallon. With from 6 to 10 passengers, on several trips in particular, over heavy roads, I have made 12 miles to the gallon. With lighter load over level, hard roads, have made better than 15 miles.

Great Abundance of Power

Have not seen a grade that I could not pull the biggest load without using half the power, seemingly.

Would Not Exchange For Car Twice Cost of Mitchell

I would not exchange it for some machines of twice the cost, and certainly would not run a four-cylinder car now. The "Six" seems to do the heaviest work so easily that I would not use anything else now.

I am, very truly yours,
(Signed.) D. GERVAIS.

Warren-Detroit Non-Stop Car Did Not Stop

Disinterested observers, appointed by the press, say: "The Car Completed the six days' and six nights' non-stop run with an average mileage of nearly 400 miles per day."

We knew what the Car was capable of doing before we started, but we were desirous of proving to the public the reliability of

Warren Detroit Cars—

Just to show all interested buyers how a Warren-Detroit "30" Motor stands after this continuous non-stop run, we have decided to continue the non-stop—not to work up additional mileage, but to show a perfect working motor—ites Lifting a Man Prove Latest Novelty.

The Car will be seen his coming week in some of the outside cities.

Aviation as a sport is to get its t try-out beginning one week from day, at Dominguez, when Los Angeles is to pull off its second great eet.

Last year the events were merely exhibitions; this year they are to be ade as nearly contests as possible, d the aeroplanes will race against ch other in the air as do automo es on the ground.

The aeral races are harder to pull than contests on the ground beuse areoplanes cannot fly as close gether as the rush of air from the opellor of one is likely to do grea mage to the other when two are ing near each other.

Therefore the rule is that aeroplanes nnot come within forty feet of each her, either laterally or perpendicuy. The disturbance in the air be nd the propellers is terrific and en this blast strikes another maine it is apt to capsize it with ances of a smash-up resulting.

But there is the whole atmosphere fly in and when two machines a ndred feet apart get to flying in a raight-away it is bound to be a sentional and exciting contest

WARREN-DETROIT ON THE RUN.

Motor Working Perfectly and Four Hundred Miles a Day Is Being Piled Into Mileage.

The Warren-Detroit non-stop car is making an excellent showing. The observers on the car have turned in every report that the motor is working perfectly. Until Friday noon the car has covered close to 2000 miles and has averaged nearly 400 miles per day.

The car finished its six days and six nights non-stop run in front of Shrine Auditorium at 5 p. m. yesterday, and considerable interest was manifested.

The company is desirous of showing all interested parties the good qualities of this motor and also to show its exact condition after the completion of this week's hard test., so that from 5 to 8 p. m., instead of stopping the moat the show to date, and report the following sales:

George Shugers, Columbus-Electric coupe, $2500; Frank Berman, Inglewood, Warren-Detroit fore door, tourtor, it was run in front of the Auditorium and was inspected there.

In all probability the car will not be stopped, but will continue to run a part of next week, at least, and be shown in some of the neighboring cities.

The car looks good enough to break the world's non-stop record if the company was ambitious in that direction.

NATURAL GAS PLAYS OUT.

Indiana City, Last of 115, Is Cut Off by Company as Result of Field's Failure.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RICHMOND (Ind.) Dec. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] With the discontinuance of serving natural gas to its consumers in Montpelier, Ind., The Indiana Lighting Comapny finally has abandoned the natural gas field. Montpelier was the last place to be operated in the natural gas field by this company. One by one the 115 cities and towns served a decade ago with natural gas by the Wabash Valley Gas Company has been cut off from the supply furnished by nature and Montpelier was left until the last. Up to this winter, the company has had enough of the gas to supply that city but this year the shortage has been very pronounced, pointing to its final exhaustion.

The New Ediso Storage Batter

These results, from tests conducted by Thomas A. Edison over average country roads of New Jersey, Long Island and Staten Island, prove his contention that the electric vehicle with proper battery equipment is the car of the present and the future—the car that the average citizen can afford to own and maintain and that the veriest novice can operate.

In these tests, in each instance, the route was mapped out beforehand; the car was then given a maximum charge of the battery and sent out over the route, always returning to the starting point; after completing the scheduled run the car was then run to a standstill to completely exhaust the battery in order to show just what excess mileage it still retained—the margin of certainty.

Formerly 50 miles was day's run with an electric the minimum mileage obtained was 117.9 miles, over hilly maximum 172.1 miles, a single charge of the battery.

Neither Mr. Edison nor the age Battery Company has any manufacture of the four vehicles equipped with the Edison Detroit, Bailey, Baker and W than to establish the fact that the of electric vehicle with Edison ment is now taking its place in the of the automobile field.

said they were S. J. Shultz and J. N. Thomas, both eighteen years old.

S. I. Fries of Altoona, Pa., lays claim to being the oldest active motorist in the State of Pennsylvania and the oldest driver of a Franklin car in the country. On Wednesday he celebrated his seventy-sixth birthday.

Fries drives a Franklin in which he makes trips of from fifteen to twenty miles about the country around Altoona and has attracted considerable attention in the automobile world through his motoring activity at his advanced age.

He is not only a motorist but is skilled in automobile mechanics. The car which he uses is not a recent model, and when he purchased it five years ago he found that a few repairs were needed. He accordingly dismantled it, went over every part and left each one in proper condition. Among other things he straightened the crank shaft after failing to find anyone to do it for him and, "today," he said, "my machine, so far as working order is concerned, is practically as good as new.

"I got it for pleasure," he continued, "and, while I never keep any record of my trips, my wife and I frequently go to Hollidaysburg and return, a distance of fifteen or sixteen miles, in one hour and on an average consumption of two and one half to three quarts of gasoline.

"I make a run to Lynn, about seventeen miles, in an hour and fifteen minutes on little more gasoline and generally do it all on high gear. I run about fifteen to twenty miles an hour on fairly good roads and cut down on the bad ones as low as I think necessary. If I want to I can pass almost anything, but I did not get the car for that purpose and do not enjoy it. So far I have not made very long trips but hope to the coming summer."

No Faltering.

ESTOPPEY IN FINE CONDITION.

LONG DISTANCE RUNNER HOPES TO FINISH RACE.

Has Almost Reached the Seven Hundred Mile Mark and Spectators Are Surprised at His Stamina. His Success So Far Seems to Be Due to Absence of "Nerves."

With two-thirds of his long race finished and almost perfect physical condition it seems very likely that Eugene Estoppey will finish his thousand-mile race at Venice in spite of the predictions of a great number of medical authorities who have maintained that the feat was impossible. The runner is close to the 700 miles mark and his muscles apparently are in fine shape. His little 14-year-old daughter, Violet, started him on the 614th mile on Thursday night, which gave him the world's record in the event, as no previous athlete had gone further than 613. Frequently he sprints out and does a mile in fast time just to show the skeptics, who gather every day to watch the race, that he is in just as good shape as when he started. Estoppey sleeps well and eats regularly every five hours, and it seems that barring a fluke of some kind he will win the prizes which are growing in number every day. The "Police Gazette" has offered a valuable gold medal and a number of his friends who had enough confidence in him to place bets at the big odds which were offered are contributing liberally to the fund of prize money.

He runs just a trifle more than one complete marathon race each day and the whole course when completed will include just forty-two such marathons. This will give some idea of the intense strain. Estoppey's winning feature in the race is the fact that at no time has he allowed the strain to get on his nerves. The athletes who have attempted this feat in the past have broken down nervous or mental wrecks, two of them ending in an asylum. The Swiss-American seems to have a remarkable nervous system and the bright and jovial state of mind which has marked his attitude all through the long nights and days which he has run, are responsible to a large extent for his perfect physical condition. He can throw himself on his cot at the end of a mile, be asleep in three minutes and remain in a state of perfect rest until awakened for the next grind. The best single mile up to the present time was run in 4m. 20s., which is coast record time. His speed a night averages a trifle slower than in the day time, owing to the slippery floor in the dance hall, where he runs from 8 p.m. til 7 a.m.

MANY NIMRODS IN THE SOUTH.

Southern California a Paradise for Sportsmen.

Mountain Lions Slaughter Two Deer Every Week.

Road Hunters Observe Laws Better than Club Men.

Los Angeles has more huntsmen than any other county in the State. The actual number of nimrods that have obtained hunting licenses in the county during the calendar year has not yet been compiled by the State Fish and Game Commission but is estimated at 16,000, as there were $14,000 in receipts from hunting licenses last year, nearly all of which brought in a one-dollar fee each—and there has been more sportsmen in the county this season than ever before.

Nearly all of those who procure licenses are residents of the State but a few tourists who are lured to the hunting grounds by the success of the local nimrods are willing to pay $10, the price of a license to non-residents of the State, for the privilege of bagging some of California's wild game. Several aliens have paid the $25 the law requires of foreigners for the permission to hunt in the State. Residents are charged one dollar for a license.

The money derived from the selling of hunting licenses is used by the fish and game commissioners in the protection and replenishing of the game in different parts of the State. About thirty-five men are employed in the work of the commission in the eleven southern counties, including San Luis Obispo, Inyo, Kern, San Bernardino, Santa Barbara, Ventura, Riverside, Los Angeles, Orange, San Diego and Imperial counties. Of these fifteen are regular salaried deputies the others being special deputies paid a fee for each arrest made of persons violating the game laws. The men on salaries receive from seventy-five to a hundred dollars a month for their services, the amount depending on their efficiency and the length of time they have been in the employ of the commission. All of the men who are on the regular pay-roll must have previously been in the employ of the commissioners on the fee system.

Of the fifteen men who give all their time to looking after game and fish, one is placed in each county and three work out of the Los Angeles office of the Fish and Game Commission, in the Consolidated Realty Building. Each of the men stationed in the counties are required to forward weekly reports to the office in this city. The reports are made on printed forms, on which is a place for the deputy to give an account of his whereabouts on each of the seven days and his reasons for going from one place to another. The special deputies are required to make similar reports monthly. There are generally one or two of the latter in each of the counties and they keep in touch with the regular deputy of the district.

FOREST RANGERS HELP.

The forest rangers give much aid to the commissioners in the matter of watching the hunters in the mountainous districts. They generally know just where the best hunting is in their territories and in most cases are loath to inform sportsmen as to the location. The old rangers that have been in the service for a number of years seem to feel that it is their special mission to protect the game animals and some of them even go so far as to try and scare deer out of certain localities where they have information that hunters are about to come. A couple of rangers in Southern California have each kept watch over a band of deer for three or four years and in each case the herd has grown until it has fifteen or twenty animals in it. So well have the bands come to know rangers that the latter are often able to get within close range of them. The most appreciated aid that the rangers render is the arresting of those that violate the law or the giving of information that leads to their detection. A few of the special deputies of the commission are rangers.

The latter are also the greatest enemies of the mountain lion. Many of the rangers kill a lion each year and several have killed as many as three during a season. It is estimated by assistant fish and game commissioner H. I. Pritchard that a lion kills on an average of two deer each week in the districts where the game is plentiful. There is a bounty on them of $20 and during eighteen months preceding January 1, 1910, the commission paid $18,000 for their destruction. As the lions when pursued take refuge in the most inaccessible places they are hard to kill and although the bounty is high and a number of hunters have gone after the beasts, there are not a great number killed.

Pritchard says that much is accomplished in the keeping of ducks and geese in Southern California by the Newport State Game Preserve at the head of Newport Bay. The game on the "hunt days" at the gun club grounds within a radius of fifteen miles come to the preserve in great numbers, seeming to realize that they are safe there. Deputy Fred A. Burnwood is in charge of the preserve and never leaves it except when relieved by another deputy. A careful watch is kept that no poachers get on the grounds, the deputy being equipped with a gasoline launch so that he can patrol all parts of it. Rene Brassy of Los Angeles and F. Beckwith of Balboa were arrested early in the week for attempting to kill game on the property.

PRESERVE FOR QUAIL.

The James Irvine ranch in Orange county which comprises 19,000 acres is used by the State as a breeding place for quail. No one is allowed to discharge a firearm on the vast tract and there are thousands of quail on the preserve. The purpose of the tract is to furnish a breeding place largo enough to keep the surrounding country supplied with the game. The ranch is well adapted for a nesting place as the topography of the ground offers many sheltered places and there is an abundance of brush and plenty of feed. Jack rabbits have taken advantage of the protection afforded on the land and are becoming very numerous in the district.

Although there is much hunting done in Orange county outside of the gun clubs, as there is no law in the county forbidding road shooting. The commission's deputies do not find the law violated as often by the men who do their hunting on the highways as by the gun club members. In many cases the latter because they have special ponds for ducks and furnish food for them feel that they may kill as many of the birds as they wish while the road shooters seem to have more respect for the law.

The preserve keepers are the only men who know how many ducks each of the clubmen kill on the club grounds and if they offer any information as to the law being violated they are discharged. At some of the clubs a few of the members make it a practice to never leave the blinds as long as there is a prospect of getting a duck no matter how many they have previously bagged. They are very crafty in their breaking of the law, never keeping a limit number of ducks in the blinds with them. When the limit is closely approached the keeper is called and either takes part of the ducks to the clubhouse or to another club member who has not been as successful.

About $22,000 was collected in the State last year for fishing licenses. Every citizen of the United States who fishes for profit in California is required to pay a license fee of $2.50 and aliens who fish for the same purpose are charged $10 for a license. Three thousand dollars of the money collected came from fishermen plying their trade in the waters of Southern California.

The hunters and fishermen in this end of the State pay more money into the treasury of the Fish and Game Commission than is used here. Pritchard says that the force of men employed in the South has been greatly increased during the year and in the future the commissioners intend to spend more of the money in the protection of game in Southern California as the number of hunters in this district is increasing and the game on some of the hunting grounds is becoming very scarce.

Y.M.C.A. BOXERS TO THE FRONT.

YOUNG FIGHTERS DESIRE TO SHOW THEIR SKILL.

Director Reynolds Very Much in Favor of the Manly Art as it Should be Carried On—Association Men Expect to Give Exhibitions Soon.

Boxing will occupy an important place among the sports at the local Y. M. C. A. in the future as a result of the Association having secured the services of C. W. Smith, an instructor who has had considerable experience both in the manly art itself and as trainer and instructor in several athletic clubs in the Middle West and on the Coast. Smith is a light weight of the Bat Nelson type and as sparring partner for Dick Hyland and Packy McFarland at various times has proven himself both fast and clever. He has never been willing to enter the ring as a fighter against professionals owing to parental objections.

For the past year he has been boxing instructor in the Kansas City Athletic Club where high class amateur bouts are put on every week and a number of fast fighters have been developed. Smith has also traveled in vaudeville boxing exhibitions both on the Coast and in Canada and has a remarkable clever defense. He is a clean-cut boxer and is considered a valuable addition to the physical department at the association.

C. W. Smith, who is to teach boxing at the Y.M.C.A.

The Y. M. C. A. in many cities has put a boycott on the boxing game because of the fact that it has been carried on largely for betting and commercial purposes rather than as real sport. Physical Director Reynolds at the local branch takes a different view in regard to the matter, however. He says, "The association should not stay out of boxing simply because it has not always been conducted in a sportsmanlike manner but should rather develop the art of fighting as it should be carried on, in an effort to put the sport on a better basis. The amateur athletic clubs and a few of the Y. M. C. A.'s in the Middle West have made a very successful effort in this direction and it is needed here in Los Angeles more than any place. We are up against a hard proposition as there is a question as to whether the local athletic clubs will stand with us, but we mean to make a try."

The A. A. U. rules for boxing limit the bouts to three rounds with an extra round in case of a draw and are very strict as to "knock down and drag out" fighting. Smith says the A. A. U. rules are followed very closely in the Middle West where strictly amateur fights are pulled off and the result is a better exhibition of skill and speed than is seen in the local preliminary bouts which are supposed to correspond to amatur bouts, although there are very few of the preliminary boys who fight for the pure love of the sport.

According to Reynolds the boxing matches carried on under the auspices of the Los Angeles Athletic Club are not strictly according to A. A. U. rules although they are much nearer so than those at the fight pavilions. A number of business men and gym men at the association have been signed up for the boxing classes and they expect to pull off regulation three round bouts as soon as they get in training and shape to make a good exhibition.

Want Rugby Game.

A delegation from the faculty at the University of Wisconsin will come to the Coast next summer to look up the matter of the Rugby football game. The efforts to introduce that form of football into the U. W. is meeting with a good deal of opposition and the authorities wish to have carefully worked out data on the question before it is finally settled.

Why is it

That, while other Automobile factories are either shut down or working short time with a small force, the E-M-F factory is shipping out sixty cars every working day?

WHY IS IT that the freight depots and warehouses of Los Angeles are crammed full of automobiles of other makes, while not one E-M-F can be found there?

WHY IS IT that, while agents for other cars, almost without exception, are complaining of poor business, we are selling every E-M-F car as fast as we can get them, and are begging for increased shipments from the factory?

WHY IS IT that we cannot keep a second-hand E-M-F car around the place, even if we wanted to? They are grabbed up at good prices as fast as we take them in exchange for new cars, and we usually have a waiting list.

WHY IS IT that the "For Sale" columns of the Los Angeles papers are full of advertisements offering large numbers of second-hand cars of every other make at ruinous prices, but you rarely ever see an E-M-F car offered at all, and when you do the owner wants almost the price of a new car?

YOU DON'T NEED to be an astrologer, or the seventh son of a seventh son, or have a university degree; just good every-day "horse sense" will furnish the correct answer to the above and many other similar questions of a similar nature that might be asked.

It is because the

is by long odds the best automobile proposition on the market today: a car absolutely without real competition.

In nine cases out of ten the owner of a Stearns is an experienced motorist. He has owned cars of other makes—has experimented with cheap machines and finally has come to the Stearns as the ultimate car.

When he purchased the Stearns he eliminated the continual up-keep expense that formerly he was forced to bear. He bought his car to keep—not to be turned in at the end of a year or two. He bought his machine as he would complete any other business deal—he looked to the future as well as to the present.

skins failed to make the showing against their opponents this year that has been their wont. In flying wedges, line bucking, hurdling and closed formation plays the Sherman boys always had everything else in the football line, which belonged to the South, outclassed.

John Galt, who was one of the star players of the team a few years ago, is to whip the Indians into shape and to play the full-back position on the team. Many of the players that are to compose the ex-St. Vincent eleven were on the team of the latter school two years ago, when it was beaten by the Sherman eleven by a score of 4 to 0, and a few of the boys have been waiting for a chance to get even with the redmen, and are going into the game to show the Indians up. The majority of the players on both sides are not in sympathy with the sport under the new rules, and it is expected that they will do all that is in their power to than has ever taken place in the history of athletic relations between the sport because of parental objections and others say they have had about all of the game that they care to play this year. Coach Ralph Noble says that he will not be able to get a team together that will be as strong as his championship bunch, but thinks that he will be able to produce a fifteen that will be more than a match for the Polytechnic team. Noble has the reputation of being the best Rugby football coach in the South and in two years has been able to make the best team in the State out of players that had previously no knowledge of the English game.

POLY BOYS EXCITED.

The Polytechnic aggregation is at a white heat because of the cancelling of the game scheduled with L.A. High for last Wednesday, and several of the members state that the hilltop boys will have tod play championship ball to defeat them in the carnival game. The Mechanics have been wanting to get a game with their rivals all season, but could not get the school authorities to allow it, and it was only after much pleading that permission to play the Wednesday game was obtained. The Polytechnic team was at one time the premier fifteen in the South, and a number of the men who schools. L. A. High will not have its regular team in the line up as several of the players have had to quit the were on the team at that time are to be in the carnival game.

Because of the rules of the institution, the aggregation has not met many outside teams this year, but the boys have been continually at it among themselves, having in view the possibility of a game with their rivals, the L.A. High fifteen, and are said by those acquainted with their playing to be able to put up a strong game.

The prep football team of Throop, with the fine showing that it has made in the Interscholastic League, having been one of the elevens which tied for the High School championship of Southern California in the American game, with the team from the Southern California Athletic Club, should make a good impression in the game as it used to be.

WRANGLERS TO BE WATCHED.

Proper precautions are to be taken by the management to prevent any trouble between the L. A. High students and the Polytechnic supporters. The student bodies of the two schools are evincing the keenest of rivalry and the Rugby football game between the teams representing the institutions is expected to be a more bitter struggle be a good exponent of the American game under the new rules. The majority of the players on the S.C.A.C. team were members of the U.S.C. eleven ot this year, which also had an equal claim with Throop for the championship. Ralph Rader, who coached the U.S.C. preps this season, is instructing the Athletic Club team, having had them out on the gridiron two or three times during the week. The winner of the contest should really be called the interscholastic champions of the South.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 14, 1910.

Howard Automobile Co.,

Gentlemen:—

Just returned from Santa Barbara in my new Model Ten Buick, and was more than pleased with the running of the machine.

I averaged 22 miles to one gallon of gasoline, and encountered no trouble, mechanical or otherwise.

The main reason for writing this letter will, no doubt, surprise even you. It was this:

I took the East and the West Casitas Pass, on the HIGH, with only two stops to change speeds, caused by teams passing me, which made it necessary for me to stop.

This being the second Buick I have driven, I should not be surprised at any "Stunt" I may pull off with it, but thought you should know what I did.

More than ever an ardent booster for the Buick I close,

Very truly yours,

J. N. CHERNISS.

The Startling Feature of the 1911 Season

Some Straight Facts

Which You Should Know Before You Buy a Low-Priced Car

1. At the end of the 1910 season many makers had large quantities of unsold 1910 cars on hand.
2. To move these they put new body designs on in some cases--In other cases, they threw in a glass front, etc.--Some times they openly dropped the price--because—
3. They had to move the cars out of their warehouses—
4. The New Hudson "33" is the only 1911 car with an entirely new—up to date—design.

Answer to yourself this question. Are you buying a 1910 left-over, all dolled up to sell?—OR—Are you buying a 1911—up to the minute car?

Don't Buy a Discount— Buy a Motor Car

If there ever was a time to buy a car with a reputation, now is the time.

There is a big difference between a cut price and a bargain.

There is also a difference between price cutting and low prices. The price of an inferior article is always a high price, no matter how much you may cut it.

An unknown broker might advertise cut prices on a diamond. But that wouldn't be a bargain. It would be a chance. If Tiffany advertised cut prices on a diamond, that would be a bargain. Because if Tiffany said it was a diamond it would be a diamond. But Tiffany is not going to advertise diamonds at cut prices. First, because diamonds are diamonds. Second, because Tiffany is Tiffany.

A diamond is a bargain at its list price at any time. So is a good motor car. A poor one is dear at any price.

When you buy a car you forget the price almost as soon as you sign the check. The car you cannot forget. You use that.

If it is a good car it serves you faithfully and proves worth everything you paid for it. If it is not a good car it causes you trouble and will not be worth even a small part of what you paid for it.

Buy a car at a discount and the probabilities are you will pay two or three times the sum you "saved" to get the service the price of the car should have included.

Why should a car that has been painstakingly made and honestly priced be sold at a discount?

A cut-price car either was not worth in the beginning all that was asked for it, or else it has depreciated in value as compared with other cars selling at the same list price.

Unless a car is a drug on the market it will sell without discounts. If it was a car of unusual value at the list price it wouldn't be a drug on the market.

There are a great many people in the world who spend a great deal of time trying to get something for nothing. Every one of them fails—always has and always will.

You cannot get a good automobile and the service that a good automobile should give without paying a fair price—a price which recompenses the manufacturer for designing and building the car and the dealer for his service in selling it to you and in taking care of you afterward.

You pay for just what you get and you pay for, and nothing more.

Chalmers cars have never been high-

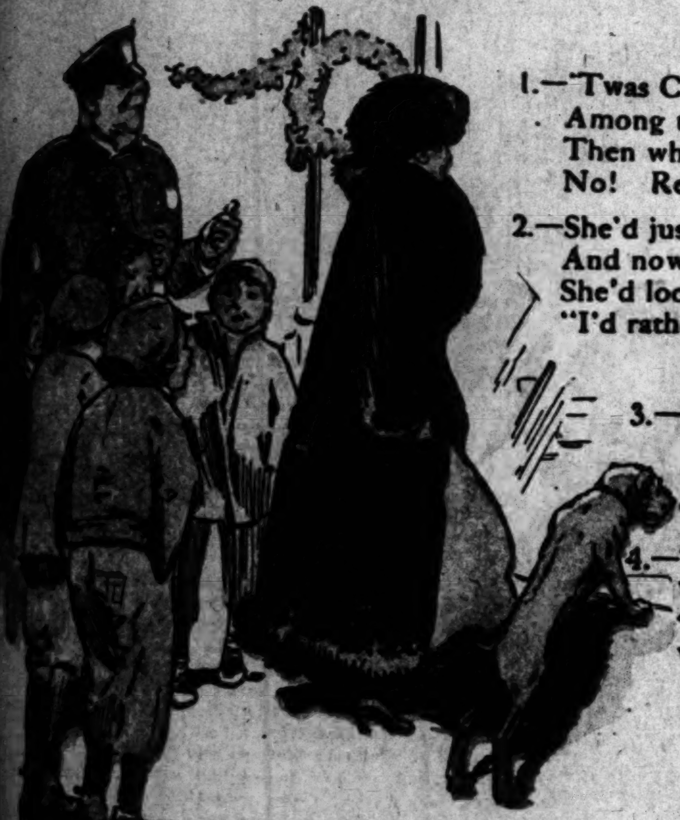
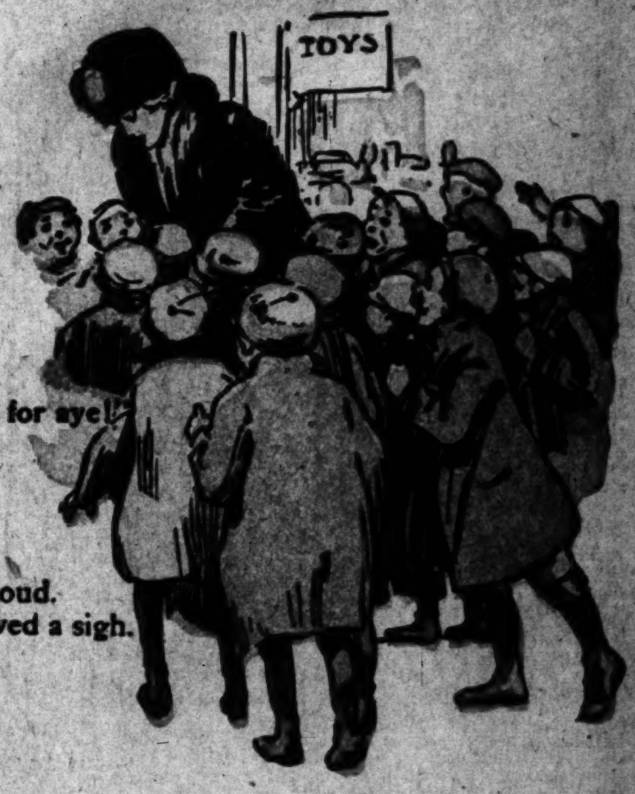
THE WIDOW WISE

Verses by Paul West — Drawings by W. H. Loomis



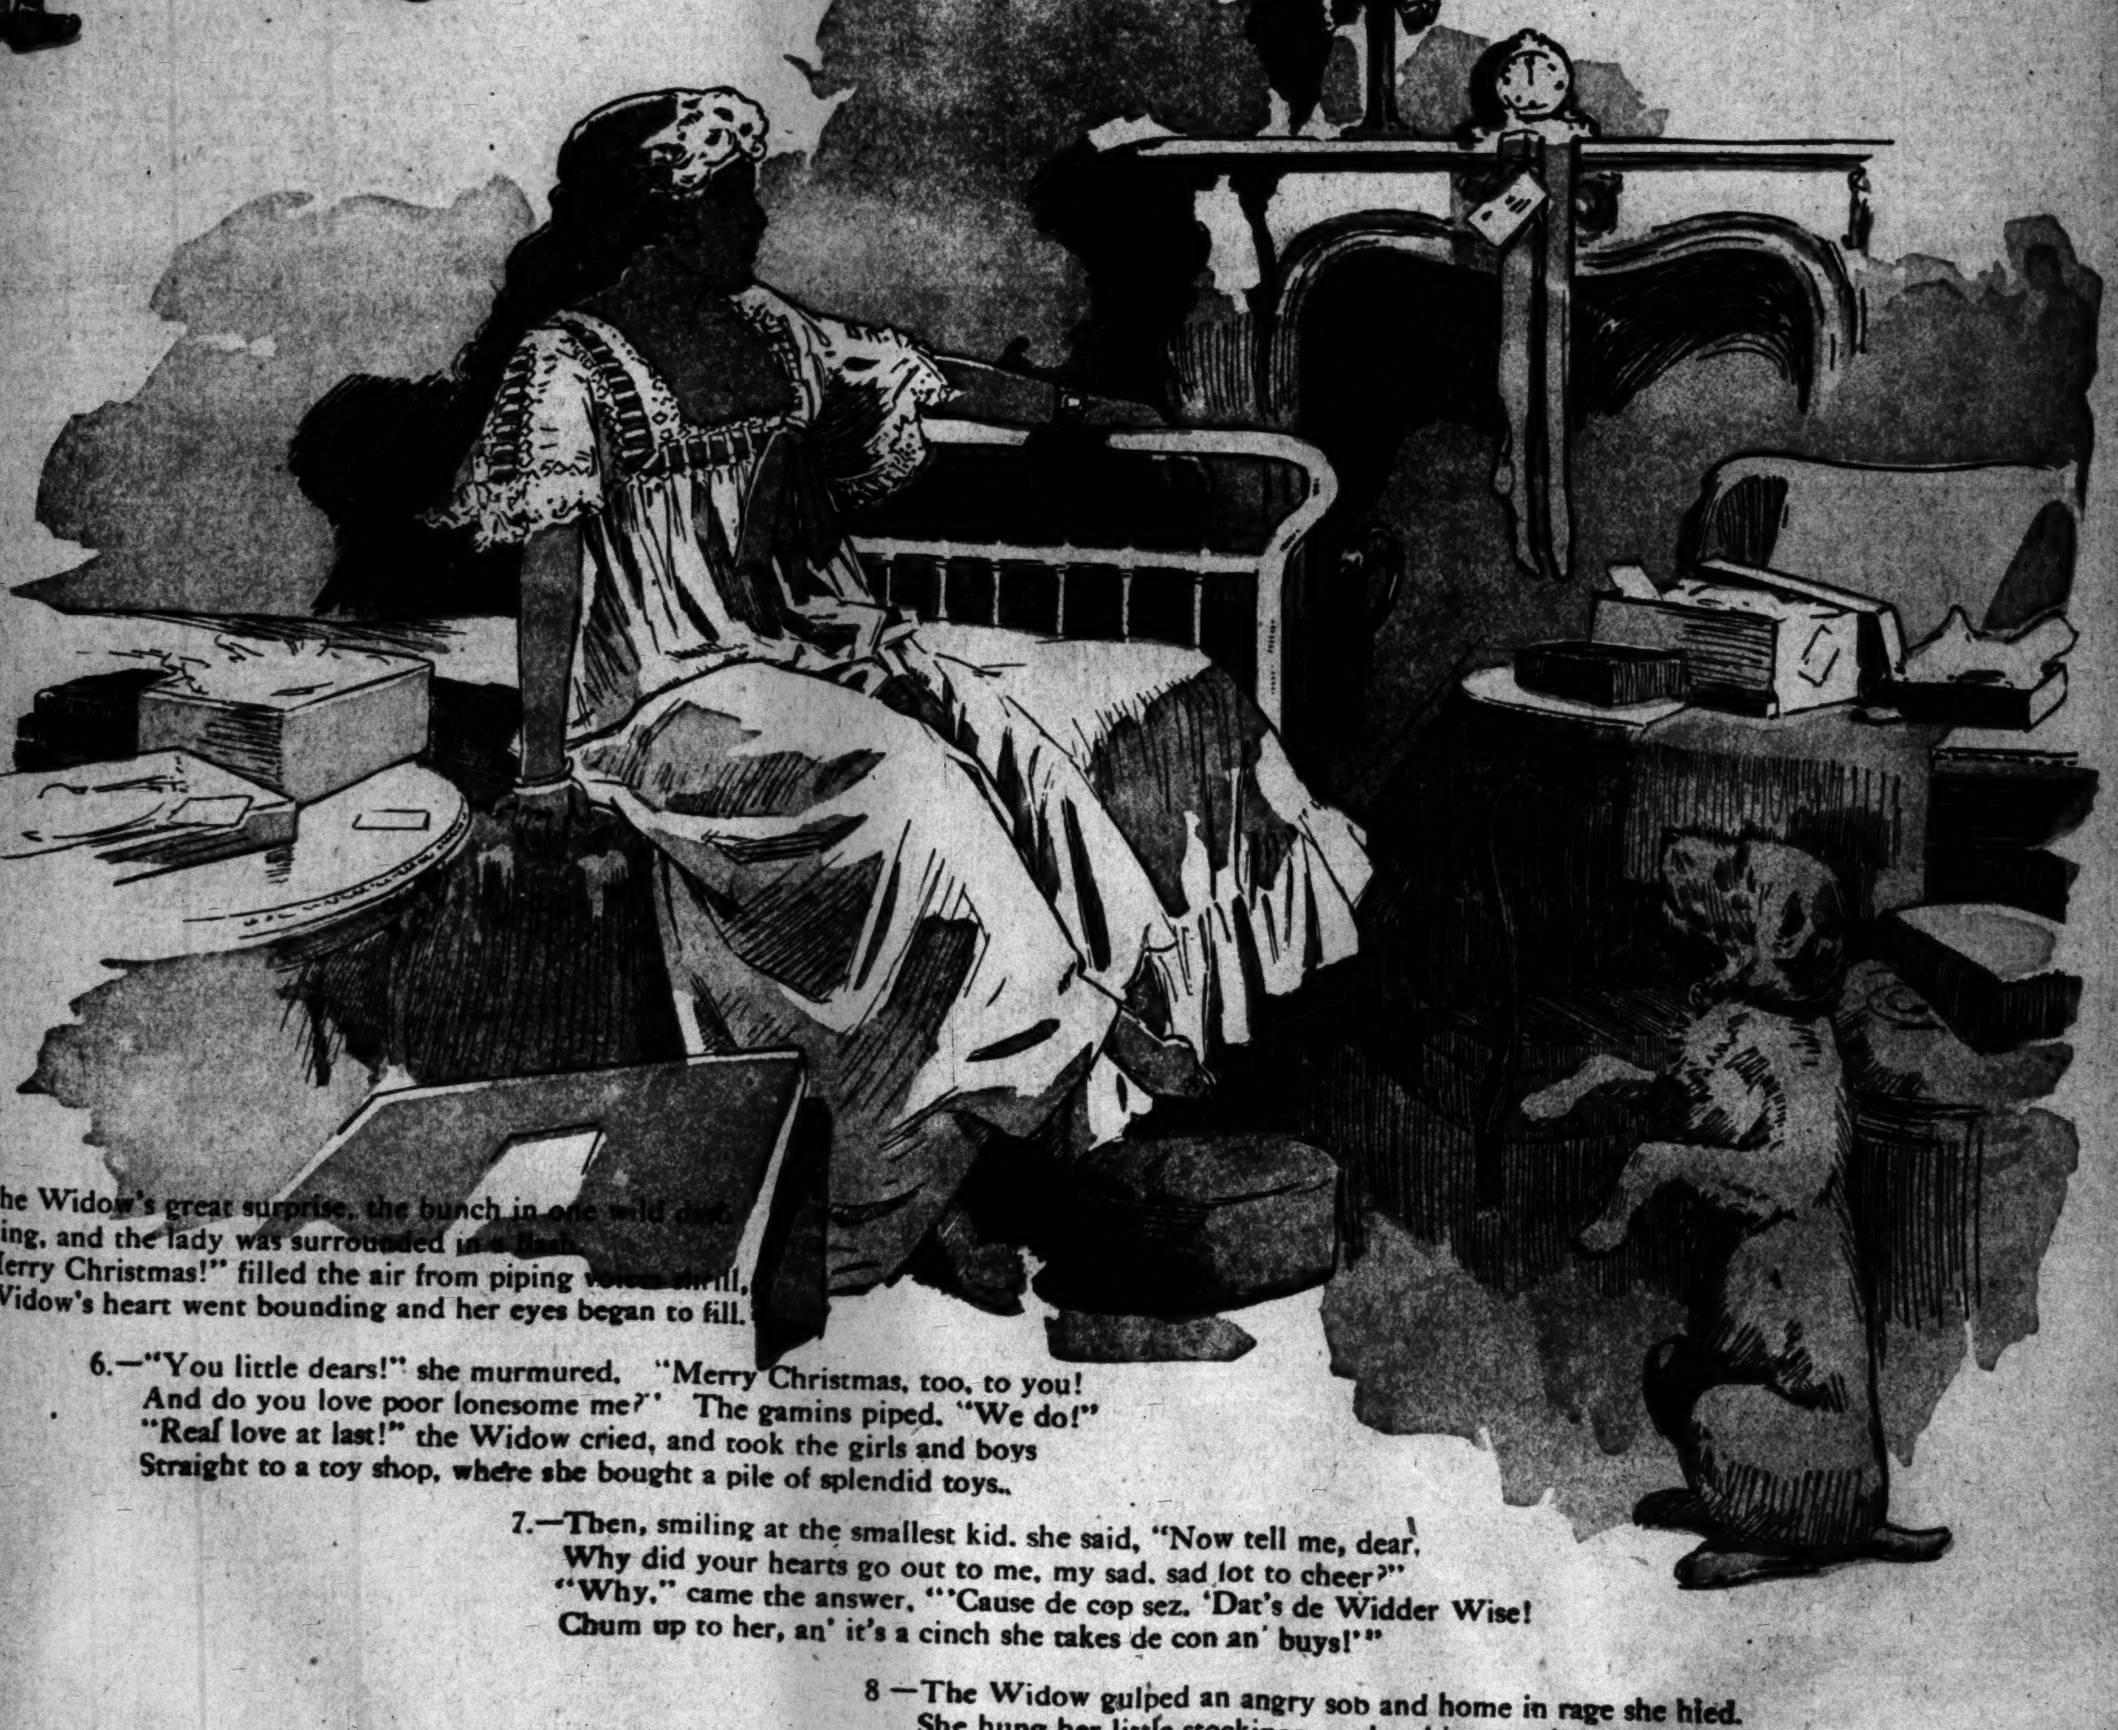
1.—'Twas Christmas Eve and laughter gay resounded everywhere;
Among the jolly shopping crowds a mournful face was rare.
Then who is this all sighs and sobs, with doleful, soulful eyes?
No! Really, can it be? It is—the charming Widow Wise!

2.—She'd just refused another man who'd wooed her for her gold.
And now her heart was full of woe and all the world seemed cold.
She'd looked her Christmas presents o'er—rings, watches, silken hose.
"I'd rather find one real, true love," she sighed, "than things like those!



3.—"True love!" she sneered. "There's no such thing! I'll give it up for aye!"
You see how very blue she was upon this joyful day.
When up the street she chanced to see a bunch of urchins small.
"There honest love exists," she cried, "if it exists at all!"

4.—The kids were ragged gamins and they eyed the passing crowd,
While the lonely Widow watched them and indulged in thoughts aloud.
"Like me," she cried, "they're sad to-night. Poor tots!" She heaved a sigh.
When suddenly she chanced to catch the smallest gamin's eye.



5.—Then, to the Widow's great surprise, the bunch in one wild dash
Came rushing, and the lady was surrounded in a flash.
While "Merry Christmas!" filled the air from piping voices shrill,
And the Widow's heart went bounding and her eyes began to fill.

6.—"You little dears!" she murmured. "Merry Christmas, too, to you!
And do you love poor lonesome me?" The gamins piped. "We do!"
"Real love at last!" the Widow cried, and took the girls and boys
Straight to a toy shop, where she bought a pile of splendid toys.

7.—Then, smiling at the smallest kid. she said, "Now tell me, dear,
Why did your hearts go out to me, my sad, sad lot to cheer?"
"Why," came the answer, "'Cause de cop sez, 'Dat's de Widder Wise!
Chum up to her, an' it's a cinch she takes de con an' buys!'"

8—The Widow gulped an angry sob and home in rage she hied.
She hung her little stockings up the chimney place beside,
And on them pinned a tearful note before she closed her eyes:—
"DEAR SANTA, FILL THESE UP WITH COMMON SENSE.
Yours, WIDOW WISE."

At Yule Tide

WHAT Christmas presents are you going to give this year? Have you thought of the mat- ar yet? Are you one of the fore- anded persons who are always ready head of time, or have circumstances r carelessness made you late in your reparations?

On the chance that you have not yet cured the gifts you intend to present the greatest holiday of the year, I ish to put in a plea on behalf of the iends and family you plan to bless or ague with your remembrances on the th of December. I would like you to stow a little time on thinking of just hat your gifts are to mean to them ho receive them.

Not from the side of love or senti- ent. The present is not valued ac- rding to its money cost by those who ve us. They look back of the actual ablem of our affection and see the irit which prompted it. But for my rn part, I would rather those to whom make gifts could find in them some- ing more than love alone, no matter w sweet that might be. I prefer they ould be able to hold the present in teem for its own sake, because it is autiful or suitable or useful, or all e. I don't wish them to care for it ly because I gave it and because they ve me and I love them. They might sure of this without the infliction of useless present.

hat is what many Christmas gifts —inflictions, disguise it as we may such phrases as: "Wasn't it sweet of to remember me on Christmas?" he thing itself is not much, but the ought is worth a great deal." "I ver look so much at her present as the love that prompted it," etc. We ow these phrases by heart. Never is there a Christmas that we don't have to repeat them, and more than once.

Yet this is not because we are hypercritical. We may be willing to be pleased and appreciative of trifles and keen in our perception of what is good and beautiful, and yet shudder at some of the gifts we receive on Christmas day. It is long enough ago now for me to recall the Christmas when one dear woman presented me with a bunch of thistledown bolls done up in bolting cloth on which were painted forget-me-nots; another sent me a pair of huge decorated vases which matched nothing else in my house, and three warm friends showed their devotion by large and ungainly gift books, too big for any one to look at with comfort and too heavy to be handled except by a trained athlete. I think it was that Christmas or the next that I received five silk workbags and seven fancy aprons.

In connection with these and similar experiences I am reminded of that unhappy clergyman and his wife who were so overwhelmed by the gifts they received from their devoted parishioners that once in every ten years they had a secret burial by night in the garden of the tokens which they had possessed long enough to dare dispose of them in this way without running the risk of the abominations being missed from their accustomed places. Also, I recall the true tale of a business woman who said she always had to live in an apartment adjoining a vacant lot because of the presents her stenographers gave her at Christmas and on birthdays! That lot was the bourne wither these souvenirs went, and whence they never returned.

Perhaps not all of us are thus afflicted; perhaps some of us have queer, soft-hearted compunctions which move us to keep the gifts which would give us shuddering horrors did we let our inclinations have their way. Whether this be the case or not, we know very clearly that we none of us wish our presents to any one to arouse either contempt or pity or to be looked upon as inconveniences preserved only for the sake of the love that lies back of them. And because I believe this, I am uttering today a protest against what I call Christmas trumpery.

Some of us buy such things for our friends from sheer laziness. We are not sure what to give, and we get the first thing which suggests itself, regardless of its being appropriate or serviceable. Or we see an object which is a little unusual or attractive and get it—for some one. "There is sure to be some one overlooked, and that will come in handy," we say. Or we cudgel our brains in vain for something which will meet our friends' supposed needs, and failing to scare up an idea, take something we don't care for, and that no one else is likely to want, in sheer desperation.

Now, I don't mean to underrate the trials and tribulations connected with the selection of Christmas presents. I know too well what they are. But I have hit upon what is for me the solution of the problem, and I am sure it will be of service to others as well as to myself.

Here it is then: When in doubt about a Christmas gift, choose something either useful or perishable.

Let me explain a little. Suppose the person for whom you are selecting a gift is a housekeeper. There is no doubt as to what to purchase for her. She wants more towels, or more doilies, or more centerpieces, or more bureau or sideboard covers—things she can put into use. Don't make them frilly, fussy things, either; but buy good damask or linen which will go into the tub when soiled. Or get her a casserole or nappies, which are serviceable and can stand daily wear and tear. Believe me, she will think far more of these than of bolting cloth and chiffon and lace and fixed-up fancy things. More than that, she will put them into service and break them up or wear them out and furnish you an outlet for future Christmas generosity!

But suppose she isn't a young housekeeper, or else that she has so many supplies of the sort I have mentioned that she doesn't need any more, if your imagination can go so far as that. Then give her something she won't have to keep. Send her a bunch of flowers, or a growing plant, or a basket of fruit, or a box of candy, or one of your famous mince pies or plum puddings, or a dozen of the unrivaled doughnuts, "like mother used to make." Here is the sort of gift she won't get from many persons, and it can be disposed of; it will fade or be eaten and be out of the way instead of standing around on the mantelpiece or hanging on a chair back or cluttering the table for months to come, liked by no one, but not to be thrown away—because "poor Jane gave it to me, and she would think it strange if she came in and didn't see it anywhere!"

When we think of what our friends endure from us in the way of Christmas gifts not only for a day, but through the year, it gives us a wonderfully good opinion of human kindness!

Try to raise the average of happiness in the world this year by giving your family and friends something they can use. In all human probability most of them have as many vases and ornaments and fancy workbags as they can employ for the remainder of their earthly pilgrimage. But wouldn't one of them like a shirtwaist pattern (and the money to make it up)? Wouldn't they like jabots or handkerchiefs or fine stockings—or perhaps silk petticoats, if you are liberally inclined? Or if you are in doubt on this matter, inclose a check or a crisp new bill of any denomination which comes handy in an envelope with a Christmas card and slip that into the holiday stocking, with a message to buy what is most wanted. You may be sure not to go amiss then.

In some families the excellent habit of Christmas lists prevails. Early in the Christmas preparations these lists are made out and hung up in a modestly conspicuous position, that those who read may run and buy the articles named therein. The only objection I see to the custom is the fear of disappointing the listmaker by not giving all the articles indicated. But if the children can understand that the list is a suggestion and not an order which is surely to be filled, even this objection is overruled. By the help of the list some idea may be obtained of what is really wanted, and two-thirds of the troubles of the giftmakers are removed. For the agony of the Christmas giving lies less in buying the presents, difficult as this sometimes is, than in determining what said presents shall be.

After all, Christmas present-making is an art to be studied, not to be taken up at random, with the idea that any one may excel in it. Granted that appropriate giftmaking seems to come by nature to some persons, the fact remains that to many more it is a painful process to decide upon a suitable gift even for the best beloved; witness the well-meaning efforts of the women who buy bargain cigars for their husbands, and of the men who perpetrate similar blunders with the intention of giving pleasure to their wives. The notion should be discouraged that any one can go out and buy a suitable and pleasing Christmas gift. I know of households in which so little attention is paid to it that small children are turned loose, unadvised and unaided, to spend their hard-earned and painfully saved pennies in buying Yuletide gifts for their parents and friends.

"Send her one of your famous pies."

"A suggestion, not an order."

"Women who buy cigars for their husbands."

"What they make is much more than what they buy."

The Housemothers' Exchange

IMPORTANT NOTICE

BECAUSE of the enormous number of letters sent to the Exchange, I must ask contributors to limit their communications to one hundred words, except in cases of formulas or recipes which require greater space. I want all my correspondents to have a showing in the Corner, and if my request in this respect is complied with it will be possible to print many more letters.

Apple Pie

I FULFILLMENT of my promise to a California correspondent, we present today the "good thing" she consented to bring to our notice, and for ich we had not room in a former is- :

lany of my friends say I make "the best ie pies going." I don't know why, for it a very simple recipe by which they are de. But here it is:

Others : Have everything as cold as possible l use a knife or a spoon, never the hands, mixing. This will make two good-sized a. Put it into a cool place. It will keep several days before it is baked, and nain good.

lice tart apples that cook quickly, cut m quite thin; all the pie-plates [illegible] nding full. Mix from half to two- rds of a cupful of sugar with a teaspoon- of flour for each pie. Strew thickly r and through the sliced apples. Grate f a nutmeg upon each, dot with bits of ter, fit on the top crust and bake in a derate oven until the apples are [illegible] with a straw.

f you cannot get tart apples, add a little on juice. Set the pies in such a position t the air can get under them in cooling. me day I will tell you how I make my tard, lemon and cream pies, also my pumpkin pie.

ou have seen, before this, the New land way of making churnless butter, and divers others. Let us have the t of the recipes. nd anything else that has your approval.

A Pie Difficulty

wish to consult you with regard to a ficulty I have experienced in making mpkin pies. They look very attractive en drawn from the oven, but in a few are they fall and the next day they have mingly settled to nothing, and are very ightly. What should be done to the tard to make the pie remain full and the second day?

May I offer two valuable suggestions to taken from the remedies I [illegible] for pneumonia: Soak a flannel cloth in kerosene. It should be large enough to ver throat and chest. have yet to hear for the first e that kerosene may be used with efit to the patient in cases of umonia and sore throat. The ives of the regions in which the ural oil was first discovered called "St. Jacob's oil" and made lavish of it as a remedial agent. Care st be taken to avoid blistering. I ve in mind the case of a woman ut whose abdomen the physician nd a bandage steeped in kerosene, ared it after the manner of a "pack," and left it on for twenty-four hours. It flayed the parts treated and came near costing her her life.

As to the sinking pies, I incline to the suspicion that you get the mixture too thin. Drain all the liquid from the pumpkin before adding this to the eggs, milk and sugar. Cook it thoroughly before straining. There are thickening properties in pumpkin or squash that are developed by cooking. And do not be penurious with your eggs. If you cannot afford the right number, beat in a teaspoonful of cornstarch for each pie.

A Dish for the Gods

I have noted with interest the various recipes with high-sounding names that have appeared in the Exchange. May I contribute another to swell the list?

Ambrosia

Six bananas, [illegible] oranges, 1 small pineapple, all peeled and sliced thin; 1 small package of shredded cocoanut, [illegible] sugar.

Arrange in a deep dish in layers, banana, orange, sugar, cocoanut, pineapple, until all are used up, with the pineapple [illegible] top layer. Keep in the icebox until you are ready to serve.

The blending of these fruit flavors combine to make a dish that deserves the title, "food of the gods."

I do not want to weary you, but here is a good rule for

Steamed Dumplings

Sift 1 heaping pint of flour twice with 1 even teaspoonful of baking powder and 1 teaspoonful of salt. Rub in with this 1 rounded teaspoonful of lard or butter. Incorporate thoroughly. Stir in a good half pint of milk, or if you have not enough milk, add water to make up the quantity. Mix with a spoon into a soft dough. Drop this quickly by the spoonful into a hot steamer set over a kettle of boiling meat.

Steam just twenty-five minutes, and be sure not to lift the cover of the steamer "to peep in" until the time is up. These are enough dumplings for five persons. They are nice served with veal stew and brown gravy. Lay them in a hot covered dish and pour the gravy over them.

Pardon so many words. I have tried to be brief.

I make good Russian rusks. Do you want the recipe? J. M. (Fairmont, S. D.).

I have been trying so long to slip your admirable contribution into our narrow limits that I fear you are clean discouraged from ever letting us handle anything of yours in the future. Next time, we will make a niche for you, since you have half promised to give us other recipes. It is a positive pleasure to read manuscript like yours—the next best thing to typewriting in legibility, and far more graceful. You will grant us a second trial, will you not?

Cold Luncheons

My attention has been called to your thoughtful and much-needed paper upon "the cold luncheon." I thank you for the effort to open the eyes of parents to the truth that they are subjecting children to all the perils of malnutrition by the almost universal system of sandwich and cake luncheons eaten during intermission. The students bring to this midday meal stomachs faint with hunger and overstrained, with all other organs, by hours of incessant application. A sensitive child is almost a nervous wreck by the time the forenoon's recitations are over. When he has, superadded to this, the dread of probable impositions in the form of "keepings in" after school hours and tutorial admonitions, the digestive apparatus is far below concert pitch. To cram the empty or unwilling stomach with hunks of solid bread and meat, cold and hard, and bolted abstractedly to fill the aching void, or to relieve faintness, is to take a liberty with nature which she is sure to resent.

Then, with the vague instinct that the "fizz" of the draught will somehow make the wrong right, the child spends 5 cents for ice cream soda! Have parents any conception, let me ask again, what a vice this ice cream soda habit has become in our schools? The cold luncheon disheartens the gastric juices in their work; the frozen beverage benumbs them into uselessness.

More power to your elbow! Cannot you secure data from schools and colleges that have set on foot measures to stop this crying evil by substituting warm luncheons served at a reasonable rate, for the frozen "chunks" aforesaid, and other beverages than the baneful ice cream soda?

AN INSURGENT (Kansas City, Mo.)

The foregoing energetic protest was sent direct to me without the intervention of newspaper office. Immediately upon receipt thereof I set about collecting that data our masculine member desires to get.

I am happy to be able to lay before him and other "insurgents" a bona fide letter from one who has the best possible opportunities of acquiring information upon this head:

"The Barnard College luncheon room supplies its students a hot luncheon for 15 cents. It consists of soup, meat and one vegetable, bread and butter, tea, and a portion of dessert. Soup and dessert may be had for 5 cents each with bread and butter; also glass of milk at the same price. These are designed to supplement the luncheons the students may have brought from home. The meat and vegetable, with bread and butter, may be had for 10 cents. I append a menu:

Cream of tomato soup, hamburger steak, or, if preferred, steak to order cooked in any way designated; baked potatoes, or, if preferred, [illegible] salad; brown or white bread and butter, tea, spiced ice. Price, 25 cents. This may be called "A table d'hote luncheon." H. M. C. (New York city).

The thanks of the Exchange and of mothers in general are hereby tendered to the friend who lays to our hand information bearing directly upon the vexed question.

Mothers of school children are cordially invited to contribute their views of the important matter.

A Bible Concordance

I would gladly pay the postage upon that Bible concordance. I have longed for years to possess such a treasure.

We live where the drought struck our crops hard. This over, the [illegible] was eaten up by grasshoppers, bugs and worms. R. C. ([illegible], Okla.).

You do not give the signature of the person offering the concordance. I am quite positive that the only book of that kind put at our disposal has been called for and is no longer accessible. In sincere sympathy with those whose substance "the locusts have eaten" I print your request. Bible students will understand your longing and probably satisfy it.

When Cooking Cabbage

As my contribution to the Exchange, I pass along a recipe for cooking cabbage which, it is guaranteed, will not fill the house with the usual disagreeable odor.

Odorless Cabbage

Cut the cabbage into quarters; cover with cold water and let it stand in this for an hour. Drain, and lay in rapidly boiling water, salted, into which you have stirred half a teaspoonful of soda. Boil half an hour, keeping the pot covered and at a rapid boil all the time. Use a large pot, so that you can have plenty of water, and let it boil violently. Serve with melted butter or with cream sauce, as you may prefer. Don't boil longer than half an hour.

May we not have some recipes for putting up the southern California fruits—figs, guavas, etc.? I am at present a "roomer," but hope to be in my own house by the next preserving time. I should like, especially, a recipe for making guava jelly.

P. E. M. (Los Angeles, Cal.).

The recipes will be forthcoming from your fellow-Californians in good time.

Your plan of keeping the cabbage while boiling discreetly odorless differs from that practiced successfully in my kitchen. We cook cabbage and its cousin-german — cauliflower — in plenty of boiling salted water and keep it at a galloping boil all the time. But we do not cover the pot, and set beside it on the range a small saucepan containing boiling vinegar. The fumes of the vinegar seem to kill the cabbage smell. I can account in no other way for the glad fact that we never know when cauliflower and cabbage are in cooking, or suspect their presence in the house until they come to table.

In Place of Ice Water

I send you a description of a primitive water cooler in use in our home. It is not always practicable to get ice all the year round and the price of the luxury has gone up with every thing else except brains!

Homemade Water Cooler

Have ready two perfectly new and clean flower pots of the largest size. They must not be painted, or glazed, inside or out. Fit corks in the drainage holes. Set in large pan and fill with water. Cover closely. Within a couple of hours you will have water as cold as you ought to drink. This is the plan of the Mexican "olla" (oya). By having two pots there may be cold water in one while the other is cooling.

Mrs. J. F. E. (Colorado Springs, Col.).

In the east we had cold water kept in earthenware flasks, very porous. They were wet on the outside continually, the evaporation through the pores of the ware keeping the water within cold. I suppose your homemade cooler is constructed upon the like principle. I wish you had been a little more circumstantial in the sketch. Is the pan also filled with water? And of what material are the covers of the pots?

Will somebody test the marvelously simple contrivance and let us know how it works?

Wanted—Black Cake Recipe

I have mislaid a recipe for black cake which I clipped from the Exchange some time ago. Will you kindly reprint it? I suppose we would call it fruit cake, but in that particular recipe it was black cake. C. A. H. (York, Pa.).

I could not engage to recover the formula without other guide than the name of the cake. Somebody who cut it out and did not mislay it will make good the loss.

Buttermilk Soup

I am interested in the "Buttermilk Soup" (?) question, and when you ask at what stage of the meal it should be served, I feel at liberty to write.

This article of diet, I am sure, originated in the country, where dainties for the sick were difficult to procure. My mother made it and called it "mulled buttermilk." As such it was delicious, and reminded one of "mulled cider" and other beverages which taste better for having a pleasant-sounding name.

It was served generally as a light gruel for convalescents, or for Sunday evening tea, when the days were getting short and cold. It was never part of a meal. When little (or big) folks were recovering from ague and fever, it was fine! It was made as follows and served piping hot—alone or with bread:

Mulled Buttermilk

Heat the milk; add a pinch of salt and a tablespoonful of light-brown sugar to each pint of the milk; a small "grate" of nutmeg and cornmeal, sifted in slowly until it is of the consistency of thin gruel. Boil up and serve. S. V. H. (Fort Wayne, Ind.).

The "mull" was not unlike the thickened milk with which the "Jersey Dutch" housemother used to regale her brood on stormy days. Hers was based upon sweet milk and thickened with flour. In all things else, the two were near akin. We are "interested" in your sequel to the buttermilk soup discussion.

Uncooked French Candy

I am but 12 years old, but I want to answer the inquiry for uncooked French candy. I have made it often. Here it is:

For the "fondant," break the whites of two eggs into a bowl; add an equal measure of cold water, and stir in powdered sugar until the mixture is thick enough to be shaped into balls with the fingers. Flavor, in mixing, with any essence you like. Mold into little balls half an inch in diameter and press into each half an English walnut on each side of the ball. Tear figs and dates apart, leaving them joined at the stem end, fill with oblong pieces of the fondant and press together at the bottom. Melt some chocolate over a boiling tea-kettle; make balls of the fondant and dip them into the chocolate.

Will some friend kindly tell me how to candy violets and other flowers?

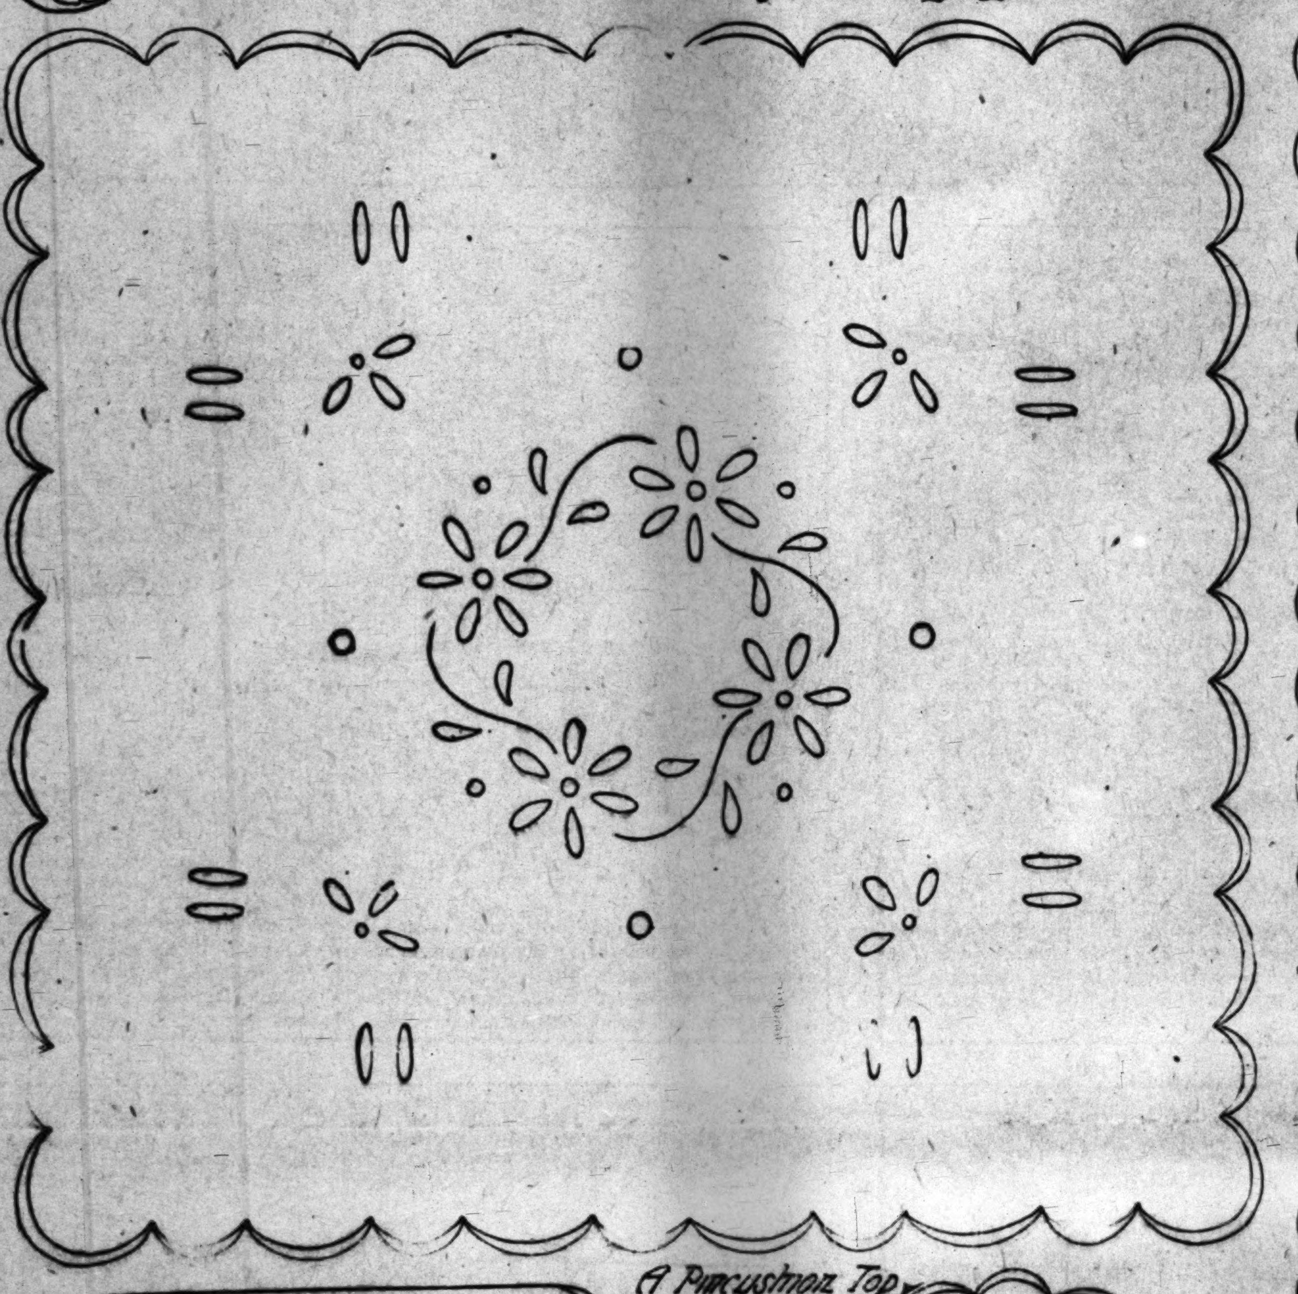
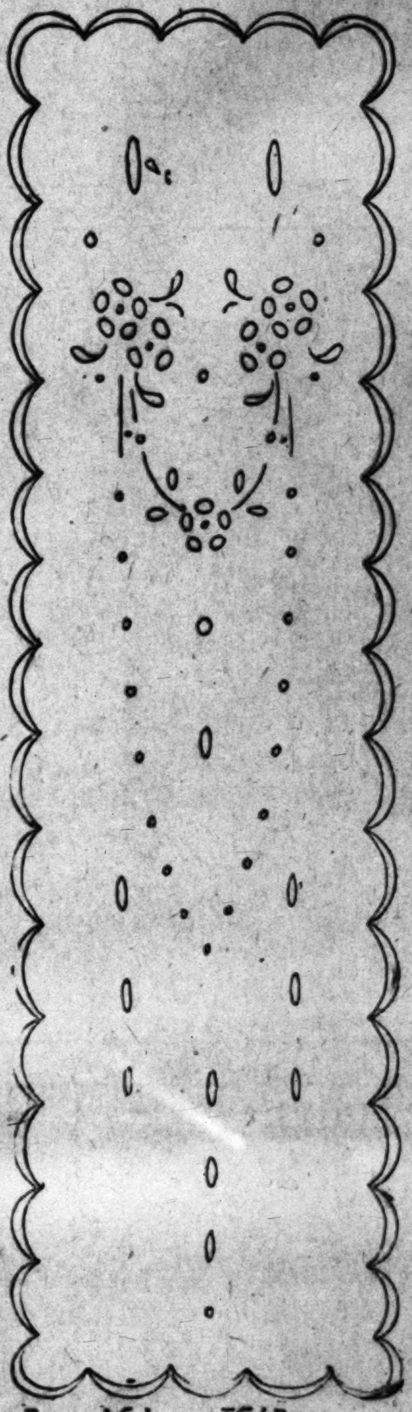
Eleventh Hour Suggestions for Gifts

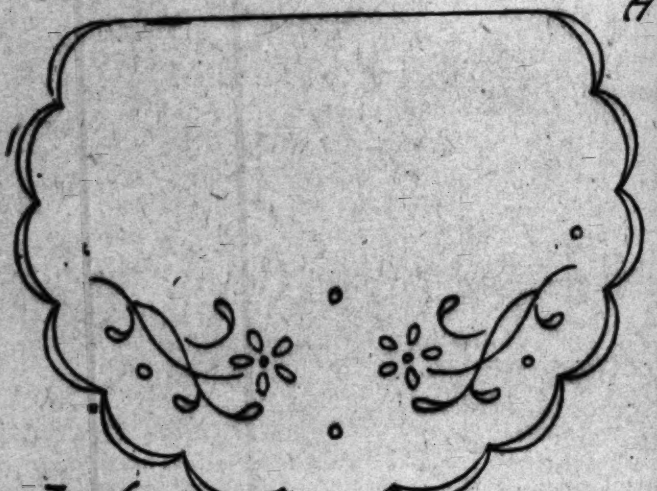


A Pincushion Top

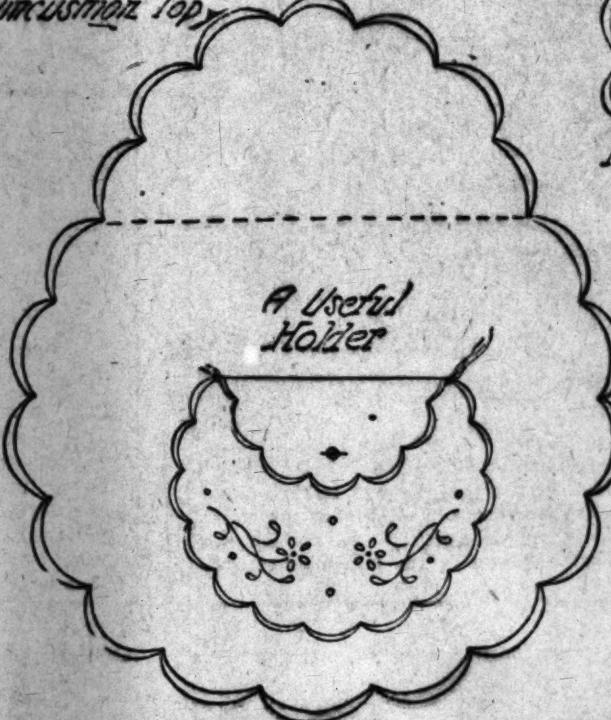


For a Hatpin Holder

Designed by E. J. BUCKMAN



Top of Bag



Back of Money Bag

JUST one week before Christmas and you have hunted and hunted and have not found the little inexpensive gifts down on your list. Are you worrying? Never mind! Here are three suggestions for embroidery on little gifts, each one of which can be made in an evening.

There's a square pincushion, for instance, that can be embroidered, and with the back surface can be bound over a silk form that you can purchase for a trifle.

Work the flower forms in solid stitch and the leaves on each side of the stem in the same way. The centers should be eyelet work and the larger dots worked in the same way. For variety work the little half forms in each corner in eyelet work. This will give a combination that is effective, for through the openings the colored cushion will show; and then, too, there is relief for the eye and the hand of the worker.

Pad the scallops and work in buttonhole stitch. For the back the same square is used, with the slots for running the ribbon through. The central flower design, of course, is unnecessary. With colored ribbon to match the foundation, this pincushion is a charming gift for a friend.

How about a little bag for money or jewels? The useful holder is shown in the finished sketch buttoned down securely and suspended on a ribbon that is tied around the neck or to the inside of the corset. The plain portion is the back. The whole should be of medium-weight linen. Pad the scallops and work in buttonhole stitch.

Now, when doing the top of the little bag, allow for a hem on the upper edge. Work the scallops as usual and the little forget-me-nots in either white mercerized cotton or white and blue. Work a buttonhole in the flap of the first piece, attach a button to the last made disk and sew the two parts together along the inner edges of the scallops. Just at the bend of the back part, shown by a dotted line, sew a narrow, strong white ribbon or linen tape. If the little carrier be for jewels, a chamois lining should be cut, the two sides buttonholed together and the little pocket slipped in, but not attached.

The long design is a new idea for a hatpin holder. It is the upper surface. There is another piece exactly like the top in shape, and two buttonholed slots. The two pieces are stitched together and ribbon is run through the holes at the top, holding a glass test-tube inside. The latter costs 5 cents for one of medium size.

Work the flower clusters in solid stitch and let the chain of little dots and the three lines of ovals be eyelet work. Pad the scallops and work in buttonhole stitch. Run white or colored ribbon through the slots. If you wish you can give this dainty thing with a pretty hatpin in the holder.

Here are three ways to help you out in the last week of perplexity. And remember that, after all, the gift with a little of the giver's loving work in it is doubly appreciated.

What is Meant by Knitting Terms

WOMEN often write to me to kn what is meant by the terms u in directions for knitting. It for those of my readers and for othe similarly placed that I print the follo ing explanations:

Casting on stitches—Make a loop in the yarn and slip it on a needle; next slip the second needle into the loop, throw the yarn around it, draw it through and slip the loop then formed to the left-hand needle, which is thrust through it from front to back. Into the second loop put the right-hand needle, make another loop and slip in on the left-hand needle, and repeat to the required number of stitches.

Knitting plain—Cast on the numbe of stitches required, and insert the right-hand needle into the first stitch throw the yarn over, and draw it through to form a loop. Repeat for all the stitches on the left-hand needle.

Seaming or purling—Throw the yarn from its usual position at the back of the work to one in front of the right-hand needle; then insert the point of this needle under the next stitch thrusting it through from right to left, instead of as in knitting plain. The right-hand needle is now in front of the left-hand one; then throw the thread around the right-hand needle, the same as in plain knitting, but draw the loop backward instead of forward. Purl as many stitches as required, and then throw the yarn back of the needle again.

Slipping a stitch—Slip from the left hand to the right-hand needle, without knitting the stitch.

Increasing or making a stitch—Knit one and purl one in the same stitch or throw the yarn in front of th needle and knit plain.

Decreasing or narrowing a stitch—Knit two stitches together as one.

Binding off stitches—Slip one, knit one; with the left-hand needle draw the one slipped stitch over the knitte one. Continue slipping the first stitc over the last knitted stitch unt there is only one stitch left on th needle; break off the yarn and dra it through this last stitch.

Hatpins and Hairpins

THERE are all sorts of cushions ar holders now made for holdin those two necessities of feminin life, hatpins and hairpins. Many these can be made at home for Chris mas gifts.

There is the hatpin cushion, which really an elongated pincushion, made soft plush and padded over a basket cardboard ring covered with damask a bordered with gimp or galloon.

Then there is the combined hatpin a hatholder, which is really a cushio of the sort just described with a cr tonne-covered stick fastened to its bac and surmounted by a padded circle wood or heavy cardboard. On this t hat is placed.

The hatpin box may be fashioned fro a glove box. It is covered outside wi ribbon and lace and artificial flowe (padding with sachet-sprinkled cott is a pretty touch), and the bottom of th box inside is divided into compartmen either by wire spiral fastened into it by velvet-covered cardboard divisio like those in boxes for silverware.

Hairpins also have their cushion nowadays. They are very much li small, round pincushions, and so a variety of style is permissible. Th novelty, however, consists in th cushion top, which may be of light bu lap, net or a kindred wide-meshed m terial (one I saw recently was really wire strainer over thin silk, with i binding concealed by a lace ruffle); a in the stuffing, which must be very loo and yet compact, bran or cotton was is best.

Finally there is the crocheted hai pin holder, consisting of many crochete loops, in the style of children's hor reins, on which the hairpins are hun One pretty holder of the sort show a doll's head for the top. A pink ribb bow is tied under her chin to faste her lace cap, and incidentally to co ceal the fastening also of the dozen so long loops of pink crochet yarn.

Fur Time

NOW that fur season is again upo us, there are many of us wh have fur garments we will n trust to professional renovating. He are a few hints which will prov useful:

Cut fur always from the skin sid and with a knife, not a pair of sci sors. Cut the skin through and th fur will come apart of itself.

When you are piecing the fur, b sure to fit it so that the fur runs the same direction on both piece You can tell this in thick fur, where is not easily visible, by brushing rubbing the fur and seeing in whic direction the hairs lie.

Sew fur not by seaming, whic makes an ugly ridge, but by overcas ing with a heavy thread which h been previously rubbed with sho maker's wax.

Furs may be washed in a suds lukewarm water and white casti soap. Shake the fur upside down the suds, being careful not to ru with the soap itself. Dry by faster ing on a board, fur side down a well stretched, after rinsing two three times in clear, cold water.

White furs may be washed in th same way as the above, but a litt washing ammonia should be added the soap and water. This keeps the fu white and makes it fluffy.

Never try to brush fur to clean i long-haired furs, however, may b combed out with a coarse com Muffs should be shaken out befor using them. Never hold a muff clo to your body; it wears the fur a in time.

Presents for the Men

THERE are many little things which may be made for men, and which will be really acceptable. Here are a few of them, now that "Christmas is coming."

Knitted cravats in his favorite color, in plain pattern or in fancy stripes.

A knitted silk scarf or muffler for cold winter weather. The scarf, of course, is for wear with evening dress.

A crocheted or ribbon watch fob with a hammered coin as ornament. The ring and the fob attachment may be purchased at any jeweler's.

Initialed handkerchiefs or those marked with his monogram. Perhaps a plain border design may be added, especially in a silk handkerchief.

Laundry, collar and cuff or soiled handkerchief bags in tan linen, with an embroidered or stenciled monogram.

A leather tobacco pouch. Do not forget the initials which make it really his!

A knitted sweater or golf jacket, if you are looking for a really nice gift.

A match tray, consisting of a glass saucer covered with raffia, and with a raffia holder at the side for the matchbox.

A roll of narrow white tape, with his autograph worked in black wash silk, for sewing on underwear, etc.

A triangular bookmark made of two pieces of thin cardboard, covered with silk and lined with chamois and then sewed together, so that the leaf can be slipped between and the book closed.

A burlap case for playing cards, chamois lined and bound with metallic upholsterer's gimp. Glove fasteners hold the pocket shut.

An embroidery hoop, the lower half wound with ribbon for a tie-holder, the upper half covered with cretonne stuffed with cotton for a tiepin cushion.

A coat hanger covered with chamois and with cotton-stuffed pads at the ends for the shoulders of the coat.

A combined penwiper and paperweight, being a flat stone or piece of wood covered with burlap, and then half a dozen leaves of chamois held to it by a strip of furniture gimp sewed all around.

A traveling tie and handkerchief case: pockets for the handkerchiefs and straps for the ties to go under. The outside is burlap, the lining linen, and there is cardboard between. Glove fasteners again effect a closing.

For the Baby

A CAP.

A bib.

A baby pillow.

A pair of linen bootees.

A lawn or nainsook gown.

An underskirt with a linen body.

Tiny white silk socks or stockings.

A veil for winter weather.

White or pink or blue mittens for the same season.

All of these embroidered or knitted or crocheted or somehow done by hand for love of the baby.

Sewing Heavy Linen

HEAVY fabrics, linen especially, are very hard to sew even when they are new. Any one who has done much hemming of napkins, towels and tablecloths does not need to be told this. This stiffness may be overcome and the work made much easier by keeping at your side a glass of warm water and dipping your fingers into it as you work. The linen is then softened.

Three Christmas Gifts

DOWN south, "befo' de wah" the darkies used to gather on Christmas morning and plead to each member of the family, "Christmas gif', massa! Christmas gif', miss!" Nowadays our friends and relatives sometimes seem to utter the same words, in effect, all December. Here are three bright ideas: the first for Sister Dolly, the second for Aunt Jane and the third for Greataunt Eliza.

Of three small gray chamois skins, cut two in the shape of a bag, 6x6 inches, and the pieces exactly alike. The corners must be rounded. Machine-stitch these together, with the two top edges left open. Around this top cut a row of eyelets large enough to hold No. 2 ribbon; from the third skin cut a circle the usual size for a face chamois. As before, run eyelets and ribbon through this also. From the pieces left from the third skin (cut carefully!) make still a third bag exactly like the others. In this place the powder. Thus your triple bag is "always ready."

Get a pair of lamb's-wool slipper soles, such as those used for crocheted slippers. Gather three-inch ribbon on one edge and sew it to the soles. Do this by turning the ribbon wrong side out and backstitching around the sole and then turning the ribbon over. Hem the top or shirr it over elastic and run in a ribbon drawstring. Here is a pair of pretty and useful ribbon slippers.

Get a candy box (of course, I mean get as many candy boxes as you have candy-loving friends and relatives) and cover it with flowered silk, sewing in place at the corners. Cut about an eighth of an inch too long at top and bottom and paste neatly down with library paste. Over the bottom of the box paste a piece of glazed white paper, cut so that just a border of the silk shows all around. Do the same at the top, lining with the glazed paper. Then fill the box with homemade candy—and there you are!

The Stem Stitch

STEM STITCH may be embroidered on the machine as well as by hand. Here is the method followed:

Sew with rather a short stitch along the stamped lines. Be sure to follow pattern directly. Then thread a needle with embroidery silk and pass the needle and thread, eye first, under each stitch. Keep on the upper side of the material. If it is thin fabric, put paper underneath before working.

This method results in a well-raised cord that is obtained in much quicker time than by hand embroidery, and is, besides, quite as effective.

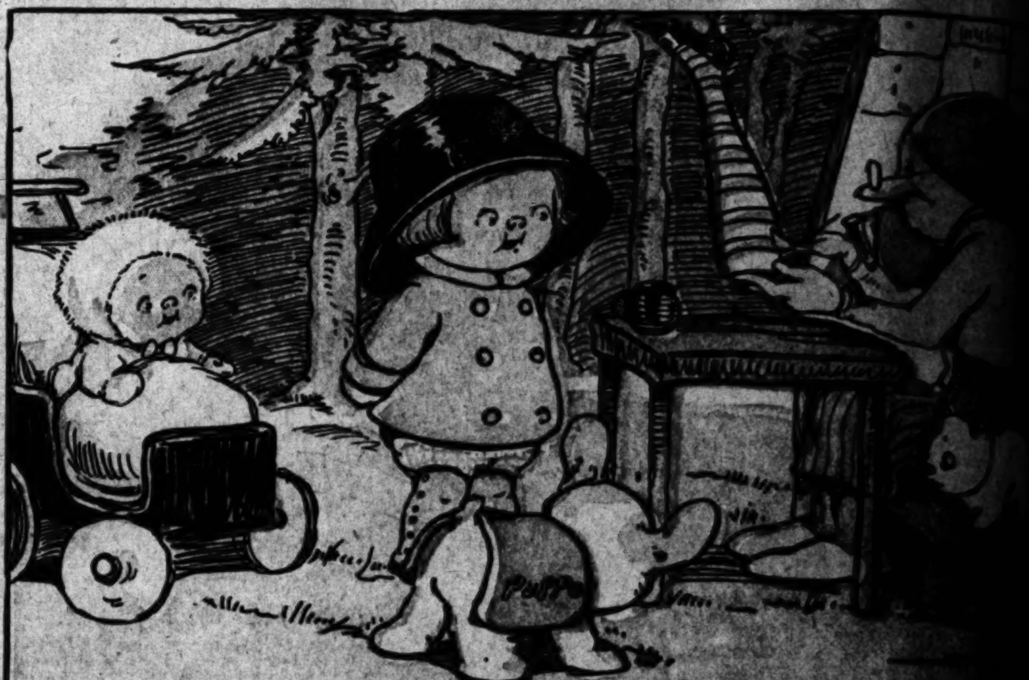
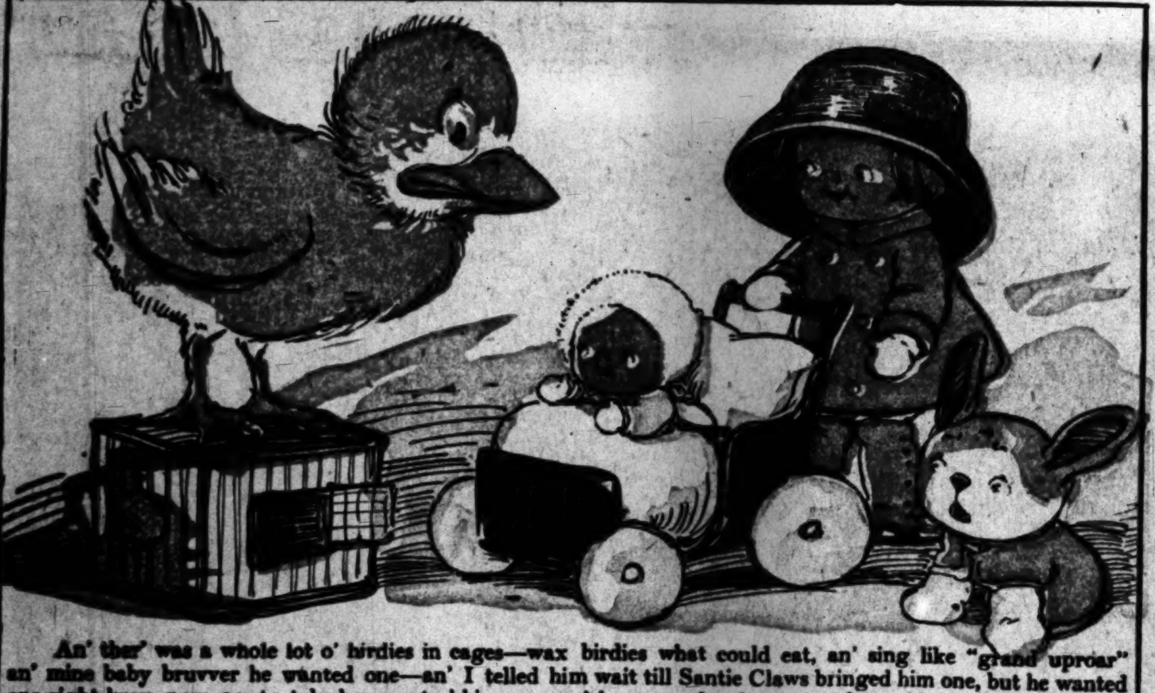
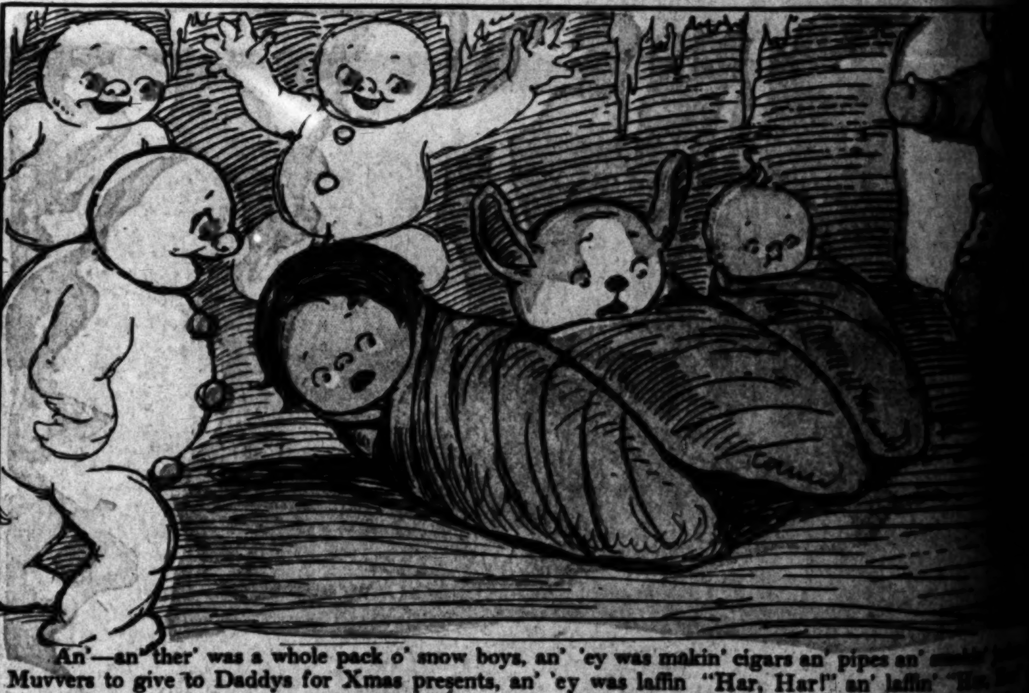
I been goin' to Sunday School lately—a magniferous place, an' I been learnin' to be a splendiferous good 'ittle boy, an' I been learnin' to sing—er—hims, or heers—I don't know 'zackly what ther' names is but 'ey is songs 'bout wantin' "to be a n'angel, an' wif the angels stand, a—a—a—crown upon my—my buzzum an' —an' a 'shark' wif in my hand." Anyways it's a n'orful place to go, an' lots o' uvver 'ittle girls goes too. Puppo he can't 'cause 'ey doesn't not take dogs.



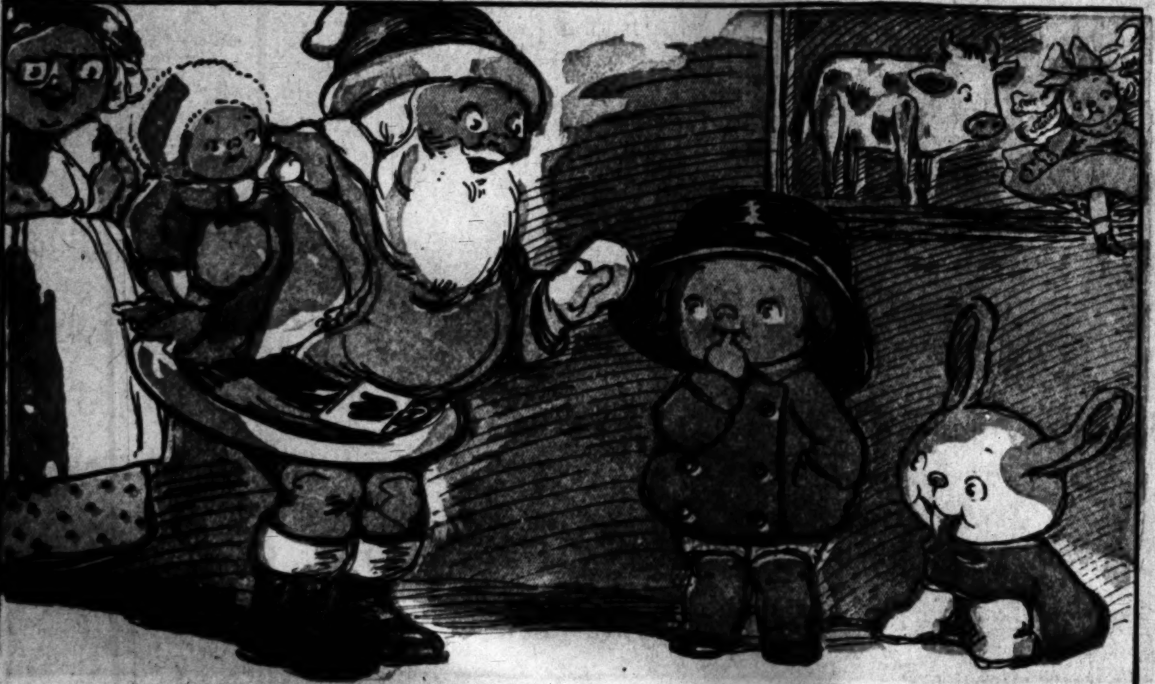
Puppo was waitin' for me outside an'—an' the baby bruvver was wif him—Puppo had go-cart, an' we wented to the place wher' Santie Claws is makin' all o' the nice fings for girls—an' ther' was a lot o'—o' gobble-uns—an' 'ey was makin' packs o' wonderfules' fings gies—an' airships—an' funnygraffs—an'—an' a wooden leg for a poor lady what on'y naughty mobeel runnin' over the uvver one. Poo-or fing!



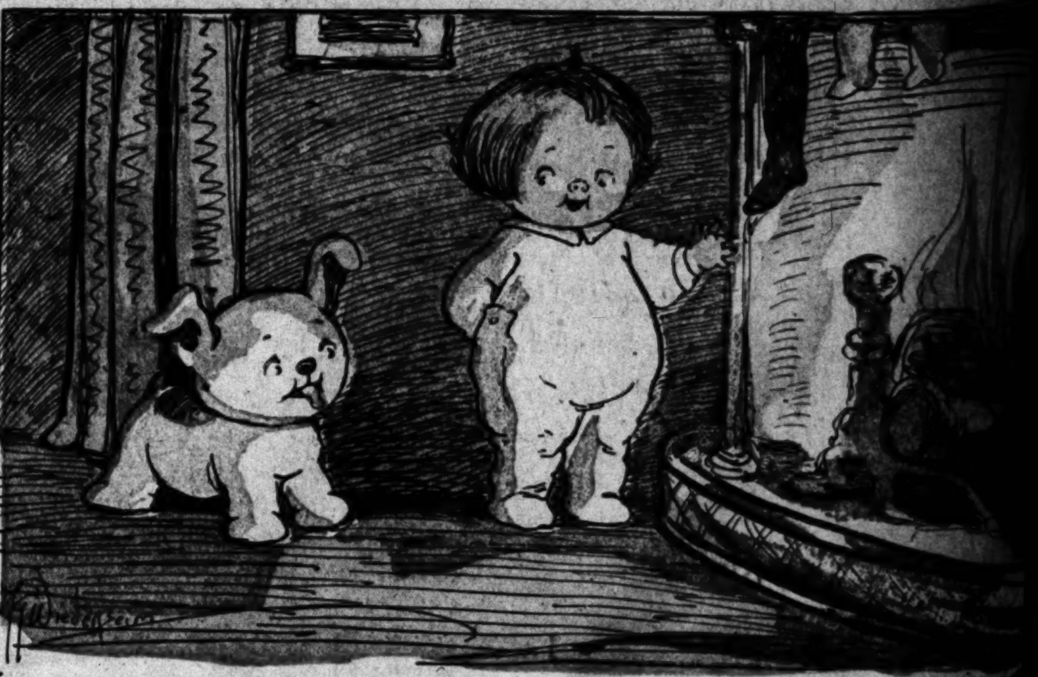
An' ther' was a whole lot o' birdies in cages—wax birdies what could eat, an' sing like "grand uproar" an' mine baby bruvver he wanted one—an' I telled him wait till Santie Claws bringed him one, but he wanted one right 'way, now, an he taked one out o' his cage, an' he growed an' gr-r-owed to a n'ormous, great big sneaky bird, an' he sed, "I is the 'ittle bird what tells Muvvers when chil'runs is naughty—an' my name is 'Tell-tale-tit.'" En he gr-roweled somepin' horribliferous, but mine baby bruvver he jus' laffed an' clapped his han's.



An'—an' ther' was a whole pack o' snow boys, an' 'ey was makin' cigars an' pipes an' Muvvers to give to Daddys for Xmas presents, an' 'ey was laffin "Har, Har!" an' laffin' 'ey catched me an' Puppo an' mine baby bruvver an' rolled us up in 'bacco leafs an' sed, the Kaptin Kiddo cigarros!" An' 'en 'ey laffed, "Har, Har!" an' laffed some more till icicle o' ther' eyes. An' I sed, "Lef' us out, you ol' bad snow boys, er I'll call Santie Claws!" Claws he—he comed 'long ther' jus' then. What-che-know-'bout-'at!



An' the naughty snow boys was orful scared 'en, an' Santie Claws he maked 'em stand in the corner, he did, an'—an' he spanked 'em all good first, an me an' Puppo an' the baby bruvver we laffed 'en, "Har, Har!" an' after 'at we laffed some more, an' the snow boys cried some more icicles out o' ther' eyes, an' Santie Claws sed, "Now, Kiddo, I hears 'at you is sech a splendiferous boy 'at I requests—er—I requests you an' your frien's to s'lect all the fings what you want for Xmas," an' so we did.



'En Mrs. Santie Claws she comed an' all o' the dwarfs an' gobble-uns an' some big Jack orful savagiferous—an' me an' Puppo an' the baby bruvver we sed we better be goin' home Claws kissed us good-bye an'—an'—an' well it was Chris'mus Eve now, an'—an' I telled mine all 'bout it when I was hangin' up mine stockin' an' she sed, "Oh you funny 'ittle Kiddo!"

P. S.—I hanged up one o' the baby bruvver's stockies for Puppo 'cause poor ol' Puppo stockin's.

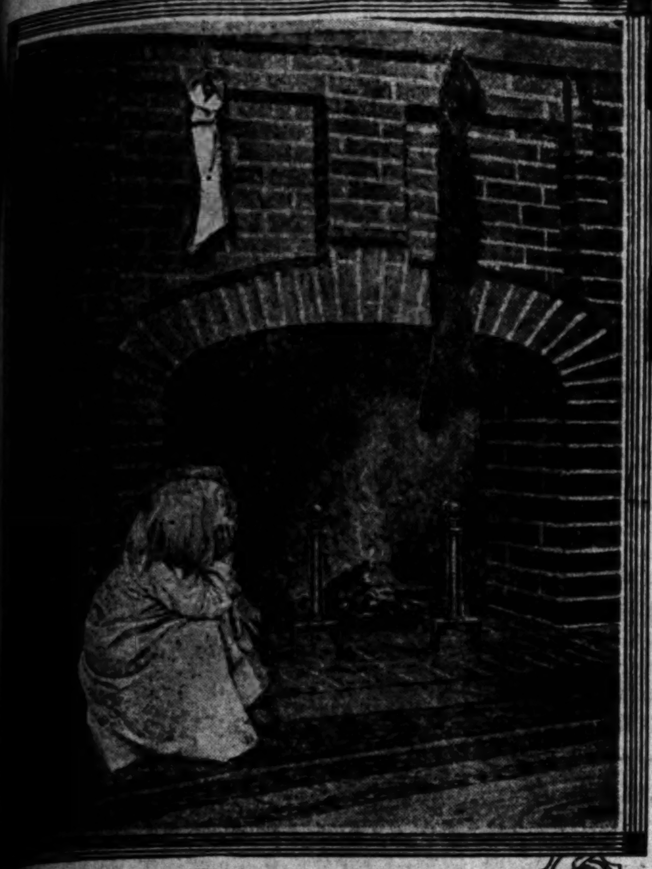
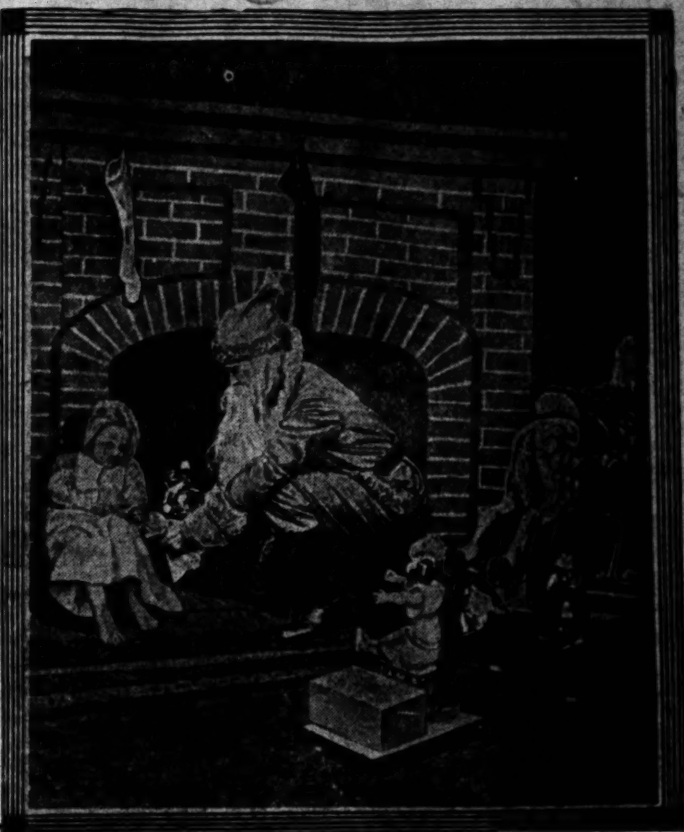
Santie's Kiss

By Margaret G Hays





"I'VE HUNG up my stockin' an'
said 'Good-night,'
An' all my folks are sleepin' tight.
Now I'm goin' to watch closely, just because I want to see ol' Santie Claus.
So out o' bed I'll sof'ly creep,
'Cause ever'body's fas' asleep.
I hanged two stockings up, 'cause, see,
The white one 'at belongs to me
Is far too small. I hope 'at he Will soon come down the chim-me-lee.
'Fraid Mother wouldn't 'prove o' this,
But I want to give him jus' one kiss."
Dear, dear! the sandman spoils the plan,
Soon fast asleep falls little Nan.
The fire glows cozily and warm
Upon the little night-gowned form
When down the chimney with his pack
Hops Santa like a jumping jack.
"Why, see who's here?" Old Santa said,
Then carried Nannie off to bed.
Tucked her in warm, dear little miss.
Then softly took one loving kiss.
"She waited up for me, dear tot," Laughs Santa, "So I'll leave a lot
Of all the best my pack contains
And take that sweet kiss for my pains.
"Merry Christmas!" Nannie cries
As she opes her sleepy eyes,
"Oh, see what Santie's left for me!
Both stockin's full as full can be,
An' 'round my bed, upon the floor,
Are toys an' dollies—more an' more.
Dear Santie Claus has sure been here.
Maybe I'll stay awake nex' year.
Now I'll get dressed an' have some fun
So Merry Christmas, every one!"
